PUBLIC PAPERS OF
GEORGE CLINTON,

FIRST GOVERNOR OF NEW YORK,

1777-1795—1801-1804.

VOLUME II.

PUBLISHED BY THE STATE OF NEW YORK
AS APPENDIX "N" THIRD ANNUAL REPORT OF THE STATE HISTORIAN.

WYNKOOP HALLENBECK CRAWFORD CO.,
STATE PRINTERS,
NEW YORK AND ALBANY.

PREFACE TO VOLUME II.

As this work has progressed, it has been deemed necessary to enlarge the scope and in a measure to depart from the original plan. Many letters and documents of more or less importance historically, that Governor Clinton wrote or alludes to, are not to be found in the manuscript collection owned by the State. To make consecutive the story of the Revolutionary War, so far as that story relates to New York State, records have been searched and biographical correspondence of the time, American, English and French, has been examined and utilized.

Liberties have been taken with the manuscript collection that were not necessary in the preparation of the first volume. The editor of the manuscript collection often separated a letter from its answer, giving to each a distinct documentary number, and also other documents frequently intervening according to the dates involved. Where the subject matter is of more than ordinary importance the letter and the answer have been considered for joining. For the further purpose of illustration, some notes have been inserted, especially in the case of letters which have been made whole, and in some cases where the original document is of importance in the history of the war.

Many of the letters have been printed in facsimile. In some cases the original of the letter has been used, and in some cases a copy of the original has been used. In some cases the original has been used, and in some cases a copy of the original has been used.

PREFACE TO VOLUME II.

As this work has progressed, it has been deemed necessary to enlarge the scope and in a measure to depart from the original plan. Many letters and documents of more or less importance historically, that Governor Clinton wrote or alludes to, are not to be found in the manuscript collection owned by the State. To make consecutive the story of the Revolutionary War, so far as that story relates to New York State, records have been searched and biographical correspondence of the time, American, English and French, has been examined and utilized.

Liberties have been taken with the manuscript collection that were not necessary in the preparation of the first volume. The editor of the manuscript collection often separated a letter from its answer, giving to each a distinct documentary number, several other documents frequently intervening, according to the dates involved. Where the subject matter is of more than ordinary importance, the letter and the answer have been consolidated, for printing. For the further purpose of elucidation, footnotes have been liberally employed. Special efforts have invariably been made where practicable, to compare what are unmistakably "copies" of documents in the manuscripts, with the originals.

Many historians have given credit to General Putnam for the selection of West Point as a military post. As a matter of fact this spot was chosen on the recommendation of George Clinton. The letter substantiating this statement is deposited in the State Department at Washington, D. C. Through the courtesy of the Secretary of State and of General F. C. Ainsworth, U. S. A., chief of the Record and Pension Office, a copy of this important document has been obtained and is printed in this volume.

The exacting labors necessary in a work of this character, have been softened by the hearty co-operation of the various State Departments and the cordial assistance by representatives of the national administration at Washington.

HUGH HASTINGS,

State Historian.

State Capitol, Albany, N. Y., January 9, 1900.

Militia in Westchester Slow in Filling Their Ranks.

Philipse Burgh, June 4th 1777.

Honour'd Sir,

The Levy of Militia you Order'd out are not more than one half down and I conceive not like to be rais'd. The General Committee of this County have taken on themselves to Order the Field Officers to Compleat their Quota's, and to raise three Companies of Rangers, to give them L 6 or L 6: 10 Pr Month; and when they cannot draw Provision 16 / pr week for their Subsistence in Lieu of Rations, that they are to be under their Command and design'd to guard themselves, which Authority they take from a Resolution of Convention of May 6th Impowering the Committee & Field Officers to raise as many men in said County as they could for the defence of the County and that they would pay the Expence thereof.

Therefore, pray, you will Order Colo. Thomas and Colo. Gilb't Drake, to send down their Quota's Immediatly, as for the want of them the few men we have are but of Little Service.

I am Sir, Your Very humble Serv't,

James Hamman, Col.

P. S. Sir, I sent you two Cheeses and Should be Glad to know if they are Come to hand.

To Genl. Clinton.

Nothing Against Farren Save Love of Strong Drink.

New Windsor 4th June 1777.

Honored Sir,

The bearer hereof James Farren is the Person I mentioned to you as an Armourer. On your request I offered him 8 / pr day which is £12 pr Month for the service you mentioned to me; he thought it was not enough as he had rec'd £15 pr month in Albany. However he went to work in order to prepare some tools that were necessary for his business, and now goes down on the terms formerly offered; therefore believe he is contented with the matter. He is an excellent workman at almost every branch of the Smith's business; but believe his Character very slender, dont know whether any thing can be charged on him save the love of strong Drink—think if you hold him a little short by the Head he may prove servicable.

I expect to send with this; Bellows, Anvil, & Vize, but as they were not come over the River last Night cannot be certain. However they shall be forwarded with all possable expedition. Files also as soon as I can procure them from Fridreck Burgh.

I am D'r Genl. with due respect,

Your Very Hum'e Serv't,

Robt. Boyd Jun'r.

Honorable Genl. George Clinton.

GENERAL PUTNAM WANTS THE FRIGATES.

And his Proposition is Indorsed by General Clinton for the Defence of the Hudson.

Fort Montgomery 5th June 1777.

Sir,

I was desired by General Putnam two Days ago to write to the Council of Safety of this State requesting they woud use every Means in their Power to forward the Continental Frigates down to this Post; he likewise desired me to mention that as very Considerable Additional Works at the public Expence were directed to be made for the more effectual Obstruction of the Navigation of the River at Fort Montgomery, in which this State is so much Interested, it was expected that the two State Privateers woud be sent down to the Chain with the other Vessels, to which I presume there can be no Objection as at that Place they may be of great Service & I cant see that they can be of any in any other Place in the River, especially since the Shipping are out of the Creek & will be armed for their own Defence.

I shoud be glad to know if the Committee of Arangement continue to appoint Officers to supply Vaccanies in the five State Regiments, as well because I understand there are already many in some of them, as that it is a Contingency we may frequently expect & the Service injured if not speedilly supplied. I expect my present Brigade Major will soon be ordered to Join the Regiment to which his Excellency the Genl. has appointed him. I mean then to make an Offer of that Berth to Capt. Lush the Paymaster to Colo. Du Bois's Regt. in which Case, however, I woud esteem it a singular favour if Capt. Townsend, a Worthy Officer of my Brigade last year, might succeed him in his present

Office, for which as he served a Time to Merchandize; I think him Very capable & I have no doubt but it woud be agreeable to the Regiment. He has Merrit, not only as a good Officer, but in sacrafizing his Livelihood which was Comfortable in the Cause & he is now out of all kind of Business. I am with much Respect,

Your Most Obed't Serv't,

Geo. Clinton.

P. S. I forgot to mention that John Conkling, Esqr. of Haverstraw, a Recruiting Capt. in the Enemy's Service, his first Lieut. of the same Name, a Serjt, & one Private were sent in here Wednesday last by my Brother; his Inlisting Paper was found with him to which there was twenty odd Names subscribed, a permission to pass & Repass the Out Posts from Genl. Howe & a Protection from Earl Cornwallis, all Datd in November last. I have ordered them to Peek's Kill, in Irons to be tried for Treason. My Brother writes me that a small Scouting Party of his, had just ret'd from Bergen Woods, where they had taken two Waggons on their Ret'n from N. York which had been to market there.

The Men escaped who were in but fled & left the Wagons but left some Women in them.

Captain Bedlow Suggested as Deputy Paymaster-General to Gen. Putnam.

New Windsor June 5th, 1777.

Dear S'r,

Your kind favor of the 3d Inst. covering one from Genl. Putnam, I have received. Your thinking me Capable of being Deputy P. M. G. to Genl. Putnam's Division, and Recomending me to him for that office is a peice of Friendship which with the many I and my Family have received from you, I never shall (and I hope they never will) forget. I have Inclosed my answer to Genl. Putnam open for your Perusal; if you think it Proper to send to him, be so kind as to close & forward it, if not, destroy it. I could not determin till I have the Pleasure of seeing of you, to know the Nature of the above office and were I should be obliged to have my Chief residence. I am now Busy preparing the Accts. for the works here in order to get a settlement with the Committee of Safety for this State, to the 1st day of the month; this with its being pay Time for the last month and attendance often for Sundrys wanted from the store, gives me at present constant Employ so that it would be Impossible for me to wait on Genl. Putnam till all the artificers are paid of, who are a sett of Gentlemen that must have their money when they call for it.

I would beg leave to take notice to my Friend, that besides the appointment of commissary of Stores, which the Convention of this State on your Letter of Recommendation the 1st of Dec'r last, gave me, they did by their Resolve of the 9th Jan'y following, in addition to my former appointment appoint me also Commissioner to the works to keep an Acct. of all Expenditures & pay Accts; my sallery for which, to be 10 / pr. day; this with the first appointment of 10 / & 3 Rations pr. day makes my present sallery 20 / & three Rations; it is true this will not last long, and the other may. I mention these for your Judgment thereon when I have the pleasure to see you.

It has given Mrs. Bedlow, Miss Caty & self a Heartfelt Satisfaction to hear you was so well again as to be at Peeks Kill & hope to see Mrs. Clinton return Better in Health then when she left us; they all Joyn me in our warmest Regards to you & Mrs. Clinton.

I am D'r S'r,

Your Hum'e Serv't,

William Bedlow.

P. S. the Family at your House all well this morning.

Col. Hughes Requires a Captain's Guard to Protect the Public Stores at Fishkill.

Fishkill, 8th June 1777.

Dear General,

As the Place is fix'd on for the Provisions and some of them there, it is necessary that a Guard should be order'd, especially when the Neighbourhood is consider'd, and that the Salt is to be sent there also. I think that a Capt'n's Guard will be necessary, & a full Company too; as we may be oblig'd to occupy two or three Stores.

May I felicitate you, Sir? It is spoken of here as decided, & the Difference ascertain'd.

I expect to give Major Taylor a Draught on your Lady this Day, if not prevented by the Rain from Crossing, as I am not quite well yet.

I am, Dear General, your most Obdnt. and Humble Ser't,

Hugh Hughes.

THE COUNCIL OF SAFETY SLOW.

No Guns, Ammunition or Seamen for the Frigates at Poughkeepsie.

State of New York, Kingston June 10th 1777.

Sir,

The Council have desired me to inform you in answer to your favour of the fifth Instant* that they have exerted themselves to their Utmost to forward the Continental Frigates but as the State is without Cannon and Seamen it is impossible that their exertions can answer the purpose. The Ships are now at Poughkeepsie, and we hope they will soon be rigged, which is the utmost we shall be able to do towards completing them. We have informed General Putnam of our Destitute Condition and from the information received from General Green, trust he will fall upon some means to procure Guns and Seamen for them that they may be used in the Defence of the River. One of our Privatier Sloops is employed to guard the State Prisoners on Board the Vessels in the River, the other is now at Albany; as soon as she returns she shall be sent down to the Chain, where she can be of but little Service unless men can be procured for her there.

The Committee of Arrangement conceive that their Power expired with the late Convention, but the Council will proceed to fill up such Vacancies as may happen in the five Regiments, till the meeting of the Legislature and will always pay a particular attention to your recommendations. Whenever the Paymaster-ship of Colonel Dubois's Regiment shall become vacant, a Commission shall be filled up for Captain Townsend.

I have the Honour to be with great Respect your most obedient hum'e Serv't,

Pierre Van Cortlandt, Pres'dt.

The Frigates and Who Will Command Them.

Fort Montgomery 12th June 1777.

Dear Sir,

I rec'd your Favour of yesterday by Capt. Palmer. I will cheerfully do every Thing in my Power to have the Gallies immediatly fitted for Use. I fear we shant be able to supply them with Men from this Post as we have but few Watermen among the Troops here. Capt. Palmer I think might be able to get a Number from the Country as he has considerable Influence with the People that woud best Suit; but he, from some Conversation which happend at Genl. McDougal's yesterday wishes to decline the Command of the Shark. He thinks his Appointment disagreeable to Genl. McDougal & that this might render him unhappy in the Service. You may remember I ment'd him as an Active brave Man which I dare say he is, but not possessed of much of any Experience as a Sea Officer in the Fighting Way & I mentioned a Certain Capt. Leycraft, as an old Privateer Capt. who Genl. McDougal thought well of as a Suitable Man to command the Gally.

I am surprized my last Week's Return has not been delivered to your Honor; it was made out in Season & sent down by an Officer who came up here for Capt. Concklen & other Prisoners who promised faithfully to deliver it with his own Hands. I have not yet rec'd this Week's Return from Fort Constitution. I expect it in this Evening & will send it forward as soon as it comes to Hand. I Inclose a Copy of last Week's Return with the Ret'n of G of F. C. added which was not in the Original.

I am your Most Obed't Serv't,

Geo. Clinton.

Col. Hughes Writes on Supplies.

Fishkill 13th June 1777.

Dear General,

I have the Honour to inclose you a Packet from General Scott.* Capt. Dobbs has promis'd that he, or his Son, will deliver it into your own Hands, as the General is pretty anxious that it should go safe & quick.

As Col. Wadsworth has undertaken to supply the Post at Peekskill with salt Provisions by Land, as well as the Forts, all that comes under my Care will, henceforward, be deposited at Newborough, [Newburg] till a more suitable Place is fix'd on, by you, Sir.

If a Place is already pitch'd on, or you would chuse to have it carried further from the River, please to let me know either, and it shall be convey'd agreeable to your Direction.

Capt. Machin applied to us the other Day for ten Tons of square Iron, which could not supply, nor the tenth Part of it, as the most of that sort is at Fredricksburgh & Danbury, saving what is drawn for the Laboratory at Springfield &c.

I advis'd, as he has Instructions to purchase what is wanted, to get the Iron where we do, as it is puting the States to an useless Expense to fetch it from here, when he can get within a Trifle, as convenient on the other Side: Nay, some may be had much more convenient, of Brewster, I imagine; and what he cant furnish, can be had at Chester, where we get.

In the mean Time, lest Business should stop I gave an order for any that might be in Major Taylor's Store, till they could procure more.

* See page 21.

Tools we have furnish'd, such as were in Store, and gave Major Taylor Directions to afford every Assistance in his Power, all which, I hope, will meet with your Approbation.

I am, Dear General, your most obedient and very Humble Ser't, Hugh Hughes.

General Clinton Informs Gen. Putnam in Regard to the Difficulties in Fitting out the Frigates.

F. M. 15th June 1777.

Sir,

Capt. Cook Commander of The Washington came here last Night. I will send a Boat To Morrow to take in the Guns from Peeks Kill intended for her Use. It will be impossible to obtain Men from this Post properly qualified to man the vessel, all that would have been useful for that Purpose being sent to the two Frigates at Poughkeepsie. Capt. Cook thinks that the greatest Part of the Men that were with him last summer are in some or other of the Regiments at Peeks Kill, and would wish to have them again as they are good Hands & used to the Business. Capt. Palmer wishes to decline the Command of the Shark Galley and I have sent an Express to Capt. Leaycraft to come down immediately & take the Command. If he should also decline Capt. Palmer rather than the service should suffer, will again take the Command of her.

The Ship Montgomery I expect down To morrow and the Congress towards the latter End of the week. It will almost dismantle our Forts if we are to furnish them with Guns. I understand there are Number of them at Salisbury. Even if they should have been intended for other Use could it not be so contrived as to secure them for the Frigates during the summer. Among them I am informed there are short Eighteen Pounders which the ships can well bear in this River. If a General Order was issued offering Encouragements to Persons who wo'd engage to serve in the ships during the season, a considerable Number from the Country might be obtain'd which would prevent the Regiments from being too much weakened.

Four large Scows were sent to this Post [by] Genl. Schuyler from Albany without any Directions; as I cant think they were intended for this Place and indeed we have little or no Occasion for them; you will please to order what is to be done with them.

THE ENEMY'S MOVEMENTS IN NEW JERSEY.

Danger of Smallpox in the American Army—Colonel Livingston's Attack on General McDougall.

Peeks Kill 18th June 1777.

Dear General,

The Eeenemy moved on Saturday morning last from Brunswick in three Colums towards Deleware, one the main road to Prince Town, one the Crambary, and on the milstone road. His Excellency the General was prepared to Follow them.

Yesterday we received advice that the right Colum Halted at Somerset Court House, which is about 8 miles from the Raritan. Parson's, McDougall and Glover's Brigades are ordered over, the first Crossed three days ago with 1200 strong. Mine Cross to day; they were detaned for want of tents; it will consist of about 800 strong, Durkee's, Chandler's & Cortlandt's regiments. Each Brigade carry two Peices of the Train with them. I think it a loss to our regiments to be out of the Field, the detention of Livingston's you will easily conjecture.

The sudden call of the Troops, induced General Putnam to send over many who have not had the small Pox, Contrary to His Excellency's orders. This should induce Col. Dubois to loose no time in innoculating his men, as the object of the Campaign is now fixed, and those who have been innoculated have had it very favourable. Besides, if any accident should happen in Jersey Perhaps the General will order all the Continental Troops there. If he dont, I shall apply to him to get that regiment to join the Grand Army, because I think it a prejudice to the State, to have their Troops in posts where they will not see service. The most of our regiments by the Close of the Campaign will consist Principally of officers, unless some mode is fallen upon, by the Council of Safety or the Legislature to fill them up.

Do remind them of this, I have no time to do it.

The eastern regiments are filled, by some means or other; some are draughts. As there is no prospect of your being troubled with any more Court martials, between Col. Livingston and me, I inclose you a Copy of a paper he circulated in Camp, while in arrest, and sent a number of them to a Captain Davis of his regiment, then at Fish Kill to be sent to New Haven. One would imagine from his pretended delicacy of manners, no such production could come from him. But it can be proved by a number of witnesses He stopped to such meanness, as to get Captain Sacket to Copy them.

Poor boy, if he knew how little Pain his scribbling gave me he would have saved himself the trouble of Composing it. But it shews how great an attachment he has to the Cause. Its a second edition, James Rivington's Papers, New rased up. I have time only to add, my best wishes for your Happiness.

I am Dear Sir, your affectionate Humble Serv't,

Alex'r M'Dougall.

Stores Unprotected at Newburg.

Newborrough 18th June 1777.

Honoured S'r,

There is much provision & other stores coming to this place, and part of it already arrived; the most part of the waggoners gone from this and no place but open Barns without Lock or key to store them in, from which Reasons, would look upon it unsafe to trust them Unguarded; salt is an artical cannot be trusted in such a situation; it would be Necessary to send a Non Commis-sion'd Officer that can be Depended on, with good men,

I have acquainted Capt. Addams about the scows, at your post, he is to order them up here for this Ferry, if you have no occas-ion for them there, he is to be at your Post this Day or tomor-row; would be Glade you would give him Directions what kind of a Boat you would have,

I have ordered 1200 Boards to you, and had purchased four Horses for Capt. Moody's Artillary, but was ordered to send them all over to the other side on this allarm; it will be some time before I will be able to supply two waggons I have here with Horses, till then I must press Teems to Draw the stores from the Landing, I have let Colo'l Hughs know it is not in my power to furnish Horses for the artillary, that he may provide them another way, I have likewise given order to Captn. CLINTON TO WASHINGTON.

The Force at the Highlands Much Reduced by Enlistments in the Regular Army.

Fort Montgomery 19th June 1777.

Dear Sir,

The Weak State of the Post near Sydnam's Bridge where my Brother commands, he not having Men sufficient to mount the necessary Guards or on the most urgent occasion to send out a Party, has induced me to take the Liberty of ordering there, from this Post, the other two Companies, raising under my Direction for one of the 16 Additional Regiments, and as they will consists now of about 100 Rank & File fit for Duty I have ordered Major Pawling there to take the Command of them.

This step I hope will meet your Excellency's Approbation, especially as if they should be wanted at Head Quarters they will be more easilly & expeditiously Got from Sydnam's than from this Place. My Militia at this Post which at first consisted of one third Part of the County of Ulster is much reduced by Inlistments into the standing army which I have encouraged by every Means in my Power, so that the chief I have now to depend on for the Defence of this Post is Colo. Du Bois Regimt. which is yet far from being compleat but is filling as fast as I could reasonably expect. This Regiment I have made acquainted with all the advantageous Defiles & passes in the Mountains leading to this Post & with the Works necessary for its Defence. I woud fain hope therefore that if the Service will admit of leaving any of the Continental Troops here, These may not be removed, as they will certainly be more useful here than an Equal Number of any other equally as good Men for the Field. I am with great Respect your Excellency's most obed't serv't,

 Geo. Clinton.

[To Gen. Washington.]

P. S. I've wrote to Genl. Putnam for his approbation respecting the Removal of the above two Companies, which I expect before they are ready to march.

(General Clinton's Letter to General Putnam.)

D'r Sir,

With your approbation, I will order the two Companies of one of the sixteen additional Regiments now stationed here, to the Post at Sydnam's Bridge where the rem'r of that Corps consisting of two other Comp'y are. My Brother who commands at that Post is so weak as not to be able to mount the necessary Guard or send out a Party on the most urgent Occassion. I have sent to Peek's Kill to be forwarded to Gen. Heard three Persons lately under Confinement here for Treason committed in the State of New Jersey. These Companies consist of about 40 Men only & should they be wanted at Head Quarters where I expected, they will be called to join the Regt. to which they may annexed they will be more convenient for that Purpose. Your Answer by the Bearer will oblige your Affectionate H. Serv't, General Clinton Writes to the Council of Safety Relative to Militia Appointments.

Fort Montgomery 20th June 1777.

Sir,

As the Office of Paymaster to Colo. Du Bois's Regt. is become vacant by my Appointment of Capt. Lush, Major of Brigade in the Room of Major Pawling, who is ordered with his four Companies to Ramepough, I wish to have Capt. Townsend's Commission for Paymaster to that Regiment, as I have ordered him to Join the Regiment in that Character on the Strength of the Incouragement given in your Answer to my last Letter, which I was more strongly induced to, on seeing A late Resolve of Congress which forbids the Absence of the Paymaster from their Regt; great Inconvenience having arisen from the want of their steady Attendance and much greater woud arise in suffering this Office to be vacant.

Inclosed you have three Ensigns' Commissions in Colo. Du Bois's, two of which must have been filled up thro Mistake. Jacobus Sleight was appointm't by the Committee of Arrangement but declined accepting the Appointment, and Azahel Berry was appointed in his Room & immediatly joined the Regt. & acted in that Character therein ever since. Archibald Thomson never joined the Regt. nor indeed could such a Person be found & Francis Handmore was appointed by the Committee of Arrangement in his Room as I am informed & as such joined the Regt. It is best to have these Matters rectified & Commissions sent to the Right Persons. Thomas Rayoux, the Person mentioned in the third Commission, has resigned some Time ago & has quit the Regiment. The Colo. wishes James Johnson, his present Serjant Major, to fill that Vacancy. He is an exceeding good Officer a decent Lad with good share of Education & in my Opinion will merit the Promotion to which As the first Non Commissioned Officer in the Regiment, he is in some Measure entituled. I am yours &c.

Fort Montgomery 22d June 1777.

To the Deputy Cloathier Genl. at Fishkill.

Sir,

By Virtue of an Order from his Excellency General Washington, I was directed to draw on the Dep'y Cloathier General at Peeks Kill for Cloathing, for four Companies, of One of the sixteen Additional Regiments, raising under my Directions & commanded by Major Pawling, But as he has no Cloathing on Hand wherewith to supply them, You'l please to deliver to Major Pawling for the Use of said four Companies three hundred shirts to relieve their present Necessities taking the Major's Receipt for the same.

Relating to Form of Muster Roll.

Camp at Peeks Kills June 24: 1777.

Sir,

As I am unacquainted with the Commanding Officers of Regiments or Companies at the Different Garrisons under your Command; And it being absolutely necessary to give them the most early notice to have their several Muster Rolls prepared at the proper time; I have taken the freedom to inclose a Copy of such directions as I have Received from the Commissary General of Musters, respecting the insuing Mustering of the Troops, which please to publish in Orders as soon as possible.

I have also inclosed three Copies of a Form of a Muster Roll, which please to furnish such Officers with as have not received any from me; one to a Regiment being sufficient.

I am Sir Your Obedient Humble Servant,

Henry Rutgers Jun'r,

D. M. Master.

To The Hon'ble Brigadier General George Clinton Esqr. And in his Absence To the Commanding Officer at Fort Montgomerie.

As the Troops in this Department are to be Mustered the first of next Month, Commanding Officers of Companies will immediately prepare their Muster Rolls to the last day of this Month, agreeable to a Form they have received. They will add two more Columns (between the Column of the Soldier's enlistment and the remarks) to shew the Term for which the Soldiers enlisted, whether for 3 Years or the War.

Many Officers through mistake, in the Proof of the Effectives have blended the Effectives and non Effectives together, such will take notice that the Dead Deserted and Discharged are non Effective.

If no Commissioned Officer should be present, The Non-Commissioned Officer of the Party will make out the Rolls as exact as possible, and sign them only.

It is expected that the Rolls will be Accurately made out as none but such can be Received.

Schuyler Reports that Burgoyne Has Arrived at Crown Point.

*Albany, June 25th, 1777.

Sir—By the enclosed, which I have left under flying seal, for the perusal of the Council of Safety, you will perceive that the enemy are arrived at Crown Point. Whether their intentions are only to make a feint to draw our attention, or a real attack, is still doubtful; but as General St. Clair wishes to have the militia up, I shall apply to General Ten Broeck for half of the militia under his command. They may be insufficient, even with what may come from the neighbouring States, to make effectual opposition, if a disaster should befall us at Ticonderoga. I wish, therefore, if possible, to have some from the northern parts of Dutchess and Ulster counties.

I wish you to expedite the letter to General Putnam, by express, with a copy of General St. Clair's letter to me; and if there are any sloops in the vicinity of Kingston to order them down to Peekskill.

Please to seal the letter to General Washington.

I am, sir, very respectfully,

Your obedient, hble. servant,

Ph. Schuyler.

The Honble. Pierre Van Cortlandt.

General Clinton Forwards a letter from Washington.

Fort Montgomery 2d July 1777.

Sir,

In Consequence of a Letter this Day received from his Excellency Genl. Washington* of which I inclose you a Copy I have issued orders to Colonels Brinkerhoof, Ludington, Umphrey & Freere of Dutchess County to march their Regiments to Peek's Kill to reenforce the Army under Genl. Putnam and Cols. Woodhull, Alisson McClaghry & Hasbrouck their Regiments to reenforce this Garrison and Colo. Heathorn's Regt. to the Post near Sydnam's Bridge. I have omitted sending simular Orders to the Regiments in the Uper End of Ulster & Dutchess Counties, leas't the Situation of our Affairs to the Northward might not admit of their coming this Way, but shoud the Contrary be the Case I begg the Council will order those Regiments [to] Peek's

*Not in Clinton Collection. Taken from the Journal of the Council of Safety.

Head-Quarters,

Camp, Middle Brook, July 1st, 1777.

From intelligence just received from the northward, there can be little doubt that the enemy are operating against Ticonderoga and its dependencies; and from the evacuation of the Jerseys, and the reason of the thing itself, there can be little room to doubt that General Howe will cooperate with the northern army, and make a sudden descent upon Peekskill, in order, if possible, to get possession of the passes, before the troops to defend them can be reinforced by this army. Indeed I am this moment informed that all the enemy's tents were struck to-day at 8 o'clock, and it is supposed they have all embarked, as the ships have all sailed out of Prince's Bay, where they lay, so that you may probably have a very hasty visit. The urgency of the occasion, and the necessity of employing all the resources to baffle the first attempts of the enemy, obliges me to request in the strongest terms, that you will exert yourself to call forth a respectable body of the militia of your State, to strengthen the force at Peekskill, and its appendages. No time should be lost in doing this; the call is to the last degree pressing, and the least delay may be productive of the most fatal consequences. Let every nerve be strained to forward your preparations, and put you in the best posture of defence possible.

I am, dr. sir,

Your most obdt. servt.

Geo. Washington.

General Parson's and General Varnum's brigades march to-morrow morning very early for Peekskill.

Kill & this Place. I am with due Respect your Most Obed't Serv't,

Geo. Clinton.

To the Honorable the Presid't of the Council of Safety.*

* Sir—Upon the receipt of your letter by express, the Council of Safety proceeded to the immediate consideration of the matters submitted by you to our determination. We think the probability of an attack at Ticonderoga, and a cooperation of General Howe, by an attempt on the posts in the Highlands, a subject of the most serious importance.

We have not yet received any accounts of an investure of our northern ports, nor can we determine at present whether it will be most advisable to order the several corps of militia in the counties of Dutchess and Ulster, which you have not put under marching orders, to reinforce either the upper or the lower posts, a short time will probably enable us to direct their route of march; in the mean time, that not a moment may be lost, we have issued orders to the commanding officers of those corps to hold themselves in readiness, with the militia under their respective commands, furnished with three days' provision, to march at a moment's warning.

I am, with respect, sir,

Your humble servt.

(Signed by President of Council.)

To Genl. George Clinton.

Under date of Albany, June 28th, 1777—eleven o'clock a. m.—Gen. Schuyler had written to Washington, inclosing St. Clair's letter of June 25:

Your Excellency's favour of the 20th inst. I had the honour to receive at Saratoga, in the evening of the 26th.

I am this moment favoured with a letter of the 25th inst. from General St. Clair, copy whereof I herewith transmit. Should an accident happen to the garrison of Ticonderoga, and General Burgoyne make a push to gain the south part of the lake, I know of no obstacle to prevent him: comparatively speaking, I have not a man to oppose him; the whole number at the different posts at and on this side of the lake, including the garrisons of Fort George and Skeensborough, not exceeding seven hundred men, and these I cannot draw away from their several stations; in every one of which they are already much too weak. It is, therefore, highly necessary that a strong reinforcement should without delay be sent me. If the sloops are not yet sent to bring the troops, your Excellency has ordered to be kept in readiness at Peekskill, I shall push them off without delay.

As it is not probable that we shall in time be supplied with fieldpieces from the eastward, I must entreat that the reinforcements may bring some up with them.

I have this moment also received a letter from Mr. Deane, the Indian interpreter, extracts whereof I enclose you. As the information tallies exactly with what I had before, it leads me to conclude that the irruption will be made from the westward.

I shall apply for the aid of the militia of this and the neighbouring States, but I fear it will not be very powerful, as many must be necessarily left at home.

I have received a letter from the Commissary-General, which I think neither so temperate or decent as it should be: I shall take the first leisure hour to transmit you a copy, with my answer, in which I believe it will be evinced from authentic returns, that the scarcity of provisions in this department is, in a great measure, if not altogether, to be imputed to a want of attention in the persons whose duty it was to supply this department.

I am, dr. sir, with great regard and esteem

Your Excellency's most obedt. hble. servant,

Ph. Schuyler.

P. S. I have sent express to Genl. Putnam to hasten on the troops your Excellency had ordered to be in readiness for this quarter.

Since writing the above, I have received another letter from General St. Clair, copy whereof is enclosed. I am in pain about Fort George, but have no troops to throw in, and some time will necessarily elapse before the militia can be got to march.

His Excellency General Washington, &c.

St. Clairs' letter to Schuyler:

" Ticonderoga, June 25th, 1777.

Dear General—My scout on which I depended much for intelligence, is not yet returned, nor, I fear, ever will now. It consists of three men only, the best of Whitcomb's people, and picked out by him for that purpose. The woods are so full of Indians, that it is difficult for parties to get through. I shall send off Whitcomb himself presently, for intelligence I must have, although I am very loath to put him upon it, lest he should fall into the hands of the enemy, who have no small desire to have him in their power.

I sent Colo. Warner to the Grants yesterday to raise a body of men to oppose the incursions of the savages, that are gone by Otter Creek, and have ordered him to attack and rout them, and join me again as soon as possible. I am very happy to find that the country have been apprised of the march of that party, before Warner got to Skenesborough, as it may probably prevent their success and may end in their ruin.

We are going on with the necessary works on the Mount as fast as possible, and have removed the most valuable of the stores and provision on the other side. The bridge is in very little more forwardness, than when you left this place, to appearance, though they tell me that to-day will finish getting timber for it. The boom is likewise placed, but very feebly secured, for want of rope for the cables. A party of Bradford's arrived yesterday in very good season, and had a pleasing effect upon our people, who, never the most lively or gallant, began to shew signs of dejection already. How they may hold out, God knows, but this has raised their spirits a little.

I could wish that the batteaux were all over soon or that you would not send them: I am extremely apprehensive that the enemy will possess themselves of the landing: in which case they may fall into their hands. We cannot venture the teams now without a strong guard, and so many parties as we are obliged to make with the fatigues, will very soon wear down our men.

We can do nothing but form conjectures about the force of the enemy, for I cannot find a single person on whom I can depend to venture amongst them for intelligence; but from their manner of beginning the campaign, I conclude they are either in full force or very weak, and hope, by letting loose the Indians, to intimidate us. I incline to believe the last, but have, as yet, no certain rule to go by; however, we must know soon, and it is said they have marked to-morrow to attack. I beg leave to refer you to Colo. Varick for further particulars, who takes the charge of this letter.

I am, &c.

Ar. St. Clair."

(Copy)

June 26, from Ticonderoga, St. Clair wrote to Schuyler as follows: "This moment I have received information from Holte, of Otter creek, that a large party of Indians and Tories are gone up that creek, supposed to be five hundred, and are designed to cut off the communication by Skenesborough. They took a pair of oxen from one of the inhabitants and drove them to about two miles above Middlebury Falls, where they halted the day before yesterday and killed and dressed the cattle; and it is supposed that to-night they will be at the new road near Castleton, which is twenty-eight miles from hence, and twelve or fourteen from Skenesborough. They reported that a very large party were gone on the west side of the lake to fall upon Fort George. They are said to consist of a thousand Indians and Canadians.

We have also had just now another attack at the mills. We have two men killed, two taken and two wounded, one mortally. The scene thickens fast, and Sunday next, it seems, is fixed for the attack on this place. We must make the best of it we can, and I hope at least to cripple them so as they may not be able to pursue their fortune, should it declare in their favour.

I sent a party down last night to reconnoitre them, who are not yet returned, which gives me some uneasiness. I hope, however, they are safe, and will bring me some intelligence of consequence. I have some thoughts, if they are not numerous, of attacking them. If they get the worst, it will oblige them to recall their parties; if not, there will be too many left to become prisoners.

I have sent to the Grants to inform them of the Otter creek party, and to desire that all they can possibly spare of the militia may be ready to march at a minute's warning."

Under date of Albany, June 30th, 1777, Schuyler wrote to Pierre Van Cortlandt:

"I have received further information, that a body of the enemy are on the march to Tryon county by the way of Oswego, and have desired General Herkimer to hold the militia in readiness to march to the support of Fort Schuyler.

I am very apprehensive that should a disaster befall the garrison of Ticonderoga, the enemy might possess themselves of Fort George before we can be in force to make opposition.

I wish, therefore, most heartily for the assistance of the Council of Safety, in forwarding on the militia. A committee from that respectable body might afford us very material assistance: perhaps it would tend much to inspirit the people, if all the State prisoners, except such as are under sentence of death, were removed from this city.

I enclose you copy of a letter I received last night from General St. Clair.

I have sent a greater number of sloops down than, I believe, will be necessary to transport what troops will be afforded me from Peekskill. Some of the sloops will probably be near Enopus to-day. If the militia from Ulster are to come up, six of the sloops may be taken for their use."—From the Journal of the Council of Safety.

Touching the Disposition of Salt.

N. Borough 3d July 1777.

Honoured S'r,

There is in store at New Windsor, from Poughkipsey 178 Barrels provision salt; by the Letter I shewed you I am ordered to send it back in the Country, I have not heard a word since from any of the Comissarys how the Posts are supplied, Colo'l Hugh Refers me to further orders from you. I take the Earliest opportunity to acquaint you, of the state of matters,—beside the above there is 86, Barrels at this post from the Eastward; would be Glade to have orders from you how to act, as the Teems will be all to press, & the men will all be gone, if I move it back there will be a Guard wanted Imediately, from your M't Ob't Hu'le Serv't,

And'w Taylor, Asst. Q. M. G.

Governor Clinton Favors a Magazine to the West of the Walkkill.

Extract from Genl. Washington's Letter to Genl. McDougal
20th May 1777.

From Genl. Clinton's Sketch of the Country & the observations contain'd in his letter, it appears Congress were under a mistake respecting the distance at which the Provision Magazines shou'd be plac'd from the River. I am equally ignorant &, therefore, shall wholly confide in Genl. Clinton's opinion where they shou'd be established.

A true Extract from the original.

Tench Tilghman.

Head Quarters 1st July 1777.

Sir,

F. M. 3d July 1777.

Yours of To Day is received. The Salt Provisions at New Windsor will be wanted there and at this Post 150 Barrels, of which you will immediately send here; as to the other 86 Barrels, I think it best to pursue your orders respecting them & if a Guard is wanted you'll apply to Colo. Hasbrouck for one, under Command of a trusty Subaltern, and the Colo. is hereby directed to furnish such a Guard as will be sufficient, making me immediate Return of the Officer's Name and the Number of his Men. Take Commissary Waterbury's Receipt for the Provisions you send down. He will call upon you Tomorrow.

July 3d Fort Montgomery.

The Fixing of the Magazines on the West Side of the River, I find by an abstract of a Letter from Genl. Washington to Gen. McDougal of 20 May (which I have not seen before To Day) is left entirely to me. I am not now able to attend to this Business, but think they had better be to the west of the Wallkill where there are Barns most convenient for stores, and where the Country is most defencible, any where between Ward and the new Hurly Bridge. In fixing on the particular spot I desire you would call on Colo. Malcolm for his advice. I am,

To Mr. Taylor.

HIGHLAND DEFENCES VERY WEAK.

Gen. Clinton Fears a Sudden Assault—Frigates Yet Unmanned.

The Artillery Arm Weak.

D'r Sir,

Fort Montgomery 3d July 1777.

In Consequence of his Excellency Genl. Washington's Letter of the 1st Instant,* which was handed me with your Favour of yesterday I last Night sent Orders to four Regiments of Militia of Dutchess County to march to Peek's Kill immediatly, the like Number from Ulster and Orange Counties to this Post and one from Orange to the Post commanded by my Brother at Rammpough. I thought it imprudent to order the Militia at a greater Distance down this Way least our Affairs to the Northward might be such as to make it necessary to order them thither.

I wrote however to the Council of Safety of this State inclosing a Copy of his Excellency's Letter acquainting them at the same Time what Regim'ts I had ordered this Way, & requesting they woud order down the remaining Regiments of the above Counties if our Affairs to the Northward woud admit of it.

We are very Weak here as you have observed by our Weekly Returns, in the last Letter but one from his Excellency to me he mentioned my being reenforced from Peek's Kill, but whether you can afford it or not under our present Circumstances you can best judge. If they make any Attempt ag't this Post, it will be by a sudden Assault so that our Fate will be determined one way or other before we shall be able to hear from our Friends after we begin.

The Congress is not yet got down. Capt. Hodge is up at Poughkeepsie to assist in bringing her down & not a Gun yet on Board his own Ship.

I will send to Palmer & try to prevail on him to take Command of the Shark, tho I despair of his doing it; in the Mean Time I will look out for somebody Else that will. We shall want Artillery Men much; we hant a Man to a Gun, I mean such as must be in Use should the Enemy approach by Water only. I Am D'r

Sir,

Your Affectionate H Serv't,

[G. C.]

There are two Men belonging to Colo. Du Bois' Regt. in the Armoury at Peek's Kill. I wish they might join us, as our Arms are in bad order & we have no Body to repair them here.

General Clinton Approves Placing the Depot of Provisions on the West Side of the Wallkill.

July 5 1777.

D'r S'r,

With Major Taylor I have explor'd the ground between Wards & Banks bridges—but have not seen any Situation very proper for such post as woud answer the purpose—For a variety of reasons, (beside the advantage of ground), I prefer the farm of a Mr. Bull, about six miles up the River from Wards bridge—perhaps about 20 miles or more from Hudsons & 30 miles by the Minisink road to the Delaware River.

Here the Kill is a Barrier in front—and an easy eminence commands cleared fields to a considerable distance in ye Rear.

This post will soon come under the protection of the left Column of our army in case they move this way—if not, the stores are in the best Situation to be transported S.' Major Taylor is so much of the opinion that this is the preferable post that he goes off to change the Rout of his waggons. I am with due respect s'r

Your very Hbl. Serv't,

W. Malcom.

To General George Clinton
Fort Montgomery.

D'r Genrl.,

As the Stores are now on the move & teems I impress'd, and gond Down both this Day and will be to morrow, would be glade to have your Approbation of the measure, or further Directions if you Disapprove.

I am D'r S'r with Obedience yours,

And'w Taylor Asst. Q. M. G.

Fort Montgomery 6th July 1777.

D'r Sir,

I rec'd Colo. Malcom's Favour with yours of yesterday. I much approve of the spot fixt on for the Magazines, providing Barns &c. can be had to Store the Provisions at that Place, as Colo. Hughes does not propose erecting Stores; this shoud be considered. Indeed, when I wrote you, I had that Place in View, but as it is long since I was there, I did not so well remember the Situation till I saw Colo. Malcom's Letter, Which I am sure is a true Representation of it.

I am your most Obed't Serv't,

Geo. Clinton.

ADJUTANT HILL UNDER ARREST.

And Prefers Charges of Malfeasance Against Colonel Loring for Making False Returns for Rum.

Fort Constitution July 6th, 1777.

Sir,

Coll. Loring has this Morning Ordered me Under An Arrest for Refusing to fetch a Tent & poles Belonging to his Regt. which he had some time Ago Sent, and Ordered it pitch'd for the Use of the marsh Guard. I Looked upon it as a Quarter master or Q. M. Serjt. Duty to fetch it, but because I have Acted as Adjutant for our Deteachment he ordered me as Adjutant to fetch it. I, thinking it not my Duty Refused; Would be much Obliged to the General if he would be pleased to Call a Court martial, so that I may have a hearing before Coll. Loring Leaves the Garrison.

I have Likewise a Complaint to Enter Against Coll. Loring begging that General Clinton will be pleased to take notice of it. I have Understood by Commissary Stevens & Some other Gentleman, that Coll. Loring Sent false Returns for Rum, so far as this, that he Draws Rum for two of his Bakers, which have the profits of the overplus of flour for Baking; that he Draws Rum for a Camp Culliman who was Sentenced by Court Martial to Do that Duty for a Certain time as his Punishment; that he Draws half a pint Rum a Day for a Taylor he has at work, and Returns him as Two men; that all those Above mentioned men he Returns as Artificers—that I have Understood by Mr. Reeder, that he Ordered him to mend a Gun of Mr. Moor, a family he frequently Visits, which I Understand are not friendly to our Cause; that Mr. Reeder first Refused to mend the Gun, Saying it did not belong to Coll. Loring's Regt; that Coll. Loring Said it Did, and Order'd him to mend it, which he did; that After the Gun was mended, he Saw that same Gun put in the Coll. Boat & Go Over to Moors with it; That Mr. Moor was with Coll. Loring in this Garrison; that Coll. Loring walked with him on the platforms & shewed him the Cannon &c. which I Can make Appear by several Officers in the Garrison.

I have Also Understood that Coll. Loring has wrote the Parole and Countersign at Mr. Moors in the Afternoon and Let them See it, and then Sent it Over to the Garrison and he Tarried at Mr. Moors.

These are the Chief of the Complaints I have to alledge against Coll. Loring at present, which I have here Complained of to the Genl., not Only because I am put under an arrest, but because I think it my Duty to Acquaint the General thereof.

I am S'r Y'r Most Hble. & Most Obdt. Serv't, Robert Hill.

at Fort Montgomery.

Schuyler Announces the fall of Ticonderoga.

*Albany, July 7th, 1777.

Sir.—Both Tyconderoga and Mount Independence are in the enemy's possession. Part of our troops are at Skeensborough, to which place the enemy have pursued. It is therefore now become necessary that every man of the militia should turn out and that without a moment's delay; you will therefore issue your orders accordingly, and hope to see you with them."

The foregoing is an extract of a letter I have just this moment received from General Schuyler, dated this day, at Stillwater on his way to the northward, and do myself the honour to transmit you. I have only time to add, that agreeably to his requisition, I have issued my orders for the whole militia of my brigade to march to Fort Edward with all possible expedition, and to submit to you the necessity of leaving part thereof, and what number you judge will be requisite at this place; as we are surrounded with disaffected persons, and have about one hundred confined in the jail of this city.

I am, sir,

Your most obedt. servant,

Abm. Ten Broeck.

Honble. Pierre Van Cortlandt.

Two days before, from Albany, Schuyler had written Pierre Van Cortlandt:

"I take the liberty to enclose you, under flying seal, a letter to the President of Congress, that the Council of Safety, by perusing the papers enclosed in it, may be informed of the situation of affairs in this quarter. As I cannot find time to copy them, they will please to excuse this mode.

The apprehension of the inhabitants of Tryon county distresses me exceedingly. In a letter from the committee they observe, "that if they are not succoured they will be obliged either to abandon their habitations or submit to the terms of the friends of Great Britain, seeing themselves out of the protection of the United States of America."

I have written them an encouraging letter, and have ordered to remain in that quarter, who they were apprehensive were coming away. And although I believe the enemy will attempt an incursion into that county, yet I trust they will not be able, greatly, to distress us; as I hope we will have timely notice of their approach, and be prepared to give them a proper reception."

* From the Journal of the Council of Safety.

From Stillwater, July 7, Schuyler wrote Van Cortlandt:

"I have not a doubt but that a very considerable part of the garrisons of Ticonderoga and Mount Independence are in the enemy's hands. I have not above seven hundred Continental troops, and I fear not twice that number of militia, to oppose the enemy, and not a single piece of artillery. In this situation my prospect is not very agreeable. I wish for all the militia from every quarter to come up with all expedition. If the Council of Safety, or at least part of it, were immediately to repair to Albany, it might have a good effect, as I have hardly any body to assist me."

Complaint having been made by Capt. James Lamb of Haverstraw, that a Party from this Garrison, when under the Command of General James Clinton, had plundered him of his Money and other Effects deposited at the House of John Brush, and it having been suggested that Lieut. Wherry commanded that Party, it does not appear from the Examinations of the Witnesses produced by Capt. Lamb, that any of his Money or Effects was plundered, as charged in the Complaint; neither does it appear that Lieut. Wherry had the Command of the Party; at the same time, from the Examination of sundry Persons it appears that every Precaution was taken by the Party and Officers to prevent Irregularity.

GENERAL CLINTON COMMANDED THE MILITIA.

They Responded with Expedition in the Late Call, but are Now Growing Uneasy.

Fort Montgomery 9th July 1777. -

Dear Sir:—

The Militia which I ordered to this Post & who came in with great Expedition almost to a Man according to Custom begin to be extremely uneasy. They want to go Home, their Corn is suffering, their Harvest coming on, and they cant see that it is likely there will be any Thing for them to do here suddenly. They have been frequently on the Dunderbergh to look down the River & cant see a single Vessel in it; What shall I do with them?

If I consent to their going Home they will Return when ordered again with great Chearfulness. If I dont, they will go (many of them at least) without Leave. I dont know what to do with them &, therefore, shall not do any Thing, without your Honor's Directions which I shoud be glad to have this afternoon.

Colo. Hughes has applied to me for a Captain's Guard for the Stores erected on the West Side of Hudson's River. It is necessary, but I Cant afford to send him any from this Post as without the Militia we are very Weak & indeed a Militia Guard for Salt is not the Thing.

I expect to draw a Cable across the River in Front of the Chain this Morning, every Thing being prepared for it, & the Montgomery's Cables spliced & fixt for the Purpose. As soon as one of the Booms is ready it can be put in Place of the Cable. The Fasts on shore being formed so as to answer for a Boom & by this Means shoud the Cable not answer the Purpose little or no Time will have been losst by it. If the Cannon are arrived from Fort Lee I Wish how soon they cou'd be forwarded here as we have every Thing ready to stock & make Carriages for them.

I am with due Respect,

Your Most Obed't Serv't,

G. C.

GLOOMY NEWS FROM THE NORTH.

General Schuyler's Report to the Council on the Fall of Ticonderoga.

Disclaims Giving Orders for the Evacuation.

Kingston the 11th July 1777.

D'r Brother,

By Express last night we have as yet no farther Accts certain, but what you have in the Inclosed Extract of a Letter from General Schuyler, by which it appears that the General has some hopes of Genl. St. Clair & the Army with him, will join him; I must confess he is more capeable to judge, than what we can be; but as for my part I have not the least distant hopes that Genl. St. Clair will join, if that part of the Army does. Genl. Schuyler is truly in a deplorable situation, our Affairs to the Northward have a Gloomy Aspact what the Event will be God only knows.

I am with Esteem,

Yours &c.

Christ'r Tappen.

[To G. C.]

Extract of a Letter from Genl. Schuyler to the Council of Safety Dated Fort Edward July 9th 1777.

Last Night I was Honored with your Letters of the 5th* & 7th† Instant.

*July 5, Pierre Van Cortlandt wrote Gen. Schuyler:

Sir—Your several favours have been received and laid before the Council, in answer to which I am directed to inform you, that the number of members in the Council of Safety is too small to admit of any of them being sent to Albany, unless on the most urgent necessity; they are therefore sorry to decline a compliance with your request to that purpose.

I am further directed to inform you, that the Council are equally incapable of affording you any assistance from the militia of the lower counties, a considerable proportion of them having been engaged in actual service for some time past, and of the remainder, which was necessary for the culture of the country—without a due attention to which you cannot but be sensible that the war must speedily terminate to our disadvantage by the attack of an enemy perfectly irresistible—the greater part, at the request of His Excellency the General, have been ordered down to the forts and passes in the Highlands, as will appear by the enclosed copy of General Clinton's letter to us; and the rest are ordered to hold themselves in readiness to march by our resolutions of — instant, of which we also enclose you a copy.

By our resolutions of this day, you will perceive, sir, that the disaffected, confined at Albany, are ordered on board the Fleet at this place, which we hope will remove the disagreeable apprehensions of the people of Albany.

The Council would be happy, sir, to be informed of the circumstances which General St. Clair adverts to when he says, and should the enemy protract their operations, or invest us and content themselves with a simple blockade, we are infallibly ruined.

The Council are at a loss for the reasons which can induce the commander at that post to abandon Ticonderoga, since they have been hitherto led to believe that if the enemy are in possession of it, they will have immediate access to Lake George, notwithstanding our garrison in Mount Independence; and that there is no possibility of accomplishing a retreat from that mount; of which circumstances, you, sir, being better acquainted than the members of the Council, they refer to your judgment for taking the most necessary steps on this occasion.

The letter from Mr. Deane contains intelligence which hath been long since circulated here by emissaries of the enemy, and is in the opinion of the Council rather calculated to raise the spirits of deluded Tories, though at the same time, as it may not be quite without foundation, they approve of your orders to General Herkimer to hold his militia in readiness.

In the month of March last all these different movements of the enemy were set down for the first and afterwards for the fifth of May, and at present it seems the first of July is the critical moment, which may perhaps be deferred, as they cannot gain that assistance from the disaffected which they undoubtedly expect.

What hopes they may have formed from an attack upon Ticonderoga, we do not know; but it appears to us that if the post is as strong as we have always been informed, a garrison of three thousand within it can defend themselves against double the number without, and we have no idea that Carlton's forces are more than six thousand effective men.

Upon the whole, the Council being unacquainted with military affairs, direct me to inform you that they cannot pretend to say what real dangers may be apprehended from the northward, or how far they may have been magnified by the defection which General St. Clair mentioned as prevailing in his garrison.

But they wish you to consider that every day the militia are out is a great loss to the State, and if this alarm should prove of no consequence, that you would permit them to return to their homes as soon as possible.

In one of your former letters you mentioned the want of cordage, an article which by the prudent care of the late Convention, the Council might now supply you with if the rope walk erected in this place was not incapacitated from carrying on that necessary manufacture by the want of tar, which, notwithstanding their frequent applications, the public agent has been unable to procure from the city of Albany.

Some time last winter a number of sick from the northern department, on their way to Pennsylvania, were obliged to stop at this place and continue here under the care of the committee for a considerable time; the expense accruing from the supplies of necessaries to them, amount to the sum of one hundred and thirty-three pounds fourteen shillings. I am further requested, sir, to take your directions whether the accounts are to be audited by the paymaster, the directors of the hospital, or paid by your order from the military chest.

†July 7th, Van Cortlandt wrote Schuyler:

Sir—The Council have been honoured with the perusal of your despatches of the 5th instant, and direct me to return their thanks for your polite attention, in favouring them with the important intelligence which they contained. I am further directed, sir, to request of you in the name of the Council, from time to time, to inform them of such other incidents, as may with propriety be communicated to us in the course of this great campaign. Our best wishes wait upon you in the course of your expedition, which they pray may be crowned with honour and success.—From the Journal of the Council of Safety.

What could induce General St. Clair and the General Officers with him to evacuate Tyconderoga God only knows. Not a Battery as I am well informed was opened against it. The Garrison amounted to above five thousand Men in high Spirits, healthy, sufficiently supplied with provisions, plenty of Ammunition and the Eastern Militia in full march to its aid.

Colo. Williams in a Letter of yesterday's Date, informs me that it is imputed to my Orders. I assure you, that not the least Syllable in any of my Letters or Orders contains the least Hint of such an Intention on my part. Indeed the contrary is held up in them, and Succours positively promised.

My Situation is truly disagreeable, but I trust such as it is, I shall acquit myself with Honor, and if General St. Clair with the Army should join me, I shall still hope to prevent the Enemy from coming to Albany.

It is however a melancholy Reflection that the Militia desert almost as fast as they came in to me.

WORKS AT THE HIGHLANDS IN GOOD CONDITION.

General Clinton's Encouraging Report to Gen. Washington—Michael Connolly Recommended for a Commission.

Fort Montgomery 11th July 1777.

Dear Sir,

The Bearer Mr. Connolly is the Person I formerly mentioned to your Excellency as a supernumerary Officer, I having given a Warrant to him as a 1st Lieutenant after the 4 Companies officered by me were compleat. He has taken great Pains to recruit Men, tho' his Success has not been great, owing to the Resolve of this State in favour of the 5 Regiments to be raised in it. There are two Vacancies in Colo. Du Bois's Regiment of first Lieutenants, & I find it woud be more agreable to him to be provided for in that, then any other Corps, & I doubt not, shoud your Excellency gratify him in having him appointed in that Regim't, he will make an Active & very useful Officer.

I have lately drawn the Montgomery's Cables across the River in Front of the Chain, which appears as if it woud answer a good Purpose, & hope in Day or two to have those of the Congress across likewise. The Redoubts & other Works at this Post are in as good Condition as coud be expected & the Booms for obstructing the River in great forwardness. I am with due Respect, your Excellency's most Obed't Serv't,

Sir,

I just now received your Letter of this Date in Answer to which I can only say I sent the Officers, as well as Men on Board of your Ship, are to be commanded by you, as they will of Course by any Officer Belonging to the Ship of superior Rank to them

& I trust you do not mean that they should by any other. Your Officers, without Men, will be of little Service to the public. The ship cant be of any. You must accept of the Officers & Men as the General has sent them. I cant counteract his Orders. If you dont chuse to receive Officers the Men must be returned back to their Regts. with them. Fort Montgomery July 11th 1777.

Gentlemen,

Your Favor of the 9th Instant* by Express is rec'd. I am to thank you for your kind Congratulations upon the Honor conferred on me by the People. If I was left to consult my own Inclinations, however honorable the Offices to which I was elected, I should decline the Acceptance of either of them; but as I dont conceive myself at Liberty to refuse my Services in whatever Office I may be placed by the Free Suffrages of the Public, I shall as soon as I can consistant with my Duty to the Continent, as

*Sir, I am directed by the Council to present you their congratulations upon your being elected by the free suffrage of the freeholders of this State, to the office of Governor, and also of Lieutenant-Governor; at the same time I am to desire that you will make such arrangement of your affairs, as to come with all convenient speed to this place, to take the oath of office which you shall think proper to accept of, according to the ordinance of the late Convention, and likewise to signify your resignation of one of them, to the end that a new election may be held.

I have the honor to be, with the greatest respect, Your Excellency's Most obedient and humble servant, their Officer, and to the Safety of the State at this Post will admit, repair to Kingston & take the Oaths agreeable to your Request.

My Appointment as Governor, in my humble Opinion, leaves the Office of Lieut. Governor vacant; of Course rendering my Election as such a Nullity, in which Case a Resignation would become unnecessary; but least a Difference of Sentiment should occasion any Delay in ordering a New Election for Lieut. Governor I Do hereby resign that Office.

From the Movements of the Enemy to the N Ward, & late Accounts by Deserters from the City of New York, we have the utmost Reason to expect the Enemy up the River & a sudden Attempt on this Post. This will occasion my steady Attendance here untill their Designs are more certainly known. I am with due Respect Gentlemen &c.

My Joy does not flow from the Gratitude I have of being employd in the service of the said gov't; but in Congratulating your Excellency, I Congratulate my self, together with the Good People of this State for the Good Choice they have made of one, which Bravery, Courage, Prudence, Perseverance, and Desinteredness, is the Least of your Qualities, and the only one fitt to be their Ruler in a So difficult and Critical time.

Dear Sir,

The Quantity of Hard Bread ordered to this Post the Commissary informs me is arrived. I have given the necessary Directions for casting the three Pound Ball which will be began upon this Day & woud have sooner, only for want of a Form for which we were obliged to send to one of the Furnaces in New Jersey. Sloops for transporting 4000 Men to Albany are also ordered down & many of them already arrived at Robinson's Landing; the full Compliment will be there by Tomorow Evening, if not before. I am informed that there are two Iron 12 lb'rs at Fishkill, which I have taken the Liberty to order to this Post, as it will enable us to spare a greater Number for the Shipping. This is the more necessary as there are not more than Eight, to wit 4 9 lb'rs & 4 6 lb'rs at Fort Constitution fit to be taken on Board the Ships.

When may we expect Genl. Washington at Peek's Kill. I am summoned by the Council of safety to give my Attendance at Kingston on Makers of Government, but till the Designs of the Enemy are more certainly known & I can have his Excellency's Leave, I cant think of leaving this Post. Have you yet the Particulars, respecting our Affairs to the Northward; the Accounts we have here are so vague & uncertain we know not what to believe.

I am your Most Obed't Serv't,

Geo. Clinton.

SCHUYLER NOT TO BLAME.

True Reasons for the Surrender of Ticonderoga—Schuyler's Wisdom —John McKesson's Budget of News to Governor Clinton.

Dear General,

General Schuyler by a Letter to the Council dated the 14th Instant at Fort Edward, says "he hopes to prevent the Enemy from penetrating much farther into the Country— That the Generals have unanimously declared that if the Evacuation of Ticonderoga was a reprehensible measure, they only are Guilty & that no order of General Schuyler for that purpose was ever given."

So far public.

The forts at Tie were surrendered because of the small Number of the Garrison. The Eastern men were many of them gone off. Of two Regim'ts not a man left. But the General directs that the weakness of the Garrison & all the other Reasons may be kept secret; and thinks that even if the Evacuation of Ticonderoga was an unwise measure, it may be as well not to deprecate it too much, Lest it encrease Difficulties of which he has great Choice. The proceedings of a Council of war at Tie are gone to head Quarters. But I suppose will not become public.*

*Under date of July 14, 1777 Schuyler had written to his friend Van Cortlandt:

"I am honoured with your favour of the 11th inst. The contents give me great satisfaction. However painful it is to labour under a load of calumny, I have, thank God, fortitude enough not to sink under it; nor shall it depress my spirits or make me for one moment relax those exertions which are become so necessary, to prevent the enemy from penetrating much farther into the country which by God's blessing I hope still to do.

"The general officers have unanimously declared, that if the evacuation of Tyconderoga was a reprehensible measure, they only are guilty. That no order of mine for the purpose was ever given. Upon what principles it was done, you will see by the enclosed, of which, if a copy is taken, it ought to be lodged in the Secretary's hands with an injunction not to give a copy or suffer it to be seen by any person, for fear that our weak condition should too much discourage the country. Perhaps it might be as well, if even the evacuation of Tyconderoga was an unwise measure, not to deprecate it too much, lest it should increase our difficulties, and God knows I have a choice of them, and yet I am supported by a presentiment, that we shall still have a merry christmas.

"I seldom hear from below. If you receive anything worth communicating, pray let me have it. A very good use may be made of a favourable account; such as are otherwise, will never be disclosed by me.

"I wish a line may be wrote to our Delegates in Congress, advising them that I did not order the evacuation."—STATE HISTORIAN.

Council of Safety resolved that the Legislature be Convened. I enclose you a Copy*—A Duplicate of that prepared for Orange County. This measure is adopted to relieve the fears of two of the five Gentlemen who signed a late famous Letter; as they were very apprehensive that the public would charge the Council with retaining their power designedly, or unduly protracting it. Major Tappen & his Family are in Health.

I am most respectfully Dear General,

Your Affectionate,

John McKesson.

GOUVERNEUR MORRIS WITH SCHUYLER'S ARMY.

He Reports that Outside of Schuyler and St Clair There Is Not a General Worth a Crown.

Fort Edward, 16th July, 1777.

Sir—I arrived here yesterday noon, and last evening had some little conversation with the General* and others upon the present state of our affairs. They are far from being such as could be wished. Genl. Nixon's brigade, which ought to have consisted of at least fifteen hundred men, has four regiments, the whole of which do not contain six hundred. In short not to enter into a tedious detail, two thousand six hundred Continental troops, and two thousand militia, of which about one thousand are from this State, make the whole force in this quarter. To the westward, there are about five hundred. If the enemy could follow, I know not where we should stop as matters now stand. They have only two old iron field pieces. They can get no more, Gen. Washington having ordered them all to the southern department. Excepting the General, and Genl. Sinclair,† you have not a General officer here worth a crown. Yesterday we had an alarm, lost two wagoners taken, and three horses, the other horse killed. This morning at two o'clock, we had an account that a large body of the enemy were within five miles of us. This appeared highly improbable at the time; we have as yet had however no confirmation or contradiction. Fort Ann is abandoned, and Fort George will be so by to-morrow this time, if it be not sooner taken. Every thing is moved away from this place as fast as it can be, down to More's Creek, a post five miles from hence, where the General proposes to assemble his army. It would give him great pleasure to command the troops of this State; so much that he offers to give two men for one. If the enemy give us some time, I imagine the roads will be so obstructed that with the help of a few brave fellows in the woods we should be able so to annoy Gen. Burgoyne, as to prevent him from penetrating far into the country. A body of troops are to be formed to the eastward of this in order to cover the grants and harass the rear of the enemy if they come down Hudson's river. By the bye, I imagine the inhabitants of that country will join Burgoyne, who hath issued a proclamation calling them in to confer with Colo. Skeene. He hath issued another well written proclamation which hath been freely circulated. It is dated Camp near Ticonderoga, from which circumstance, as well as from the matter of it, I am led to believe that he expects much aid from the tories. Upon the whole I think we shall do very well; but this opinion is founded merely upon the barriers which nature hath raised against all access from the northward. I just now mentioned to the General the calling out the militia of Tryon; he says we may call, but we shall not get them. This is by no means a comfortable idea.

I have the honour to be with great respect, sir, Your most obedient and humble servant

Gouv. Morris

One o'clock P. M.

The alarm this morning, turned out as we supposed at the time, to be merely the effects of timidity in a considerable body of troops advanced upon the road to Fort-Ann, in order to countenance the removal of our stores from Lake George. By letters from his Excellency, we find that about five hundred men, remainder of Nixon's brigade are ordered on, and also ten pieces of cannon. If we get our stores from Lake George, and accomplish a safe retreat to this place, which considering all circumstances there is the utmost reason to suppose, our affairs will wear a more smiling aspect. I have this morning been with the General to the place he intends to occupy. One fortnight will, I hope, put it in a proper posture of defence, which I am extremely happy to inform the Council is nothing more than a few open redoubts, with an abbatis; these commanding the roads over a morass on each side of the river and connected with two bridges to a little island lying in the river between both heights, will give Gen. Burgoyne some trouble should he attack them, which I am in great hopes he will not be in the capacity of doing, for certainly the wilderness now between us is the best fortress. I am in great pain for the county of Tryon, which I am extremely apprehensive will make a defection. They are calling upon the General* to give them help, and he in return asking a reinforcement of two hundred for Fort Schuyler.

I am, &c.

Gouv. Morris.

The Honourable President of the Council.

*From Saratoga, under date of July 18, Schuyler had written Van Cortlandt:

"I do myself the honour to inclose you two letters under flying seal for His Excellency General Washington, which you will please to peruse, seal and forward. I wish care may be taken that the papers enclosed may not be mixed so as to cause any mistakes in putting them up.

I am exceedingly chagrined at the pusillanimous spirit which prevails in the county of Tryon; I apprehend much of it is to be imputed to the timidity of the leading persons in that quarter; they want a fillup, which I humbly conceive can only be given them by sending two or three persons from the Council of Safety, and sending down the principal Tories.

I have ordered, by advice of your committee, all the cattle and carriages in front of my line to be drove in the rear, and shall expend all the forage, if the enemy give me time to do it.

If I had about one thousand Continental troops, in addition to those now above and on the march between this and Salisbury, I should venture to keep only every third man of the militia, and send the remainder down."

Clinton Unable to Advise General Sullivan Where to Encamp His Troops.

July 17 1777. Fort Montgomery.

Dear Sir,

I am favoured with yours* of yesterday, but being intirely unacquainted with the Situation of the Troops at Peek's Kill under Major Genl. Putnam, and not so well acquainted with the different Passes on that Side of the River as I coud wish, I am unable to advise you where to encamp your Troops. It is my Opinion that to prevent loss of Time it woud be most adviseable for you to move down the York Post Road with your Troops; in the Mean Time to consult Genls. Putnam & McDougal who are not only well acquainted with the Ground but the Posts occupied by the Troops already in that Quarter & will therefore be able to point out the most proper Spot for you to encamp on. I am with much Esteem D'r Sir,

Your Most Obed't Serv't,

G. C.

P. S. On second Thought I believe it will be most adviseable for your Troops to continue where they now are, 'till you can consult the Genl. Officers at Peek's Kill, as perhaps a Post more Easterly than where the above Road leads, will be thought best & more agreable to the General Orders as being in the Rear of Peeks Kill.

WASHINGTON'S CONFIDENCE IN CLINTON.

Requests the Council of Safety to Extend Clinton's Authority over the Militia until the Legislature Meets.

Head Quarters in the Clove, 22 July 1777.

Gentlemen,

I am informed by Genl. Geo. Clinton that you have vested him with powers to call out the militia of the Counties of Ulster, Orange, Dutches and West Chester untill the 1st of August, at which time the new Legislature is summoned to meet.

As it will probably be some time before the Wheels of the new Government can be put in motion, I am fearfull that, unless this power is extended to a further time, there will be a vacancy between Genl. Clinton's present Commission, and the enacting new laws by the Legislature, a Circumstance which, at this time, may prove most fatal in its Consequences because, from the present appearance of matters, the Enemy are upon the point of making some capital move.

I could, therefore, wish, if it can be done with propriety, that before your Board is dissolved, you would extend this power of calling out the militia to Genl. Clinton or some other person, till such time as you may reasonably expect the new Legislature will have met and proceeded regularly to Business.

I mention 'Genl. Clinton or some other person,' because as he will enter into his Office of Governor of the State upon the 1st of August, he cannot probably attend to the Business of the militia. If you are of Opinion that he can, I would prefer him to any other.

I have the Honor to be INVITED TO TAKE THE OATH OF OFFICE.

The Council Notifies Gen. Clinton that the Executive Powers of the State are Ready to be Surrendered to Him.

Sir,

I am directed by an order of the Council of Safety of the 21st Instant to transmit you a Copy of their resolution requesting you to take the Oaths of Office & enter on the discharge of the Duties of Governor.

I am with great Esteem Sir,

General George Clinton.

In Council of Safety for the State of New York

Hard Bread here is so much broken by being sent to this Place in Bulk, that it is impossible without Casks (which we have not) to transport it to Ramapogh. You'l, therefore immediately send 30,000 W't of hard Bread to this Post properly put up in Casks to be forwarded agreeable to the within Order. In future, I beg that no more Bread may be sent to any Post under my Command in the Condition the last was in—as it occasions great waste and it is impossible to remove without Loss and Damage.

8 O'Clock in the Evening.

D'r Sir,

I this moment received your Excellency's Order of this Day for sending 30,000 W't of Hard Bread from this Post to Kings Ferry to be transported from thence to Head Quarters. The Hard Bread was sent here in Bulk and by the Time it was stored so much broken as to render it almost unfit to be used; as I have no empty Casks at this Place to put it in, I fear it would be impossible to convey it to Head Quarters but as the Order is positive, I thought it my Duty to direct the Commissary to set about getting it on Board of a vessel that it may be sent to Kings Ferry; in the mean Time I have sent a Copy of the Order to Mr. Schenck at Fish Kill and directed him to send to this Post 30,000

W't properly put up in Casks to be forwarded to Kings Ferry, lest it should be impractable from the bad State the other is in to transport it to Head Qrs. If the Bread ordered from Mr. Schenck is received in Time the broken Bread may be returned from King's Ferry. I have directed Mr. Schenck to send no more Bread in the Condition he sent the last as it cannot be removed if requisite, without great Trouble and Loss.

I am with due Respect,

Your most obed. Se't,

[G. C.]

[To Gen. Washington.]

P. S. Since I wrote the above, I have myself viewed the Bread and found it even worse than the Commissary represented it, nor have a single empty Cask to put it in and sh'd this be case at Kings Ferry it will be impossible to transport it.

NO SUBSTITUTES BUT MILITIA.

Uncertainty as to the Enemy's Designs—Washington Suggests Calling Out Fifteen Hundred Militia.

*Pumpton Plains, 25th July, 1777.

Dear Sir—Yours of yesterday reached me at this place. Considering the situation in which you say the hard bread is, instead of bringing it forward, I have directed Genl. Sullivan's and Lord Stirling's divisions to draw three days' provisions each before they leave King's ferry. If any remains after supplying them it may be sent back to the forts.

Whether the enemy's real designs are southward or eastward, in order to oppose them effectually and to give proper support to Gen. Schuyler, I shall be obliged to draw off a considerable part of the present force from Peekskill, and there can be no substitute but militia under our present circumstances. I think it would be expedient immediately to call in from one thousand to fifteen hundred from the States of New-York and Connecticut; the proportions I leave to be settled between Genl. Putnam and yourself.

* From the Journal of the Council of Safety.

I do not apprehend much danger from the garrison that is left in New-York, but were the posts up the river left in too defenceless a state, it might be a temptation for them to seize them.

I have desired Genl. Putnam to make a demand of as many of the Connecticut militia as you and he shall allot to them.

I do not know what number of militia are at present in service, but I do not mean one thousand or fifteen hundred exclusive of them. That number altogether, in addition to the Continental troops, will, in my opinion, be sufficient.

I am, dear sir,

Your most obed. servt.

A Negro Slave Improperly Inlisted.

Fort Montgomery 24th July 1777.

D'r Sir,

The Bearer Mr. Bush tells me that Lieut. Cockins, of Capt. Woodbridge's Comp'y, Colo. Swift's Regt. has lately inlisted a Negro Man belonging to his Neighbour, one De Lametter, & has taken the Negro off without his Master's Consent or Liberty.

This Conduct is highly reprehensible in an Officer as inconsistent with every Idea of Justice and good Policy. The Owner resents the Injury done him & has called upon me for Justice. I am confident that informing you of the Mater which he says he can prove is sufficient to procure him redress & have therefore referred him to you. I am with due Respect, Clinton, as Governor, to be Commander-in-Chief of the Militia, Under the Constitution.

Dear Sir,

The Council of Safety a few days ago made a Resolution* requesting you to take the Oaths of Office as Governor, which you will receive by this Conveyance in a Letter from the president.

* See page 128.

They have since received a Letter from General Washington,* Copy whereof, with a Copy of the answer from the Council, are directed to be transmitted to you.

I am informed that this morning in Council & before the draft of the answer of the Council was reported, the master of your old Colleague Was Dictator of the Substance of some Letter which Major Tappen was desired to write to you, informing you of General Washington's request, which (in the opinion of the Council) must have arisen from his Inattention to, or his not knowing that the Governor of the State when sworn in office, will ex Officio command the whole militia of the State. In order, I suppose, that the whole might operate in aid of the Council's last resolution, which one of the Members intimated when it passed, was at best, but an ungenteel ill timed word of Superarogation.

The task seems this Evening to be an ungracious one to Major Tappen; he declines it, & it would be unnecessary in addition to their answer to Genl. Washington.

My best Comp'ts wait on Mrs. Clinton & Family.

POWERS OF THE GOVERNOR.

The Council of Safety Notifies General Washington of General Clinton's Increased Authority and Thanks Him for the Attention He has Shown the State.

Kingston July 25th 1777.

Sir,

Your Excellency's Letter of the 22d Instant* has been received & laid before the Council.

As the Constitution of this State hath committed the sole direction of the Militia to the Governor, and as Brigadier General George Clinton hath been elected to that Office, the Council are of Opinion that any Resolutions for granting him Authority to command the Militia of four Counties, when the Nature of his Office subjects the Militia of the whole State to his Orders would be unnecessary. And altho' the complete organization of the Government may be a work of some Time, yet the power of calling forth the Militia being vested in the Governor, independent not only of the Legislature, but of every other Officer of Government, General Clinton will acquire full authority on his admission into Office to exercise that power.

The Council have by Letter desired General Clinton to appear before them & take the Oaths of Genl. Scott & Office, & they expect he will immediately Comply Maj'r Tappen. with this request as they are not informed of any reasons at present which should detain him.

The Council flatter themselves that these reasons will have equal weight with your Excellency, especially when it is Considered, that by virtue of the Powers granted to the Council of Safety, they do not conceive themselves authorized to do any Acts, not strictly consistant with the Design of their Appointment, and the spirit of the Constitution. On the Governor's admission to Office all the executive powers of the State are to be surrendered by the Council to him, and of Consequence they can neither alter the Nature of those powers or place them in any other hands. Genl. Scott dissents.

The Council are much obliged by your Excellency's regard to the Interest and welfare of this State, and beg Leave to assure you, that they will omit no opportunities of evincing the Sense they entertain of the important Services you have rendered to America in general, and the many Instances of Attention shewn to this State in particular.

I have the Honor to be with great respect & Esteem

CLINTON AS GOVERNOR AND SOLDIER.

He Proposes to Reinforce the Defences of the Highlands—Necessary for Him to Leave the Army in Order to Take the Office of Governor.

Fort Montgomery July 26th 1777.

D'r Sir,

On the last of this Month the two Militia Regiments now stationed at this Post Commanded by Colos. Pawling & Snyder the Time for which they engaged in Service then expiring will return Home, And the Garrison of Course reduced to Colo. Duboys' Regiment only, now consisting of no more than two hundred & forty one Privates present fit for Duty, which with the Detachm't under Colo. Miggs will be the only Force we shall then have in this Quarter unless a Reinforcem't be ordered to supply their Place—which to me seems so essentially necessary that I thought it my Duty to give you this early Notice that you might be able to arrange matters accordingly. It is sometime past since I have been summoned by the Council of Safety of this State to attend at Kingston to take upon me the Government, and as by a late Resolve of theirs for convening the Legislature by the first of August my attendance will be absolutely necessary. I propose, therefore, with your Consent to set out for that Place on Monday next which can only afford me a Day or two there previous to the meeting of the Representatives.

When I saw General Washington the last week at Head Qrs., I mentioned this to him but as it was supposed the Enemy were then moving up the River it was his wish I should continue here a few Days till their Designs were most fully known nor could I (in that Situation of affairs) think of leaving the Post upon any Consideration. But as there seems to be no great Prospect of a sudden attempt against this Quarter I must ask your Leave of absence for an unlimited Time as it is impossible to determine when, if ever, I shall be able to return to Military Service. As this Post with other Fortresses in the Highlands are, by your Instruction, put under your Command I conceive this Application to you most proper otherwise I should have wrote to his Excellency and Congress on the occasion.

GEORGE CLINTON REPORTS TO WASHINGTON.

Fort Montgomery July 26th 1777.

D'r Sir,

When I had the Pleasure of seeing your Excellency at Ramapogh I mentioned that the Terms for which the two Militia Regiments stationed at this Post were engaged in Service expired the last of this month at which Time unless a Reinforcem't is sent here by Genl. Putnam the whole Strength we shall have at this important station will be Colo. Duboys' Regiment two Companies of Artillery and a Detachment of ab't 150 Continental Troops under Lieut. Colo. Miggs, I have this Day wrote to Genl. Putnam on the Subject that he may so order matters as to furnish a Reinforcement if he should judge it expedient. I have had a second Call to attend at Kingston and take the Oath of Office in Consequence of my late Appointment, and as the new Legislature of the State are to meet on the first of August it will be necessary that I sh'd leave this so as to [be] there a Day or two before their Meeting. This I have also mentioned to Genl. Putnam & requested leave of absence for an unlimited Time as the Affairs of Government render it uncertain whether I shall be able during the present Campaign to return to the Command at this Post.

It is with a Degree of Pain that I am under a Necessity of asking Permission at this Time to quit the present Service especially as the Designs of the Enemy are not fully known & sho'd the Business of my new appointm't admit of it, I will most chearfully return to the army until the Fate of the present Campaign is determined.

BURGOYNE'S ADVANCE.

Proposition to Reinforce General Schuyler—Clinton's Reasons for the Refusal of Militia to Go to the Front.

Gentlemen,

I have perused the sundry Letters from Genl. Schuyler and other Papers, Copies of which by an Order of your House of yesterday were to be delivered to me by your Secretary. Our Public Affairs in the Northern Department are in a Situation that demands particular attention and the utmost Exertions of Military Force to prevent the Enemy from pursuing their late advantages and penetrating farther into this State. And I should be happy were it in my Power to order out a Reinforcement of Militia equal to General Schuyler's Expectations.

By his Excellency Genl. Washington's Letter* to me dated the 25 July In't (a Copy of which will be herewith delivered) you will observe that he mentions the Expediency of immediately calling out from the States of Connecticut and New York from one thousand to 1500 of the Militia to occupy the Posts & reinforce Garrisons in the Highlands; this Number with the Continental Troops which will be left there after giving a proper Support to Genl. Schuyler will in his Excellency's Opinion be sufficient.

The Proportion to be furnished by this State is 500 and it shall be my first Business to issue the necessary Orders for march'g them to the respective stations for which they are intended.

I am nevertheless apprehensive that I shall find it extremely difficult to compieat even this small Number. The Continental Pay and Rations being far below the wages given for ordinary Labor the Difference becomes a Tax rendered by personal Service and as the Train Band List from the Exemptions arising from Age Office & other Causes consists chiefly of the Middling & lower Class of People this extraordinary Tax is altogether paid by them.

Add to this that unless a proportionate Number is called out of each County which in most Cases is inexpedient the County affording the most Men is upon the same Principle charged with a Tax to which the other Parts of the Community do not contribute.

These Reasons are so clear as to be generally understood and complained of by the Militia and unless those exercising the Legislative Power of the State shall in their Wisdom devise some Plan in which those Inconveniences will be obviated and the Militia Duty become more equal I am extremely apprehensive that any Orders for calling Detachments to the Field for a limited Time will not hereafter be so duly obeyed as the Nature of Military Command and the good of the service absolutely requires. It wo'd be needless to observe to you, Gentlemen, that tho my Office as Governor gives me the Command of the Militia I am not vested with authority to promise even the ordinary Continental Pay and subsistance to any greater Number of Men than those required of me by his Excellency the Commander in Chief, whose Requisition entitles those who are called into actual Service in Consequence thereof to a Compensation from the Continent at large.

PREPARING TO RESIST BURGOYNE.

Danger to Fort Schuyler—John Jay and Gouverneur Morris Consult with Washington Relative to the Military Situation in New York.

Dear General,

I enclose you a Copy of a Letter* from General Schuyler to the Council of Safety. The Council have sent Extracts of it, (to witt, the whole of the Letter except such parts of it as I have marked in this Copy) to the Governor of Connecticut and to the respective presidents of Massachusetts & N. Hampshire and have also sent similar extracts of it to Genl. Washington and the Delegates of this State and wrote to each on the subject of Reinforcements. Copies of all these I would wish to send you, but Copies of the whole are ready for the Delegates & sent to General Schuyler, & I have slept but little since I arose on Sunday morning.

*Schuyler's letter reads: "Moses creek, 4 miles below Fort Edward, July 24th, 1777:

Sir—It is with great pain that I am under the disagreeable necessity of advising you that our affairs in this quarter daily put on a more gloomy aspect. It was evident that, if we had not consented to suffer part of the militia to return to their habitations, in all probability we should lose the whole. It was therefore resolved in full council of general officers, that half should be permitted to leave us, provided the others would remain three weeks. These conditions were accepted by them, and one thousand and forty-six officers included, of the militia of this State, remained; but not above three hundred out of twelve of those from the county of Berksire in the State of Massachusetts, and out of about five hundred from the county of Hampshire in the same State, only twenty-nine commissioned and non-commissioned officers and thirty-four privates are left, the remainder having infamously deserted; and out of one hundred from Connecticut, who had, like those from Hampshire, just arrived here, very few, if any, remain; and part of that half which remained from this State, so that we have not now above thirteen hundred militia on the ground. I wish we had the most distant prospect to detain one-half of these above five or six days. Our Continental force is between twenty-seven and twenty-eight hundred; with this small body we have to encounter a much more numerous body of the enemy, well appointed, flushed with success, and daily increasing by the acquisition of torles.

Happy I should still be, in some degree, if I could close the melancholy tale here; but every letter I receive from the County of Tryon, advises me that the inhabitants of it will lay down their arms, unless I support them with Continental troops. From what I have said, you will see the impossibility of my complying with their request. The district of Schohary has also pointedly intimated, that unless Continental troops are sent them, they will also submit to the enemy. Should it be asked what line of conduct I mean to hold amidst this variety of difficulties and distress? I would answer to dispute

Mr. Morris is returned from General Schuyler. He has told the Council that Burgoyne has undoubtedly ten thousand men and that three thousand of them are gone from Tyconderoga & are on their way against Fort Stanwix. But, Sir, this has only been communicated to the Council of Safety.

Fort Stanwix* or Schuyler, I fear will fall & Tryon County with it.

Mr. Jay & Mr. Morris are by the Council appointed "to repair to head Quarters & confer with his Excellency Genl. Washington about the State of the northern army, the means of reinforcing every inch of ground with General Burgoyne, and retard his descent into the country as long as possible, without the least hopes of being able to prevent it ultimately, unless I am reinforced from General Washington, or by a respectable body of the militia. The former I am advised I am not to have, and whence to procure the latter, I know not. I have written to the eastern States, but do not expect timely succours from thence. I must therefore look up to you; but though I am under the fullest conviction that you will readily afford me every aid in your power, yet I fear it cannot be much.

"In this situation you will be pleased to permit me to observe, that I think the Council of Safety ought to press General Washington for an immediate reinforcement of at least fifteen hundred good Continental troops. Those from our own state if possible, if not, from any of the southern colonies; one thousand to reinforce me, and the remainder to be sent into Tryon county.

That the most immediate and pressing application should be made by you to the eastern States, (Connecticut in particular, from which we have not had above one hundred,) for a respectable body of militia; that part of what militia may come from thence, be also sent in to Tryon county, and part here; that the greatest number possible of the militia of this State should be sent both ways, and that it should be, in the strongest terms, recommended to the gentlemen of easy fortune to turn out.

It is not only mortifying, but extremely discouraging to the lower class, and prejudicial to the public, to see so few men of note step forth when their country is in danger.

I may seem to labour under ideal apprehensions; I believe they are not so. They are founded on a reflection that if General Burgoyne can penetrate to Albany, the force which is certainly coming by way of Oswego will find no difficulty in reaching the Mohawk river; and that being arrived there, they will be joined not by Tories only, but by every person that finds himself capable of removing and wishes to make his peace with the enemy, and by the whole body of the Six Nations. These, forming a junction with Burgoyne at Albany, whilst General Howe presses up the river, it will either put General Washington between two fires, or drive him to the necessity of filing off into New England. These, sir, are my conjectures; I sincerely wish they may never be realized, although I can not think they are ill-founded. I have thus ventured freely to give my sentiments. I hope they will not be thought to arise from a principle which would disgrace a soldier, I assure you they do not; and I hope my countrymen will never have occasion to blush for me, whatever may be the event of the campaign."—From the Journal of the Council of Safety.

it, and all such other matters as respect the Defense of this State—And to represent to his Excellency the necessity of providing Garrisons for the Forts in the High Lands, as the Term for which the militia now Stationed there, are engaged, will soon expire.”*

Sir,

Last Evening at 9 oclock I received from Kingston, an Extract of your Letter of the 24th Ulto. to the President of the Council of Safety of New York, with a Letter from him requesting the aid of Militia from this State; eight oClock this morning I received yours of the 24th Ulto., mine of the 26th had not come to your Hands when you wrote the 27th; to that you will please to turn. The Express went forward with my Request to his Excellency Genl. Washington the same Day and is not yet returned. The 28th, I received a Requisition from Major General Putnam at Peek's Kill in consequence of Orders from General Washington, for five Hundred Militia to join him, assigning the march of General Washington's Army for Philadelphia as a Reason of this Demand; Orders have been given Brigadier General Silliman accordingly; I have pressed General Washington in a Letter of the 28th Ulto., to send you three or four thousand continental Troops, which might be suddenly thrown up to your Quarter to prevent the Career of the Enemy; this I did knowing such Troops much easier got on the Ground and better for the Service, I find Major General Lincoln and Brigadier General Glover with fourteen hundred Troops were arrived at Albany, the 28th, unknown to you when you wrote on the 27th. I have put our whole Militia* in the best Posture of Defence, and one fourth Part of them to be in Readiness to march on the shortest Notice. I hoped for the Return of my Express before this, and apprehend it necessary to wait for General Washington's answer,

Resolved, That upon any future drafts from the militia, all persons below the age of sixty years as well as such as are exempt by office or profession as otherwise; and all who have heretofore borne commissions, (except such as are hereafter excepted) shall be forthwith enrolled with the captains of the company in whose beat they reside; and that previous to such draft, the field officers of the regiment to which such exemptions belong, shall chose two substantial freeholders out of the commissioned officers of the said regiment; who, in case of any disagreement, may choose a third, to be assessor of the said regiment; which said assessors having taken an oath before the officers commanding

Governor Clinton Orders Col. Graham to Reinforce Gen. Schuyler at Albany.

Kingston Aug't 1" 1777.

Sir,

The Operations of the Enemy against this State to the Northward as well as the exposed situation of the southern Counties, the regiment to act with justice and impartiality shall before any draft made, assess the said exempts for their personal service in proportion to the value of that personal service and their estates. Provided that such assessment shall not exceed ten dollars for every month for which such militia shall be drafted, nor less than one dollar per month; which money so assessed shall, if unpaid after notice given be levied in like manner as the fines of each regiment are, and given as a bounty to such of the regiment as enter into the service for the time for which such draft is ordered to be made.

Provided nevertheless, if any exempt shall prefer standing his right to paying the sum assessed, it shall be at his option so to do, and in case of his being drafted, he shall go into actual service or find a person to serve in his stead.

Resolved, That the above resolution shall not extend to such persons as shall have procured a soldier to enlist in either of the Continental battallions directed to be raised in this State agreeable to the resolutions of the late Convention, of the third day of April last, or the several resolutions of this Council containing the same, nor to members of the Legislature or their necessary officers, nor to Judges, justices and the sheriffs who have qualified under the present constitution, nor to ministers of the gospel, nor to the chairman and two members of the county committee to be chosen either by vote of the said committee or by lot, nor to the chairman and two members of every precinct or district committee to be chosen in like manner, who are hereby empowered to act in case the other members of such committee should be drafted in like manner as if they were the majority of such committee, nor to infirm men whose estates do not exceed the value of two hundred pounds, to be determined by the said assessors.

It is nevertheless earnestly recommended to all those who are by their civil appointments prevented from rendering personal services in a military line, to encourage the draft by generous contributions in like manner as if they had been actually assessed.

Resolved, That the above resolutions shall continue in force until twenty days after the meeting of the future Legislature, unless sooner repealed.—From the Journal of the Council of Safety, July 31, 1777.

*From Chester, Pennsylvania, Washington the same day wrote to General Putnam:

I have this moment received intelligence by express, that the enemy's fleet yesterday morning about eight o'clock sailed out of the Capes in an eastern course. This surprising event gives me the greatest anxiety, and, unless every possible exertion is made, renders it expedient to call into actual Service a very considerable Proportion of the Militia. In the Classing of the different Regiments for these Services, the Regiments commanded by yourself & Colos. Freer, Umphrey & Sutherland are to furnish 340 Men, including non Commissioned Officers & Privates, properly Officered armed and accoutred, as you'll see by the within Order, and you being appointed to take the Command of this Detachment with 180 Men from Colo. Snyder's & Pawling's Regt., I desire that you will immediately upon the Receipt hereof forward to the respective Colos. of the other Regiments who are to furnish Men towards this Detachment from Dutchess, one of the inclosed Resolutions & Orders, and you will exert yourself with all possible Expedition and march them to the City of Albany—there putting yourself under the Command of his Honor, Major General Schuyler. Major Cantine with a Detachment from Colos. Pawling & Snyder's Regt. of 160 Men including non Commissioned Officers, to be annexed to those raised in Dutchess County will join you at Albany.

The inclosed Resolutions of the Council of Safety subjecting Exempts to a Proportion of the Common Burthen will, I hope, enable you to carry those Orders into Execution with greater may be productive of the happiest consequences to the enemy, and the most injurious to us. I have desired General Sullivan's division, and the two brigades that left you last, immediately to return and recross the river, and shall forward on the rest of the army with all the expedition in my power. I have also written to General Clinton requesting him instantly to reinforce you, with as many militia of the State of New York as he can collect; and you are, on receipt of this, to send on an express to Governor Trumbull urging it upon him to assist you, with as many of the Connecticut militia as he can get together, and without a moment's loss of time.

The importance of preventing Mr. Howe's getting possession of the Highlands by a coup de main is infinite to America; and, in the present situation of things, every effort that can be thought of must be used. The probability of his going to the eastward is exceedingly small, and the ill effects that might attend such a step inconsiderable in comparison with those that would inevitably attend a successful stroke upon the Highlands. Connecticut cannot be in more danger through any channel than this, and every motive of its own interest and the general good demand its utmost endeavors to give you effectual assistance. Governor Trumbull will I trust be sensible of this. I am, &c.

MORE REINFORCEMENTS.

Clinton Orders Brig.-Gen Ten Broeck to Detach 1,000 Men from His Brigade, to be Organized into Two Regiments, Under Col. Robert Van Rensselaer and Col. Stephen J. Schuyler.

D'r Sir,

Kingston Augt. 1st 1777.

The late Operations of the Enemy in your Quarter render it necessary to use every Exertion to collect a Force to prevent their pursuing the advantages they have already gained by penetrating farther into this State. Induced by these Reasons & in Conseq' of Requisition from Congress & Genl. Wash'g & Schuy'r I have ordered Reinforcements for the Garrisons & Posts in the Highlands, that his Excellency Genl. Washington may be thereby enabled to draw off from thence a Part of the Continental Troops to reinforce the Northern army. For which Purpose I have also issued orders for the marching of 500 of the Militia from the Northern Parts of the Counties of Dutchess & Ulster. Upon the Receipt hereof you'l also detach from your Brigade 1000 Men including Non Commissioned Officers properly Officered armed & accounted to reinforce the Army under Command of his Honor Major General Schuyler. I could wish Colo. Robert Van Rensselaer & Colo. Stephen J. Schuyler to take the command of those Men who will of Course be divided into two Regiments.

I inclose you the Resolutions of the Council of Safety subjecting Exempts to a Proportion of the Common Burthen which will, I hope, enable you to compleat these Orders with greater Ease especially as an equal Proportion of the Militia from every other Part of the State are called out into actual Service.

The Troops so raised will be entitled to Continental Pay & Rations and a Bounty from the Fines to be levied upon Exempts refusing Service agreeable to the within Resolve.

Particular care will be taken in the Appointment of the Officers, Men of Spirit and those who have seen Service, if such can be obtained, should be selected, as the Behavior of the Soldier frequently depends upon the Conduct of his Officers.

I need not request you to use Expedition as your well known Zeal for your Country; and Knowledge of its present Situation will induce you to take the most effectual Measures for carrying the Order into immediate Execution.

Kingston Augt. 1st 1777.

The Operations of the Enemy ag't the State to the Northward as well as the exposed Situation of some of the Southern Counties to the Incursions of the Enemy from that Quarter, render it expedient to call into actual Service, a very considerable Proportion of the Militia in the Classing of the different Regiments for these Services your Regiment & Colo. Fields' with the other Regiments of W. Chester County are to furnish 310 Men, including Non Commissioned Officers & Privates properly officered armed & accoutred, as you'll see by the inclosed Order; and, as you are appointed to take the command of this Detachment, I desire that you will immediately upon the Receipt hereof, direct & forward to the Commanding Officers of the other Regiments who are to furnish Men towards this Detachm't, one of the inclosed Resolutions & Orders, and exert yourself in having them raised with all possible Expedition and march them to such Stations in W. Clinton Orders the Colonels of Orange and Ulster to Detach and Organize 500 Men, Under Col. Allison, to March Forthwith to Fort Montgomery.

Sir,

The Situation of our public Affairs renders it absolutely necessary to call out a very considerable Proportion of the Militia as well to reinforce our Northern army to prevent the Enemy from penetrating into the Country, as to reinforce the Garrisons and securing the Passes of the Highlands; and Requisitions having been made to the Council of Safety for this State by the Continental Congress, and General Schuyler, and by his Excellency General Washington, to me for the above Purposes, you'll therefore without Delay detach from your Regiment by Ballot or other equitable Manner, two Captains 4 Lieuts. & 100 Privates, including non Commissioned Officers for two Companies and cause them to march with the utmost Expedition to Fort Montgomery, and there put themselves under the Command of Colo. Allison.

The inclosed Resolution of the Council of Safety of this State, passed yesterday subjecting Exempts to contribute to the present Service & putting the Militia upon a more equal Footing in Point of Duty I wo'd fain hope will enable you to carry these Orders into Execution with greater Ease as it will afford the Persons who are drafted into the Service a Bounty and as each Regt. in the State will furnish their due Quota of Men for this Service every reasonable Cause of Complaint will be removed.

I have to recommend to you that in the Appointment of the Captains & Subaltern Officers you will elect such as are best able to fill their respective Stations by being acquainted with actual Service.

ALBANY APPEALS TO NEW ENGLAND.

A Pen Picture of the Distress and Horrors that would Confront the Colonies were Burgoyne Successful.

*[Aug. first 1777.]

Sir,

The alarming situation of affairs to the Northward obliges us, to call on you for the assistance that the Friends to America and Lovers of their Country ought to call on each for. At a Time when New England was invaded, no means were left unessayed on our parts to afford them every assistance in our power. Various were the difficulties the Friends to their Country in those parts had to encounter, surrounded by dependants on Government and their Emissaries, our Vigorous exertions were necessary to Effect the much desired Union with our Sister States; our Arguments were grounded on the Unanimity the Valour the Virtue of New England; the Enemies of America were Crushed, our Influence had the desired effect, no Tory dared openly to speak or act unfriendly, Imprisonment or banishment were the Consequences.

What arguments are we now to make use of?

Our Country is invaded; a great part of our Militia have Turned out; but where are our Eastern Friends? What have we done to forfeit their Esteem? Is our Country to be laid waste, the Friends of America to be banished from their Homes, their all to be sacrificed at a Time when it is in our power (if we will Unite) to Crush the Invaders in such a manner that perhaps will prevent their making any future attempts?

Can you expect to remain in quiet if we are destroyed? From the reciprocal Intercourse & Commerce between New England and this State, the fall of the one, will much distress the other!

*This date is not given in the manuscript. It is supplied by the present editor—see page 177.

Admit that the evil was to stop here. Pray consider the great number of Savages that will Join them? Should they take possession of this City, we are apprehensive, the disaffected* that will repair to them will not be few; the ravages will not Cease here; our Sister States will feel in Turn; Those who can now quietly rest at home and hear of the Inhumanities Committed by those barbarians must be destitute of Feelings becoming the Virtuous the free born and the brave.

We are informed that loud Complaints are made against the leaders of our army.

Let us Consider, is this a Time to divide ourselves? Are we now to Censure our Generals and tamely to remain at home with our Hands crossed?

Are we not well assured that the Supreme power of the Continent will call to account and severely punish such as have in

*The friends of Great Britain in August, 1777, distributed the following circular in Albany county:

By the request of the Honourable William Howe and commander of His Majesty's forces in America, and William Tryon, Esqr. Governor in and for the Province of New York, and likewise by the desire of Sir John Johnson, Bart. that a battalion of loyal volunteers be enlisted in the county of Albany, to serve in and for the Province of New-York, &c. for the preservation of their lives and properties, and more especially to shew their loyalty and affection to His Majesty, in order to assist in restoring public peace and tranquillity in this distressed country, as they cannot expect any friendship or protection from His Majesty's forces, if they do not do their utmost endeavours to assist His Majesty in subduing and conquering his rebellious subjects, in order to bring them to condign punishment, therefore, for the more speedy and in the most secret manner, a battalion of loyal volunteers be enlisted, and each officer and private volunteer to take an oath to keep secret every thing that shall be communicated to them by their superior officers; that I. H. Esqr. is chosen and appointed colonel and commandant of said battalion of loyal volunteers; and each company is at least to consist of fifty rank and file, with one captain, one lieutenant, one ensign; and when raised and joins His Majesty's forces, each officer and private volunteer will receive the same pay, clothing arms and accoutrements as any other enlisted American volunteer, and be entitled to the same lands as any regular soldier; the said loyal volunteers will be discharged with the first American battalion.

I, A. B. do swear to be true to His Majesty King George, and to serve him honestly and faithfully in defence of his person, Crown and dignity, against all his enemies in America, or opposers whatsoever; to keep secret and to observe and obey the orders of my superior officers that shall be issued out to me from time to time, so help me God.

I, A. B. do swear to keep secret all that you shall say or read to me, and not to reveal the same to blood relation, or any person whatsoever, so help me God.—From the Journal of the Council of Safety.

any respect betrayed their Trust or by their misconduct hurt their Country?

We are well assured that could those prejudices subside, could we Unite with that Spirit becoming Men who are determined to be free, who will not tamely suffer their wives to be ravished their Children to be Murdered and Scalped, their Properties to be seized and disposed of at the pleasure of Mercenaries & Savages, whose footsteps as they advance in our Country, are marked with unheard of Horrors and devastations in open Violation of the Laws of Civilized Nations or the dictates of Humanity, we say, could we step forth determined not to submit to such Men and Measures, a more glorious opportunity never offered than the present.

The Enemy are now advanced to Fort Edward; our army have retreated to Saratoga and brought all their Stores, provisions &c. with them, and to induce the Enemy to follow them farther in the Country, so that their Retreat may be Cut off, if the People will but step forth they will in all probability retire to some advantageous Post, still nearer this City.

Men only are wanted.

Let us entreat you, dear Countrymen, to step forth and make one Glorious Effort to Crush the base Invaders of your Country, and Transmit, Inviolate to your Posterity the Freedom and Liberty that God and Nature have bestowed upon you.

On our parts we are determined to leave no means unessayed, to save our Country from ruin. No distress, no loss of Property, shall ever shake our attachment to so righteous, so just, and so glorious a Cause. We renew our request by every Tie of love to your Country by your wives your Posterity, and all that's dear and sacred to you, to unite and support the Cause you have so nobly and so long Contended for.

Kingston Church Extends Congratulations to Governor Clinton.

[Aug. 2, 1777.]

To his Excellency George Clinton Esqr. Governor, General and Commander in Chief of all the Militia, and Admiral of the Navy of the State of New York:

May it please your Excellency:

At the commencement of the new constitution and at the very hour of your inauguration, the Minister, Elders and Deacons of the Reformed Dutch Church of Kingston, in consistory assembled, beg leave to congratulate your Excellency upon the highest Honors the Subject of a free State can possess and to assure you of the part they bear in the public happiness on this Occasion.

From the beginning of the present war, the consistory and people of Kingston have been uniformly attached to the cause of America, and justify upon the Soundest Principles of Religion and morality, the glorious revolution of a free and oppressed country. Convinced of the unrighteous designs of Great Britain upon their civil and religious priviledges they chose, without hesitation, rather to suffer with a brave people for a Season, than to enjoy the luxuries and friendship of a wicked and cruel nation.

With an inflexible perseverance which they trust the greatest adversity and persecution will never change, they profess anew to your Excellency their Interest in the Continental union and Loyalty to the State of New-York.

While the constitution is preserved inviolate, and the Rulers Steer by that conspicuous Beacon, the people have the fairest prospects of happiness, unanimity and Success, with you they chuse [to] launch, that future pilots may form a precedent from your vigilance, impartiality and firmness, and the System obtain an establishment that Shall last for ages; for as nothing can be more agreeable to the conscious patriot than the approbation of his country, so nothing can more promote the general good than placing confidence in established characters & raising merit to distinguished power.

Take then, with the acclamations and fullest confidence of the public, Take Sir, the governement into your hands and let the unsolicited voice of a whole State prevail upon you to enter upon this arduous task.

All ranks in placing you at their Head, have pledged their lives and fortunes to support and defend you in this exalted Station, and the consistory of Kingston chearfully unite in the implicit Stipulation and promise you their prayers.

As a reformation in morals an the prevallance of virtue is the immediate object of the consistory of Kingston, they esteem themselves especially happy in having cause to believe, that religious Liberty (without which all other priviledges are not worthe enjoying), will be Strenuously Supported by your Excellency, and they congratulate themselves and the State, that God has given them a governor who understands and therefore loves the Christian Religion, and who understands and therefore loves a terror to evil doers and an example and patron to them that do well.

EVERY MAN WHO CAN BEAR ARMS WANTED.

George Clinton Orders Brig.-Gen. Ten Broeck to Increase His Levies in Order to Reinforce the Northern Army.

Kingston Aug't 2d 1777.

D'r Sir,

Since my Letter of yesterday the disagreeable Accounts from the Northward just received of the Enemy having advanced to Fort Edward and the retreating of our army to Saraghtoga, which induce me to apprehend that a greater Number of the Militia of your Brigade may be requisite to reinforce the Northern army and prevent the Enemy from proceeding farther into the State, you will, therefore, order out, in addition to the Number mentioned in my Letter of yesterday, any greater Proportion that may be conceived necessary, to be relieved on the arrival of those ordered from this and Dutchess County if Circumstances will then admit of it. Indeed every Man that can bear arms must on this Occason be brought to the Field, and no Person exempted if their Services in stopping the Progress of the Enemy are wanted for which you are not to wait for any further or more particular Order.

TO PROTECT THE FRONTIER.

Instructions to Gen. Herkimer—Why a Draft of Militia Was Considered Necessary.

Kingston Aug't 2d 1777.

Sir,

The small Number of Continental Troops occupying the Western Posts renders it necessary to raise a Reinforcement from the Militia in your Brigade. Upon the Receipt hereof you'l, therefore, without Delay detach five hundred Men including non Commissioned Officers, to be raised by Ballot or other equitable Method, properly armed accoutred and Officered, and cause them to be posted at the most Suitable Passes in your County for giving Protection to the Inhabitants against the Incursions of the Enemy & for reenforcing the Garrisons in your Quarter taking Directions for their future Government from Major Genl. Schuyler or Officer Commanding the Continental Troops in your County.

This you will receive from Colo. Wynkoop, formerly an Officer in the Army of the States, who I now send into your County to endeavour to raise the Spirits of the Militia & assist in compleating the Quota of Men assigned for the present service and of selecting the Officers to command them who should be Men of approved Courage and if possible those who have seen some Service.

The Troops so raised will be entitled to receive Continental Pay and Rations exclusive of a Bounty from the Tax to be levied upon Exempts agreeable to the within Resolutions.

This Resolution I hope will enable you to compleat your Drafts with greater Ease especially as an equal or rather a larger Proportion of the Militia of every other Part of the State are ordered to the reinforcement of our Northern and Southern armies.

I need not direct you to use Expedition; your exposed Frontier and nearness to a cruel Enemy will induce you to fall upon the most effectual Measures for carrying these Order into immediate Execution. And if the above Number is not sufficient for your Defence the Necessity of the Case will justify the Calling a Greater Number to the Field which I beg under those Circumstances you will do.

It cannot be expected that the Continental army can be scattered on the Frontiers of any particular State but must be so posted as to oppose the main Body of the Enemy. Those Parts therefore of the Country that are most exposed to the Incursions of Detachments of the Enemy must turn out in their own Defence the other Parts of the state contributing to their Assistance.

I have furnished Colo. Wynkoop with a Set of Instructions which you will endeavor to carry into Execution.

I am &c.

Instructions to Colo. Wynkoop.

[Aug. 2, 1777.]

As the Spirits of the well affected Inhabitants of Tryon County are much depressed by the successes of the Enemy to the Northward and the Expectations of the disaffected raised in Proportion I have thought it proper for the safety of that Part of the State to order 500 of the Militia of Genl. Harkhemer's Brigade into actual Service.

From your well known zeal for your Country your Abilities as an Officer Knowledge of Service and from your being acquainted with the best Situations for Defence in the County of Tryon, it is my Request that you will with all possible Dispatch repair to Tryon County and deliver Brig'r Genl. Harkimer the Letters directed to him.

You'l then endeavor to inspirit the Militia to turn out with Alacrity for the service required of them and consult with Genl. Herkhamer in selecting the Officers to command them and seeing that the Soldiers are properly armed and accoutred.

In passing thro Albany, you'l apply to the County Committee, explain the Nature of your Business and apply for one or two of their Members or other Gentlemen best acquainted with the Inhabitants of Tryon County to attend you there and assist you in compleating this Business with the greater Expedition.

If a larger Number of the Militia of that County will be requisite for reinforcing our army, you will also consult with Genl. Herckemer on the best Method for bringing them to the Field agreeable to the Orders contained in my Letter, and draw out any Number that may be sufficient for the above Purpose.

You'l keep a acct of the Expences accruing on this Command that the same may be satisfied you together with your Pay.

George Clinton Reports to General Schuyler.

Kingston Aug't 2d 1777.

Dear Sir,

By a Requisition from his Excellency, General Washington, 500 of the Militia were to be raised in this State to occupy the Posts and secure the Passes in the Highlands, that the Continental Troops might be drawn off from thence to reinforce the Northern army & effectually oppose the Designs of the Enemy to the Southward.

The present Exigency nevertheless in your Department demanding in my Opinion immediate assistance I conceived it a Part of my Duty to increase the Number intended by his Excellency Genl. Washington, as much as the Season of the year and Circumstances of the State would possibly allow. I have, therefore, issued Orders for 500 Men from the Northern Parts of the Counties of Ulster & Dutchess to be within 10 Days at Albany and there to put themselves under your Command and directed General Ten Brook to detach from his Brigade 1000 Men properly Officered for the like Purpose. I have also wrote to Genl. Harkhemer of Tryon County to raise 500 Men from his Brigade for reenforcing our Troops & defending the most important Posts & Passes on the western Frontier and subjected them to your Orders & Directions. And instead of 500 Men required by his Excellency Genl. Washington, a Detachment of Eight hundred & ten Men is also ordered to join our southern Troops for defending the lower Frontiers from the Enemy's Incursions and strengtning the Garrisons of the Highlands; so that an equal Proportion of the Militia is drawn out from the respective Counties of the State amoun'g in the whole to near 3000 Men.

The last accts. from Genl. Washington are that the main body of his army lays at Howel's Ferry on this side the Delaware. Seventy five of the Enemy's Fleet were discovered a few Days ago near Little Egg Harbour making by short Tack for the Capes of Delaware. The General did not mean to cross the River until the Enemy should have entered it with their Fleet.

I am with the most perfect Friend'p & Esteem D'r Sir

Your most obed' hum'e Ser't,

[G. C.]

I could wish, if the Circumstances of Charlotte County would admit of it, that a proportionate Part of the Militia there, was also embodied for the further reinforcing of the Army under your Command, but being entirely unacquainted with the State of the County I have issued no Orders for that Purpose.

SITUATION OF AFFAIRS IN THE MOHAWK VALLEY.

Colonel Goose Van Schaick Complains of the Militia and Requests that He Be not Rendered Subordinate to General Herkimer.

Schenectady Aug't 4th 1777.

D'r General,

Previous to the receipt of yours of the first Inst. I had ordered one half of the Militia of Schoharie and Schenectady to march immediately to the German Flatts. The Schoharie Committee have since informed me that they have countermanded my Orders to Colo. Vroman and that none of their Militia can be spared. I have this day been trying to prevail on the militia of this Place but find to my great Surprize that not a man will go with me either from this place or Schoharie.

I have with me Lt. Colo. Brooks with near one hundred Continental troops, men & Boys; as none of the Militia can be prevailed on to march with me I should be glad to know if you intended that I should march on with these and put myself under the Command of Genl. Herkimer or send Lt. Colo. Brooks with those to the German Flatts. Herkimer has all his militia at the Flatts. Fort Schuyler has been lately reinforced with 350 men & a quantity of Provisions & ammunition. The Tryon County Committee in a Letter to me suppose Fort Schuyler to be beseiged, but have no other reason for it than common report.

No Continental troops at Albany nor none expected made it useless for me to leave an order for a Regt. to march to my Support. I left Colo. Gratton to command at Albany. He desired me to acquaint the General that his Indisposition was so great that it prevented him from going thro' the trouble & fatigue which daily attended.

I have the fullest confidence that you will not put me in a Situation to be commanded by General Herkimer, But on the contrary prevent it if that can consistently be done. I am with perfect Esteem,

Your most Obedient Humble Servant,

G. V Schaick.

To Major Genl. Schuyler.

I have been duly honoured with your several Favours of the 25th* 27th & 30th of July.

* The communications alluded to by Washington follow as foot notes, on pages 170-171-172.

Sir—Your Excellency's letter of the twenty-second instant, has been received and laid before the Council.

As the constitution of this State hath committed the sole direction of the militia to the Governor, and as Brigadier-General George Clinton hath been elected to that office, the Council are of opinion that any resolutions for granting him authority to command the militia of four counties, when the nature of his office subjects the militia of the whole

The Misfortune at Ticonderoga has produced a very disagreeable alteration in our Affairs, and has thrown a Gloom upon the favourable Prospect, which the Campaign, previous to that Event, afforded. But I am in great hopes, the ill Consequences of it, will not continue to operate long, and that the Jealousies and Alarms, which so sudden and unexpected an Accident has occasioned, in the Minds of the People both of your State and to the Eastward, will shortly subside, and give way to the more rational Dictates of self-preservation, and regard to the common good. In fact, the worst effect of that disaster is, that it has served to create those Distrusts and apprehensions; for if the matter were coolly and dispassionately considered, there would be found nothing so formidable in Mr. Burgoyne, and the force under him, with all his successes, as to countenance the least languor or despondency; and Experience would show, that a tolerable degree of vigor in the States more immediately interested,

State to his orders, would be unnecessary. And although the complete organization of the government may be a work of some time, yet, the powers of calling forth the militia being vested in the Governor, independent not only of the Legislature, but every other officer of government, General Clinton will acquire full authority on his admission into office, to exercise that power.

The Council have, by letter, desired General Clinton to appear before them and take the oath of office, and they expect he will immediately comply with their request, as they are not informed of any reasons at present which should detain him.

The Council flatter themselves that these reasons will have equal weight with your Excellency, especially when it is considered that by virtue of the powers granted to the Council of Safety, they do not conceive themselves authorized to do any acts not strictly consistent with the design of their appointment and the spirit of the Constitution. On the Governor's admission to office, all the executive powers of the State are to be surrendered by the Council to him, and of consequence they can neither alter the nature of those powers or place them in any other hands.

The Council are much obliged by your Excellency's regard to the interest and welfare of this State, and beg leave to assure you that they will omit no opportunities of evincing the sense they entertain of the important services you have rendered to America in general, and the many instances of attention shown to this State in particular.

I have the honour to be, with great respect and esteem, your Excellency's most Obedt. and humble servt. Pierre Van Cortlandt.

His Excellency Genl. Washington.

Sir—By order of the Council of Safety, I have the honour of transmitting to your Excellency the enclosed extracts of a letter from Major-General Schuyler. and a copy of a letter from the Council to Governor Trumbull.

Such is the state of our northern affairs at present, as to promise the enemy an easy conquest. This State is greatly exhausted, and our New-England brethren are not yet roused. The Council request that your Excellency will be pleased to animate them to would be sufficient to check his career, and perhaps convert the advantages he has gained into his ruin.

But while People continue to view what has happened through the Medium of Supineness or fear, there is no saying to what length an interprizing genius may push his good Fortune. I have the fullest Confidence, that no endeavours of the Council will be omitted to bring your State (with the distresses of which I am sensibly affected) to every Effort it is Capable of making in its present mutilated Condition; and they may rely upon it, no means in my power will be unemployed, to co-operate with them, in repelling the Danger that threatens the State, and through it the Continent. If I do not give as effectual Aid as might be wished to the northern army, it is not from want of inclination, more vigorous and manly exertions, and they wish that if the state of military operations with which your Excellency is best acquainted, would admit of it, a reinforcement from the southern States might be obtained for our support; and particularly against the expected invasion by the way of Oswego, by the success of which, they will be more immediately and deeply affected, as their frontiers as well as those of this State, would be thereby exposed to deprecation.

What new miracles Providence may have in reserve for our deliverance, or what further measures General Howe may pursue to defeat his own purposes, are uncertain. Our affairs, however, in the northern department, wear a gloomy aspect, and the Council think it their duty to leave no means unessayed to repel the enemy, and render the issue of the present campaign glorious to the American arms.

I have the honour to be,

With great respect and esteem,
Your Excellency's most obedt. humble servt.
Pierre Van Cortlandt.

His Excellency Genl. Washington.

Sir—We enclose your Excellency the examination of a prisoner which we have reason to believe is true, as it exactly corresponds with every other information that we have received from that quarter.

Our army is extremely weak; the country exhausted; our neighbors languid, and our people threatened with invasions on every quarter.

In this state, we can only apply to your Excellency to second our endeavours; without which the enemy will easily accomplish the object which they have so long and earnestly pursued, and obtain full possession of this State.

Governor Clinton will be qualified this day, so that your Excellency's future requisitions from this State will be directed to him.

I have the honour to be,

Your Excellency's most obedient humble servt Pierre Van Cortlandt.
His Excellency Genl. Washington.—From the Journal of Council of Safety.

nor from being too little impressed with the importance of doing it but because the State of affairs in this quarter will not possibly admit of it. It would be the height of impolicy to weaken ourselves too much here, in order to encrease our strength there, and it must certainly be more difficult as well as of greater moment to controul the main army of the Enemy, than an inferior, and, I may say, dependent one; for it is pretty obvious if General Howe can be completely kept at Bay, and prevented effecting any capital purposes, the Successes of General Burgoigne whatever they may be, must be partial and temporary.

Nothing, that I can do, shall be wanting to rouse the Eastern States and excite them to those exertions, which the exigency of our affairs so urgently demands. I lament, that they have not yet done more—that so few of their militia have come into the field, and those few have been so precipitate in returning home, at this critical period. But I have nevertheless great reliance upon those States. I know they are capable of powerfull efforts. And that their attachment to the cause, notwithstanding they may be a little tardy, will not allow them long to withhold their aid, at a time when, their own Safety, that of a Sister State, and in a great measure, the Safety of the Continent calls for their greatest zeal & activity. I flatter myself, the presence of General Arnold and General Lincoln in the Northern department, will have a happy effect upon them. Those Gentlemen possess much of their confidence particularly the latter, than whom there is perhaps no man from the State of Massachusetts, who enjoys more universal esteem and popularity. And, in addition to that, they are both to be considered as very valuable officers.

You intimate a wish, that some assistance could be drawn from the Southern States at this time. But while things remain in their present posture, and appearances however illusory they may prove in the issue, afford the Strongest reason to keep their force at home to counteract the Seeming intentions of General Howe, I could neither ask nor expect them to detach Succours to the northern States, who are so well able to defend themselves against the force they now have to Oppose.

I hope an exaggerated idea of the enemy's numbers may have no injurious influence on our measures. There is no circumstance, I am acquainted with, that induces me to believe General Burgoigne can have more than five or Six thousand men; and if the force left in Canada is so considerable as the information you send me makes it, he cannot have even so many.

The representations of prisoners and deserters in this respect are of little validity; their knowledge is always very limited, and their intention, particularly the former, very often bad. Beyond what regards their own companies, little or no attention is due to what they say. The number of regiments your informant mentions corresponds with other accounts; but in the number of men in each company he gives the establishment, not, I am persuaded, the actual State. The enemy's army in Canada last campaign, though they suffered little by action, must have decreased materially, by sickness and other casualties; and if the recruits to them, both from England and Germany, bore any proportion to those, which have reinforced General Howe, the State of their regiments must be greatly inferior to what your information holds forth. Reasoning by analogy, as far as it will apply, I cannot imagine the British regiments can exceed Two hundred and fifty men each, fit for the field, or that the foreign troops can amount to many more than three thousand in all.

The appointment of General Clinton* to the Government of your State is an event that in itself gives me great pleasure, and very much abates the regret I should otherwise feel for the loss of his Services in the military line. That Gentleman's character is such, as will make him peculiarly useful at the head of your affairs, in a Situation, so alarming & interesting as that which you now experience. Agreeable to your desire my future applications shall be made to him.

I have the honor to be with great respect, Sir,

Your most Obedient Servant

G'o Washington.

A Proclamation.

Whereas His Excellency George Clinton, has been duly elected Governor of this State of New-York, and hath this day qualified himself for the execution of his office, by taking in this Council the oaths required by the constitution of this State, to enable him to exercise his said office: This Council doth, therefore, hereby, in the name and by the authority of the good people of this State, proclaim and declare the said George Clinton Esqr. Governor, General and Commander-in-Chief of all the militia, and Admiral of the navy of this State, to whom the good people of this State are to pay all due obedience, according to the laws and constitution thereof.

ferred upon me; I cannot but express apprehensions of my Inability to answer the Expectations which they are pleased to form of me. It shall however be my earnest Endeavor by a sedulous attention to the important Duties of my Office, to merit their approbation and I rely firmly on Divine Providence and the Prayers which you offer to put up in my Behalf, to render my Services effectual in promoting the happiness of the People committed to my Charge.

I agree with you Gentlemen in thinking that the Constitution gives the fairest Promises of Happiness this I shall study to preserve inviolate and thereby secure to the People those Civil and religious Liberties which it has with the utmost Liberality and Wisdom been attentive to establish and guard. And as unjust Suspicious and Fondness for Novelty have been ruinous to many States you justly observe that a Confidence in established Characters and the Promotion of tried Merit must contribute to the General Welfare. By this salutary Principle therefore I wish to be governed in the Part I have to take in the Distribution of Public Offices.

Gentlemen, I cannot dismiss you without giving my public Testimony of the Patriotism of the Consistory and People of Kingston who in Imitation of their brave ancestors have shewn themselves worthy of the inestimable Privileges they enjoy by the Spirit and alacrity they have early and uniformly manifested in their Defence. May it please the Supreme Ruler of all Events to Crown them with equal Glory and Success.

Litchfield, Conn., Gallantly Comes to the Rescue of the Albany Committee.

*Litchfield 4th Aug't 1777 6 oClock P. M.

Gentlemen,

Yours of the first Inst. respecting the alarming Situation of our northren affairs never reached us before this moment, and there being no such body of men as the Committee of the County of Litchfield to whom your letter was addressed, Immediatly upon the reception of which we gave our attention to It and have taken the Liberty of treating it as if It had been addressed to us. We are throughly satisfied that the Committee of the County of Albany have ever exerted themselves in the most Vigirous manner for the defence of the liberties of America, and notwithstanding some peculiar Difficulties they have laboured under, from the opposition of the Troy interest, yet thier Resolutions have always been firm and the Prosecution of those resolutions Spirited and effectual. Surely those Gentlemen we shall never be backward in affording every Possible aid in our power for the Relief of the County of Albany our feelings for the Inhabatants of that County are as sinsible and Strong as for any part of the united State. We are not so narrow, Contracted, as not to extend every assistance in our power as well to the inhabitents of a sister state as to those of our own, nor do we imagine that we ourselfs can long be safe whilst Desolation and Conquest overspread your State. Therefore we find ourselves under the Double tie of inclination and Interest to Do everything in Our Power for your Relief, Nor can any prejudice against our Generals (If any Such had taken place in our hearts) ever prevent us from exerting ourselves to the utmost in the defence of So Glorious a Cause. In Short our feelings are Such that we would run every Hazzard & risque every danger for you that we would for ourselves. At the same time we are Sinsible that We stand and fall together; what is your interest is ours. But so it is in this that Committee have nothing to Do in the Military Department. The Governor and Council of Safety are vested with Powers to order the militia into the field. An application therefore to any other Quarter for assistance must from the nature of our Constitution be fruitless, We shuld therefore have forwarded your letter to Govenour Trumbull, had it not been just at that Instant three quarters of our militia were ordered to Peekskill to reinforce our army there, in Consequence of a Requisition of major Genl. Putnam.

New Windsor Aug. 5th 1777.

Sir,

The present state of our publick affairs not permitting me to address you as the Representative of a religious Society, and my private circumstances rendering it impracticable for me to wait in person upon you, give me leave in this manner heartily to congratulate your Excellency on the great honour which the suffrages of your Countrymen have conferred upon you, in calling you to be the first Governour of this free and independant State—a State established upon the basis of Civil and Religious Liberty, and which, I hope, will soon be triumphant over all the Seductive arts and violent measures of our unnatural Brethren, who have Invaded this Continent to establish a System of despotism and tyranny.

Were I to follow the fashionable mode of Congratulatory Addressers, I would send your Excellency a number of high seasoned compliments—celebrating your capacity, your zeal, your courage, your integrity &c. But as I hate flattery, which I know would be very disagreeable to you, as it is to every man of sense, penetration, and dignity of mind, I will only add, that it is the desire of my heart, that your Excellency may be enabled, by the grace of God to fulfill the complicated duties of your high and important Station—promoting a publick reformation of manners both by your authority and example, displaying the Majesty of Justice by the steadiness and impartiality of your Administration, asserting and defending with exemplary wisdom and intrepidity the rights of this injured country against every invasion of arbitrary power, and pursuing through all the stages of publick and private life, such a line of conduct as will abide the trial of the Great God who sets up one and casts another down, and will pass a just and righteous Sentence upon the Rulers of the world as well as others, from which there lies no appeal.

I shall return again with the utmost expedition to the North river; but as a sudden stroke is certainly intended by this manoeuvre, I beg you will immediately call in every man of the militia that you possibly can, to strengthen the Highland posts. The importance of Fort Montgomery is such, that I wish you to repair immediately to it if you possibly can, consistent with the duties of the office upon which you have newly entered.

We are sorry to be under the Necessity of informing you of the disagreeable Situation of our Affairs in this place at present. The Inhabitants in General seem much dejected. Since the Loss of Tyconderoga many of them who formerly seemed warm in the Interest of the Country are now quite cool, or rather inclined to the other side. We believe this change of Sentiment in many of them to be greatly owing to the bad counsel and advice, they daily receive from disaffected Persons who begin to be pretty numerous amongst us. We are unable to take any measures to prevent their spreading Influence, or any thing else for want of a few Troops to support us. A few days ago we issued a warrant to impress a number of waggons to go and relieve those who have been a considerable time in the Service, but the Constables returned without getting one for want of force to put the warrant into execution. Military Resolutions of Congress.

In Congress 6th August 1777.

Resolved,

That Major General Gates inform those States whom he shall apply to for Militia that Congress think it impossible in the present Circumstances of Things to adhere to settle Quotas which ought to be called out from each particular State.

Congress proceeded to the Election of a Deputy Commissary General of Issues for the Northern Department in the Room of Mr. Elisha Avery who has resigned and the Ballots being taken, Mr. James Blicher was elected.

Resolved That in Case Mr. Blicher this Day appointed Deputy Commissary General of Issues for the Northern Department

*As will be seen from his correspondence, Commodore Wynkoop was an aggressive officer. He was reinstated to his command in March, 1777, and retained it until the evacuation of Ticonderoga. October 12, 1777, he took command of the guns at Kingston, and after Vaughan's destruction of the town, Wynkoop was engaged in raising the "Lady Washington" galley. The following May, Gen. Conway ordered him to Coeymans to prepare the sloops and batteaux destined for the defense of the Hudson. July 25, 1781, he was court-martialled for disobedience of orders at Wawarsing. He claimed, in the beginning of 1783, that Congress owed him 356 pounds, 6 shillings and 8 pence. The matter was referred to the State of New York. In 1790, he obtained from the State of New-York, 500 acres in the township of Manlius, 500 acres in the township of Locke, 500 acres in the township of Ovid. In 1787 he commanded the brig "Esopus" plying between Kingston and the West Indies. He died May 4, 1796, aged seventy years.—STATE HISTORIAN.

MAJOR JANSEN APPREHENSIVE.

Notifies the Council of Safety that the Tories of Livingston Manor May Make Trouble.

Manor Livingston 7th Aug't 1777.

Gentlemen,

As our Regiment is ordered to march immediately to Sarogh-toga, by the request and Orders of Brigadier General Abraham Ten Brook, Wee purpose to proceed on the march by to morrow at Ten OClock; but am Sorry to acquaint you that there is still a great many disaffected persons among us, altho' discharged lately by the Act of Grace by taking the Oath of Allegiance to the State &ca. of whom there is some refuses to march. I imagine and have reason to Suspect they may in my Absence take the advantage and distroy my Buildings, and the more as I have in Store 30 Hh'ds of Sugar, & 30 Hh'ds of molasses for the United States, and Expect a number of Teams this day likewise with a missioned Officers from this State for the above Purposes. Since which I have been induced by the Situation of our Affairs to the Northward, in addition to the above Number to order out 500 of the Militia from the Northern Parts of Ulster & Dutchess Counties, 1000 from the County of Albany, 500 from the County of Tryon, to reinforce the Army under Command of Genl. Schuyler & to continue in Service till the 1st of Nov'r next, unless your Excellency shall think proper to dismiss them before. Those from the two former Counties I have Reason to beleive are by this Time on their March, but I have not yet been advised what Success they have experienced in getting the Proportion allotted, for the other Counties I fear not so good as could be wished.

The People in that Quarter consider their Western Frontier equally liable to the Incursions of the Enemy and influenced by this Consideration are loath to Leave their Famillies exposed to join our Army; add to this as the Enemy advance, many of the best of the Inhabitants are employed in moving off their Famillies & Effects. Indeed I have always observed that the Militia of any Part of the Country most in Danger are for the above Reasons least forward in opposing the Enemy some too decline acting with Spirit from unworthy Principles.

Your Excellency's Letter of the 1st Instant Dated at Chester I received in Kingston on Wensday last whereupon I ordered 4 Regiments of Militia to this Post, 3 to join Genl. Putnam at Peek's Kill and one to occupy the Post at the Mouth of the Clove. The last of those ordered here arived yesterday. I learn from Genl. Putnam those designed for him are also arrived at Peeks Kill. All the Remainder of the Militia of the State are under march'g orders. I never knew Militia come out with greater alacrity but as most of them have great Part of their Harvest yet in the Field, I fear it will be difficult to detain them long unless the Enemy make some Movements that indicate a Design of coming this Way suddenly & so obvious as to be so believed by them.

I cant but express my Surprize that no Reinforcements as I have heard have yet arrived to our Northern Army from the Eastward. The want of Confidence in the General Officers to the Northward is the specious Reason to me it appears a very Weak one; the mutilated & distressed Condition of this State, makes our utmost Exertions to oppose the Common Enemy appear but little better than one half of it being out of our Possession. Common Gratitude to a Sister State as well Duty to the Continent at large conspire in calling on our Eastern Neighbours to step forth on this Occasion & more especially as they only are in a Situation Tottally to destroy Genl. Burgoyne's Army by intercepting his Supplies & even cutting off his Retreat to the Lakes.

The Detachment of 810 for this Garrison & Peek's Kill are not yet compleated owing to the Body of the Militia being so suddently called out, but will be effected immediatly on their Return Home till which I will endeavour to detain an Equal Number of them here.

I have not yet received the Resolves of Congress for recruiting the Army alluded to in your Excellency's Letter of the 4th Instant; as soon as they come to Hand I will do every Thing in my Power to render them effectual & forward the Information requested. I am with much Esteem

CLINTON WRITES TO THE COUNCIL OF SAFETY.

He Explains Why He Remained in Command at the Highlands Instead of Proceeding with the Northern Army.

Fort Montgomery Aug't 9 1777.

Gentlemen,

I am honored with your Favor of Aug't 7 inclosing Copies of Letters from General Schuyler* to Congress and your Board.

*Schuyler to Pierre Van Cortlandt: Stillwater, August 4th, 1777.

Sir—I take the liberty to enclose you a copy of a letter of this date, which I have done myself the honour to address to Congress. The Council of Safety will thereby see the alarming situation our affairs are in; and I trust they will continue to adopt such measures as will tend to preserve the State from the ruin with which it is threatened.

Perhaps, if His Excellency the Governor, was to put himself at the head of the militia, they would turn out in great numbers, and afford us such a reinforcement as to enable us to keep our ground; and if the eastern States should also send succours, we should then in all probability be able to ruin General Burgoyne's army; for if he should meet with a repulse, it would be so extremely difficult for him to retreat, that I should hope a very considerable part of his army would be lost.

Schuyler to John Hancock: Stillwater, August 4, 1777.

Sir—By the unanimous advice of all the general officers, I have moved the army to this place. Here we propose to fortify a camp, in expectat'on that reinforcements will enable us to keep the ground, and prevent the enemy from penetrating further. I wish I could say that we had any prospect of such reinforcements. None of the militia from the State of Massachusetts, or this State will remain with me, above five or six days longer, the time of service for which Colo. Long's regiment is engaged expires on the 7th inst. This diminution with what we sustain by desertion, sickness, and in skirmishes with the enemy, will reduce us to an alarming weakness.

What effect my repeated application to the State of Massachusetts will have, I cannot determine, as I have not yet been honoured with an answer. Governor Trumbull informs me that he has requested General Washington to send troops, which he would replace; that he waits His Excellency's answer, and in the mean time has ordered the militia brigadiers to draft and equip the men; but in what numbers, or when I may expect them, he does not advise me of. I am equally uncertain whether I may expect any from this State

It is a melancholy consideration, that whilst our force is daily diminishing, the enemy increases theirs by a continual acquisition of Tories in very considerable numbers.

It is impossible at present to procure a return, but I am very certain we have not above four thousand Continental troops—if men, one third of which are negroes, boys and men too aged for field, or indeed any other service, can with propriety be called troops. If it should be asked how boys, negroes and such aged men came to be sent, I can only answer that the States from whence these troops are come may possibly determine it. The fact is as I have stated it—literally so. And I may add that a very great part of the army took the field in a manner naked, without blankets, ill armed, and very deficient in accoutrements, and still continue so to be without a prospect of relief; and, to add to our misfortunes, many, too many of our officers would be a disgrace to the most contemptible troops that were ever collected; and have so little sense of honour that cashiering seems no punishment. They stood by and suffered the most scandalous depredations to be committed on the poor, distressed, ruined and flying inhabitants. I must not, however, omit saying that we have many officers that would do honour to the best army that ever took the field; but their exertions being counteracted by the worthless, it is impossible for them to do what they wish. Perhaps Congress may think it necessary to invest me with a power in council of general officers to suspend officers for mal-conduct until the pleasure of Congress is known. Should that power be conferred, and I receive it whilst we are still in army, it is possible that we may continue so and get into some order.

General Burgoyne is at Fort Edward. He has withdrawn his troops from Castletown and is bending his whole force this way. He will probably be here in eight days, and unless we are well reinforced, as much farther as he pleases to go.

It would have been equally agreeable to me to have headed the Militia and marched to the Reinforcem't of the Northern army as to have commanded those ordered this way. The Reasons which influenced me to come to this & the adjacent Posts with so large a Proportion of the militia I need not mention; they were contained in Genl. Washington's Letter which I communicated to your House and since repeated them in a Letter addressed to Genl. Schuyler. If that Letter is received Genl. Schuyler must have observed that the greater Part of the Militia of the State are ordered into actual Service either to reinforce his army or to occupy the Posts assigned them by Genl. Washington in this Quarter—and indeed those originally designed for this station were considered as being called out to replace an equal Number of Continental Troops intended for the Reinforcem't of the Northern Army. This being the Case I wish Genl. Schuyler in his Letter to Congress, had made some Discrimination between this State which has used every possible Exertion in its present unhappy Situation & the States of Massachusetts Bay and Connecticut that have hitherto not furnished a Man of their Militia for the Reinforcem't of the Army in either Department, nor scarcely answered the Letters to them requesting the necessary aids. Especially as I am perswaded it is far from Genl. Schuyler's Intention to represent this State in an unfavorable Light.

By Genl. Schuyler's Letter of the 6th Inst., a Copy* of which I

*Schuyler to Governor Clinton: Stillwater, August 6th, 1777.

Dear Sir—General Ten Broeck has ordered out the whole of the militia; but I fear very few will march, and that most of them will behave as the Schohary and Schenectady militia have done. How that is, you will see by the enclosed, which are copies of letters I have this moment received.

The people are desponding. They want to have their spirits roused. Nothing short of your coming up to Albany, with the Senate and House of Representatives will do it; or if they are not yet formed, with the Council of Safety.

We expect the enemy will move soon; and as our strength is daily decreasing, we shall again be obliged to decamp and retreat before them.

If Burgoyne gets to Albany, our State is gone in all its extent; for the people who would not turn out to prevent the enemy from penetrating, will not be able to do it when they are got in.

inclose, he is of Opinion that my attendance at Albany with the Council of Safety will tend to raise the desponding Spirits of the People there; if your Honorable Board sh'd agree in this Sentiment and conceive that I can with Propriety and consistent with the General Safety of the State leave the Command of the Militia in this Quarter I will on the least Intimation with the utmost Chearfulness attend you to Albany and take under my more immediate Command such of the Militia as I can collect in the Northern Parts of the State.

By a Letter from our Delegates in Continental Congress dated the 4th* Inst. I am advised that Congress have ordered Genl. Gates to repair to the Northward and take the Command of the army there, Genl. Schuyler to join the Army under Genl. Washington. The only Reason assigned in Congress for recalling Genl. Schuyler, was his Loss of the Confidence of the Eastern States; now they are gratified, they have no Excuse for not turn'g out & defend'g their Country, and yet if Fears became an officer I should express some of their not behaving better under any Change of Command. We have yet no Accts. of the Enemy since their vessels left the Capes of Delaware; it has been reported that they appeared there a second Time but nothing of this is mentioned in my Letters.

I have only to add that, if the Council should be of Opinion that it is expedient to order the whole or any greater Part of Regiments from the Northern Part of Ulster and Dutchess than are already called out for the Reinforcem't of the Northern army, upon the least Intimation to me thereof I shall issue the necessary Orders. I have the Pleasure to inform the Council that the Militia commanded to these Posts have turned out with the greatest Spirit and Alacrity leaving scarcely a Man behind them although many of their Harvests are yet in the Field.

ALARM ALONG THE FRONTIER.

Depredations of the Tories—Fears for the Safety of the Northern Army Entertained—Militia Refuse to Remain in Service.

Albany Committee Chamber 9th Aug'st 1777.

Hon'd Sir,

We inclose you a Copy of a Letter just now rec'd, from the Committee of Schenectady. You'll perceive by its Contents that a reinforcement is called for in that Quarter. It gives us pain to inform you that it is out of the power of this County to send them any. The depredations committed by the Tories is of the worst of Consequences, as it effectually prevents the Militia from joining the Army pursuant to General Ten Broeck's request. Each part calls for more help, to assist themselves.

A Capt. Mann of the Militia of Schoharry has collected a number of Indians and Tories, declares himself a Friend to King George, and threatens destruction to all who do not lay down their Arms, or take protection from our Enemies. In order to support our Friends in that Quarter a force should be sent, to them; this is needless to attempt, as a reason is already assigned why no force can be had; In yours of the 27th Ult. you desire that every nerve may be exerted. This has been done tho' without the desired Effect. Our Army to the Northward we have already informed you does not appear adequate to repel the force supposed to be coming against them.

Yesterday one Regiment passed through this Town, on their way home, their Times being out; a Bounty of twenty Dollars p man was Offered them to stay four month's longer; it had no effect, The Friends to their Country who have marched from this County begin to grow uneasy, looking upon it that their Families ought to be removed to a place of greater Safety. We fear they will not stay much longer.

The Country to the Northward of this City are chiefly all drove in. Yesterday the Indians killed and Scalped Major Dirck Van Veghten of Schaghticocke not far from his own House, This reported two or three other Inhabitants in that Quarter shared the same Fate.

We have wrote to New England in the most pressing Terms for Aid. None as yet appears, This, Sir, is our present situation which to us does not appear very flattering. It is reported that our Army will soon make Head Quarters at Half Moon.

The People Along the Mohawk Much Disturbed and Appeal for Succor—The Militia Cover themselves with Glory—Brant Reported Killed.

German Flats Committee Chamber 9 Aug't 1777.

To the Chairman of the Committee of Albany and by them to Coll. Van Schaick.

Gentlemen,

Just arrived Capt. [Hans Mark] Demuth and John Adam Helmer, the bearer hereof, with an account that they arrived with some difficulty at Fort Schuyler the sixth day of this Month, being sent there by Order of Gen. Herkemer. Before he set out to the Field of battle, he requested some assistance from the Fort, in order to make an Effort to facilitate our march to the Fort; two hundred and six men were granted. They made a sally, encountered the enemy, killed many, destroyed the Tents of the Enemy and came off Victorious to the Fort. The Commanders desired them to acquaint us and his superiours, that he is wanting assistance and thinks to stand out so long, that timely assistance could come to his relief.

Concerning the battle on our side, all accounts agree that a great Number of the Enemy is killed. The Flower of our Militia either killed or wounded except 150 who stood the Field and forced the enemy to retreat. The wounded are brought off by these brave men; the dead they left on the Field for want of a proper support. We will not take upon us to tell of the behaviour of the rear; so far as we know, they took to flight, the first firing.

General Herkemer is wounded; Coll. Cox seemingly killed, and a great many officers, are among the slain. We are surrounded by Tories a party of 100 of whom is now on their march through the woods. We refer you for further information to the bearer, Major Watts. Of the Enemy is killed Joseph Brandt, William Johnson, several known Tories and a number of Indians. Gentlemen, we pray you will send us succors. By the Death of the most part of our Committee members, the Field Officers, and several being wounded, every thing is out of order, the people Intirely dispirited, our County at Esopus unrepresented, that we cannot hope to stand it any longer without your aid. We will not mention the shocking aspect our Fields do shew, Faithful to our Country we remain

Dear Sir,

Enclosed is a Copy of a Letter received this morning from General Washington*—and extracts of a Letter from Colo. H. R Livingston to his Brother. Mr. Yates has taken Extracts from a Philad'ia paper of the 5th which he read this morning in Council—whereby it appears “that Congress have instituted an Enquiry into the Conduct of Genls. St. Clair, Poor, De Fermoi, and another (if I remember right Patterson)—General Washington to direct proper means for the Enquiry & to appoint such Genl. Officer as he thinks proper to take the Command of the northern Army.” The above appears by sundry Resolutions of Congress published in the above paper. And the newspaper says “we hear that Genl. Gates will be appointed to that Command.”

Aug't 10th.

Genl. De Fermoi is at Kingston on his way to head Quarters. General Schuyler is at Albany—was three days there that he could not be spoken with as report says. We are informed by various Expresses passing thro' this place that Fort Schuyler is beseiged. That about 600 militia passing up to that Fort were attacked, Genl. Herkemer is wounded in the thigh, a Lieut't Colo. Fisher killed*—however the militia put the Indians to Flight. Major Nicholson & sundry other officers are come in here. Genl. De Fermoi has intimated to a Member that they are come away without Leave. Some of them say that Genl. Arnold has resigned; that Genl. Nixen has sent his resignation to Congress; that Colo. Brown from the Eastward has had some difference with Schuyler & is gone home with his Regim't. These officers say they are going to head Quarters. The Express going I can't add—but that I am

AN EXPEDITION AGAINST THE SCHOHARIE TORIES.

A Call to be Issued for the Green Mountain Militia to Reinforce the Northern Army—Captain Mann of the Schoharie Militia a Dangerous Man.

New Windsor 11th Aug't 1777.

Sir,

I am this minute favoured with the Council's Letter of the 8th Instant inclosing the Papers respecting the Militia under the Command of Major Jansen & the Measures taken by the Council in respect to that Corps appear to me perfectly Right & has my fullest Approbation.

I wrote this Morning to Colo. Pawling advising him of the Conduct of Capt. Mann of the Schohary Militia mentioned in the Letter of the Committee of Albany, a Copy which you sent me. I am apprehensive that unless he and his Party are speedily routed they will become formidable & dangerous Neighbours to our Western Frontiers. I therefore proposed to Colo. Pawling in a Letter I addressed to him this Morning the Propriety of embodying a Party of Men out of his Regiment under an Active Officer for this Purpose and directed him to call on your Honorable House for their Advice Assistance on this Occassion, which should they agree with me in Sentiments you will please to afford him.

It is clearly my Opinion that it is esential to the public Safety to have this Business executed with Dispatch and effectually. That Fellow without Doubt acts under the Incouragement & by the Advice of the Enemy; & even tho he should not attempt to commit Hostilities on the Inhabitants of the Western Frontiers, the very deterring of the Militia from marching to the Aid of the Northern Army alone is a capital Misschief, Besides suffering such an Attrocious & open an Offence to pass with Impunity woud in point of Example be extreamply impolitic.

I have not issued any Orders as yet to the Militia of Cumberland, Charlotte or Gloucester Counties, not knowing who commanded in them nor indeed was I anxious about it, as I did not expect much from them; But on Reconsidering Matters I think it prudent to issue my Orders to those Counties not only to make Returns of the present State of the Militia thereof, but to furnish their Quota of Men to join our Northern Army, as I am apprehensive shoud I neglect them on this Occasion, when I am calling out a Proportion of the Militia from every other County in the State in our Possession, it may tend to strenghten them in their Late Revolt & Attempts to set up as an Independant State. And should they not Comply with my Orders in this Critical Hour it will be Circumstance not much in their Favour. I have, therefore, inclosed Orders for that Purpose which I must begg you will please to order one of your Secretary's to direct & forward.

I have no News worth Communicating since I wrote you last. I am with due Respect,

Your Most Obed't Serv't

It may be necessary to use a good deal of Prudence with Respect to the Indians who are with Capt. Man, the Managem't of which I must leave to the Council.

ALBANY IN A STATE OF PANIC.

The Committee Presents a Doleful Condition of Affairs to the Council of Safety—Capture of the City Feared.

Albany Committee Chamber, 11th Aug't 1777.

Sir,

We wrote you* a few Days ago giving you a State of Affairs to the northward as far as they came to our Knowledge; we then informed you that the Prospect was disagreeable; It appears every day more gloomy. Our Apprehensions are not so groundless, as those at a Distance supposes them to be. We are well assured, did our situation present itself in the same point of light to our neighbours as it does to us, some mode would be fallen on for our Relief; being informed that repeated applications were made to the New England States for Aid and seeing that no reinforcement came forward, thought it our indispensable Duty to address the People at large, a Copy† of which we enclose you together with an Answer,‡ from one of their Counties, by which we are informed that their militia are ordered to the Southward. On the Governor & Council of Safety being repeatedly informed of our distressed Situation, we flattered ourselves that some assistance would be sent from the lower Counties of our State, but alas all their Force are ordered to repel an intended Invasion, when a real one is entirely neglected. .

By the enclosed from the German Flatts§ and Mr. Helmer's Account|| you'l be informed that the Troops have done their Duty, and that the Militia have behaved very brave; Genl. Herkeimer merits the greatest Praise; he after having his Thigh broke, sat on a Log with a drawn Sword inspiring his Men, for several Hours; he was repeatedly solicited by his Friends to be carried from the field of Action, which he absolutely refused. We can assure you at the same time, that our warmest Advocates and bravest friends of Tryon County fell in that Skirmish. They are dispirited and call for help. None can be sent from this Quarter. The People from Schoharie have informed us, they will be obliged to lay down their Arms.

The militia that could be collected in this County have been sent to the Army. They have been long in Service and seeing no prospect of Relief intend soon to return, and remove their Families to a place of greater Safety. We are informed that our Army intends to retreat to Half Moon. Should they be obliged to take this Step, the western Communication will be opened to the Enemy. The Appearance of a few of the Enemy's Troops on the Mohawk River would immediately make the Inhabitants lay down their Arms.

Our feelings for the brave men in that Quarter is very great. The Oneida Indians are much distressed for us. They furnish us with several useful Pieces of Intelligence respecting our Western Affairs, & beg us to stand with firmness. Should Albany fall in the hands of the Enemy, the Savages would take an Active part against us. If two hundred can drive in all the Inhabitants of a well settled Country for upwards of fifty Miles, which at present is the Case, how must the Country suffer when perhaps a Thousand or more are necessitated to join ag't us.

Gentlemen may probably think we are panick struck, that the fear of loosing our property is the Cause of our drawing so melancholy a Picture. We have we suppose the feelings of other men on like Occasions, but the Distress which must ensue engrosses a great part of our Attention. We are happy in having it in our Power to declare with Truth that every thing that could be done by us, has been done, and that any Calamities that befalls our Country is owing to no Omission, or want of Duty in us; and since no Troops make their Appearance from any Quarter to our Relief we are Apprehensive that this City will in a short time be in the Possession of the Enemy.

COL. MARINUS WILLETT'S GALLANT SORTIE.

Adam Helmer Makes a Statement—Booty Captured by Our Troops.

Adam Hellmer informs that he was sent to Fort Schuyler by General Herkemer with a Letter to Coll. Gansevort acquainting him of his March to the Relief of the Garrison. That he arrived at the Fort on Wednesday last at one o'Clock, that at two, Coll. Willet turned out with 207 Men and attacked an Encampment of the Enemy about one Mile from the Fort, in Order to facilitate General Herkemer's March to the Fort; that the Engagement lasted about an Hour, and that the Enemy were drove off with great Loss; that the Coll. then ordered the flanking Parties to spread themselves farther out in order to discover whether there were any Enemy near them. Upon their Report that they discovered none, he ordered his Men to take as much of the Baggage as they could, and destroy the rest, which they effectually did, each one carrying with him as much as they could. That in their Way to the Fort just above the Landing, (where the old Fort used to stand) a Party of 200 Regular Troops appeared, preparing to give them Battle; that upon our Troops discovering them, Captain Savage of the Artillery pointed his Field-Piece upon them, and saluted them with Grape Shot. This together with a smart Discharge of Small Arms, and one of the Cannon out of the Fort did great Execution among them, and soon obliged them to scamper off, when our Troops with their Plunder marched to the Fort, where they arrived about 4 o'clock, with the same Number they left the Garrison, not one Man being killed or wounded; that they took one Regular Capt'n and four privates Prisoners, that among the Plunder they took was one Scarlet Coat, trimmed with Gold Lace, three laced Hatts, a good Deal of Money in Specie and paper; that the Enemy's Force amounted to twelve hundred consisting of Regulars, Tories and Indians before the Engagement of Genl. Herkemer and Coll. Willet, but thinks they have lost a great many; that the Cannon the Enemy have with them are two Six Pounders, two Three's and four Cohorns, that they are busy erecting two Batteries, one to the North-East, and the other to the North West of the Fort; that he heard the Officers say that the Plunder taken by our Troops that Day at a reasonable Computation amounted at least to £1000; that he left the Fort on Thursday Night last, that next Morning he often heard the Report of Cannon; that our Troops also found in the Enemy's Encampment a Number of Letters (which had fallen into their Hands) directed to the Officers in the Fort but not one had been opened.

THE PLAN TO DESTROY MAN, THE TORY.

Governor Clinton Explains Why He Cannot Afford to Spare Troops from the Highlands.

New Windsor 12th Aug't 1777.

D'r Sir,

On the Receipt of a Letter yesterday Morning from Genl. Scott, inclosing a copy of a letter to your Honorable Board from the Committee of Albany containing the same Information respecting Capt. Man of Schohary mentioned in your Letter of the 11th Instant just now delivered me, I immediatly wrote to Coll. Pawling on that Subject, pointing out the Propriety of destroying Man & his Party by a sudden Exertion with a Detachment of the Militia under an active Officer and desiring him if he thought it practicable to set about it & in that Case directed him to call upon the Council for their Advice & Aid. This Morning I addressed a Letter to your Honorable Board on the same Subject By which you will observe my Sentiments coincide exactly with the Council's on this Occassion.

I dare not however at present Venture to take any of the Continental Troops from the Garrison in the Highlands for this Business. The Designs of the Enemy under Genl. Howe are yet uncertain, the Garrison not over strong, & should any unlucky Accident happen in that Quarter in the Absence of such Troops as might be drawn from thence for this Expedition, I should be greatly & perhaps deservedly censured, If Militia are to be employed they can be much easier & more expeditiously had in the neighbourhood of Kingston & Marble Town than by marching them up from the Fort. Major Pawling was charged with my Letter to the Council on this Subject who left my House this Morning for Kingston. I mentioned this Scheme to him & he expressed a strong Desire to Command the Party to which I consented provided a Party proper for him to Command should be ordered out on this Occasion. I know him to be possessed of Prudence as well as Spirit.

I am with much Esteem

Your Most Obed't Serv't,

DOUBT, UNEASINESS AND UNCERTAINTY.

Council of Safety Deplores the Melancholy Situation of the Northern Army.

In Council of Safety for the State of New York,

Kingston, August 12th 1777

Ante Meridiem.

Sir,

The Council were honoured with your Excellency's Favour of the ninth instant*—and are extremely sorry to find by the Letter enclosed, the melancholy situation of the northern Army and the probability of their relinquishing still more of the Country to the Enemy, and this too when the Efforts of our State must necessarily be weakened by an Attention to the passes in the Highlands & the Security of Hudson's River.

The Council believe with General Schuyler, that your Excellency's Presence would serve to animate the northern militia, but know not how far your quitting the important Post you now Occupy would be consistant with its security, of which they conceive that you, Sir, are the only proper Judge; as your Excellency has fuller Information than this Council can receive, they doubt not but that you will take such measures as you conceive best calculated to promote the general Interest, in which as far as their Concurrence is necessary, they will chearfully co-operate.

It [is] with pleasure the Council Learn from your Excellency, that the militia called in to the posts in the Highlands have shewn so much readiness & alacrity. They are extremely sorry to inform your Excellency that the Officers have been negligent of their Duty in the upper part of Dutchess County, and that no drafts have as yet been sent from that Quarter, notwithstanding the present necessity that there is for the immediate march of the militia to the Northward, and, as the Council are informed, some Regiments have not yet even proceeded to draft their men.

I am with the highest Respect and Esteem,

THE CRISIS IN NEW YORK STATE APPROACHING.

The Council of Safety Panic Stricken—The State Bearing the Weight of the War.

In Council of Safety for the State of New York

Kingston—August 12th 1777. 6 O'Clock P. M.

Sir,

By the enclosed Letters your Excellency will learn the distressed Situation of the northern part of this State; unless it is shortly supported it must inevitably fall into the Hands of the Enemy. The well affected of Albany County are fully employed in suppressing the Insurrections of the disaffected, so that little can be expected from them unless the Tories are overawed by the appearance of immediate Force. No militia have come in from the Eastward nor have we yet learned that any are like to come.

Colo. Wynkoop who is just arrived from Albany assures us that our whole Force at Stillwater consists of about four Thousand effective men, and those much dispirited. The Bravery of the militia of Tryon County must soon be of little avail, since the Enemy can reinforce their Western Army from Saratoga, while ours are left without the least hope of Assistance. In this situation, Sir, nothing but [our] own Exertions and the divine Favour can extricate us; let us strain every Nerve; and if our Neighbours, if the grand Army, if the whole Continent determine that our little mutilated State shall bear the weight of the American War, let us acquiesce in their Determination, and let us brave the Danger which they will not enable us to repel. You, Sir, will judge of the Necessity of collecting our whole Force to a point in that quarter in which it shall appear to be most necessary.

(We would suggest to your Excellency the necessity of sending the enclosed Letters to head Quarters, with as much of this as you think expedient, with all possible Expedition.) It would be very advantageous to have some southern Troops, acquainted with the Indian mode of fighting, sent to the Northward to rouse the Spirits of our army there, who Shudder at the very appearance of Indians and hardly dare to Stir out of their Camp.

I have the Honor to be with great Esteem

Kingston 13th August 1777.

Sir,

We inclose your Excellency a Copy of a Letter from the Manor of Livingston by which it appears that the Militia will not March to the Northward. It is necessary that some effectual means be used to compel them to go.

We could wish that only a part of them had been ordered out as a great majority of the men are disaffected and disarmed nor can they safely be trusted with Arms; but how far it would be proper to make any Alteration in the Order, your Excellency will Judge. We also inclose a Resolution by which it will appear that we have done all in our power to strengthen the executive power.

Dear Robt.

The Manor Militia has been twice assembled to endeavour to get them to go up to Still Water, but it seems it is impossible to get any of them to go. They say that the Oath which they have taken to the state is not any longer binding, Cooper is the Chief Man among them again and I believe it would not be amiss to take him up, and send him on board of the Ship, as I believe a few Examples would work a great Alteration in them. I wish you would send a Company to make the Drafts, or indeed the whole Militia turn out, and if any refused to take them Prisoners immediately. I will write to Smith to take up Cooper and send him to you, and several others who refuse to go up. These People want nothing but Good Officers to make them do their Duty I am convinced.

False Rumors of Another Engagement at Fort Schuyler.

Kingston past 2 O'Clock P. M. August 13th '77.

Dear Sir,

The Council were this morning informed that one Christian Fiero had received Intelligence from Tryon County—on being sent for and examined he says: that a certain Du Bois who left Albany last Evening informed him that a post or messenger from Fort Schuyler arrived at Albany yesterday Evening and reported that there had been a second Engagement at that Fort. That the American Troops there had been successful, and had killed a great Number of Indians and Tories, and some regular or British Troops, and beat them with a greater Slaughter of the Enemy than any in this State during the Contest. That between the second Battle and the first Our Troops there, had made an Intrenchment round the Fort.

That the said Post or Messenger at Albany farther reported, that every road from Schoharie is obstructed and filled up by the Tories there.

That Colo. John Harper had escaped from thence— and that Colo. Vrooman with about 25 whigs who joined him, had fortified themselves in a House there.

The loose way in which the above Intelligence is obtained vizt. at 2d or 3d hand is in my opinion the reason it is not forwarded to you by the Council.

Tho I most anxiously wish it was in my Power to reinforce our Northern Army and give Succor to the brave and much distressed Inhabitants of Tryon County, yet I cannot be induced to think that it would be prudent to draw the Militia from so far down as this to the Northward, until the Designs of the Enemy's Southern Army can be more fully ascertained which from any Acct, I have yet received, are as likely to be ag't this Quarter as any other, but as I shall shortly have an Opportunity of personally conferring with the Council and have their advice & Opinion more fully upon the Subject such measures will be adopted as may appear upon the whole to be most conducive to the Safety of this unhappy State and for effectually opposing the Progress of the Enemy.

Governor Clinton Reports to Gen. Putnam Relative to the Situation in the North and West and Requests Reinforcements—Putnam's Answer.

New Windsor 14th Aug't 1777.

Dear Sir,

I left the Fort on Sunday last in order to be enabled to transact some public Business where I could be a little more retired, and thought to have returned there before this; But on Receipt of Letters yesterday giving a Mellancholly Account of the State of our public Affairs to the Northward & Westward, a copy of those respecting the latter I inclose you, I am induced to go that way in hopes of being able more effectually to rouse the Spirits of the Militia & thereby give every little Aid in the Power of this Distressed & mutilated State to oppose the further Progress of the Enemy.

Shoud the Enemy advance to Saraghtoga as I have great reason to believe they speedilly will, they can from thence reinforce their Army to the Westward and insure the Reduction of Fort Schuyler now besieged by them & with the whole County of Tryon & Western Country. The Militia of Tryon behaved nobly as you will observe by the inclosed Accounts, but tho' Victorious, they have losst their bravest Officers which has much dispirited them. They were at most but few in Number, and unless they are soon supported by Succours little more can be expected of them. From the Northern Army already too weak they cannot expect any Militia were they to be had without some Continental Troops with them woud not Answer the End. Cant you then, my D'r Sir, under these pressing Circumstances venture to Spare either Livingston's or Cortland's small Regiments for this Service from your Divission to which I woud add some Militia & by this Means hope to save that post & Country. I am morally sure it woud effectually do it. You know, Sir, I have ordered out 810 Militia to the Garrisons and Peek's Kill instead of five; the Difference is more than one or other of those Regiments & will not this Justify your parting with one of them for this very necessary Service. Pray let Me have your Answer this Evening as I shall set out for Kingston early in the Morning & if a Regiment can be spared no Time shoud be losst in forwarding them to Albany.

Sir,

Your favor of the 27th Ultimo* came to hand yesterday. The Council are extreemly sorry to find that there is still so much

* This communication from Pierre Van Cortlandt, president of the Council to Governor Trumbull, reads as follows:

Sir—The Council of Safety has directed me to transmit to your Excellency the enclosed extracts of a letter from Major-General Schuyler.

The condition of the northern department has become alarming and critical. The evacuation of Ticonderoga was a very unexpected event, and has been attended with an unhappy influence on our affairs.

The people are disgusted, disappointed and alarmed.

The council are constrained to observe that it is not in their power to afford General Schuyler much aid. Five counties of this State are in the possession of the enemy; three Occasion for further Reinforcements to the Northern Army: And they are the more anxiously concerned, as great Disgust against some of the Officers commanding in that Department, has taken possession of the minds of many who must be called upon for that Service.

On the 24th Ulto. we ordered one Sixth part of Seven Regiments in the Counties of Worcester & Middlesex, to reinforce Colo. Warner at Manchester some of whom, we expect are now on the Ground and the rest near it.

The General Assembly of this State will meet to morrow, and your Request, with the Extracts from Genl. Schuyler's Letter will be laid before them.

others are disunited by malcontents who meditate a revolt, and are attempting to avail themselves of the present troubles, to advance their interested purposes, inasmuch that all order of government has ceased among them. Of the remaining six counties, a third part of the militia of three of them, namely: Orange, Ulster and Dutchess, has been in actual service ever since Maylast, and are yet in the field. Westchester has been so harassed by the incursions of the enemy from New York, that during the last winter and almost ever since, their militia have been obliged to provide for their own defence. A third part of the county of Tryon are ordered to embody without delay; and a considerable proportion of Albany are already marched or marching to the field; add to this the number of inhabitants constantly employed on the communications in transportations, &c. and the still greater number who tempted by prospects of ease or profit have quitted this invaded State, and sought inglorious ease among our more peaceful neighbours, and your Excellency will perceive how greatly our strength is exhausted. Heaven has blessed us with a plentiful harvest, and it deserves consideration that other States besides this will be affected by the loss of it.

It is unnecessary to observe to your Excellency that the destruction of this State will bring the horrors of war to the doors of many who now seem idle spectators of it.

We hope the State of Massachusetts Bay will on this occasion exert herself in a manner becoming the character she has hitherto sustained, in the scale of American importance, and that New York will not be left unsupported in this day of trial.—From the Journal of the Council of Safety.

State of New Hampshire. In Committee of Safety Exeter

Aug't 5th 1777.

Sir,

I had the Honour of receiving your's of the 27th Ultimo this Day by Express; and agree with you that the Loss of Ticonderoga in the manner it was left, has occasioned great Difficulty and Perplexity in our Affairs; it has occasioned the Loss of all Confidence among the People in these Parts in the General Officers of that Department. About Ten Days past orders went out for one quarter part of the militia of twelve Regiments in this State (the whole consisting of eighteen Regiments only) under the command of Brigadier Genl. Stark, to march into your State and join Colo. Warner in protecting the People there, oppose the Progress of the Enemy and act as Occasion may require. I was informed this Day by a Letter from General Stark that he had sent off from No. 4*—700 men to join Colo. Warner at Manchester, and that he should follow them the next Day (which was last Sunday) with 300 more & had ordered the remainder to follow him as fast as they came in to No. 4—his whole Brigade will be together in a very few Days & will consist of at least 1500. Half the remaining Six Regim'ts of militia are drafted, equipped & stand ready at a minutes Warning to march to any part of the Sea Coast of N. REPORT OF JAY AND MORRIS.

Serious Situation in New York—Danger to the State Unless Reinforcements Are Promptly Sent to Gen. Schuyler.

To the Hon'ble the Representatives of the United States of America in Genl. Congress convened.

The Memorial of John Jay & Gouverneur Morris* most humbly Sheweth.

That the Council of Safety of the State of New York did on the 28th day of July last direct your memorialists "to repair to Head quarters & Confer with his Excellency Genl. Washington about the State of the northern Army, the means of reinforcing it, & all such other matters as might respect the Defence of that State, and to represent to his Excellency the necessity of providing Garrisons for the Forts in the Highlands as the Terms for which the Militia then stationed there were engaged would soon expire."

That your memorialists have represented to his Excellency Genl. Washington that the northern Army was far inferior in numbers to that of the Enemy, & unable effectually to oppose their further Incursions. That the late Behavior of the militia required to reinforce the army, afforded but little Reason to expect important Succor from them. That one third part of all the militia of the State of New York between the County of Albany & the District possessed by Genl. Howe, had been in actual Service ever since the month of March last, & that the remainder were held in constant Readiness, to march to the Defence of Hudson's River, where it was expected that the Enemy after their Retreat from Jersey would bend the whole force of their Southern Army. That for these Reasons Genl. Schuyler could obtain no aid from thence. That the Western parts of the State of New York were threatned with an Invasion by the way of Oswego, and that to oppose it, the Council had ordered two hundred Rangers to be raised in the County of Tryon, and one third part of the militia to be embodied. That from the Counties of Gloucester, Cumberland & Charlotte the Council promised themselves little; many of the Inhabitants having been prevailed upon to revolt from the State of New York; and as your Memorialists have been informed a considerable number have already submitted to and joined the Enemy. That the Northern Army could not therefore rely on any Reinforcements from the Militia of the State of New York except that of the County of Albany, of which about One thousand were with Genl. Schuyler.

That the northern & Western Parts of the State abound in Corn and Cattle, & that the Inhabitants spread thro' a great extent of Country, & being feebly supported, are dissatisfied and have informed the Council of Safety, that without timely assistance the Enemy may without Difficulty possess themselves of that Country, & thereby obtain ample Supplies, of Provisions Horses Carriages & other essential Articles.

That should such an Event take place, the Six nations of Indians would be greatly in the Power of the Enemy and might probably be prevailed upon to join them. That the Disaffected & men of equivocal Character would embrace that Opportunity of testifying their Zeal against the American Cause by acts of outrage and violence; and that from all these Sources the Enemy would daily derive great accessions of Strength. Wherefore, your memorialists requested of his Excellency Genl. Washington that a further Reinforcement might be sent from his army to that under Genl. Schuyler, and that Garrisons for the Forts in the Highlands might be otherwise provided than from the militia of the State of New York who were uneasy at being so frequently & so long called from their Habitations.

That his Excellency assured your memorialists no more Troops than the two Brigades he had already ordered to the Northward could with propriety be spared from his Army and that the necessity of Drafts from the Militia to garrison those Forts still existed. That of this your Memorialists do not entertain the least Doubt, being well persuaded that General Washington would most readily afford the northern Army & the State of New York all the Aid & Relief in his Power.

Your Memorialists therefore, deeply impressed, with the Importance of the State of New York to the Common Cause & the imminent Danger there is of losing it, beg leave to Address your Hon'ble House on this interesting Subject:

They humbly presume to suggest that the strenuous & unre-mitted Exertions of that State, exclusive of more general & extensive Considerations call loudly & justly for the friendly Support & assistance of her Sister States, and that it would neither be right or politic to leave its Inhabitants to the Fury of a Savage & Inhuman Enemy whom they had irritated and incensed by their Efforts to preserve the Liberty & Independence of all the United States.

Your Memorialists beg leave further to hint that should a considerable Corps of Militia from the States of Maryland, Pensilvania & New Jersey be immediately formed and ordered to join Genl. Washington's Army, it might perhaps become safe to order a Division of continental Troops and a Regiment of Rifle men to the Northward, without which your Memorialists are apprehensive that the State of New York will be in the possession of the Enemy.

Note. The Memorialists left Philadelphia & set out for Kingston before an answer could be obtained to their Memorial.

Abr'm Livingston Asks George Clinton for a Certificate of Character.

Boston 20 August 1777.

D'r Sir,

A few days since I had the agreeable intilgence that my Countrymen had made choice of a Governor, which I assure you was very pleasing, more especially as that Command has devolved on a Person for whom I have so great an Esteem. Since I had the pleasure of seeing you at New Windsor I have been almost continually in the Eastern States transacting Bussiness for the Continent; but the peculiar disposition of the People in this Quarter has rendered my situation so disagreeable that I cannot with satisfaction continue among them. This being the case I have repeatedly wrote to Phil'ia to be recalled, but I have not as yet that pleasure. I am however constrained to say that it is not all the riches of India that woud induce me to transact Bussiness under the Government I now am. I have, therefore, made a settlement of my Public transaction and concluded to make the best of my Way to Charles Town, South Carolina, to endeavour, if by my industry, I can procure what the present Calamities hath deprived me of, ie. an Honest & Honourable Support. To this end I have thrown my little capital into that Channel of Trade and purpose soon to be at Kington in my Way thither. I find by some Gentlemen lately from Carolina that I woud be essentially benifited in my concerns, if I were possessed of Credentials from the Government to which I belong, certifying my attachment to the Cause of America; Altho this in some places will hardiy be doubted, Yet the Legislature of South Carolina thought necessary to take such measures to prevent a multitude of people daily crouding upon them, many of whom are totally unknown & some suspected Characters, as then it seems to be their determination to admitt no person to come among them for the purpose of Trade without proper Certificates. I woud not wish for a discrimination in my favour especially from a people by whom I may with propriety be counted a Pilgrim.

For these reasons Permitt me to request you to do me the favour to certify my intention of going to Carolina & what you know of my Public Character, wether it borders on Wigism or the reverse. I am induced to make this application in the manner I do, because it is probable I shall not have the happiness to see you at Kingston. A personal application woud afford me more satisfaction but as my seeing you will be quite uncertain I must beg you to be good enough to have the Certificate inclosed in a Cover, directed to be left at my fathers at Hurly. Knowing as I do your chearfull disposition to assist any person when you have it in your power I shall not make any Apology for this trouble.

That in your elevated station you may enjoy every felicity you wish yourself, & that the Blessings [of] Heaven & of future Generations may rest on you and yours is the Ardent Wish of Your most Obedient

Hum'e Servant

Abr'm Livingston.

His Excellency Geo. Clinton.

Schohary, Fort Defyance Aug't 20th 1777.

Sir,

We have no doubt before this time you have heard of our alerming and distressed condition and though we have long foreseen the Storm & have made repeated Application for reliefe, we have received nothing in return but false Eppistles, neglect and contempt, and we can assure you that it is the General opinion & speech of the people, that the State is betrayed, which appears to evident; we ware incurraged with the hopes of Troops coming to our assistance in consequence of the application made to the Council by Mr. Wills, but have been inform'd that the Troops ordered for that purpose were sent another way. We have since repeatedly applied to the Committee of Albany, whose duty we thought it to exert themselves in our favour, but have been mock'd with inconsistent letters, requesting us to defend ourselves at a time when almost all the Neighbouring Settlements and the greater part of our own Inhabitants ware actually in arms against us; and notwithstanding our repeated applications, we have not received one man to our assistance except a small party of the light Horse, Which Col. Harper procured at the risk of his life, and six French Men rais'd at his own expence, and they ware allowed to continue for so short a time that they could not be of any permanent service; and now one half of this valuable settlement lyes in ruin & dselution, our Houses plundered, our Cattle destroyd & our well affected Inhabitants taken prisoners and sworn not to discover the Enemy's plots or proceedings, nor to take up arms against the King of Great Britain or his adherents, and the Indians & Tories are now lying lurking in the Woods waiting for another reinforcement; all our people on whome we can relye with their Family's in Garison, and our whole Harvest (the best in the memory of Man) lyeing rotting in the Fields, and we see nothing but utter distruction before us, except your Honorable Council procure us immediate reliefe, Sir, we need not innumerate any more of our grievances, but refer you to the Bearer, Mr. Wm. Harper, who came to our assistance, the 11th Inst. & has continued to exert himself with us ever since, who can inform you more particularly of the whole of our affairs then we can write.

We remain, Sir, yours & the Council of Safety, Sincere
And most obedient hum'e Serv'ts.

BAUME'S DEFEAT AT BENNINGTON.

George Clinton's Report of John Stark's Victory—Casualties and Trophies—Morgan's Riflemen Expected.

Albany Aug't 22d 1777.

Sir,

I arrived here the 19th Instant and should have wrote you sooner if I had not been informed that the Committee of this County had transmitted you every Intelligence worthy of attention.

The Battle of Bennington* was much more decisive than the first accounts make it. The Enemy came out 1300 strong and being quickly routed by the warm and constant Fire of our Men were reinforced by 1500 more; the Militia charged them with redoubled Fury and upon receiving the first or second Fire the Enemy beat a Parley. This our People unfortunately did

* Burgoyne's account of the Battle of Bennington, taken from his order book, of date August 26th, 1777, is as follows:

"The Lieut. General having received the report from Lt. Col. Breymann, relative to the affair at Saintwick Mills, and also having obtained every collateral information possible, thinks it justice to declare publicly, that he has no reason to be dissatisfied with the personal Spirit of the Officers and Troops in the Action; that on the contrary the Officers who command the different Corps acted with intrepidity.

"The failure of the Enterprize seems in the first Instant to have been owing to the Credulity of those who managed the Department of intelligence, suffered great numbers of the Rebel Soldiers to pass and repass, and perhaps count the numbers of the Detachment, and upon ill-founded confidence induced Lieut. Co. Baume to advance too far to have a secure retreat. The next cause was the slow movement of Lieut. Col. Breymann's Corps, which from bad weather, bad Roads, tired horses and other impediments stated by Lieut. Colo. Breymann, could not reach 24 miles from eight in the morning of the 15th to four in the afternoon of the 16th. The Succour therefore arrived too late. The failure of Ammunition, in the management of which there appears to have been improvidence, was another misfortune. The rest seem common Accidents of War. Upon the whole the Enemy have severely felt their little success, and there is no circumstance to affect the Army with further regret or melancholly, than that which arises from the loss of some gallant men. But let the Affair of the Mill at Saintwick remain henceforward as a lesson against the impositions of a treacherous enemy, many of whom in the very hour of swearing allegiance to the King, fought against his Troops, and against expending Ammunition too fast, by which conquering Troops were obliged to retire with loss. The Reflection upon this Affair will moreover excite Alertness and Exertion in every Corps marching for the support of another, by shewing in whatever degree those qualities may be possessed by the Commanding Officer (and they are not doubted in the present instance), yet unless they are general, common accidents may become fatal, and the loss of two hours may decide the turn of an enterprize, and it might happen in some cases, the fate of a Campaign."

not understand, but pressed upon them & obliged them to fly, pursuing them with a brisk Fire for many Miles. Had it not been for this Mistake the whole who certainly composed near one half of their main army must have infallibly fallen into our Hands and proved a decisive victory.

The Number taken was 669, of which about 100 were wounded and 32 were commissioned Officers; 222 killed and great Reason to believe there are many as (our) People are continually picking them up for the Extent of five or six Miles in the Rout they were pursued.

The Artillery & Arms taken are as follows

900 Swords for the Dragoons;

Upwards of 1000 stand of arms;

one 12, two 9, and one 4 Brass Field Pieces;

Our Loss was between 20 & 30 killed & not exceeding 50 wounded.

I inclose you a Copy of Genl. Burgoyne's Instructions* to Lieut.

* Not found in Clinton papers. Taken from the Journal of Lieut. James M. Hadden, Royal Artillery.

Copy of Gen'l Burgoyne's private instructions to Lt. Col. Baume. "Instructions for Lieut. Col. Baume.

The object of your expedition is, to try the affection of the Country; to disconcert the councils of the Enemy, to mount the Reidesills Dragoons, to compleat Peter's Corps and obtain large supplies of Cattle, Horses & Carriages.

The several Corps of which the enclosed is a list, are to form your Command. The Troops must take no Tents and what little Baggage is carried by officers must be on their own Bat-horses. You are to proceed from Batten Kill to Arlington, and take post there 'till the Detachment of Provincials under the command of Capt. Sherwood shall join you from the Southward. You are then to proceed to Manchester, where you will again take post, so as to secure the pass of the Mountains on the Road from Manchester to Rockingham; from hence you will detach the Indians and light Troops to the Northward toward Otter Creek. On their return and receiving intelligence that no Enemy is upon the Connecticut River, you will proceed by the Road over the mountains to Rockingham, where you will take post. This will be the most distant part of the expedition, and must be proceeded upon with caution, as you will have the defile of the Mountains behind you, which might make a retreat difficult. You must therefore endeavour to be informed of the force of the Enemies Militia in the neighbouring Country; should you find it may with prudence be effected, you are to remain there while the Indians & Light Troops are detached up the River; and you are afterwards to descend the River to Brattleborough and from that place by the quickest march you are to return by the great road to Albany. During your whole progress your detachments are to have orders to bring in to you all horses fit to mount the Dragoons under your command, or to serve as bat-horses; for the Troops, together with as many Saddles and bridles as can be found. The number of Horses requisite besides those necessary for mounting the Regiment of Dragoons ought to be Thirteen Hundred. If you can bring more for the use of the Army it will be so much the better. Your Parties are likewise to bring in Waggons and other convenient carriages, with as many draft Oxen as will be necessary to draw them, and all Cattle fit for slaughter, milch Cows excepted, which are to be left for the use of the Inhabitants. Regular receipts in the form hereto subjoined, are to be given in all places where any of the above mentioned articles are taken, to such persons as have remain'd in their habitations and otherwise complied with the Terms of (Gen'l Burgoyne's) ye manifesto. But no receipt is to be given to such as are known to be acting in the service of the Rebels. As you will have with you persons perfectly acquainted with the Country, it may perhaps be advisable to tax the several districts with their proportions of the several articles, and limit the hours of delivery; and shou'd you find it necessary to move before such delivery can be made, hostages of the most respectable People shou'd be taken to secure their following next day. All possible means to be used to prevent plundering. As it is probable that Capt. Sherwood who is already detached to the Southward, and will join you at Arlington, will drive a considerable quantity of Cattle and Horses to you; you will therefore send in those cattle to the Army, with a proper detachment from Peters Corps to cover them, in order to disincumber yourself, but you must always keep the Regiment of Dragoons compact. The Dragoons themselves must ride and take care of the Horses of the Regiment. Those Horses which are destined for the use of the Army must be tied together by strings of Ten each in order that one Man may lead Ten Horses. You will give the unarmed Men of Peters Corps, to conduct them, and the Inhabitants whom you can trust. You must always take your Camps in a good Position, but at the same time where there is good pasture; and you must have a chain of Centinels around your Cattle when grazing.

Col'l Skeene will be with you as much as possible in order to assist you with his advice to help you to distinguish the good Subjects from the bad, to procure the best intelligence of the Enemy, and choose those people who are to bring me the accounts of your progress and success.

When you find it necessary to halt for a day or two, you must always entrench the Camp of the Regiment of Dragoons, in order never to risque an attack or affront from the Enemy. As you will return with the Regiment of Dragoons mounted, you must always have a detachment of Capt. Frazers or Peter's Corps in front of the Regiment of Dragoons, in order to prevent your falling into an ambuscade when you march thro. the woods. You will use all possible means to make the Country believe that the Troops under your command are the advanced Corps of the Army, and that it is intended to pass to Connecticut on the Road to Boston. You will likewise insinuate that the main Army from Albany is to be joined at Springfield by a Corps of Troops from Rhode Island.

It is highly probable that the Corps under Mr. Warner, now supposed to be at Manchester will retreat before you; but should they contrary to expectation be able to collect in great force, and post themselves advantageously it is left to your discretion to attack them or not, always bearing in mind that your Corps is too valuable, to let any considerable loss be hazarded on the occasion. Should any Corps be moved from Mr. Arnold's main Army in order to interrupt your Retreat, you are to take as strong a Post as the Country will afford and send the quickest intelligence to me, and you may depend on my making such movements as shall put the Enemy between two fires, or otherwise effectually sustain you.

It is imagined the progress of this expedition may be executed in about a fortnight: but every movement of it must depend on your success in obtaining such supplies of Provisions as will enable you to subsist for your return to this Army in case you can get no more; and should not the Army be able to reach Albany before your expedition shou'd be completed, I will find means to send you notice of it, and give your Route another direction.

All persons acting in Committees, or any Officers under the direction of the Congress, either civil or Military, are to be made Prisoners.

I heartily wish you success, and have the honor to be, Sir

Your most obed't humble Serv't

John Burgoyne, Lieut't Gen'l.

†Bat, in French, signifies pack saddle, and Bat-Horses, or Baw-Horses, are baggage horses belonging to the officers when on actual duty.

Bat-Men, or Baw-Men, were originally servants hired in war time to take care of the horses belonging to the train of artillery, bakery, baggage, etc., and they generally wore the king's livery during their service. Men who were excused from regimental duty, for the specific purpose of attending to the horses belonging to their officers, were called Bat-Men.

Colo. Baum who commanded the first Party and died of the Wounds he received in the action which you are at Liberty to publish if you think it will answer any valuable End.*

I think it is not probable from those Instructions, that Genl. Howe means to carry his Operations to the Eastward as Genl. Burgoyne wished to have the People made to believe that that was to be the Case.

* From the Diary of Lieutenant William Digby of the 53d or Shropshire Regiment of Foot. (July) 30th. We moved on farther to a rising ground about a mile south of Fort Edward, and encamped on a beautiful situation from whence you saw the most romantic prospect of the Hudson's river; intersperced with many small islands, and the encampment of the line about 2 miles in our rear. There is a fine plain about the Fort, which appeared doubly pleasing to us, who were so long before buried in woods. On the whole, the country thereabout wore a very different appearance from any we had seen since our leaving Canada, and from that Fort to Albany, about 46 miles, the land improves much, and no doubt in a little time will be thickly settled. The enemy were then encamped about 4 miles from us; but it was not thought they intended to make a stand. At this time a letter appeared addressed to General Burgoyne, I believe found nailed to a tree. There was no name signed, yet it was thought—(how true heaven only knows)—to be wrote by brigadier general Arnold, who opposed our fleet the preceding year on Lake Champlain, and was then second in command under General Gates. He first tells him, not to be too much elated on his rapid progress, as all he had as yet gained was an uncultivated desert, and concluded his letter by desiring him to beware of crossing the Hudson's river, making use of that memorable saying, "Thus far shalt thou go and no farther." We heard by some intelligence from the enemy's camp, that Genls. St. Clair & Schyler were ordered before a committee of their congress, to account for their reasons of evacuating Ticonderoga. As yet, the fickle Goddess Fortune had smiled upon our arms, and crowned our wishes with every kind of success, which might easily be seen from the great spirits the Army in general were in; and the most sanguine hopes of conquest, victory &c. &c. were formed of crowning the campaign with, from the general down to the private soldier; but alas! this life is a constant rotation of changes; and the man, who forms the smallest hopes, has generally the greatest chance of happiness. In the evening, our Indians had a skirmish with an advance party of the enemy. It was a heavy fire for about half an hour, when the latter fled with loss. During our stay there, many of the country people came to us for protection. Those are stilyed by the enemy torys, and greatly persecuted if taken after fighting against them.

August 9th. We moved on to Fort Miller† 9 miles nearer Albany, and which the enemy evacuated some days before. What I could see and learn is, that few of the forts situated on the Hudson River in that part, are proof against cannon; they being built during the last war in order to defend stores and ammunition from the inroads of the Indians, who frequently came down in large numbers, plundering and scalping our first settlers residing contiguous to that river, and were full sufficient to withstand any attack made with small arms. I then heard the very disagreeable news of our regiment (53d) being ordered back to garrison Ticonderoga and Fort George. I was much concerned at it, as in all probability I should not see them again during the war, which must be attended with many inconveniences; but as it was their tour of duty, there was no putting it over tho ever so disagreeable, which it certainly was to every officer in the regiment. We had many sick at this time of fevers & agues so common to the climate. Cap. Wight, to whose company I belonged, was so ill as not to be able to go

† This was one of the forts which was noted during the old French wars, and witnessed the achievements of the troops of Sir William Johnson and Baron Dieskau. The place is frequently denominated in writings relating to the campaign of Burgoyne as Duer's House, from the fact that the house of Judge Duer stood near it, and was occupied by Burgoyne as his head-quarters.

To the Southward or up Hudson's River, therefore, and the latter I think most probable, must be his Object if he has any.

I have applied to Genl. Gates for the Cannon brought down from Fort George which are useless where they now are for our Shipping and Fortresses in the Highlands; he has promised to send them to me without Delay that I may dispose of them on with us, and many other officers were seized with those disorders, as the heats then were very severe and violent, particularly in a camp. All sorts of meat were tainted in a very short time, and the stench very prejudicial, and cleanliness about our camp was a great consideration towards the health of the army. I there received a letter from an officer of ours, who had been wounded at Hubberton, 7th July, in which he informed me that before they were removed to Ticonderoga, the wolves came down in numbers from the mountains to devour the dead, and even some that were in a kind of manner buried, they tore out of the earth; the great stench thro the country being the cause of their coming down, and was enough to have caused a plague.

13th. We moved 3 miles and encamped at a post called Batten Kill, a strong situation bordering on the river Hudson, intended for the army to cross over. Our corps crossed the river with a good deal of trouble, and encamped about 2 miles west of it. The troops crossed in battows, which were very tedious, as we had but few. About a mile below, the horses and baggage forded it with some difficulty, the water being high from a great fall of rain, which came on during the preceding night, in consequence of which, the troops were put into barracks built there for 1000 men by Gen. Schyler. His house was a small way in our front, and the best we had as yet seen in that part, and much superior to many gentleman's houses in Canada. It was intended we should move the next day to an eminence a little distance, which was reckoned a good post, and where there was plenty of forage for the army.

16th. Our orders for marching were countermanded and others given out for us, to move at 3 o'clock next morning. As I was upon no particular duty, I rode back to the line, who, with Gen. Burgoyne were at Fort Miller, and in the evening returned to our camp, crossing over our new bridge of boats, which was almost then finished. At night I mounted an advanced picquet, and had orders to return to camp next morning at Revally Beating, day break. Nothing extraordinary passed during the night, every thing quiet about our post, and on going to return in the morning received orders—the 17th—to remain, as the corps was not to move that day, and to keep a very sharp look out; on which we naturally supposed something extraordinary had happened. Soon after an engineer came out to us with a number of men to throw up a breast work. Still it looked suspicious; but we were soon made acquainted with the melancholy report, that the detachment, which marched from us on the 11th were all cut to pieces by the enemy at Bennington, their force being much superior. Our 4 pieces of cannon were taken, two 6 pounders & two 3 pounders. I fear the officer who commanded, a German, took post in a bad situation, and was surrounded by the enemy after expending all his ammunition. Our Albany volunteers behaved with great bravery; but were not seconded by the Germans and Savages; and it was much regretted British were not sent in their place. The express also informed [us] that the enemy was greatly elated in consequence of the above, and were upon the move; but where he could not tell. Our situation was not the best, as from the great fall of rain our bridge was near giving way by the flood, which almost totally cut off our communication with Genl. Burgoyne and the line. Our post was also far from a good one, being surrounded and commanded by hills around—Gen. Frazier not intending to remain there above a night or two. About 4 in the evening our picquet was relieved by Lord Balcarres and the Battalion of light Infantry, who were to lie on their arms there during the night. Our orders were, to be in readiness to recross the river next morning at day break, and during the night, to remain accoutred and ready to turn out at a moments warning. The rain still continued.

as I think proper. I hope, therefore, to send them down the River in a few Days where they will be much wanted.

Genl. Harkhimer [Herkimer] is dead of his Wounds; his Leg was taken off and he survived it but a few Hours.

Genl. Arnold with his Party is at Fort Dayton about 100 of the Militia of Tryon County only are with him. I have issued my positive Orders to the Officers commanding the respective Regiments there to detach one Half to join Genl. Arnold's Army; & Colos. Cortlandt's & Livingston's Regiments marched this Evening for his further Reinforcement.

The Enemy in that Quarter having acquired a considerable accession of Numbers from Tories & Indians the above Measures were rendered necessary. The Garrison however by very late Accounts are high in Spirits and well provided and I have no Doubt but we shall in a few Days receive the most agreeable Intelligence from that Quarter. From the Oneidas and Tuscoraras whose Chiefs are now with Genl. Arnold, we have the fullest Assurances of Assistance, but have nothing to expect from any other of Tribes of the six Nations until our Successes intimidate them into Friendship. Since the affair at Bennington an Indian has not heard of to the Northward; the scalping Business seems to have ceased.

I cant learn that the main Body of the Enemy are far Southward nor from the best Accounts are any of them on this side of Saraghtoga; indeed I don't apprehend any great Danger from the future Operations of Mr. Burgoyne—and I would fain hope unless he exersices a greater Share of Prudence than he has hitherto discovered we shall not only be able to prevent him from farther penetrating into the Country but soon oblige him to retire with a weak & broken Army. By a Letter from Genl.

Washington lately rec'd I have a Right to expect here every Minute Morgan's Corps of Rifle men who I think will be able to match the Indians & Tories & be of vast Service to our army.

I am &c.

[G. C.]

Mr. Livingston & myself returned from Camp this Evening—we mean to return there again on Sunday as Genl. Gates has requested my attendance to meet Genl. Lincoln there on that Day. Mr. Livingston begs his Excuse in not writing to Council as this Letter contains Every Intelligence he co'd convey them. 40 odd of the Tories taken at Bennington are sent to this Place. I must [am] at a Loss how to dispose of them. I think it not Right to keep them here.

TRYON COUNTY REGIMENTS FOR FORT SCHUYLER.

Governor Clinton's Rigorous Orders for Contumacious Militiamen.

Head Quarters Half Moon 22d Aug't 1777.

Hakimer for which as the Chief Magistrate of the free & Independ't State of New York they have my most hearty Thanks. It gives me the greatest Pain to be informed that any Difficulty shoud arise in their joining the Army under Genl. Arnold & thereby enabling him to finish the War in that Quarter by raising the Seige of Fort Schuyler & destroying the Enemy's Army in that County & restoring Peace & Safety to the Inhabitants of Tryon County. Their Noble Exertions ag't the Common Enemy have already gained them the greatest Honor; their Perseverance will secure them Peace & Safety; in both I am deeply interested; And it is my Duty and I do hereby most positively order, that you immediatly join Genl. Arnold with one half of your Regiment compleatly armed equipt & accoutred & march under his Command to the relief of Fort Schuyler & for the Destruction of the Enemy in that Quarter. As soon as the Service will admit Genl. Arnold will dismiss you. If any are hardy enough to refuse to obey your Orders given in Consequence of this, you are immediatly to report their Names to Genl. Arnold who will transmit the same to me that they may be dealt with accordingly which be assured will be with the utmost rigour of the Law. I am Vanshaack's Island Aug't 24th 1777.

Sir,

At your Request communicated to me by Capt. Beebe of your Regiment I have thought proper by the Advice of General Gates to consent that thirty Eight Men under the Command of an Active Officer of your Proportion of the Detachment lately ordered for reinforcing the Northern Army, should continue in your Quarter of the Country, to keep in Awe the Disaffected & give Protection to the Well disposed Inhabitants & prevent the Enemy getting supplies. This Party is to be considered as Part of your Regt. & returned as such on Command. The good Opinion I have of you has induced me to consent to this Measure as I am sure from your Character you would not desire it unless you judge it necessary. Let me begg you to be as expeditious in marching the rest of the Detachment to this Place as possible.

George Clinton Reports to Council of Safety that the Enemy has Retreated from Fort Schuyler.

Albany 5th* Aug't 1777.

Sir,

I have the Pleasure of informing your Honorable Board that on Friday last in the Afternoon the Enemy raised the Siege of Fort Schuyler and march'd off towards Oswego with Precipitation taking with them however their Artillery Stores &c. Genl. Arnold was at Fort Dayton where he had been some Days waiting for a Reinforcement which he had askt from Genl. Gates in Consequence of Accounts he had received making the Enemy much superior in Number than they were conceived to be when he marched to that Quarter which I suppose were artfully contrived to delay General Arnold's March and thereby enable the Enemy to make a Safe Retreat. This I conclude will now be effected. Genl. Arnold Marched on Satturday from Fort Dayton & expected to reach Fort Schuyler that Night but even then, the Enemy will be better than a Day's March a Head of him. Colo. Cortlandt & Livingston who were on their March to join Genl. Arnold are now returning to their former Station. 5 Deserters have lately come into Army in this Quarter who all agree in their Accounts that the Army under Burgoine are very Sickly & Discontented. Some Deserters from the Enemy have come into Fort Schuyler.

NEW YORK THE BATTLE GROUND.

Burgoyne in a Secure Position—Arnold in Pursuit of St. Leger.

*Albany, 25th August, 1777.

Sir—Since I wrote you this morning, Genl. Gates transmitted me the enclosed copies of letters from Genl. Arnold and Colo. Gansevoort, containing a more particular account of our affairs to the westward than I was then possessed of.

I have great reason to believe that Genl: Burgoyne will soon follow the example of St. Ledger, and my greatest fear is that he will be equally fortunate in getting off without a second drubbing, as the militia do not turn out with that alacrity which might be expected.

A proper spirit on this occasion would enable us totally to destroy the enemy in this quarter, and secure peace and safety to this part of the country. The enemy are in our power, could the militia only be prevailed on to believe it.

I am, in the utmost haste, your most obt. servt.

Geo. Clinton.

* From the Journal of the Council of Safety.

Burgoyne is retired to the east side of the river; has Batten Kill in his front, and Hudson's river on his right; a very secure position indeed. He has also taken the prudent precaution of reinforcing the posts in his rear since the Bennington affair, with three regiments, from which it plainly appears he has safety now more than conquest in view.

PETER GANSEVOORT REPORTS THE FLIGHT OF ST. LEGER.

Dear Sir—This morning at 11 o'clock, I began a heavy cannonade upon our enemy's works, which were immediately returned by a number of shells and cannon. About 3 o'clock seven deserters came in, who informed me that Genl. St. Leger, with his army, was retreating with the utmost precipitation; soon after which I sent out a party of about sixty men to enter their camp, who soon returned and confirmed the above accounts.

About seven o'clock this evening, Hans Jost Schuyler† arrived here and informed me that Genl. Arnold, with 2000 men were on their march for this post, in consequence of which I send you this information.

I am, &c.

Peter Gansevoort.

*From the Journal of the Council of Safety.

†Among the Tories and Indians captured at Shoemaker's, was a singular creature named Han Jost Schuyler. He lived near Little Falls with his mother and brother. Coarse and ignorant, barely removed from idloey, he possessed a great fund of shrewdness and cunning. He had unquestionably attached himself to the Royalist cause, controlled solely by a desire for plunder. The Americans tried him by court martial, which sentenced him to death. Benedict Arnold, however, spared his life on condition that he should proceed to Fort Schuyler and spread alarming news in St. Leger's camp. Schuyler promptly accepted the offer, and started for Fort Schuyler, where he presented himself among the Indians in a mysterious manner. Succeeding in inspiring distrust in their breasts, he informed them that the enemy were approaching, and were as numerous as the leaves on the trees. These stories reaching St. Leger, Schuyler was sent for. He told St. Leger that Gen. Arnold with two thousand troops would attack him within twenty-four hours. He displayed his bullet-riddled clothing to the now thoroughly alarmed general, who accepted the tale and raised the siege.—STATE HISTORIAN.

ARNOLD NEEDS REINFORCEMENTS AND STARTS OFF TO OVERTAKE

ST. LEGER.

*Mohawk River, 10 miles above Fort Dayton,

August 23, 1777, 5 o'clock P. M.

Dear General—I wrote you the 21st inst. from the German Flatts, that from the best intelligence I could procure of the enemy's strength, it was much superior to ours; at the same time enclosed you resolutions of the council of war, and requested you to send me a reinforcement of one thousand light troops, as the enemy had made their approaches within 200 yards of the fort. I was determined at all events to hazard a battle rather than suffer the garrison to fall a sacrifice.

This morning I marched from the German Flatts for this place. The excessive bad roads and necessary precautions in marching through thick woods, retarded us so much that we have but this moment reached this place, where I met an express with the enclosed letter from Colo. Gansevoort, acquainting me the enemy had yesterday left Fort Schuyler, with great precipitation. I am at a loss to judge their real intentions, whether they have returned home or retired with a view of engaging us on the road. I am inclined to think the former from the account of the deserters, and from their leaving their tents and considerable baggage, which our people have secured. I shall immediately detach about 900 men, and make a forced march to the fort, in hopes of coming up with their rear, and securing their cannon and heavy baggage. My artillery and tents I shall leave here. The batteaux with provisions follow me. As soon as the security of the post will permit I shall return with as many men as can be spared. As I came down in batteaux, shall be able to make great

*August 28th, Anno Do. 1777.

Hond. Sir—Agreeably to order, I met Colo. Graham on the fifth instant, and agreed to raise 74 men; on the eighth I had the battalion together and drafted the number, and ordered them to appear at Poughkeepsie on the 12th instant, and appointed one captain and one lieutenant. Accordingly the officers met at Poughkeepsie, and finding a small number of men appear, the captain was dissatisfied and has resigned his commission. I then appointed another captain, and sent to the several captains of the battalion to muster their drafted men; they sent me word that the chief part of their men were gone away or concealed; I then wrote warrants to each captain to send out guards and search for them, and appointed them and the captain and lieutenant to meet and march with as many as we could find, and all that would refuse to go, send them to the county jail, there to remain until they were willing to march or hire

On the 26th instant I met them, when forty men appeared, with the officers, at the house of Capt. Reynold. The men seemed willing to march, when the captain told me he would not march unless he had fifty men; I went out in order to tell the men I would get another captain, and order them to be ready to march on the shortest notice; but when they found the officers declined, they dispersed immediately, and I could not get them together again any more. Several of the men have enlisted in the standing forces to avoid going to Albany. I do not know what farther to do, and shall wait your orders.

DESOLATION IN TRYON COUNTY.

A Petition that Predicted Direful Results Unless the Committee of Safety Relieved the Suffering People.

To the honorable the Council of Safety of the State of New York.

The Memorial of William Harper & Fredrick Fisher on behalf of themselves & the Inhabitants of Tryon County

Humbly Sheweth,

That the late Incursions of the Enemy & their Savages into the said County, & upon a part of the County of Albany have reduced the Inhabitants to the utmost distress. The Harvests not yet gathered in are rotting upon the Ground. The Grass uncut. The fallow Grounds not yet ploughed. The Cattle in a great measure destroyed.

That altho' by the Blessing of God the Siege of Fort Schuyler hath been raised, yet the Inhabitants labour under the greatest Apprehensions, and in the opinion of your memorialists those apprehensions are not ill founded. The known method of warfare among the Savages, and the Infamy annexed to those who suffer their Friends to fall unrevenged, give but too much reason to believe that the Fears of those unhappy People will be realized.

That the Council hath directed the raising of men to range the woods within the said County of Tryon which will not bring any additional Strength to that Frontier Country, and is for many Causes exceptionable, and will as your memorialists fear be inefficacious. First, because the wages of the Soldiery are So low, that no man will engage without the addition of some Bounty. Secondly, because the Sum allowed for Subsistance is utterly inadequate to that purpose; And thirdly because the rangers when in search of Subsistance must come in among the Inhabitants; whereas to answer the purpose for which they are raised, it is necessary that they should be kept at a Distance from the frontier Settlements.

Your Memorialists beg Leave to observe, that unless measures are speedily taken to remove the Fears & quiet the minds of the Inhabitants of that Country, and to ins[p]ire them anew with Confidence in the Government of the State, the worst Consequences are to be apprehended. And, therefore, they pray that the Council will take the premisses into their Serious Consideration and afford such relief as they in their wisdom shall think proper.

THE SUBJECT REFERRED TO GOVERNOR CLINTON.

The Committee of the Council in Favor of Sending Strong Reinforcements into the County.

State of New York In Council of Safety
Kingston August 29th 1777.

The Committee to whom was referred the memorial of William Harper & Fredrick Fisher made their Report which was read and approved and is in the Words following, to wit,

Your Committee to whom was referred the memorial of William Harper and Fredrick Fisher on behalf of themselves and the Inhabitants of Tryon County beg Leave to report:

That in the Opinion of your Committee the said Inhabitants are deeply alarmed by the Apprehensions of an Indian War upon their Frontiers. And altho' your Committee cannot pretend to say what Ground they may have for such Apprehensions yet they conceive that it is requisite for the Honor, and consistent with the Justice of the State, to continue to make every possible effort for the Security and Happiness of its Subjects in that Part of the Country, for which Purpose it will be necessary to have a number of men in Arms upon the Frontiers to watch the motions of the Savages untill Peace is restored in that Quarter.

Your Committee therefore beg leave to submit the following Resolution:

Resolved that the Letter from Peter Vroman dated 20th Aug't 1777 the Letter from John Harper of the same, Date and the memorial of William Harper & Fredrick Fisher be transmitted to his Excellency, the Governor, and That he be requested to take the most effectual method to quiet and Secure the Inhabitants of the County of Tryon, and that it be suggested to his Excellency whether it would not be proper to send under good Officers 150 of the Militia of the said County, 150 of the Militia of Albany County, 50 of the Militia of Ulster County, and 50 of the militia of Dutchess County, to the western Frontier of this State and to request of the Commander in Chief of the northern Department, 100 Rifle men who together with the said Detachments of militia and the Garrisons of the Forts in that Quarter, may be employed in defending the said Frontier and such of the Indian nations as are or may be in Alliance with us.

*Alexander Campbell, from Kingston Goal, Petitions for Redress.May it please your Excellency:

To pardon my intrusion and deign to attend to the following cursory narrative. Shortly after my confinement commenced, my Spouse found it necessary to dispose of a Horse to George Shea, but before she received the money from him, Patrick Barber, who stiled himself a commissioner for this county, Seized the Beast, and without advertising, or any other requisite formality, sold him. To what purpose he applied the money, arising from the sale, I know not; but neither my Spouse, nor me, received any part of it. As nothing could have induced my Spouse to sell so valueable and necessary a Horse, but to raise money to support me in Goal, it is truly hard, that her good intentions should be so effectually frustrated; especially as my necessities are urgent; for by the extravagant price of every necessary of life, it requires a mint of money to support a man here. Will your Excellency be graciously pleased to interpose in my favour? and oblige the said Barber to do me immediate Justice, by refunding the value of my Horse. To assist a man in my deplorable circumstances will be an action worthy of your Excellency, and inspire with gratitude him who has the Honour to be, with great truth and Sincerity

*An examination of Johannes Oosterhout, Junr. and Nicholas, the Indian, taken the twenty-third day of August, 1777, before Jacob Hornbeck, as they just returned from the Indian country, was sent into Council by His Excellency the Governor, for the consideration of Council, and their opinion and advice thereon, and is in the words following, vizt:

1st. They depose and say that the Indians have abandoned the Kookhouse, and are all moved back as far as Anquago or Coletien, being afraid of the people of Esopus and Minisink; as said Indians had received information before they moved, that 2,000 men were coming up to destroy them, and therefore the said Indians had kept out a scouting party towards Shokaken, till such time as said Oosterhout and Nicholas came and told them the contrary.

2^{ndly}. That the most part of the Young Indians were gone to join Butler at Fort Stanwicks, and the wife of the Chief Sachem of the Five Nations had made a request to the Sachems, that all the Five Nations should be desired at once to hold themselves neutral in the present contest or war; which request was granted her: whereupon the chief Sachem should immediately request the said Five Nations to stop their hostile measures, and come in again with those that have hitherto been still; and if the young Indians should refuse to return, but continue with Butler in the war, then the Sachem offers to be at peace and continue in friendship with the people at Esopus, Minisink, Papaschunk, Kasshington, Wyamonck, and all settlements to the southward thereof, so that war should only be to the North; and if any of their young men should be killed to the North, they should not mind it or break friendship; and if any of our men should go in the war to the North and be killed, we should likewise not mind the same or break friendship.

3^{dly}. An Indian is sent with Oosterhout and Nicholas by the sachem, to Colo. Hornbeck to see how times are with him, and to desire of said Hornbeck that a correspondence may be kept with Esopus people and the sachems, notwithstanding the war to the North; and that once every three or four weeks, a man may pass and repass between them, so that the women and children may be at peace and their work on both sides; and that the road on the side of the Indians shall be constantly open for us safely to come to them and return.

4^{thly}. That the Oneida Indians are heartily in favour of America, and very likely a war will soon break out with them and other Nations.—From the Journal of the Council of Safety.

Resolved, that in the Opinion of this Council it will be proper for his Excellency to inform the aforesaid Indians that unless their Warriors are called in and return immediately, the said Indians will be considered and treated as open Enemies:

Resolved, that the Governor be empowered to take into Pay such of the Indian Warriors as may choose to enter into the Service of this State:

Resolved, that the Oneyda Nation are the allies of this State and that we shall consider any attack upon them as an attack upon our own People.

PLAIN TALK TO THE INDIANS.

Governor Clinton's Instructions to Col. Hornbeck—Trouble Ahead for the Redskins Unless They Change Their Plans.

[Sept. 3, 1777.]

Sir,

I have laid before the Council of Safety of this State the Proposals made by the Indians at Anaquaga and Coolateen whereupon they have come to certain Resolutions a Copy of which you have inclosed. This State has always observed a strict Friendship with the Indians never have'g since the present Contest injured them in any Respect nor did they wish any thing more than a strict Neutrality on the Part of the Indians, leaving the Disputes between the Americans & English to be decided by them alone. This true would have been for the Interest of the Indians and in that Point of view independent of the Friendship that has long subsisted between us we had every Reason to expect it. I am sorry, therefore, to find that those Indians regardless of former Treaties and forgetful of the Kindness we have always manifested towards them have unprovokedly joined Butler & our other Enemies attacked our Forts and Inhabitants to the Northward and given the Enemy every other assistance in their Power to conquer the Country. But It is not to be wondered that, after such Breach of Faith & Daring Insults on the Part of the Indians, that they should leave their Habitations & move back lest the injured Inhabitants of the State should take that Revenge upon them & their Families which their Perfidy & Cruelty would justly warrant.

I am to desire you will inform the Indian who brought the Proposals above referred to, that such of our young Men as are in the War to the Northward were sent there to defend our Forts & protect that Part of the Country ag't the English, that it was not their Design to fight Indians as they had no Right to expect that any would have come against them, that the young Indians & warriors who had joined Butler went there designedly to fight and kill our People and to assist the English, that we cannot, therefore, consider the Fathers & Mothers of those young Indians as our Friends as it is natural for them to wish well to their own Children and to assist them & unless those warriors shall be immediately called in, we must consider the Nations they belong to our open Enemies and treat them as such.

You will likewise inform the said Indians that the apprehensions they labored under of our having sent a Body of Men against them must have arose from a Consciousness of the Injuries they had done us in fighting against us as there never were any Men ordered out to hurt the Indians. We chose first to let them know that we were not ignorant of their Conduct but at the same Time to give them an Opportunity of repenting of it and of giving security for their future Friendship and peaceable Behavior towards us, in which Case we might still live in Peace & Friendship with them, as we do with the Oneyda & other Nations who we consider as our Friends & allies. Tell the Indian that if their young Men are fond of Fighting and choose to be in War that they can come & join us who are their Brethern born, in the same Country against our common Enemies and we will pay them as we do our own young Men who go out & fight for us.

The Indian may see what Reliance is to be put on the Promises of Butler and his Friends by the shameful Manner they have fled from Fort Stanwix leaving their Cannon Tents ammunication & even their Provisions behind them, tho' they boasted they would take that Fort & proceed to Albany in a Short Time & that our People dare not fight them. You will also tell the Indian that we mean to commit no Hostilities upon them in this Quarter but give them Time to call in their young Warriors and will wait & expect their speedy Answer for which a Path will be left open & safe.

I do not mean to confine you in your answer to the Indian to the particular Words in which the above is couched, but to convey the Ideas held up in it in Terms the most intelligible to the Indian & likely to answer the best Purposes.

Placing great Confidence in your Prudence & am your most obed' Ser'

Robert Nicholson, a Suspected Tory, Asks to Be Released from Imprisonment.

Unto his Excellency George Clinton Esq;

Governer, &c. &c. of the State of New York.

The Petition of Robert Nicholson, of Saratoga Destrict, County of Albany.

Humbly Sheweth,

That your Petitioner has suffered a very long and grievous confinement in Albany and this Goal, merely upon the ill founded suspicion of being a Tory. What little money he had, is long since exhausted, his cloaths is so much decay'd that they are not sufficient to cover his nakedness and to compleat his misfortunes, his health is impaired, his Body emaciated and tormented by a most violent Flux, which must speedily put a period to his temporal existence unless Divine Providence and the Clemency of your Excellency interpose.

Your petitioner is a poor Friendless man, who for this long time past, has had nothing to subsist upon but the allowance of the Honourable Council of Safety, and the charity of his fellow prisoners; he has been many days without any manner of sustenance, which he imagines has been the means of reducing him to his present deplorable condition. He is yet in the prime of Life, and humbly conceives, that if he were moved to some convenient place, he might through the mercy of God, the benefit of the air, and the assistance of a Physician be soon in a condition to earn an honest livelihood, by the labour of his hands, in or about this Town, under such restrictions as your Excellency or the other Branches of the Legislature of this State, may, in your great Wisdom, Lay him under.

May it, therefore, please your Excellency, to take what is above represented into consideration and to grant me such relief, as your well known Humanity will readily suggest, And your Petitioner as in duty bound shall ever pray.

Sir,

On proceeding to the appointment of Officers to Command the Company to be Raised in my Regt. for Reinforcing this garrison, found most of the Standing Officers under Some Difficulties about Leaving Home, and on attending to that part of your Excellencies Instructions Respecting the appointment of Such Officers as had seen actual Service, ventured to appoint one Joseph Moor* To the 2d Lieutenancy, who Served in the Carreer of an Ensign Under Capt. Denton Last year, which I hope will meet with your approbation. It appears that by Some means or other, Said Moor, never obtained a Commission and he thinks it Exceeding hard after Serving 8 or 9 months in a Severe Campaign, to Return again into the Ranks,

It also appears that Colo. Woodhull has acted on Similer Principles, as Henry Bruster Ju'r and Stephen Halsey both from His Regt. are now with me, who I am Informed by Major Moffit Have booth been in the Service and acted in the Same Stations they now Do, but never obtained their Commissions.

Said Moor now acts as 2d Lieut. Under Capt. Jno. Wood. Bruster and Halsey are acting as 1st & 2d Lieutenants Under Capt. TRYON COUNTY IN A DEPLORABLE CONDITION.

Petition of a Committee—The Loyalty of Jelles Fonda Questioned—Heavy Losses at Oriskany.

Committee Chamber for the County of Tryon this 7th of September 1777.

May it please your Excellency: we the Members of Committee for the County of Tryon in general Committee assembled, find ourselves urged to call upon your Excellency's Attention to the dismal Situation of this County, at a Time when the good People under your Excellency's Care from all quarters of the State is labouring under the greatest Difficulties and loocking up to your Excellency's Directions. The late Trial of this County, drove Numbers of Disaffected Inhabitants into the Woods, many of whom actually joined the Enemy at Fort Schuyler; several returned since the Flight of the Enemy to their respective homes, some delivered themselves up to this Board others is brought Prisoners before us.

This Committee thought proper to macke a Tryal by them which were loocked upon as being seduced and misled in order to discover the Ringleaders, as your Excellency will see by the Examinations of every Prisoner annexed to this our Petition.

As every Individual of our Militia has sworn Allegiance to the States of America and this State in particular, so all who refused orders and fled to the woods have broke their oath, their punishment is left to the superior Judgement of the Legislature. The Ringleaders are ordered by this Board to be delivered unto your Excellency's order, and their Crimes as far as we can find is annexed to this our Petition.

We pray your Excellency will order that a proper Court be established to try the several Criminals sent now, and them that will be send by this Board, and favour us with such directions, what is to be done with those left among us. Under the Crime of Perjury & Running away we have allready inflicted a fine for their disobeying orders, but the well affected people looks upon this punishment as insufficient.

The Battle of our Militia the 6th of August, has cost us dear; we have lost a number of the most usefull Men and the Leaders of the County. The Death of Brig. Gen. Herckemann, Coll. Cox, Majors Eisenlord, Kipsattle, Bleven and Van Sluyk, the Missing of John Frey, Major of Brigade and Coll. Bellinger, the Loss of a Number of brave Captains and other officers & the most spirited men, have rendered our military Condition weakened and disordered. The Death of Isaac Paris at this memorable Day has vacated the Seat of a Senator, upon whose Integrity this County had put their chief Trust in that august House. An Assembly Man, Jacob Snell is among the slain; Michael Ittig* an other Member for the Assembly and a Captain of the Militia has forgot his Duty in both Capacities and Soock protection of Butler. Major Fonda, we are sorry to mention, very litle trusted: an Oneidos Indian declared before the general and Committee, that he Jellis Fonda had send up three letters to the Indians, showing

*Incorrectly printed as "Edie" in the Civil List of the State.—STATE HISTORIAN.

& by trading with them, he declared that he was not such a Fool as the other Tories, Ten Broock and others, he had more wit as them, if they had stood at home, they would be in the Possession of their Goods if the Country would loose or gain the Point. He said that he would come up too, when Butler should come down; may be that he would go trough the Woods to them, may be he would go along the River and go into the Fort and stand by the Collonell, then he would not be a feared he would get the Fort. Doctor Younglove, who is now a Prisoner with the Enemy, declared openly that he heard Jellis Fonda say it was best to lay down Arms, the Country would never get the point, and all sensible Men of America was of the same opinion; this has happened pretty lately.

Mr. Johannes Lawyer of Schohary has declared, which can be proved, that this last winter Jellis Fonda was trying to macke Tories at Schohary, and therefore he would not vote him for a Senator. The gentlemen is so little licked among the Inhabitants of Tryon County, that he has not got above a Dozen of Votes in Palatine, Cona Johary and the Flats Districts, and the County is still at a Loss, where from he has got a Majority.

Even the Stroke of the 6th of Aug. has been felt by this Board, having lost five Members, and an unhappy Disagreement prevails, that Matters of the utmost Consequence can not be sett forth, as your Excellency will See by the Letter of the 25th of Aug., which petition with the Prisoner Coll. Henry Frey was stopt and detained upon the own Accord of the Comittee at Cognowaga District; when they had been in the general Comittee, and approved of the Resolves and the said Petition.

Coll. Frey is as we know returned to Albany, we send along the Resolve and pray your Excellency will cause a proper Enquiry to be made about him. The Militia is not paid, every thing at a Stacke, every thing calls aloud for your Excellency's speedy Interposition. We pray you will be pleased to use all towards restoring this County to proper Vigour, and order such lawfull steps as will enable us to have a proper Representation in the Legislature. As we agreed with Albany for two Senators in our County and had their Consent, we wish that this County then might have a separate Election for the Recited Vacancy's; Recommending this County into your Peculiar Attention we are ever praying

Your Excellency's most humble and most obedient Servants

THE DEMORALIZATION IN TRYON COUNTY.

A Clergyman's Appeal to Governor Clinton—Perfidy of Colonel Frey—Need for an Investigation.

Cona Johary this 8th of Sept. 1777.

Honorable Sir,

As the Providence of God has called your Excellency to the Exalted Station of being the comon Father of the Good People of this distressed State, it can not be displeasing to receive Intelligences which concern the Welfare of the People, intrusted to your Care. It is not Envy, malicy or any wicked Design that moveth the Writer to address your Excellency; such motives are as strange to my Breast, as the Undertacking is extraordinary and litle convenient to my Profession. Only Necessity can justify, and I beg your Humanity will absolve me, when I transgress the Bounds of my ministerial Function. Always I thought, that those who are intrusted with the Care of Souls, can and should not be unconcerned about the fate of Mankind in general and their fellow Citizens in Particular. Therefore in want of proper and faithfull Leaders, I must many a time stand forth, and draw all the wicked malicy of the disguised Enemy upon me. I had a fellow Companion Isaac Paris, but he is slain by the Enemy, and lost to the County. Since that fatal Day, the 6th of August, all Things within this County is at a Stacke. Scarce with the utmost Trouble and fatigue by Day and Night, I could prevail to have a Body of Comittee collected; non of the remaining field officers showed any sign of a spirit to macke any attempts to stop the hourly expected Enemy; when these parts about the Cona Johary Castle were on the Brink of Ruin, on Account of a large Number of Tories, fifty odd, and Indians, no force could be collected; I was forced to call upon my Congregation in order to disperse them. So was our dismal Situation when a Pompous proclamation of gen. St. Leger and several deceiving Letters were sent in the County, to bring the well affected over to the Enemy's Side; and an other Person Coll. Frey, who was from the very first Beginnig of this glorious Contest an Enemy to this Country, who had allways persons in the Comittee to screen himself, and brought it so far, that he was a Prisoner at large at Albany, and had a Permit from the Fishkill to Albany, made at this critical Time his Appearance in the County. When officers in whose Company he came, Spocke very discouraging, concerning our Strenght and the Enemy's Forces at the North River, in several Companies.

The Comittee have in two Sessions resolved and ordered, that the said Frey should be tacken prisoner and be brought to your Excellency, but was allways stopt by several persons even Members of the same Comittee, who passed the said Resolve. Letters of imediate Importance and the greatest Consequence to this County have been stopt on Account of the said Coll. Frey.

Since God has graciously delivered this County from imediate Destruction, and the Tories return we must see, that many wicked persons are set at Liberty by sham Trials; those who actually supplied the Enemy with Provision, those who actually joined the Enemy, set at Liberty by a Fine of twelve, five ee. Pounds of Money; as if the precious Lives of the slain and of those, whom God has spared, were to be valued by the Money. The Pay of the Militia has been detained, and if ever brave Men are neglected it is our Militia: Yesterday we were alarmed about a Number of Indians and Tories, who were seen near the Cona Johary Castle; the Militia is marched, and it is not Known, what will be the Event:

A Man, a principal leader of the Tories, who was yesterday sentenced to be sent to your Excellency, one Martinus Van Aalstyn, is suffered to tacke his gun this Morning to march with our Militia under the Eye of the Chairman, and, it seems, if any Thing is in this Alarm, will find the best Means to escape his Punishment. Your Excellency may be assured, that all this is the bare truth, and can be attested by the Majority of the County in general, as I was desired to draw a Petition, but declined it, and thought best to acquaint your Excellency in a private Manner, that it is the general Cry of the People, that your Excellency would be pleased to cause that impartial Comissioners be employed to loock into the grievances of the People of this County.

If your Excellency judge it necessary, that these recited facts should be brought before you in a public Manner and supported by voice of the People, it will be done on receiving Notice thereof. The Committee has yesterday desired me to draw an Address to your Excellency, which I did, but being informed this Morning, that the same is not shut in the Presence of the Committee, that himself obligated to them for all his Riches, as being got by them since one of the Prisoners mentioned therein (the above Martinus Van Aalstyn) is suffered to tacked his Arms and go with the Militia, I must fear it might go as with the former Addresses. Honorable Sir, as the Motive of my writing is the welfare of my Country, I beg you will be pleased to put the best Construction to it, and Excuse the Liberty I took to address your Excellency.

Honorable Sir your most humble and most obedient Servant

Joh. Daniel Gros, Minister of the Gospel.

John Ord Sends a Batch of Lottery Tickets to the Governor to Dispose Of.

United States Lottery Office Philad'a Septem'r 8th 1777.

Sir,

The Inclosed will shew you how much, The Hon'ble Congress have at Heart the Carrying through the Lottery* set on foot last winter. By their Directions we have ordered Deric Ten Broeck,

* Friday November 1st, 1776, Congress took into consideration the report of the Committee on Ways and Means of supplying the treasury, and it was resolved "that a sum of money be raised by way of lottery for defraying the expenses of the next campaign, the lottery to be drawn in Philadelphia." It was further ordered that the Committee who brought in the report "prepare the plan of a lottery fix the number of managers and security by them to be given and report to Congress."

Monday, November 18, 1776, Congress considered the report of the Committee that recommended the creation of the "United States" lottery. The scheme provided that one hundred thousand tickets should be drawn in four classes, each ticket to be divided into four billets; first class, one hundred thousand billets at ten dollars each; second class, one hundred thousand billets at twenty dollars each; third class, one hundred thousand billets at thirty dollars each; fourth class, one hundred thousand billets at forty dollars each.

The chief prize was $50,000. By this method the financiers of the period expected to raise at least five millions of dollars to be applied for carrying on "the present most just and necessary war in defence of the lives, liberties and property of the inhabitants of these United States."

Seven managers were selected, and the money as fast as received was deposited in the Continental Treasury.

Tuesday, February 6, 1781, Congress adopted a resolution authorizing the managers of the lottery to prepare for the drawing of the fourth class on the first Monday in April, under the direction of the Board of Treasury. It was further provided that the tickets then remaining unrenewed "by the adventurers in the third class" conformably to the resolution of the 18th day of November, 1776 "be on account of the United States and not disposed of."—STATE HISTORIAN.

He confessed before this board to be one of the first who was misled by Martinus Dillenbach and Phillipp Koch, and hereafter prouved allways a Chief of the Tories, and exerted him self in this office by endeavouring his utmost to Seduce others, also misled a great many by persuasions and Threatnings him self, tied a Handkerchief to a Stik, Cried our "Huza for King Georg" not regarding the oath of Allegiance to the United States.

Wm. Neuberg being one of them, who tooked the oath of allegiance and signed the Association, afterwards by his own confession being persuaded by Martinus Van Alstyn and Phillipp Koch, not to take up arms against the King of Brittain and being the best for him to join ouer Enemies, in wich he exerted him self to his utmost in misleding and listing peopels, procured so much by his party that they made him Capt., and went to his party in order to join [Walter] Buttler wich he with his party performed, and arrived at Fort Schuyler with a Number of about 56 men, in Companie with another Capt. Miller; after being there some Days, returned and brought prissoner before this bord; by his examination Confessed he was told of Phillip Koch that he P. Koch went with a pass to the Jersys from there privatly to New York and Spok with Lord How, Sir John Johnson, and others from which he Creditibly has been informed, that America never would get the point and would never be abel to resist the King of Brittain, and all them they would lay down their arms they would be pardoned and should possess their own priviledges; but the others all they would be taken under arms would be Send abroad upon Ilands; further Says, that Saide Koch persuaded a great many more as it did appear Clearly by the Examination of others; further Saide Newberg Confessed, that Martin Von Alstyn told him it would now be over, they (the Enemies) would come around us on all Sides and in a verry short he would see that they would have the whole.

Further declares that when they came with their party to Adam Youngs, said Young being of opinion when they came on, they was of ouer militia, he imediately hided himself and would not come home to the Hauss, ordered the peoples imediately victuals to be given to them and supplied them with flowr; and when they offered pay he refused it, saying if they came to fort Shyler they only should tell Buttler and Fredrich Young his brother of it, and he being verry glad, they went on with such intention, and if now the damned Rebels would come he would let them know better that he was at home now, and when they was agoing of he was verry kind to them; further said not.

Henry Dillenbach Jun'r allways refusing duty being once fined, he expressed himself, that he put this money now upon interest, allways taking the Enemies partie and when the Enemies was advancing So near, he absconded him self in the woods, upon orders of this bord being taken in full arms and accuterments and snapped the gun to the guard being an Intirely Enemy of of ouer American Cause.

CHARGES AGAINST MONTANYE AND BREVORT.

Colonel Hughes Intercedes in Their Behalf and Claims They Were Amenable only to the Civil Authorities.

Fishkill 9th Sept. 1777.

Sir,

An unhappy Affair having taken Place at Peekskill, in which two of the Inhabitants of this State are concern'd, I conceive it my indispensable Duty to acquaint your Excellency there with, and what are like to be the Consequences if some Gentlemen can succeed in their Designs.

It seems that John Montanye and Abraham Brevort, Bakers & Citizens of New York, have been employ'd for some time past, at that Business in the Commissary General's Department, at the Village, till very lately, when they were both paid off and discharg'd, by Squire Paulding as he informs me, directly after which they set out for this Place. But, unfortunately for them both, they stopt at Nelson's in the Highlands, where there hapend to be some bad Company, who induc'd them to drink more than they ought, as Montanye is a Person remarkable for his sobriety, or, at least was in York, and, I believe Brevort is the same. However they both got very drunk and quarrel'd with the Landlady, in Consequence of which they push'd her about as I am told, but did not strike her.

Unluckily, at that Time, Doctrs. Burnet, Foster & Eustace came up, & very humanely interpos'd in behalf of the Sex, not the Woman, which bro't on Blows between the Last named Gentleman and Montanye, as well as a great Deal of abusive Language on the Part of the Latter, who also tore the Doctor's Clothes, and gave him some very severe Strokes. In Consequence of which, they were sent for by a File of Men, and put under Guard, tried & sentenc'd to receive a Hundred Lashes each, publickly, & be confin'd on board the Frigates during the Contest. However, General Putnam, at the Request of Mr. Paulding and myself suspended the Execution of the Sentence, and was also good enough to give me an Order to have their Irons taken off, which I saw executed. I applied to Doctr. Eustace in their Favor, and wrought on him so far as to obtain a Promise of his Influence with Doctr. Burnet (who was the Principal in the Prosecution) for a Pardon, on a proper Acknowledgement of their Crime. Since which, I am well inform'd, that Interest will be made to have them punish'd agreeable to their Sentence. They are both of reputable Families, all of whom are heartily engag'd in the Cause, and most of them in our Department. These two Men were early in the Service, and distinguisd themselves on all Occasions in New York, one as a Granadier, and the other in the light Infantry I am told.

Your Excellency's Penetration & my Connection with the Army, renders any Observation, of mine, on this Affair unnecessary, and I will not offer you an Affront, by begging your Interposition in Favour of these unhappy Fellow Citizens; as I know your Humanity exceeds any Thing I can ask. Montanye has a Family, and I am not certain but the other has also.

I am in Hopes of succeeding with Doctr. Burnet as soon as I have the Happiness of seeing him, but, lest I should not, I have taken the Liberty to trouble your Excellency with this by way of Precaution, for which I beg your Pardon.

I am, with the greatest Regard,

Your Excellency's most obdt.

The Governor's Address to the Legislature.

*A meeting of the Legislature of the State of New York, was held at Kingston, September ninth, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-seven; when, after some preliminary proceedings, they adjourned to the following day; at which time they met the Governor at "the Court Room," when he made the following

SPEECH:

Gentlemen of the Senate, and General Assembly,

The invasion of the state, on the northern and western frontiers, and the prospect of an attack by General Howe, on the fortresses in the highlands, obliged me to prorogue the legislature, and to deny myself the pleasure of seeing our free and happy constitution so early organized as I could have wished. This I was the more readily led to do, as well from the busy season of the year, as the confidence which the people justly reposed in the abilities and integrity of the gentlemen in whom the administration of government was then vested.

At present, by the kind interposition of Providence, the cloud which hung over us seems in a great measure dispelled, and we have reason to expect a happy issue to this campaign.

The good conduct and bravery of the garrison of Fort Schuyler, seconded by the intrepidity of the late gallant General Herkemer, and the militia of Tryon county, have entirely frustrated the designs of the enemy upon that part of the state; and obliged them, after the loss of a great part of their army, with the most of their baggage and artillery, disgracefully to abandon their enterprise.

The complete victory gained near Bennington, by the valour of the militia of New-Hampshire, Massachusetts Bay, and the northeastern counties of this state, together with a small body of continental troops, we have reason to hope will check the progress of the enemy's arms, and secure our northern frontiers. I have, however, thought it proper, in order to strengthen the army commanded by Major-General Gates, and to repress the incursions of the savages to the westward, to embody part of the militia, and march them to the northward. I have also made a further draft, for the protection of the exposed inhabitants of the county of Westchester, and for the defence of the posts in the highlands; which I have the pleasure of assuring you, are in so respectable a state of defence, as to promise us security against any attack on that quarter. This, together with the several obstructions in Hudson's river, has probably induced General Howe to alter his original plan, and to adopt another, which, from the vigilance of his excellency General Washington, and the spirit of the southern militia, we have reason to hope will prove equally abortive.

Gentlemen of the Senate, and General Assembly,

As the security of every free state must, under God, depend upon its internal strength, I take this opportunity to recommend to you, as a matter of the utmost importance, a speedy revision of our military laws, which having been drawn at the commencement of this controversy, are, from an alteration in circumstances, become inapplicable to our present situation.

The state of our finances, likewise, claims your serious attention. The want of an organized government, has hitherto rendered it impossible to make any provision for sinking the money, which the war obliged us to issue; and we have thus accumulated a debt, which, if neglected, will not only prove burthensome to the state, but strike at the credit of our currency, which it behoves us so much to support.

You will easily perceive, gentlemen, from the long suspension of law, and the disorder incident thereto, the necessity of making proper provision for the support of government; on the vigour and dignity of which, the tranquility of the state will, in a great measure, depend.

As the constitution has not prescribed the particular mode, in which elections are to be conducted, you will turn your attention to some law, for that very necessary purpose.

Without detaining you any longer at this time, I shall, gentlemen, in the course of the session, take occasion to lay before you such other matters as I conceive the necessities of the state require.

Gentlemen,

The late convention having in their plan of government, manifested the most scrupulous attention to the freedom and happiness of the people, and by marking the line between the Executive, Legislative, and Judicial powers, wisely provided for the security of each; it becomes our duty to second their endeavors; And as our conduct will in some measure be a rule for those who are hereafter entrusted with the administration of government, let us remain within the several departments in which the constitution has placed us, and thereby preserve the same inviolate, and repay the trust reposed in us by our constituents, when they made us the guardians of their rights.

I do not urge this, gentlemen, because I conceive the caution necessary to you, but to shew the important light in which I see this object; and to convince you, (however unequal I may find myself to the task) that it shall always be my strenuous endeavor, on the one hand, to retain and exercise for the advantage of the people, the powers with which they have invested me; on the other, carefully to avoid the invasion of those rights which the constitution has placed in other persons.

George Clinton.

The Tryon County Committee Thanks the Council of Safety for the Resolutions to Send Reinforcements for the Protection of Their County.

Committee Chamber for Tryon County Sept'r 10th 1777.

Gentlemen,

We received your Resolve by which we find that 100 Riflemen and 400 Militia of different Counties are to be stationed in our Neighbourhood for the Protection of this County, and we embrace the earliest Opportunity of returning you our sincere Thanks for this Token of your Attention to the Interest of the United States in general, and our Safety in particular.

Our Vicinity to the Frontiers, and the repeated Threats of our Enemies, (which as far as we can find, are to be put into Execution this Fall, unless prevented by the Prudence of our Counsellors and the Conduct and Resolution of our Troops and the Inhabitants) render the speedy embodying a sufficient Force indispensibly necessary, we therefore cannot doubt of your expediting a Measure so wisely adopted.

The recent Proofs you have already given of the tender Regard you have for our Safety, encourages us further to request the Privilege of nominating the Militia Officers, and beg leave to allege as a Reason for requesting such Indulgence, that many of us having been personally present in the late Action near Fort Schuyler, we have had the fairest Opportunities of observing the Conduct of those Officers of the Militia who were concerned therein. We further beg leave to assure you, that Fidelity to the Interest of the United States, together with Conduct and Courage will be the only Qualifications by which our Recommendation shall be directed. We remain with great Respect,

Gentlemen,

Captain Mott Offers Certain Suggestions Touching Artillery Enlistments.

Fort Constitution, 10th Sep'r 1777.

Sir,

The bearer Mr. Hosbrook, has, as, he informs me, given a Certain sum of money, to another man, to Clear him from Militia Drafts, which man has inlisted in my Company: & the Lieutenant who inlisted him, has as I am inform'd, given Mr. Hosbrook a Certificate agreeable to the orders of Congress. I shou'd not have taken the Liberty, of troubling your Excellency at this Time, if it had not been for the importunity of the bearer; who sais he is informed, he shall loose his money & be Subjected to all Drafts as heretofore. Its much to be lamented that Many people who profess to be zealous friends to their Country & anxious for the Success of our arms, shou'd act so inconsistant with their professions, by making use of Every possible means, to injure the recruiting service. Our Regiment is raised & raising in Different States, & are Considered as part of the Troops of the State, in which they were raised & partake of the advantages of State Sutlers &c; In this Light, General Clinton Considers my Company, & offers me an order on the State Sutler at Fort Montgomery, to supply my Company, on the same Terms, as the other York Troops are. Your Excellency will be pleased to indulge, in Observing that, the preventing the artilly stationed in this State from recruiting on the same Terms as the other Regiments, will Eventually injure those Regiments, because if the Train are not allowed to recruit, they will undoubtedly, have orders to Draft from the Continental Regiments of the State, in which they are or may be posted in. I am Exceedingly impatient to know if we can have an order for the Timber, which I took the Liberty of writing to your Excellency about a few Days since.

I am Sir with much Respect

Gershom Mott, Capt. Artill'y.

THE UNITED STATES AND FRANCE.

Beaumarchais, Under the name of Roderique Hotaler & Company, Gives Reasons Why France Cannot Openly Make an Alliance with America.*

Permit, Gentl'm, that a friend to your Country, a man entirely devoted to the Interest of the noble Americans having

*Beaumarchais was one of the most remarkable men of his time. The son of a clock-maker—he was born a month before our Washington—he began his literary career by writing tawdry and tinsel prose and culminated it by the magnificent literary sunburst, "The Marriage of Figaro" which startled France by the faithful portrayal of the corrupt and rotten proceedings that were a part and parcel of the conduct of her public affairs. Again, Beaumarchais sounded the alarm bell of the French Revolution when he uttered these words, in open defiance of the united magistracy of France that had arrayed themselves against him:

"I am a citizen" he said, "that is to say I am not a courtier, or an abbe or a nobleman or a financier or a favorite, nor anything connected with what is called influence now-a-days. I am a citizen; that is to say something quite new, unknown, unheard of in France. I am a citizen; that is to say what you ought to have been for the last two hundred years, what you will be perhaps in twenty."

A restless but energetic character, vehement and at times tempestuous, persistent and cunning, with a strong fund of the knowledge of human nature—the art of handling men—he was the man above all others to win the unlimited confidence of Louis XV and Louis XVI, in order to practise the insidious secret diplomacy which was created by Louis XIV and required for successful attainment qualities of the most subtle, crafty and discreet order. He had lived in Spain and was thoroughly familiar with the tortuous and corrupt methods of the Madrid court. He had been dispatched to London, where his abilities and cosmopolitan characteristics soon gained for him the unreserved confidence of men of all parties, and enabled him to obtain the innermost secrets of the ministerial policy.

He was mistaken in his judgment that England was standing on the brink of a Revolution, but with unerring prescience he saw Independence for the Colonies in America in the impending struggle with the Mother Country. Whether his subsequent course was controlled by sympathy for America, prejudice against England, or by purely given you unquestionable proofs of his attachm't, should assume the liberty of discanting with you on the present prospect of Your Affairs. Three good objects strike my sight,—America in arms to support the liberty she affects, & the Independency she has openly declared; Britain preceiving too late her mistakes respecting the intrepidity, & the force of the Americans, & car-speculative purposes that were certain to bring great wealth to himself, cannot in justice to himself be decided with all the great evidence in hand. Certain it is, however, that Beaumarchais' sagacity, industry and energy proved of incalculable benefit to the Colonies at a most critical period. It is within the bounds of reason to assert that but for his intervention, the experiment of independence would have been imperilled and might have failed. More than any one man Beaumarchais is entitled to the credit of having enlisted the sympathies of Louis XVI in behalf of America, and of obtaining funds and supplies for the struggling Colonies. As early as November, 1776, he is on record as appealing to the great French Minister, Vergennes, for prompt and vigorous action. It was he who was relied upon, more than any other person, for information that was to decide the course of the French Ministry

Beaumarchais had an exceedingly tender side for the American citizen. As early as January 10, 1776, Vergennes secretly remitted a million francs to Beaumarchais, and two months later a similar sum was given him in the name of the King of Spain. Beaumarchais alone was entrusted with the great responsibility of supplying the Colonists with arms and munitions of war—an extremely delicate proposition from the standpoint of international law. But, the cleverness of Beaumarchais, and the great wisdom of Vergennes, whose sympathies for the Colonists were as active, as robust and as healthy as were those of the former, carefully and successfully avoided all chance of international complications, by an expedient which stands out alone as an anomaly in history.

This was the creation of the Roderique Hortalez scheme, which, endorsed by the French Ministry, contemplated the establishment of a mercantile house for the purpose of "selling" to the Colonies, military supplies, arms, munitions and equipments, which France could not, without an open breach of neutrality, furnish in her own name. Operations were begun by the loans of the million livres from France and Spain. Originally the Americans themselves were not let into the secret.

The hotel "de Holland" had been untenanted for many years. It was an imposing edifice, standing out in marked contrast with the modest structures that were inhabited by potential European bankers. Originally established by the Dutch Republic as the residence of their Minister at the French Court, it now became conspicuous as the office of the firm of Roderique Hortalez & Co. The head of the house was represented to be a great Spanish banker. As a matter of fact, he was never seen on the premises. But whenever the services of the house were required in an important transaction, Beaumarchais was invariably found directing affairs.

The house was permitted to purchase military stores on unlimited credit. All the French arsenals were to be open to it. The house was bound to replace or to pay for all articles delivered to it. The Americans were expected to repay these advances in produce, with the necessary time and facilities. It was surmised that the experiment having been successfully started, would eventually feed and sustain itself.

Under date of February 29, 1776, Beaumarchais wrote as follows in his memorial to Vergennes:

"If it be replied that we can not assist the Americans without wounding England and without drawing upon us the storm which I wish to keep off, I reply in my turn that this danger will not be incurred if the plan I have so many times proposed be followed—that of secretly assisting the Americans without compromising ourselves; imposing rying on against them a ruinous war, for the sole purpose of obtaining if possible, a less disadvantageous peace. Finally France hesitating between those great events, & in your opinion too long deferring to determine whether or not she ought to engage in the quarrel.

Such is the situation of Affairs. Let us now consider their Principles; let us examine what are the advantages & the Evils upon them, as a first condition, that they shall never send any prizes into our ports and never commit any act which shall tend to divulge the secret of the assistance, which the first indiscretion on the part of Congress would cause it instantly to lose. And if your majesty has not at hand a more clever man to employ in the matter, I undertake and answer for the execution of the treaty without any one being compromised, persuaded that my zeal will supply my want of talent better than the talent of another man could replace my zeal."

Silas Deane, the accredited American agent, arrived at Paris and was officially refused 200 cannon and arms and equipment for 25,000 men, which was solicited from France; but semi-officially he was referred to Beaumarchais, who secured everything, even to artillery, with engineer officers to mount the guns and ordnance officers to handle them.

Mr. Parton estimates that within twelve months from the beginning of his duties, Beaumarchais "succeeded in dispatching to America eight shiploads of warlike stores, valued by himself at more than six millions of francs. The capital which enabled him to achieve this great result was composed, first, of the million received from the French Treasury in June, 1776; secondly, the million granted by the Spanish government, which Beaumarchais received in September of the same year; thirdly, another million from the Treasury of France in 1777. The Stores taken from the Royal Arsenal were equivalent perhaps to the fourth million, and the rest may have been furnished by friends and speculators."

Many of our statesmen, and in fact Congress, were in doubt as to whether the supplies received on this side of the water were sent on Beaumarchais' personal account, or on that of France. Arthur Lee, who was on the ground, contended that the supplies were sent gratuitously by France. Franklin and Deane insisted that it was a pure matter of business, and that Beaumarchais acted as a private merchant. This theory seems to be justified by the fact that Vergennes had intended that the operations of the house should not bear solely a fictitious commercial character. It is no secret that a number of merchants were assisted by this house, and that their funds, besides those of the government, were given to it for the purpose of investing in produce to be sent to the United States.

Up to the time of Deane's arrival in France, Arthur Lee and Beaumarchais had conducted affairs on purely amicable lines, but now Beaumarchais ignored Lee, and made his agreements with Deane. Lee had been playing the part of a wily politician, and had hoped to establish himself as a popular idol in the minds of the Americans. This break between the two financial agents, opened the scandal which almost ruined Deane, which eventually led to his recall, and caused all the trouble between Beaumarchais and Congress.

Governed by the sinister intention of revenging himself, Lee wrote the Secret Committee of Congress, without the knowledge of Beaumarchais and Deane, and accused them of an intention to deceive both the French and the American governments by changing what the Ministry contemplated to be a gratuity into a business transaction.

In the meantime, official news of the Battle of Saratoga had been conveyed to France, and decided the long discussed and troubled question of French recognition of the belligerents. Arthur Lee, with his usual modesty, has represented that it was through his exclusive influence that this important result was secured.

which may result from the violent shock of those great Bodies; above all let us see whether the seeming indifference of the French nations out [ought] to have the least influence on the reconciliation to be effected between two states, which, from motives intirely foreign to Her are now seperated.

When, by the last treaty of peace France put Britain in possession of Canada, when L'd Chatham foretold in London that

The Treaty of Commerce was absolute and immediate in its effects, the Treaty of Alliance conditional on war taking place between France and Great Britain. These treaties bear date February 6, 1778. In January, 1779, Vergennes, through Gerard the French Minister at Philadelphia, denied that France had given gratuitous assistance in 1776 to the United States, through Beaumarchais. Gerard furthermore stated that the war supplies were provided, not by the French government, but from business houses in France.

February 25, 1783, Franklin and Vergennes signed a contract which among other things contained the following paragraph:

"In the third class are comprehended the aids and subsidies furnished to the Congress of the United States, under the title of gratuitous assistance from the pure generosity of the king; three millions of which were granted before the treaty of February, 1778, and six millions in 1781, which aids and subsidies amount in the whole to nine million livres tournois. His majesty here confirms, in case of need, the gratuitous gift to the Congress of the said Thirteen United States."

Here occurred the episode of the "lost million." Franklin's accounts showed the receipt of only two millions. The correspondence that passed between Franklin and the French bankers who handled the funds, was most interesting and resulted in demonstrating that no part of the lost million in any shape, passed through Franklin's hands. Subsequently, a receipt for the amount was found in Beaumarchais' handwriting. Beaumarchais, however, had in the meantime, become seriously embarrassed financially and under date of June 12, 1787, forwarded to Congress an emphatic appeal for relief. Without fully comprehending the situation, or the enmity that existed between the two men, Congress referred the matter to Arthur Lee, who decided that the United States were not indebted to Beaumarchais, but that the French agent was indebted to the United States in the sum of 1,800,000 francs. This decision was so manifestly unjust, that a final reference was made to Hamilton, who was then Secretary of the Treasury, and who equitably disposed of the matter by allowing Beaumarchais 2,280,000 francs. It was this action of Hamilton's that drew forth the million livre receipt of Beaumarchais.

New complications now confronted the final adjustment of the difficulty. The point of dispute was, whether the French government had given this money to Beaumarchais, either in trust specifically for the United States, or to be converted into supplies and munitions of war.

Loménie quotes Talleyrand:

"As the payment and destination of this million relate to a measure of secret policy ordered by the King and forthwith executed, it appears neither just nor equitable to confound it with the mercantile operations posterior in date of a private individual with the Congress. Consequently no conclusion against M. de Beaumarchais as a personal creditor of the United States can be drawn from the document communicated."

Loménie himself states:

"I have been obliged to reestablish the truth as to the fact of the celebrated million, which was incontestably given by the government not for a secret political service unconnected with the American supplies but for the supplies themselves."

While the reciprocal claims of France and the United States were under discussion in Paris between our American Minister Rives, and Sebastiani, the French Minister for the Cession w'd make Britain loose America, & when the jealousy of all the Colonies on acco't of the privileges granted to Canada & their uneasiness at a monarchical administration which seemed to threaten liberty, gave birth to the complaints & disturbances of America, in short when the exactions & ill treatment of the English struck the alarm, & caused the British yoke to be shaken off by restraining the word Patria to the limits

Foreign Affairs, the Beaumarchais claim was fixed at 2,699,999 francs. The Beaumarchais heirs contended that the million in question had not been used in the purchase of the munitions for which the claim was made, but that Beaumarchais had accounted to the French government to which alone he was responsible.

But Mr. Rives seems to have cut the Gordian knot, in an unpublished dispatch now in the Department of State, and reproduced by the late Dr. Francis Wharton in the first volume of the Revolutionary Diplomatic Correspondence of the United States. Rives wrote:

"On the following day (the 22d of June, 1831) I called again on the minister of foreign affairs, as he had proposed, and found Baron Deffandis with him. The discussion was renewed on the French claims, and particularly that of the heirs of Beaumarchais. After a great deal of conversation, which it is not deemed necessary to detail, the subject was arranged by the ministers agreeing to accept a gross sum of fifteen hundred thousand francs in satisfaction of all the claims. The claim of the heirs of Beaumarchais alone amounted to 3,700,874 francs. From the peculiar nature of this claim, and the connection of the French Government with it, the honor of the United States seemed now imperiously to demand its adjustment, whether intrinsically well founded or not. The million which, with its interest, had been charged to the account of Beaumarchais, was not alleged to have been paid to him by the United States. It was claimed as a gift, put into his hands by the French king for the purpose of purchasing the supplies with which he had furnished the United States. But the French Government had repeatedly declared that it was not applied to the purchase of those supplies, but to an object of secret political service, of which Beaumarchais had rendered a satisfactory account to his own government. Under these circumstances the claim had been successively recommended to the favorable consideration of Congress by Presidents Jefferson, Madison, and Monroe; two Attorneys-General of the United States, Messrs. Rodney and Pinkney, had given their official opinion that the credit claimed by the United States was not sustainable on legal principles, and of ten committees of the House of Representatives who had examined the subject à (for, since the preparation of my observations addressed to the minister of foreign affairs, I find that a majority of those committees had made reports favorable to it) have recommended its payment.

"If the claim were to be adjusted in the United States it appeared impossible to separate the interest claimed from the principal. The committees of Congress which had made favorable reports and (particularly the select committee, which made its report on the 28th January, 1823, and the committee of foreign affairs, which reported on the 1st April, 1823.) seem always to have regarded the interest on this claim as necessarily incident to the principal, and Mr. Gallatin, then Secretary of the Treasury, in his letter of 27th January, 1806, to the chairman of the committee of claims, it will be perceived, treated the interest as equally due with the principal. To get rid of this claim, amounting alone to more than three and a half millions of francs, and of others (among which were some of clear justice) amounting to one million more, for a gross sum of one and a half million of francs, was an arrangement so obviously advantageous for the United States that I did not hesitate to adopt it."

Out of the fund so reserved by the French Government under the treaty of 1831 the heirs of Beaumarchais were paid eight hundred thousand livres.—STATE HISTORIAN.

of the Continent, was France the least concerned in the motives which occasioned that rupture? Was she consulted, respecting the consequence of that important division?

The fire of dissatisfaction had long since been concealingly fed on both sides, & its flame at the time of the stamp Act in 1765 soon spread out from Boston to the other Cities.

The bloody insurrection at Boston w^{ch} impelled the Americans to solicit the recall of the Gov^r & Lieut. Gov^r of Massachusetts Bay, & the affair of the Snow at Rhode Island, w^{ch} compelled parliament to repeal the stamp act & recall the two Officers, were the first instance of your confiding in your own strength, the Punctum Vita of all the Vigor you have since exerted,—France had not the least share in those Events.

The Tax on Tea, the transferring the Trial of the principal Causes to European Tribunals, the institution of Tribunals the members of which are appointed by the Court, & a thousand other attempts against your liberty, at last drove all the patriots to take up Arms, & from that august body the Congress of Phil^a which since that time, became so formidable to the British Nation—Soon after the mutany of the Company of Cadets, the Hostilities committed by Genl. Gage at Boston, the prohibited use of Tea throughout all the Colonies, the English Vessells sent back to Europe, their obstinacy in returning, that of the Americans in not admitting them, & burning their Cargoes, in short, the intire rupture between the Colonies & the mother Country, the Armaments on both sides, the affair at Lexington, that of Bunkers-hill, the baseness of the English in arming the Slaves of Virginia against their masters, their still greater wickedness in counterfeiting the Bills of Credit of the Country, to effect the depreciation of that Currency, a mode of poisoning unknown before our aera, & [above] all the horrors w'ch have attended such Enormities, have urged all the Americans to declare themselves free from the B. Yoke, to publish their Independancy & maintain it openly by the force of their Arms.

But to all these, Gentlemen, France ever continued an utter stranger. She did not foment your Divisions or Disturbances, neither was she consulted on their possible consequences. Your bare presumption of her being Interested in supporting Amer'a to weaken Britain is the leading State Reason, w'ch inspired you with confidence to solicit her assistance. If therefore her Interest be the only motive you have a Right to claim, to request her espousing your Quarrel, her Interest is likewise her only motive w'ch ought to determine her to refuse, or grant, to hasten or retard that assistance.

On this principle, the conduct of your Privateers deserve to be openly censured, as well as the Freedom, (I shall boldly term it scandalous) with w'ch they bring & sell their prizes among us, witho' the least respect for treaties, or the Interest of a Prince who gives them an Asylum in his Ports. They behave in that particular as if their Instructions directed them to involve us in a War, by accumulating so many infractions of our Treaties, that, if our Administration did not sometimes check their licentiousness, France w'd appear either a Weak State or a favorer of Piracy, w'ch w'd be equally unworthy of her.

Britain does not certainly deserve any part of the deference shewn her by France. Her continue breach of faith, w'd more than justify the protection w'ch France w'd grant to your noble exertions in Amer'a could her Interest move her to take that part, but it does not seem to me either judicious, or even proper that the Americans should intirely depend upon the conduct of France towards them, in continuing the war in support of their Liberty, or for making peace to secure their tranquility. Though all Europe sh'd refuse you the smallest assistance, & though the English availing themselves of your situation sh'd pillage your houses upon getting Possession of your Sea Ports, you w'd still have a vast Country with honor & Liberty. Do you not think with me, that it is better for you to live inconveniently in the woods like the Indians, than to bend your necks under the English Yoke and become Slaves?

Let us then briefly examine the present State of the dispute. Is it the Interest of France to connect herself publickly w'th America or ought she witho' declareing herself, to cherish America secretly by every method w'ch can tend to maintain her rising Liberty? or ought she rather as an indifferent Spectatrix of this War, to waite for the Event, contenting herself with the augmentation of her marine, the enlarging her forces & her riches, that she may hereafter avail herself of the weakness of the English, & of the Americans, ingured one by the other, untill you become again united thro' weariness of contending, shall be desirous in common of repairing your losses & falling upon her possessions? Perhaps the last mode the least generous of all w'd be, by way of revenge the surest for her, for what must happen if France take one of the two others? either the English will subjugate America, & after forcing her under the yoke, employ her soldiers & her Cruisers to punish us by a bloody war, for having medled with a quarrel, in which we could have no other Interest than to injure them; or the Americans by happy resolutions & Efforts will be able to drive the English from the Continent & enjoy their Liberty in peace. But what is that Liberty w'ch they w'd acquire if it's not especially the right of carrying on a free commerce with other people than the English? & who are the people wth whom it most concerns them to Traffick if not the French?

France, therefore, by not taking a part openly with America, in case the latter fails of success, will avoid a War at least useless, & if America obtains free Commerce she cannot make use of it witho' giving France an opportunity by her situation to reap the first fruits.

By examining, therefore, affairs calmly it will be best for France to wait in peace for the Events; without neglecting to put herself in a condition to repulse with Vigor, the first enemy that shall declare against her. Does any one yet know whether Europe w^d tamely look on & see the System of the Ballance of forces destroyed, by the sudden debasement of England, & the aggrandizement of the House of Bourbon by an alliance with the continent of America? Does any one know that, for the sake of re-establishing that Chimerical Ballance, all the northern powers w^d not combine with England & seek an instant quarrel with the French upon our Continent, for seeking to aggrandize themselves upon yours? A strong self Interest, Gentl'm, blinds your sight too much against those political considerations to which a minister so enlightened as ours is obliged to yield in spite of all the desire w^{ch} he may to oblige you if could do it with safety.

Placed in a distant point of observation, you see not any objects but those w^{ch} are nearest to you, & our minister at the Center of Events, w^{ch} are connected wth them, & press them on all the Radii of the Circle, are often obliged to refuse an offer w^{ch} pleases them, that they may not draw upon the State confided to their care, a train of Evils w^{ch} they cannot remedy.

You have reason without doubt to say that the Interest of France is to support you, for the sake of lowering the power of England, but what man will dare decide that France ought to begin by connecting herself with the Americans, doubtfull as yet, about making their peace with England, or that she ought not to omit to declare herself 'till it shall be well proved to her by their steady & vigorous oppositions, that the Americans will never re-unite themselves with the English? This is the point on w'ch the question turns.

America says succor us, & we will never make peace. France says, prove to me that you will never make peace, & I will succor you. Hence results, gentlemen, the necessity which France is under of adopting a midle way, between an open declaration, & the absolute refusal of any Succor. And this is also what I w'd establish as the Basis of our hopes, & your success.

Let us lay aside the question whether all our misteries & reserves, will hinder the English from falling upon our Colonies, the Instant they shall wholly loose, or regain there own, which is one of the strongest arguments used by you to determine us in your favor, let [us] leave I say, that Question, because if it is clearly considered, the determination w'd probably be, that it is our part to remain neuter, nursing & encreasing our Forces, that we may combat a weakened adversary, If he should be so imprudent as to attack us, rather than to weaken ourselves before hand by provoking him in sending our Fleets, & our Armies, without being certain whether such a step would hinder an accommodation from taking place, between England & America; This is, what would draw most Politicians to prefer for us an open alliance, The midle way of succoring you, without Eclat, but with Efficacy. I understand by that Efficacy, whatever may be necessary & sufficient for all your wants: and this is a thing for which the French Administration can depend upon, The Zeal, or greediness of Commerce.

I wish, therefore, that our administration instead of the affected Rigour with w^{ch} it examines the Reports of our Trade with you, w^d shut its Eyes more upon the nature of the Cargoes which we send, that in case of need, it w^d even aid us with money to facilitate our Enterprizes; & that on your part, you w^d be more exact in sending us returns, witho^r which we can do nothing.

The Commercial part of France improving upon the negligence of Officers, w^d go boldly to fetch your commodities, and w^d carry you in abundance, every thing essential to you, for the maintenance of your rising Liberty. What w^d be the consequence of this? Either the English w^d prudently feign to see nothing of the matter, & you w^d be succored witho^r any trouble to the French Court, or else the English being irritated, w^d commence hostilities against us. Thus the natural rights of defence, warranting against them the employment of all our Forces, no Prince in Europe could regard in such case, the King of France as ambitiously making war to aggrandize himself at the expence of his neighbours, for in the Eyes of all; War becomes just when it becomes necessary; therefore, then is the period when our Alliance may be made openly with you & be approved by all the World. Whereas, universal blame, & the charge of unbounded ambition w^d be directed against us, if we should appear to be aggressors in a moment when the Embarrassments of England were at their highest. The moral w^{ch} I w^d draw from this short dissertation, Gentl^m, is to maintain your Liberty without leaving it to depend upon foreign power, upon whose assistance you can only reckon occasionally, & who politically perhaps ought not to set the first example of encouraging such an Enterprize as yours, having herself Colonies to preserve, & who certainly ought not to declare herself for you, 'till she shall be led to it, by an open rupture of the English, of which you will soon be either the pretext, or the Subject.

2dly. After the general disposition of this Country it appears to me that you will obtain the open alliance of France, less certainly by threatening to re-unite yourselves with her Enemies (for the single possibility of that event ought to keep her upon guard against every hazardous step), that you will continuing only to solicit her secret friendship & succors, 'till you can convince her that no extremity is capable of making you renounce your Independence, which you have not seditiously & tumultuously declared, but calmly & methodically adopted; Or then you will be contenting yourselves with an assistance, as underhand as it is Effecacious, & thereby leaving the English to retard our alliance with you, by their pretending not to see what they endure, or to hasten the Period of it by Hostilities, which France is determined to repel with vigor.

These are the reflections gentl'm which the apparant Rigour of our Administration, & the Threats of an approaching peace, between you and England have suggested to me; Let them not displease you, but engage you to give the most strict orders to your Crusiers to respect our ports, & not put us to the disagreeable necessity of shutting them up against them, and especially let them by the course of managem't to w'ch policy obliges us, conduct the nations, to the most firm & durable Alliance! This is the sincere & constant wish of him who has the honor of being with the most respectfull Devotion Gentl'm,

Your very Humble & very obedient Serv't,

Roderique Hortalez & Co.

Rangers and Scouting Parties Necessary in the Highlands.

Clarkstown Sep'r 11, 1777.

Sir,

Captain Johnston says that if he had a power from the Governor to raise men on this Condition, that when he had recruited Twenty men they to be muster'd by some person to be appointed and then go upon Duty and be allowed pay and rations as the Continental Troops and as the number encreased to be added as before said and be altogether on duty. The need of Rangers or Scouting parties is very Clear as the Enemy or their emisarys have in the course of last week Killd one and taken one away at Closter and are now possessing the roads that their friends may have an Oppertunity to carry down provisions to New-york and that since the Last Araingment of the malitia that Capt'n Garret Onderdonk's Company was broke up. And as Capt'n Johnston at the request of the Inhabitants of this precinct to his Coll. (Coll. Three Men Arrested on Suspicion of Treason.

Harrison's Purchase Sept'r 12th 1777.

Hon'd Sir,

Enclosed I have sent a Return of the Regt. Also have sent for your Honour's Examination, three Prisoners (viz) John Crabb, an Inhabitant of Fredericksburg, taken up at White-plains, who said he was going to Horseneck to buy Salt, but on being searched, it appeared that, 2 / 6 in paper & 4 / 6 or 5 / in hard Mony was all the Mony he had in Possession, & what renders his Conduct still more suspicious, was that, James Knox, another of the Prisoners, was in Company with him, when first discovered by our Men, but made his Escape from them, & was next Day taken up near New Rochelle, & who confesses he was going to the Enemy: s'd Crabb desiring a Man might be sent to Col. Luddington, to obtain his Character, to whom he said he was known; I accordingly desired Col. Luddington [to] send his Character, which he did, & which I have sent enclosed. But the third, as I imagine the greatest Villian of the three, named Hachaliah Merrit was taken in East-Chester early in the Morning after being out all Night with his Great Coat & Blanket, & armed with a loaded Pistol, & who does not pretend to say any thing in his own Justification. Colonel Ludjinton's Charges Against Suspicious Persons.

Philipse Burgh Sept'r 12th 1777.

Sir,

I have sent you one Elijah Taylor; his Crime is as Follows; he pretends he came from below our Lines because he was Suspected to be a Friend to us; a few days after he came to me with his Brother in Law from Milesquare pretending he had lost a Horse and applied to me for Orders to take him where he could find him. I gave him permission to search for his Horse any where he pleased above our Lines but not to Return home without calling on me, but Instead of Calling, Returned home and soon after came up again. I found by his Conduct that was not his Arrent [errand] for at the Same time he and the said Taylor was Laying a Plan to steal our horses—the way I got Information was that one Dudley Bailey, a Sutler to our Regiment was in Conversation with the said Taylor concerning their Loosing Horses, whereupon the said Taylor told him they had Lost Horses and knew where to find them but did not care about them for he could take them off in the Night; then he ask'd Bayley where the Horses belonging to the Regiment were kept, and where our Centenals were posted, in order that he might Carry his plan in Execution; and he further told him it would not be Long before we should be Routed, for a few men might do it, as we were Obliged to post ourselves in Houses;—he further agreed with Baily for him to go down as far as Milesquare to one Benjamin Taylor's and there stay until he s'd Taylor could go to the Hessian Generals and when he Return'd he would put him in good Business where he might Earn a Dollar pr day;—he further said that When he makes his Report to the General that he might Live Like a Gentlemen without doing any work. He further Acquainted him he had been through your Camps at Peekskill as far up as Poughkeepsy and there were Several Spies out among whom was an Hessian Officer and upon them Circumstances I have sent you the Said Taylor. For further Information Refer you to the Said Bailey as an Evidence to the truth of the Matter who shall be sent up to you whenever I Receive your Order for that purpose.

I have Likewise sent up three other prisoners Jacob Read, Abraham Aston & Joseph Brown, the two former were taken up on Suspicion of Carrying on a dangerous Correspondence with the Enemy and the Latter is a deserter from Colo. Governor Clinton Appeals to Washington in Behalf of Mrs. Hatfield, Who is Unjustly Detained.

[Sept. 12 1777.]

D'r Sir,

The Friends of Major Hatfield who last year belonged to Genl. Scott's Brigade in our Army and was taken by the Enemy on Montresure's Island and is now a Prisoner with them, inform me that when your Excellency was in Clove, Mrs. Hatfield the Major's wife obtained your Permission to visit her Husband at Newyork and was conducted by a Flag from Elizabeth Town to Staten Island for that Purpose, and from thence was sent to Newyork, but the Officer who ordered her to there, kept her Pass; that she went from Newyork to the Place of her Husband's Confinem't on Long Island, and after having continued with him a short Time, returned to Newyork and applied to the Command'g Officer for Permission to leave the City and return Home; he treated her with Politeness but referred her to the Mayor of the City who, he said, was intrusted with the Managem't of those Matters as best knowing the Characters of the People. She accordingly with [a] woman who had accompanied her from Eliz: Town made application to the mayor; he readily granted to the other Woman a Permit to return Home but refused one to Mrs. Hatfield with a Degree of Indelicacy and Insult & directed her to return to her Husband on Long Island & remain there.

The Conduct of Major Hatfield as an Officer was such as entitles him to good Treatment from a generous Enemy and his Family to every Indulgence from his Country. His private affairs suffered greatly by his Detention as a Prisoner, and this unprecedented Manner of preventing Mrs. Hatfield's Return who intended only a short visit add greatly to the Distresses of the Family.

As I have only by Relation the Circumstance of your Excellency's having given Mrs. Hatfield permission to go to Newyork I have thought it most regular to lay the Matter before you and I am persuaded that your Excell'y will take such Measures to procure Mrs. Hatfield's Releasement as will best conduce to that End.

I am a Stranger to the steps proper to be taken on this Occasion, but if your Excellency should think that the application for Redress ought to be made immediately by me I would esteem it a singular Favor if you would point out the Method and inform whether the Circumstances respecting the granting the Permission to Mrs. Hatfield are as above represented. If Retaliation is necessary I have not a doubt but I shall speedily have an Opportunity to try the Experiment.

I did not chuse to extend my Orders to those farther Northward; it woud put it out of my Power to afford you that Succour which you might reasonably expect in Case of any Missfortune in your Quarter.

I have received no farther Accounts as yet of the Action to the Southward but what is contained in the inclosed as soon as I do I will forward them to you.

I woud fain hope that in its Consequences that Action will prove more favourable to us than at first View might be expected.

The three last Regim'ts cant march more than 900 Men,

The two ordered to Fort Montgomery about as many; & what the Strength of those that are ordered to Join you, I know not as I have had no late Returns from them.

Care ought to be taken for supplying the Militia ordered [to] Ramepough with Provisions & Ammunition which will be out of my Power.

The Legislature of this State are just mett & intend on Business.

It is an unhappy Time to be disturbed but if I possibly can I will join you even tho' I shoud not be able to continue long with you.

Pray as soon as you get the Particulars of the Action between Genl. Washington & Howe let me have them as I am extreemly anxious about that Important Affair tho' I woud fain Hope it is not so unfavourable to us as at first View we might be led to believe.

I must beg the earliest Intelligence from you of any Public Matters worth communicating & am D'r S'r with great Regard Henry Cuyler Gives His Reasons for Breaking His Parole.

To His Excellency George Clinton Esqr., Governor of the State of New York, General and Commander in chief of all the Militia and Admiral of the same.

The Memorial of Henry Cuyler, Sheweth,

That your memorialist, having transgressed the bounds of his confinement, is an humble suitor for forgiveness; which he hopes to obtain in consequence of the subsequent declaration of his sole motive for such a step.

At a time when a general consternation had seized the inhabitants of Albany and its vicinity, numbers were removing

& a report prevailed that a general removal was to take place, your Mem'st touched with the keenest anxiety for the safety of the nearest & tenderest connections flew, with the feelings of a Husband & Father to the protection of a wife, & family of young helpless infants, to save them from the knife of the savage, or the unrelenting, indiscriminating hand of Violence, by a removal to a place more remote from impending danger, being unable to procure a place for them within the limits of his confinement.

Your Mem'st most solemnly declares that no other consideration under Heaven could have induced him to lose sight of his Parole for a single moment; & that he would have solicited permission, had he not been given to understand, that the consent of the Committee of Albany was necessary; and which there appeared then no time for obtaining.

Your Excellency's Mem'st earnestly entreats he might be suffered to remain with his family under any restrictions that can be reasonably laid on him.

All which is most Humble submitted.

Dr. Jos. Young Appeals to George Clinton for Clemency in Behalf of Henry Cuyler.

Honored Sir,

Mr. Henry Cuyler who now petitions your Excelency for leave to remain at home with his family, has formerly been a Commissary in the King of Britain's employ, and at the termination of the late War, had a salary settled upon him, which probably made him decline taking an active part in favour of his country—which neutrality seems to me to be the greatest ground of suspicion against him. Since his return to his family, (as mentioned in his memorial) he has been much Indisposed, when I, at the request of the Committee, visited him, he protested to me in the most solemn manner, that he had not by any means, said or done any thing to injure the American cause, that he had not held correspondence even with his own brother now in the British service, since the commencement of hostilities, that he would give any security in his power, that he would not by any means interfere in the present contest and even offers to swear that he never will take an active part against America. All he requests is to be permitted to remain at home with his family. From an acquaintance with Mr Cuyler of near 14 years, I believe him to be a Man of much Humanity and strict Honor,—

If, therefore, your Excelency upon Consideration of Mr. Cuyler's case, think it expedient to permit him to remain at home, under such restrictions as you deem necessary—the exercise of your Clemency towards him, will greatly Oblige

Gentlemen,

I have received your several Letters* of the 7th, 8th, & 9th, Inst. the Papers accompanying the same with a Letter of the 10th under Direction to the Honble. the Council of Safety, which that Council being dissolved at the Meeting of the Legislature, it became my Duty to open. I am sorry to inform you that the Rifle men & Militia from other Counties which you are led by a Resolve of the Council of Safety to expect for the Protection of the Inhabitants on your Western Frontiers cannot be spared from the Northern army without weakening it too much at this critical Time. This I mentioned as my Opinion to Mr. Harper (who attended the Council on your Behalf) at the Time of passing the Resolve. I have laid your several Letters & Papers before the Legislature represent'g the Situation of your County and recommend'g the providing for your Defence and mentioning the necessity of adjusting and paying off the arrears due to your Militia for public Services, with the Propriety of appointing Comm'rs for settling the Disorders subsisting in your County. The Appointm't of Officers of the Militia is vested by the Constitution in Commissioners appointed by the Assembly from the Senate. They cannot, therefore, give the Nomination of Officers to the Committee but I dare say a Recommendation from them of the most proper Persons will have its due Weight as they are best acquainted with the Characters of the People of the County.

An Extract of that Part of the Letter respecting Mr. Fonda, one of your Members in Senate, I have laid before that House to whom I could wish it had been directed in the first Instance as every Complaint respect'g under Elections or the Disqualification of Members ought to be made to the House to which the Party belongs or to the Legislature at large.

You may rest assured that every Thing I can do to promote the Interest and the Peace of the County shall always be cheerfully done.

BURGOYNE AT BEMUS HEIGHTS.

Form of Order to Colonels of Regiments to Hasten to Reinforce Gates.

Kingston Sept'r 18th 1777.

Sir,

By a Letter I have this moment received from the Honble. Major Genl. Gates dated yesterday I am informed that Genl.

*Letter not found.—STATE HISTORIAN.

Burgoyne has caused Skeensborough, Fort Ann, Fort Edward, and the Posts he lately occupied to the Southward of Lake George & Skeensborough to be evacuated and the Artillery Stores and Provisions to be brought to his Army now at Van Veghten's Mills, seven miles North of where Genl. Gates's Army is encamped, on Bemus's Heights above Still Water, from which it is evident that Genl. Burgoyne's Design is to risque all upon one rash Stroke.

Genl. Gates requests that all the militia of this State not already in actual Service should immediately march to the Reinforcement of his Army, and as much depends upon the Event and with the Blessing of God upon our Exertions it is in our Power to render it favorable, it is our indispensable Duty to comply.

You are therefore hereby ordered in the most express and positive Terms to march your Regiment, compleatly armed, equipped and accoutred with all possible Expedition and join the Army under Genl. Gen. Parsons Reports to Gen. Putnam His Belief that the Enemy will Attack the North River Posts.

Extract from a Letter from Genl. Parsons—Dated White Plains 26th Septem'r 1777.

Dear Genl.

I have a Large party Just Returnd from East Chester from whence they Cross'd thro' Mile Square to Phillips's with small parties advanc'd near the Enemy: by them and in a Variety of other ways I Learn the Enemy Design an Excurtion, into the Country probably as far as Croton River, their object is to clear the country of cattle &c.

Yesterday they had a Field day at which all the Malitia of West Chester were obliged to attend. They have ordered their Bakers to work Day and night to prepare Hard Bread for the purpose. 'Tis also said the ships are to go up the River to Receive the Troops if necessary. Col. Byard with his Regiment came over from Powles Hook yesterday; and two Deserters who came in this morning say they understood the Post was Evacuated. By every Circumstance I can find, I think they will be out on this Business verry soon, perhaps in a Day or two. I ought not to forget to mention that the Enemy have a considerable number of Horse.

27th. I have this moment Receiv'd accounts by Mr. Fanning from New York that Sixty ships arrived the Day before yesterday with Recruits. He says he Judges by the best Intelligence he can get they amount to three thousand & upwards, British and German Troops, this perhaps may alter the face of affairs, and perhaps may enable them to make a Real attack on the North River Posts.

The Governor Orders His Colonels to Reinforce the Posts in the Highlands.

Kingston Sep'r 29" 1777.

Sir,

By Letters just rec'd by Express from the Honorable Major Genl. Putnam dated the 27" & 28" Inst. and Copies of Letters from Genl. Parsons inclosed there is the utmost Reason to apprehend that the Enemy stationed at New York and Kingsbridge are much more numerous than was generally expected, and that they are making great and speedy Preparations for an Expedition which there can be little Doubt must be intended against the County of W: Chester and the Posts and Passes in the Highlands, As an Attempt of this Kind will co-operate with their Northern Army under Genl. Burgoyne to which also they may be induced by the weakness of those Posts by the large Reinforcements lately ordered from thence for Genl. Washington—And as the Enemy appear determined to make this Campaign decisive it becomes our indispensable Duty for a few weeks Longer to persevere in our Services—and by spirited Exertions not only give Security to our distressed Country [but] render the Enemy so weak before the present Season is ended as that they shall not be able to enter upon another Campaign with the least Prospect of success.

You will therefore immediately march one half of your Regiment completely armed, equipped and accoutred to Peek's Kill to the Reinforcement of the Army there under Genl. Putnam to continue in Service for one Month unless sooner dismissed & then to be relieved by the other half of the Regiment. You will also put the other half of your Regiment under marching Orders to be ready upon the shortest Notice.

I am &c.

I am extremely surprized that tho' the whole of your Regiment was ordered to march to the Reinforcement of Genl. Putnam's Army no more than 300 men of 6 Regiments ordered for that Service have joined him.

Dear Sir,

From Accounts received last Evening from the Honble. Major Genl. Putnam, I have the greatest Reason to believe that the Enemy (who are much more numerous at New York & King's Bridge than we supposed them to be) intend very speedily to make an Attempt ag't the Passes & Fortresses in the Highlands & thereby at least make a Diversion in Favor of their Northern Army & shoud they succeed form a Junction with them. To prevent their Success in a Design which if prosperous woud effect a Conquest of the State, every Nerve shoud be strained. You are, therefore, on Receipt hereof immediatly to order in to Fort Montgomery the one half of the whole Militia of your County,* compleatly armed equipped & accoutred to continue in Service for one Month from the Time of their having actually marched (if not sooner dismissed), And to be relieved by the remaining half at the End of that Time, who you are also to put under Marching Orders to be ready on a Moment's Warning. The Weak State of the Army under Genl. Putnam occasioned by the late Reinforcem'ts orderd from thence for Genl. Washington's Army renders this Measure absolutely necessary.

I am your Most Obed't Serv't.

HE SENDS REINFORCEMENTS TO GEN. PUTNAM.

And Reports the Dispositions He has Made to Receive the Enemy.

Kingston 29th Sep'r 1777.

Dear Sir,

I have received your Favour of yesterday inclosing Copies of Letters which you have received from Genl. Parsons. I think it highly probable from the several Accounts you have received that the Enemy design an Attempt ag't your Post and the Fortresses in the Highlands as this will at least be making a Diversion in Favour of their Northern Army, if nothing more, tho' I doubt their Numbers at New York & King's Bridge being as great as those Accounts make them; & I believe the Reinforcement mentioned by Mr. Fanning is nothing more than the Arrival of their sick & wounded from Genl. Howe's Army.

However I may be much Misstaken in my Opinion & we should always prepare for the Worst.

I am much surprised to learn you have so small a Number of the Militia with you. I had ordered Six intire Regiments from Dutchess County to join you which I have not countermanded. I have always found it impracticable to draw out the whole of the Militia in any Quarter wherefore I have now ordered one half of the same Regiments to wit, Freere's Southerland's Umphrey's Swarthoudt's Brinckerhoof's Fields' & Ludington's immediatly to march to your Reinforcem't to continue in Service for one Month & then to be relieved by the Remaining Half who are also to hold themselves in Readiness to march on a Moment's warning. The West Chester Militia you will please to order in to your Assistance if wanted.

By the inclosed Letters to my Brother Cols. Allison Hasbrouck

& McClaghry you will see the Steps I have taken to Strengthen the Fortresses in the Highlands which after reading you will please to forward to Fort Montgomery. I am D'r Sir

Your Most Obed' Serv't

He Sends Instructions to His Brother James.

Kingston 29th Sep'r 1777.

Dear Brother,

In Consequence of Accounts received last Night from Major Genl. Putnam I have issued the inclosed Orders which you will please to forward to the Officers to whom they are directed. You will make such Disposition of the Militia ordered to your Post as will in your Opinion be most Conducive to the public Safety. If the Situation of our Affairs shoud require it you will also order to your reinforcement the remaining half of the Militia of Orange & the two Regts. in the South End of Ulster without waiting my further order.

I am yours Affectionately

Geo. Clinton.

Our Affairs to the Northward wear a very favourable Aspect. Our Army there [is] strong already & gaining Strength every Day so that I hope the Enemy in that Quarter if not seconded by some Diversion from the Southward will neither be able to advance or Retreat.

WESTCHESTER'S EXPOSED CONDITION.

Appeals to George Clinton for Assistance and for Reinforcements.

In General Committee for Westchester County Bedford 30th Sept. 1777.

To His Excellency George Clinton Esqr. Governor &c. of the State of New York.

S'r,

We have received certain Intelligence that the Enemy are making the greatest Preparations to advance into our County and sweep all the Stock from Croton River to Kings Bridge before them. Many zealous & worthy Friends to our Cause Inhabitants of this County must inevitably suffer if they remain long in their present exposed Situation where they must be open to the Depredations of the Enemy. We therefore the General Committee for Westchester County both from the Duty we owe to our Country & Constituents are compelled humbly to pray that your Excellency as Governor & Commander in Chief of all the militia in this State will immediately dispatch some Troops to our assistance and give positive Directions to the Field Officers in this County to order out their Militia Regiments and continue them in action untill our present apprehension be in some measure removed. We have thought proper at this Time of publick alarm with the advice of the Field officers of this County to call out the Militia, hoping that our Conduct may meet with your Excellency's approbation. Should be sincerely glad that you would send Orders to the Field officers to continue their Militia in Service, as we are well convinced our authority does not extend so far as to do it: We beg that your Excellency may take our Case into your serious Consideration & be pleased to order into our County some further Relief than we are able to collect amongst ourselves, as what Militia we can muster will neither be sufficient to retard the Progress of the Enemy in Case they advance, nor prove numerous enough to drive the Stock out of their Reach.

We send to your Excellency inclosed a Letter from Brigadier General Parsons directed to the Committee which he wrote before he received Orders to march to Peek's Kill: Whilst he lay at the White Plains the well affected Inhabitants in this County seemed to be in a State of Safety and matters to bear a favourable appearance, but since he has departed a dark & gloomy Cloud seems to hang hovering over us, the Enemy preparing to make their Incursions into the Country where Depredations & savage Barbarity will be the Consequence: We wish & earnestly pray that your Excellency will grant us our humble Request and extend once more the Hand of Friendship to our assistance. Being from us who as in Duty bound ever pray that all your actions may be crowned with Success.

By Order of the Committee & Field officers of Westchester County.

Abraham Leggett, Chair'n.

P. S. This Day we have received Intelligence from Mr. Leake Hunt who Night before last fled from the Enemy that the commanding officers at or near King Bridge are putting arms into the Hands of the Inhabitants of the Borough of Westchester.

The Case of Thomas Hadden.

In Assembly, Oct'r 2d 1777.

A petition of Thos. Hadden was presented to the House & is in the words following to wit—

To the Honorable the Representatives of the State of New York in Assembly

The Petition of Thomas Hadden a prisoner in the Goal of the County of Ulster
Most humbly Sheweth

That your Petitioner hath long endured the rigors of a close confinement, upon the Imputation of having knowingly passed counterfeit money, of which Crime he is entirely innocent. And altho' he hath made earnest and repeated applications to the late Convention & Council of Safety, praying to be liberated from his said Confinement and admitted to Bail, yet from their constant attention to objects of greater and more general Importance all the requests of your Petitioner were of no avail.

That on the first day of October in the year of our Lord One thousand seven hundred and Seventy Seven your Petitioner made application to John Jay, Robert Yates & John Sloss Hobart, Esquires, separately for a writ of Hab. Corpus, which (as your Petitioner is advised by his Council) he hath a right to claim the Benefit of. But to the great surprize of your Petitioner the said writ was refused; the said John Jay, Robert Yates and John Sloss Hobart respectfully alledging to your Petitioner, that by an ordinance of the late Convention they had been appointed Justices of the Supreme Court of this State to hold the said Offices if respectively approved of by the said Council for the appointment of Officers at their first Session; that the said Council at such their first Session had omitted to approve or disapprove of the said appointment of them the said John Jay, Robert Yates and John Sloss Hobart, and that altho no persons had been in their place and Stead appointed by the said Council to the Offices aforesaid, yet they conceived that by reason of the defect of such approbation as aforesaid, their authority to exercise the said Offices was suspended.

That the said refusal of them the said John Jay, Robert Yates and John Sloss Hobart your petitioner is grievously injured and oppressed and deprived of one of the most valuable Priviledges of a free Subject.

Your Petitioner therefore applies to you as the grand Inquest of this State for a Redress of Grievances, and deeply interested in the free Constitution of his Country, he begs Leave to observe to your Honorable House, that the Channels of Justice are Stopped up in this Land, and the Subject deprived of those Benefits which flow from a due Execution of the Laws. Wherefore he calls upon you the Guardians of the people of the State of New York to assert & vindicate their rights & privileges.

Your Petitioner further most humbly implores your honorable House to take his Case into their Serious Consideration and to afford him such Relief in the premises as they shall think meet.

And your Petitioner as in Duty Bound shall ever pray &ca.

Thomas Hadden.

Kingston Goal 2d Oct'r 1777.

Ordered that the Consideration of the s'd Petition be postponed until the afternoon &

Ordered That John Jay Robert Yates & John Sloss Hobart Esqrs. do respectively attend this House at four o'Clock this afternoon and that the Clerk serve them with a Copy of the said Petition & of this order.

4 ta'ho. P. M.

John Jay, Robert Yates & John Sloss Hobart, Esqrs. attending according to order the petition of Thos. Hadden Presented to the House this morning was again read. And the said John Jay Robert Yates & John Sloss Hobart Esquires by order of the House were asked by the Speaker if the facts set forth in the said petition are true to which they replied in the affirmative. And the said John Jay, Robert Yates and John Sloss Hobart being then asked to assign their Reasons for refusing to allow a Habeas Corpus to the petitioner, they desired Leave to deliver their reasons in writing which being read are in the words following to wit—

The Reasons of John Jay Robert Yates and John Sloss Hobart Esqrs. for refusing the Habeas Corpus mentioned in the Petition of Thomas Hadden to the Honorable the Representatives of the State of New York In Assembly

That by an ordinance of the late Convention of the State of New York passed the 8th day of May last for organizing and establishing the Government agreed to by the said Convention many of the most necessary Officers of Government were appointed, and among others the said John Jay was appointed Chief Justice, and the said Robert Yates and John Sloss Hobart puisne Judges of this State.

That the said Ordinance after reciting " That it would be proper that all Officers within this State be as soon as possible appointed in the mode for that purpose prescribed by the Constitution did therefore resolve that all and singular the officers therein before appointed should respectively hold their Offices according to the tenure of such offices respectively specified in the said Constitution if respectively approved of by the Council for the appointment of Officers at their first Session."

That on the 16th day of September last this Honorable House did nominate and appoint four Senators, to wit, the honorable John Morin Scott, Abraham Yates, Jesse Woodhull and Alexander Webster Esqrs. to be the said Council for the Appointment of Officers in this State.

That the said Council have held their first Session and have neither approved or disapproved of the appointment of the said John Jay, Robert Yates or John Sloss Hobart to the offices aforesaid as they are informed. Wherefore they were unanimously of Opinion that they were no longer authorized to exercise the said Offices, and therefore did yesterday refuse to grant a Habeas Corpus to the said Thomas Hadden as mentioned in his said Petition, and they are the more induced to think this Opinion right as it corresponds with that of one of the honorable Members of the Council of Appointment, who assisted in framing the said Ordinance, and had thence an Opportunity of being well acquainted with its true intent & meaning.

Robert Yates

Fort Montgomery 4th October 1777.

Dear Brother.

By Capt. Lieut. Gano of the Artillery who has just come from Peeks Kill he informs me that the Enemy are Landed at Terry Town, that they have several Transports, & some men of Warr, with a number of flat Bottom'd Boats, & that the inhabitants at Peeks Kill are all moving away, and are in the Utmost Confusion. I have had no Account from Genl. Putnam. I am informed he is gone Down towards Kings Ferry to reconiter &c. Our Gallies & Privateer Sloop has not yet come up—neither has there been any Alarm Guns Fired, tho' there has been about 8 or 10 Cannon heard below—there is very few of the Militia yet come Down. I Can't tell you the number as I have had no Returns from them as yet—there has no Field Officers come down with any of the Regim'ts Except Major DuBois of Colo. Hasbrouck's Rigt. which are at Fort Constitution.

I have waited some time thinking I might have an Express from Genl. Putnam with a more Certain Account—but as I have Receiv'd none; I think it my duty to give you the Earliest notice Possible. Upon the Enemies Approach, You may Expect to hear the Alarm Guns fired here.

New Windsor 4th October 7 P. M. [1777].

D'r Brother,

I have this moment rec'd yours of this Date with an Account of the Enemy's Landing [at] Tarry Town, &ca. I am surprized you have not had a particular Account of it from Genl. Putnam & that no more of the Militia have yet arrived. I think on a Confirmation of the Account you had better send Express to the Orange Regiments to march in. I will set out for your Post in the Morning early & am

Yours Affectionately

Geo. Clinton.

I think the Alarm Guns ought to be fired the Moment it appears probable that the Enemy's Intentions are higher up the River or that is certain that they have landed any Number of Troops at Tarry Town; as that will be the most expeditious Way of collecting the Militia to oppose their Progress but for this I suppose you wait Genl. Putnam's Orders or the Alarm Gun at Peek's Kill.

The Inclosed is a Copy of a Letter* which I this Moment received by Express from my Brother Genl. James Clinton. In Consequence of which I have advised him immediatly to call in to his Post the Orange Militia and as soon as he shall have received a Confirmation of the Account, to fire the Signal Guns as the most expeditious Method of collecting the whole Militia to oppose the Progress of Enemy and to set out myself early Tomorrow Morning for that Quarter.

To the Honble. the Presid't of the Senate & Speaker of the Assembly.

P. S. 3 o'Clock Sunday Morning. You have inclosed a Copy of a Letter from Genl. Putnam which I have just now*received containing a more particular Acct. of the Enemy than that from my Brother, from which I am rather inclined to believe the Enemy's Intentions are to ravage West Chester County than any Thing serious ag't the Posts in the Highlands. However it is, but I believe that a Contrary Opinion prevails at Peek's Kill; least I shoud be Misstaken in my Conjecture & their Design shoud realy be what Genl. Putnam suspects. Late last Night I received a Resolution of the Honble. the Assembly inclosed in a Letter from the Speaker requesting the Council of Appointment to approve of the several Officers appointed by an Ordinance of the late Convention or to appoint others in their Stead. I cant think the Legislature woud wish me to attend a Meeting of the Council of Appointment till the Situation of our public Affairs in West Chester County be changed for the better. It was the Opinion of the Council that the Appointment of all such Officers woud be effectual till the End of the Present Sessions of the Legislature & as some of the Gentlemen who compose the Council were of the Committee for organizing the Government I conclude they must have therefore known the Meaning of the Ordinance. The first Session of the Council of Appointment in my Opinion is not yet ended nor will it in the sense of the Ordinance till the End of the first Sessions of the Legislature if we continue regularly to adjourn over which we have hitherto done, otherwise we shoud at our first Meeting & before we'd adjourned at all to have appointed all those Officers which would have been for want of proper Information Imprudent. To prevent all Doubts however I will as early as in my Power convene the Council & have that Matter settled.

* See page 360.

THE ENEMY REPORTED AT STONY POINT.

Major Moffat Informs James Clinton of the Result of a Skirmish with Tories near Sufferns.

Ramapough Clove 5th Oct'r 1777.

S'r,

As the Enemy are in Motion & their destination as yet unknown to me, I thout prudent having an Opportunity P' Col. Livingston to advise you of my Strength at this post which with the reinforcement I have received from Col. Hathorn's Reigment amounts to scarce Two Hundred Men Officers included. Major Wisner who is with the last detachment says they are not all in that he Expects but if they were I am affraid they would be insufficient in case of an Attack as many of their Arms are poor and We are scarce of flints having none but what are in Use and many of them bad; should have sent to you for some to day but was disappointed in geting a Horse timeously if you have any Horse men to Spare should be glad you would send me some by one of them.

The last Account I had of the Enemy was that they were in Haverstraw Bay Standing up the River, their Van near Stony Point and that their fleet consisted of 9 Topsail Vessels a Number of Sloops, Gallies &c. with about 50 flat Bottomed Boats and appeared to have a considerable Number of Troops on Board.

I have wrote to Major Gutches [Goetchius] desireing he would afford me what assistance he can in-case of Necessity. Should have wrote for the remainder of Col. Hathorn's Regiment but expect you have ordered them here—as Col. Malcomb is yet at home should be glad he was ordered here to take the Command if you think proper.

The Day before yesterday I Received intelligence that a Number of Tory Rascals often passed to New York through the Mesonakos Woods below Suffern's and often took honest peoples Horses with them to the Enemy. Amongst the Sufferers Mr. Suffern lost Two on Thursday Night last upon which he gave me the above information and offered to pilot any party that I would send out to waylay them. I immediately ordered Capt. Wood with about 20 Men to go to Mr. Suffers about dark and follow his directions who accordingly went and had the good fortune about Two in the Morning to fall in with a party of those Villians to the Number of about 8 or 10 and fired upon them (after Challenging properly and they refusing to Stand), Killed one dead on the Spot wounded another so Badly he Died Next Morning about 9 o'Clock.

When Capt. Wood fired upon them he had but 6 Men with him (having sent the rest to surround two Suspected Houses in that vicinity) and not knowing but the enemy were Numerous (it being very dark and in a thick Wood) thought it prudent to retire a little distance 'till he could collect his force together, by which means some that were wounded escaped—the man that was found alive in the Morning said three more were badly wounded.

The one that was killed Dead has in his pocket a purse with 7 half Joes, 1 whole Joe, 6 Guines, 4 Spanish Dollers and some small Silver in it; he had also with him a pair of Silver Shoe Buckles and knee Buckles, besides a Bundle of Cloaths—they found one Gun and some other Small Matters—the whole I suppose is worth between 50 & 60 Pounds which I have ordered the Capt. to divide amongst his Men—it is most probable that he who was killed Dead was out Inlisting Men as he brough these from Sterling, Near which he was seen and the Night before was heard to drink a health to King George and Damnation to the Congress—his name was Micael Brady as appeared by a pass he had procured from Docter Joseph Sacket to go to Philadelphia—it was dated the 17th of May last—the Name of the other I have forgot.

I am with respect Your most Obedient & very Hum'e Servant

Thomas Moffat Major.

BATTLE OF GERMANTOWN.

An Excellent Description from an Anonymous Correspondent.

[Note on original Copy. "Correct any Errors in spelling, &c. & it may be publish'd—it is a hasty unexamind copy. F. D."]

Camp 20 Miles from Philadelphia

October 5th 1777.

In my last I mentioned that I was in hopes a Spirit of Enterprize would soon animate our Army. I had grounds for what I said, from two interupted Letters which fell into the General's hands we found that the Enemy's army were considerably divided. In consequence of which an attack of the Enemy Situated in German Town was planned, in the following order, Sullivan's & Wayne's division with Conway's Brigade & Armstrong's Militia were to form our right Wing, Green's & Stevens' Divisions with McDougall's Brigade & Smallwood's & Foreman's Militia our left. Sullivan's & Wayne's divisions were to attack the left Wing of the Enemy in front, while Conway's Brigade attacked it in flank, & Armstrong's Militia in flank & rear; Green's & Steven's Divisions were to attack the Right of the Enemy's front, McDougall's Brigade in Flank, & Smallwood's & Foreman's in flank & rear, Maxwell's & Nash's Brigade formed our Corps de Reserve under Lord Sterlings.

About 8 o'Clock on Friday Evening we marched from our Encampment about 20 miles from Philadelphia, & in order to Shorten the line of march as much as possible & the better to attack the different parts of the Enemy's lines, Conway, Sullivan & Wayne followed by the Reserve marched down one Road, Green Stevens & McDougall another, Armstrong a third, & Smallwood & Foreman a fourth Road. The attack was to have commenced at 5 o'Clock in the morning. I can only inform you of what was done on our Right as it was in that part that I was.

About ten minutes before Six o'Clock in the morning a firing began between the head of Conway's Column & the Enemy's pickett, who being drove back were Supported by their Light Infantry, by which time Sullivan's Division marched up & formed and a very warm & Close firing commenced on each part. Wayne's Division soon afterwards got up to their ground, and as the Contest was obstinate Lord Sterling was ordered up to Support Conway and Sullivan. After a Sharp conflict, the Enemy gave ground, and in a Short time retreated with precipitation. Our Troops pursued them with ardour, and with as much haste as the nature of the Ground would admitt, which was exceedingly incuntered with fences, the pulling down of which not a little retarded us. During the Enemy's flight our men kept up a brisk firing upon them, & pursued them above two miles, took possession of their upper Camp which they left with all their furniture, orderly Books & victuals remaining in it, and chased them as far as Chew's large House in German Town. Much to the Honour of our men none Staid to plunder their Camp.

The Victory over the left Wing of the Enemy which was composed of their light Infantry & best Troops was to all appearances complete, and our men were marching on to possess themselves of the rest of German Town when they found themselves very much galled from a party of the Enemy which had threw themselves into Chew's House. This is a large Stone building, I believe, of above 60 feet in front, with two pavillions of the Same materials in its rear. Four pieces of artillery were ordered to play upon it but as our metal was not heavy & the Walls were very thick our Execution was then but trifling. We were thus delayed Some time by this confounded House, when the General gave directions & file off to the right & left of it, & to leave Ogden's Regiment to awe the party in it Should they attempt when we passed it to Selly out & fall upon our Rear; but before this judicious order could be put into execution, a Strong reinforcement came up to the assistance of the besieged in the House and a Smart firing was began on our men, after this has lasted Some time, the greatest part of our men having expended all their ammunition broke & retreated about half an hour after nine o'Clock but brought off all their artillery & the greatest part of their wounded with them.

I can relate nothing of my own knowledge, or that we had any information of upon the field of what passed on our left, and can only impute our retreat to the following Circumstances: The Morning was exceedingly foggy, & the fog did not break away during the whole of the Engagement; this prevented our men from having always a clear view of the Enemy, and I believe they frequently continued firing a considerable while after the Enemy had got out of their reach, this considering the length of time they were engaged, (from a little before Six till $\frac{1}{2}$ past after nine,) & the warm firing that was kept up during that time without any considerable cessation, must, you may well imagine occasion a great expenditure of ammunition. Then the party in Chew's House retarded us a good while & gave time for the Enemy to rally their broken forces & bring up others to their assistance; add to this, I verily believe, that after our men's ammunition was gone & the Enemy were advancing in force upon them that, owing to the mist they mistook part of our own men for the Enemy, which made them think the Enemy was on their flanks when in fact they were only in front.

Our heroic general was with our right wing and was very much exposed during the greatest part of the action, He did every thing to gain us Success & to insure it and had it not been for the Causes which I have mentioned above, to which may be added our ignorance of what was passing on our left Wing and on that part of our right where Genl. Armstrong was to attack, (which was likewise chiefly owing to the fog) I really think if it had not been for these Causes the Victory would have been complete & we should have dined in Philadelphia.

Our Right Wing retreated in tolerable order & was covered by part of our Cavalry. The Enemy did not pursue for Some time, & when they did they never came near our rear, nor did they advance further than White Marsh Meeting House, but I presume they must have picked up, as is always the Case on a retreat many Stragglers.

Our Officers in general behaved with the greatest bravery and many very gallant ones are wounded, our loss I believe has fallen more among them in proportion to their numbers than on the men, though our men went up to the attack with the greatest ardour & alacrity imaginable & in general, 'till the retreat, behaved as well as any men could do. We got possession during the Engagement of four pieces of their Cannon, but not having any Horses to carry them off, we were obliged to leave them on our Retreat. Our Officer of the light Horse has just now informed us that he has seen Mr. West at whose House Some of the English Officers dined, & they Said the rout of their men who were first engaged was so complete & the Consternation so great that orders were given to retreat to Chester—from hence it is evident that had we had ammunition enough to have repelled the last attack of the Enemy, which I imagine was their last effort, collected while we were employed with Chew's House, that our Success must have been attended with the most ruinous Consequences to the Enemy.

We have just heard from General Green that he attacked the right of the Enemy among whom were their Grenadiers lower down in German Town that Chew's House, & that after having routed them, they rallied & were reinforced when after Some time our men gave way, mistaking (it is Supposed) the left of our right Wing for the Enemy, & thinking they were going to be attacked by them in flank & rear Genl. Armstrong we are informed was engaged on our Right with Some Hessians whom he obliged to retreat, but was afterwards obliged to retire in his turn, the Enemy having gained his Right & attempting to throw a body of men into some woods in his Rear.

Count Pulaski with a few Horse (I have heard) attacked a party of about thirty of the Enemy's Infantry, who clubbed their firelocks as a token they were willing to Surrender but the Count (it is said) not understanding what they meant by it, & thinking I presume that they intended to knock his Horses brains out, fired his pistol at them on which imagining they were to receive no quarters they presented their firelocks, fired & routed our Small party of Horse. Generals Smallwood & Foreman fell in with a reinforcement of the Enemy marching from Philadelphia to German Town & exchanged a few fires with them.

The Officers who dined with Mr. West Spoke highly of the behaviour of our men and of the disposition of our attack, & said they frequently endeavored to gain our flanks but were always baffled by meeting with Some part of our Troops. We have taken a few of their Officers particularly a Captain of the light Infantry & an Hessian Officer. On the whole notwithstanding our Retreat the Enemy have gained no advantage of any consequence over us. We have lost no baggage & no artillery and the Enemy are only on the Same ground they were before. On the other hand our men are now convinced they can drive the chosen Troops of the Enemy, their Light Infantry & Grenadiers whenever they attack them with ardour, & are Satisfied they would have been Successful if their ammunition had not been expended and they had not mistaken their own men for the Enemy. They are now in high Spirits & appear to wish ardently for another Engagement. I have wrote this Scrawl in such a hurry that I am afraid you will not be able to make it out, & I have not time to read it over, but if it is legible after you have perused it Send it to ——* by the first opportunity.

He received a wound by a muskett ball which went through the fleshy part of his right shoulder, but has not touched the bone; this he received in the beginning of the action, but it did not in the least abate his ardour. He received afterwards a blow on his side from a Spent ball as he was coming from Chew's House, to the very Door of which he went up Sword in hand; the blow however only occasioned a Swelling in the part Struck—poor General Nash has had his thigh Shattered & his Horse killed by a Cannon Ball.

Genl. Sullivan has two of his aid de camps dangerously wounded, Major White who came with Colo. Laurens from Carolina is one of them. Colo. Stone is wounded in his ankle, & his major also received a wound; Lieut. Colo. Parker of Spotswood's Regiment is wounded & so is Colo. Hendericks of Virginia, several other Officers particularly of those who belonged to the Right Wing were wounded. Generals Wayne & Conway & L'd Sterling had their Horses Shot under them. Colonels Burhan & Irwine of the North Carolina Brigade were lame & have both fallen into the Enemy's hands. I am called on to conclude my letter & must therefore hasten to FORTS CLINTON AND MONTGOMERY FALL.

George Clinton's Report to the Council—The Militia Put up a Brave Defence in the Face of Superior Numbers—General James Clinton Seriously Wounded.

*New Windsor, 7th October, 1777.

Gentlemen—The extreme fatigue I have undergone the three days past, and the want of rest for an equal number of nights, renders me unfit to write you on matters of so serious consequences to this State, as I have to communicate.

*From the Journal of the Council of Safety.

I am able only briefly to inform you, that yesterday about 10 o'clock A. M. our advanced party was attacked by the enemy at Doodle Town, about $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles from Fort Montgomery; they consisted of but 30 men; the enemy by appearance and accounts, so far received, of 5,000.

They received the enemy's fire and returned it, and retreated to Fort Clinton; soon after, we received intelligence that the enemy were advancing on the west side of the mountain, with design to attack us in rear.

Upon this I ordered out Lieut. Colos. Bruyn and McClaghry, with upwards of 100 men, towards Doodle Town, and a brass field piece, with a detachment of 60 men, on every advantageous post on the road to the furnace.

They were not long out, before they were both attacked by the enemy with their whole force; our people behaved with spirit, and must have made great slaughter of the enemy.

I strengthened the party on the furnace road to upwards of 100, but they were obliged to give way to so superior a force as the enemy brought against them.

They kept their field piece in full play at them, till the men who worked it were drove off with fixed bayonets, then spiked it, and retreated with great good order to a 12 pounder, which I had ordered to cover them, and from thence in the fort.

I immediately posted my men in the most advantageous manner for the defence of the post, and it was not many minutes before, as well our post as Fort Clinton was invested on all sides, and a most incessant fire kept up till night; and soon after dusk, when the enemy forced our lines and redoubts at both posts, and the garrisons were obliged to fight their way out, as many as could, as we were determined not to surrender, and many have escaped.

I was summoned, sun an hour high, to surrender in five minutes, and thereby prevent the effusion of blood.

I sent Lieut. Colo. Livingston to receive the flag, who informed them that he had no orders to treat with them, except to receive their proposals, if they meant to surrender themselves prisoners of war, in which case he was empowered to assure them good usage.

About 10 minutes after, they made a general and desperate attack on both posts, which was resisted with great spirit, but we were at length overpowered by numbers, and they gained the possession of both posts.

Officers and men behaved with great spirit, as well Continental troops as militia.

Our loss in slain can not be great, considering the length of the action.

My brother, Genl. Clinton, is wounded, and I believe made prisoner.

This is the case with Major Logan.

The number of missing I can not ascertain.

The ships are both burnt and Fort Constitution demolished, by our people, without my orders; but I can not, as yet, condemn the measure.

The officers all say it was right.

I am clear it was as to the fort, after removing artillery and stores, which has not been done.

The ships I hoped might have been saved.

Genl. Putnam will retreat to near Capt. Haight's, about three miles from Mrs. Van Wyck's, and I mean to rally my broken but brave forces, and advance to-morrow on Butter hill.

Genl. Putnam is to send Colo. Webb's regiment to join me.

I beg you will give the substance of this account to Genl. Gates, in answer to his letter to me.

I have only to add that I greatly regret the loss of those posts; but I am consoled with the full persuasion that they have bought them dear, and that I have done the most in my power to save them.

I beg you to excuse incorrectness,

And am with due respect,

Your most obedt. servt.

Geo. Clinton.*

P. S. Major Lush is, I believe, their prisoner.

*Under date of October 15, 1777, Washington wrote to George Clinton:

I was this day honored with yours of the 9th, containing a full account of the storm of Forts Montgomery and Clinton. General Putnam had given me information of the loss two days before, but not in so full and ample a manner. It is to be regretted that so brave a resistance did not meet with a suitable reward. You have however the satisfaction of knowing, that every thing was done, that could possibly be done by a handful against a far superior force. This I am convinced was the case. This affair might have been attended with fatal consequences, had not there been a most providential intervention in favor of General Gates's arms on the 7th instant; but I am fully of opinion, that Sir Henry Clinton will not advance much farther up the river, upon hearing of Burgoyne's defeat and retreat. Nothing but absolute necessity could have induced me to withdraw any further part of the troops allotted for the defense of the posts up the North River; but such was the reduced state of our Continental regiments, after the battle of Brandywine, and such the slowness and difficulty of procuring reinforcements of militia from the southward, that without the troops from Peekskill we should scarcely have been able to keep the field against General Howe. I had the greatest hopes, that General Putnam would draw in as many Connecticut militia, as would replace the Continental troops, and I make no doubt but he did all in his power to obtain them in time. I am sorry that you were under the necessity of destroying the frigates. The only consolation is, that if we had not done it ourselves, the enemy would either have done it for us, or have carried them down for their own use.

Since the battle of Germantown, upon the 4th instant, the two armies have remained in a manner quiet. The enemy have made several attempts to remove the obstructions in the Delaware, but hitherto without effect. They are now making preparations to raise batteries in the rear of Fort Mifflin, which commands the uppermost chevaux-de-frise. If we can maintain that post, and one opposite, upon the Jersey shore, I am in hopes our ships, galleys, and floating batteries will be able to keep their stations and repel any force, that can be brought by water directly in front. I most earnestly expect further news from the northward, which I hope will bring us accounts of the total ruin of Burgoyne's army.

It is not unlikely that one of Sir Henry Clinton's objects will be to destroy the boats and small craft in the North River. Should this be the case, and he succeed, I think it will be advisable for you to set a number of workmen to building flat-bottomed boats at some secure places within three or four miles of the water, from which they may be easily hauled. They are so exceedingly useful, and so frequently wanted, that I think the business cannot, in such case, be too soon begun or carried on with too much expedition. I have written to General Putnam upon the same subject. I am, dear Sir, &c.

[No. 819.]

Gen. Putnam Believes the Objective Point of the British is Albany.

Dear Sir,

Yours with a Copy of General Gates's I have Rec'd and agreeable to your request have Orderd Colonel S. B. Webb's Regiment to march & Immediately join you; I will Immediately make inquiry about the Arms you mentioned & if Possible they shall be Conveyd over to you with the Utmost Dispatch; Last night I arrived here, the Baggage Ordinance Stores &c. are moving up with all Possible expedition;

P. S. By sundry concurring accounts of persons out of Philadelphia and from Deserters, the Enemy's loss in the action of the 4th was very considerable. The lowest say it was 1500 killed and wounded, others 2000, and some as high as 2500. Perhaps the last two are exaggerated, but there are many reasons to believe that the first cannot much exceed the mark. For they were compleatly surprized and drove in great disorder for a long time and for a considerable distance at every point of attack. Had it not been for the extreme fogginess of the day which prevented our several Columns discovering each others movements and from improving the advantages which they separately gained, in all probability the day would have been a most fortunate one—But owing to that circumstance they got confused and retreated at a moment when there was every appearance of victory in our favor. The Enemy lost some valuable officers among the slain Genl. Agnew and it is said another Genl officer was dangerously wounded. We are not without [] on our part. Brigadr. Nash was wounded by a Cannon Ball and is since dead. We had also several other officers of inferior rank wounded and some killed—This crude undigested account I dont mean for publication. I hope all will yet end well.

From Bemus Heights, October 9, 1777, James Wilkinson wrote to Clinton:

General Gates has this moment received a copy of your letter of the 7th inst. to the Council of Safety, and being much engaged, has desired me to tell you that he condoles with you on the loss of so important a pass, but congratulates you on the bravery and address of your little garrison. To compensate for this disaster, we had, on the 7th inst. an action with General Burgoyne, which reflects the highest honour on our arms, as we carried his encampment and advance works, took two twelve, and six six-pounders, brass, with a number of carts, tents, and a considerable quantity of baggage; made prisoners the commanding officers of artillery of a foreign brigade, and of the British grenadiers, with his aid-de-camp, Sir Francis Clarke, a quarter-master-general of the army, and a number of inferior rank, with about 250 non-commissioned officers and privates. The slain both of officers and men is considerable; among the former is Genl. Frazer. The consequent hurry has prevented a return; but I am sensible do not exceed 80. Of the former, there is barely one subaltern officer; among the latter is the gallant General Arnold, so badly injured as to render the amputation of a leg necessary. To aggravate this misfortune, General Lincoln yesterday, on the lines, received a chance shot, which also fractured a leg in such a manner as to deprive us of his important service.

General Burgoyne last night evacuated his post, leaving behind him upwards of 300 sick and wounded, among whom are six captains, with a quantity of flour, and has retired towards Fort Edward. But as General Gates had taken the precaution to throw about 2000 men in his rear, on the east side of the river, it is probable they will obstruct his retreat and give us time to come up with him. The militia you demand were yesterday ordered down; and the Albany county, with 300 Connecticut militia under General Wolcott, will this day, if the weather permits, follow them.

Since I had the pleasure of seeing you, many Circumstances of Importance strikes my attention which I now shall with pleasure Communicate to you, In the first, Its my Opinion that the Enemy's Vessel of Four which are now Down the River, are only kept there with a view of Drawing Our Attention towards them & prevent us from making that Preparation (which in my Opinion we ought by every Possible means to do) to Oppose there Progress to Albany, they may Probably bring up there Shipping near the Cheveaux De Frize, but its my real and Sincere Opinion that Destroying the Chain &c. are by no means (at this juncture) there Chief Object, Its my firm Opinion that they will by every Possible Means Indeaavour to Make Forced Marches towards Albany, & convey up the Baggage Stores &c. in the small Crafts;—I shall use my Utmost Efforts & Collect the Militia with all Possible Speed, the same Steps I make no Doubt will be forwarded by you.

Joining Burgoyne is Certainly there first & Chief Object. I would therefore Mention that the Moment our Baggage Stores &c. are mov'd into some secure Place, we ought to Proceed towards Albany & act in Conjunction with Genl. Gates. I have wrote Him & shall hope to have his Opinion very soon, yours upon the Subject I hope to be favoured with Immediately which will greatly Oblige, Major Moffat Reports that Washington has Received Heavy Reinforcements.

Ramapough Clove 8th Oct'r 1777.

Sir,

When I wrote you yesterday I forgot to mention that I had four Prisoners of War at this Post who were taken the Day before yesterday near King's Ferry. I have sent them this Day to Goshen with a warrant to the Goal Keeper to receive them, and see that they are properly Provided for, untill he delivers them to some person regularly authorized to receive them. You will be pleased to give the Necessary directions if an alteration in their Situation should be Necessary.

I have just now received a very straight & I believe Authentic Account that on Saturday last Genl. Washington dislodged Mr. How from all his Advantagious Post near Germantown and destroyed a large part of his Army—that Genl. Washington had afterwards received a reinforcement of five thousand Men from Virginia and three thousand from Maryland and was determined to renew the Attack shortly and also that the Enemy had attempted three times to pass the fortifications and obstructions in the Delliware and were as often repulsed with great loss and Dammage to their Shipping.

No Enemy have yet appeared in this Quarter.

CLINTON TELLS OF HIS DEFEAT.

His Report to the Legislature—James Clinton not so Badly Injured or the American Loss not so Heavy as at First Apprehended.

[Oct. 8, 1777.]

Gentlemen,

I wrote to the Legislature yesterday giving them as particular an Account of the loss of Forts Montgomery & Clinton as I was then Able Since which I have the Pleasure to inform you that Genl. Clinton is got in & his Wound does not appear to be any ways Dangerous many other of our Officers have also arived who we had Reason to believe were made Prisoners, not more than 11 Officers of Colo. Du Bois's Regim't are Missing two hundred of his Men including Non Commissioned have already Joined me at this Place & many more of them may be expected as we have heard of their Escape, many also of the two Companies of Artillery who were at those Posts have escaped & joined us & more of them Hourly expected.

The Night I left Fort Montgomery as my Escape was effected by crossing the River I waited upon Genl. Putnam at Continental Village in Order to concert the proper Measures to be pursued after this unfortunate Event. The Genl. Officers there agreed in Oppinion with me that the Intention of the Enemy under Sir Henry Clinton was to Relief Burgoine's Army by effecting a Junction with him; That as they had carried the Forts his next Business was to pass the Cheveaux Defrize & so proceed by Water up the River.

Our Posts at Peeks Kill & Sydnam's by the Loss of those which commanded the Navigation have losst their Importance. It was therefore agreed that Genl. Putnam should Retreat with his Army to very defensible pass in the Mountains about 3 Miles from Fishkill where he is in the most Speedy Manner to get in the Eastern Militia—I, to rally my Forces near this Place, to call on all Militia of Orange & this end of Ulster to be furnished with a Continental Regt. from Genl. Putnam's Army to defend the Cheveaux Defrize in the best Manner I can & as long. That as soon as we find the Enemy can raise or pass it both Armies to move Northward so to keep pace with them covering the Posts of the Country which woud be the greatest Object till they shall think proper to Land. As soon as ever I find the Shipping likely to pass the Cheveaux Defrize I will by forced March endeavour to gain Kingston & cover that Town. I shall have 1 Brass twenty four Pounder & Six Smaller Brass Pieces which will make a formidable Train. I am perswaded if the Militia will join me which I have Reason to hope I can save the Country a few Scattering Houses excepted along the River from Destruction & defeat the Enemy's Design in assisting their Northern Army.

A Deserter who had been taken & forced to enlist in Fanning's Regt. came into us yesterday from the Enemy at Fort Montgomery immediatly after it was taken, informs me that the Enemy's Loss was very great, That Genl. Sir Henry Clinton commanded in Person had three other Genl. Officers with him their Force was 5000 three thousand British Troops & Hessian Yaagers the Remainder New Levies, Commanded by Brig'r Genl. Beverly Robinson & Colo. Fanning. he says their Loss was great. I have only to add that tho the Country Esteem the Posts Lost of the greatest moment yet the manner in which they were defended has given such Gen. Sattisfaction as to elate & not depress their Spirits.

[G. C.]

[To Council of Safety.]

*[N. B. I am this moment informed by Genl. Putnam, that the eastern militia come in very fast; that he is confident that he will soon have ten thousand men with him; in which case he will keep posts up as far as Poughkeepsie and Rynbeck to head the enemy, should they push up the river. We shall save considerable of the stores at Fort Constitution, and perhaps some of the artillery, as the enemy had not got up that high yesterday.]

GEORGE CLINTON REPORTS TO WASHINGTON.

The Garrison Made a Spirited Defense but was Overwhelmed by Superior Numbers.

†New Windsor, 9 October, 1777.

Dear General,

I have to inform you, that, in consequence of intelligence received by General Putnam from General Parsons (who lay with his brigade at White Plains), of the enemy's having received a reinforcement from Europe at New York, and that by their movements there was reason to believe they intended an attack on Peekskill, and to possess themselves of the passes in the Highlands, the General immediately wrote to me these circumstances; and, to prevent if possible the disagreeable consequences, that might arise if the army at the different posts were not timely reinforced, I ordered that part of the militia of this State, that had not already marched to the northward, to move, and part of them to join General Putnam, and the remainder to reinforce the posts of Fort Montgomery and Fort Clinton; but, it being a critical time with the yeomanry, as they have not yet sown their grain, and there being at that time no appearance of the enemy, they were extremely restless and uneasy. They solicited General Putnam for leave to return, and many of them went home without his permission. Urged by these considerations he thought proper to dismiss a part of them.

*From the Journal of the Council of Safety.

†From Sparks' Writings of Washington.

As I thought it essentially necessary, that they should remain in the field for some time, in order to check the progress of the enemy, should they attempt to put their designs in execution, I issued another order for one half of them immediately to march, part of them to join General Putnam, and a sufficient number to reinforce the forts and the pass at Sydman's Bridge at the mouth of the Clove; and, in order to induce them to turn out with the greater alacrity, I thought it necessary to fix their time of service to one month, at the expiration of which time they were to be relieved by the other half. While this was in agitation, and before a proper arrangement could possibly be made by the respective officers, as to what part of them could serve for the first month, they were not so expeditious as was absolutely necessary, which the event has fully evinced. A number of the enemy's ships made their appearance on the 3d instant in Tarrytown Bay, where they weighed anchor the next day, being joined by several ships of war and transports from New York. They proceeded up the river as high as King's Ferry, and at daybreak on Sunday the 5th landed a considerable body of men on Verplanck's Point.

As I was apprehensive from many circumstances, that an attack on the forts was intended, I despatched Major Logan, an alert officer, who was well acquainted with the ground, on Sunday evening through the mountains to reconnoitre, and if possible gain intelligence of the enemy's motions. The Major returned about nine o'clock on Monday, informing me that, from the best intelligence he could procure, and the rowing of the boats, he had reason to believe they had landed a considerable force on the west side of the river at King's Ferry, and between that and Dunderberg; but, as the morning was foggy, it was impossible to discern them, so as to form any judgment of their numbers. As soon as I had obtained this intelligence, I immediately despatched Lieutenant Jackson with a small party to discover the enemy's movements; but they had not proceeded more than two miles on the Haverstraw Road when they were attacked by a party of the enemy, who had formed an ambuscade at a place called Doodletown. They immediately retreated after returning the fire. As soon as the firing was heard, I detached Lieutenant-Colonel Bruyn with fifty Continental troops, and as many of the militia under Lieutenant-Colonel McLaughry, to sustain Lieutenant Jackson; the garrison being at that time so weak, that we could not afford them greater aid on that road, and I imagined it would be necessary to send out a party likewise on the road, which leads to the Forest of Dean. The detachments under Colonels Bruyn and McLaughry were soon engaged, but, being too weak to withstand the enemy's great force, retreated to Fort Clinton, disputing the ground inch by inch. Their gallant opposition, and the roughness of the ground, checked the progress of the enemy for some time.

While matters were in this situation in the neighbourhood of Fort Clinton, a large body of the enemy were advancing on the road, which leads from the Forest of Dean to Fort Montgomery. As I had only one field-piece at the above fort, I ordered Colonel Lamb of the artillery to send it off to an advantageous post on that road, with a covering party of sixty men, and another of the same number to sustain them, in order to give the enemy a check, and retard their movements till I could receive a reinforcement from General Putnam, to whom I had sent an express for that purpose. This order being immediately complied with, the piece had hardly reached the place of its destination, and the covering party been posted on strong ground, when the enemy were seen advancing with hasty strides; but being unexpectedly annoyed by discharges of grape-shot from the field-piece, and a well-directed fire from the muskets, which made great havoc among them, as we have since been informed, they were repeatedly driven back, till, filing off through the woods upon the right and left with a view of surrounding our men, and the handful of brave fellows being alarmed at their critical situation, they were constrained to abandon the field-piece, after rendering it useless to the enemy by spiking it. In order to cover the men who were retreating, and to check the farther progress of the enemy, I ordered out a twelve-pounder, which, being well served with grape-shot, annoyed them greatly, and gave the men an opportunity of retreating into the garrison with very little loss on our side, except that of Captain Fenno, who commanded the field-piece, and was made a prisoner.

This was about two o'clock in the afternoon; and the enemy approached the works and began the attack, which continued with few intervals till about five o'clock, when an officer appeared with a flag. I ordered Lieutenant-Colonel Livingston to meet him without the works and know his business. Colonel Livingston having demanded his rank and business, he was told by the bearer of the flag, that he was Lieutenant-Colonel Campbell, and that he came to demand the surrender of the fort to prevent the effusion of blood. Colonel Livingston replied that he had no authority to treat with him, but, if they would surrender themselves prisoners of war, they might depend upon being well treated; and if they did not choose to accept of those terms they might renew the attack as soon as he should return within the fort, he being determined to defend it to the last extremity. As soon as Lieutenant-Colonel Livingston returned, the attack was renewed with great violence; and, after as obstinate a resistance as our situation and the weakness of the garrison would admit, having defended the works from two o'clock till the dusk of the evening, the enemy, by the superiority of numbers, forced the works on all sides. The want of men prevented us from sustaining and supporting every part, having received no reinforcement from General Putnam.

Our loss, killed, wounded, and prisoners, is not so great as might have been expected, when the strength of the enemy and our weakness are properly considered. My brother was wounded with a bayonet. Many officers and men and myself, having the advantage of the enemy by being well acquainted with the ground, were so fortunate as to effect our escape under cover of the night, after the enemy were possessed of all the works. I was so happy as to get into a boat, crossed the river, and immediately waited on General Putnam, with a view of concerting measures for our future operations, to prevent the designs of General Clinton, and impede his progress in facilitating the movements of Burgoyne from the northward. I can assure your Excellency, that I am well convinced, if night had not approached rather too fast to correspond with our wishes, the enemy would have been disappointed in their expectations; as a reinforcement of five hundred men from General Putnam's army were at the east side of the river, ready to pass for our relief, when the works were forced; and many of the militia were in the mountains on their march to join us, had not the communication between us and them been cut off.

I have to add that by some fatality the two Continental frigates were lost, they having been ordered down by General Putnam for the defence of the chain; but, being badly manned, they could not be got off in time, though I ordered the ship Congress to proceed to Fort Constitution the day before the attack, lest she should meet with a disaster; and the ship Montgomery, which lay near the chain, having neither anchor nor cables to secure her, it being the ebb of tide and the wind failing, fell down so near the chain, that Captain Hodge was constrained to set her on fire to prevent her from falling into the hands of the enemy. The Congress, unfortunately getting aground on the flat near Fort Constitution, shared the same fate. Fort Constitution, being destitute of troops to defend it, was evacuated, after bringing off part of the stores. I am now about three miles from New Windsor, with Colonel Samuel B. Webb's regiment of Continental troops, the remains of Colonel Dubois', about one hundred of Colonel Lamb's regiment, who escaped from the fort, and some militia; and I intend to collect what force I possibly can to oppose the enemy, should they land on this side of the river.

Sir Henry Clinton commanded in person. Governor Tryon, General Vaughan, and two other general officers, were with him. The army who attacked us, by the lowest account, consisted of three thousand, chiefly British and Hessian troops. The garrison of both our posts did not exceed six hundred men, and many of these unarmed militia. The ordinary garrison was thus reduced by detaching Major Moffat with two hundred men to the post at Sydman's Bridge, and Colonel Malcom's regiment being ordered from thence, and sixty men on Anthony's Nose by General Putnam's orders, received the day before the action. I have only to add, that where great losses are sustained, however unavoidable, public censure is generally the consequence to those who are immediately concerned. If in the present instance this should be the case, I wish, so far as relates to Fort Montgomery and its dependencies, it may fall on me alone; for I should be guilty of the greatest injustice, were I not to declare, that the officers and men under me of the different corps behaved with the greatest spirit and bravery. I am, &c.

George Clinton.

JOHN SLOSS HOBART CONCERNED.

Protection Needed for a Flour Depot—He Suggests that the Militia Be Concentrated Upon Burgoyne.

Sharon 9th October 1777.

Dear Sir,

I was made exceeding unhappy yesterday morning with the news that Fort Montgomery was lost, my apprehensions as an American were great, but what greatly encreased them was the fear that your Excellency and my Father must have fallen with it. These considerations made my distress almost insupportable; I took horse with a determination to look for some satisfactory account, and rode on 'till I heard that one of the Frigates had been abandoned and burnt, and that your Excellency had swam the River and escaped after the fort was taken—this was a great Relief to me; and finding that all the militia from Amenia Precinct were marching down and that a number were also going from this Town, which has already furnished upwards of 300 men for the service, I thought it my duty to return & endeavour that some measures should be taken to guard the Continental magazine in this Town which contains about 3000 Bbls. of flour. The guard here is but small, only a subaltern's Command of 13 or 14 invalids from Swift's Regiment; an addition of 25 was made to them last Night. I am doubtful whether so many can be procured to Night.

From Sallisbury they have wrote to the governor of this State for 500 men to guard the furnace and this magazine. In the mean time the authority of this Town have desired Coll. Burril to furnish a guard here; just now I saw a Letter from Genll. Putnam to Mr. Canfield requesting that the Militia might be forwarded. Should this request be complied with, I greatly fear the Consequence, I am sure the disaffected could not, any way, give such effectual assistance to the Enemy as by destroying this flour. While I am writing on this subject I must remind your Excellency that there is a considerable quantity of that article near the Banks of Hudson's River. It ought undoubtedly to be removed. How far the Legislature of our State may think themselves warrented to interpose in this matter without the intervention of the Council of Revision, is uncertain; at any rate, there can be no doubt that the Commander of the Continental Troops, may order the removal of every thing that is in danger of falling in the Enemies way.

As it is painfull to me to brood over the dark side of an event, I have been casting about for the advantages to be derived from our loss of Hudson's River, and I sincerely think it may prove one of the most unfortunate events of the War to the Enemy; if all the Militia of this State were ordered imediately to Albany, a sufficient force would be soon collected not only to prevent the meditated Junction but to defeat both armies and put an end to the war not only to the Glory of our arms but to the safety and Happiness of our Country, I am no military man, and, therefore, expect your indulgence, but methinks a few judicious movements, might induce Burgoyne from the hopes of effecting a Junction to quit his advantageous position and give our army an opportunity of fighting him under every advantage they would wish for.

I am fearfull that the want of information at Head Quarters may prevent the necessary measures being taken to guard this magazine and remove the flour from Hudson's River; shall therefore direct the Bearer, if he can't find your Excellency in Camp, to desire Genll. Putnam to open this Letter.

I wish you could spare a few minutes just to inform me of the particulars of that unhappy affair, and of the fate of those in whose welfare you know I feel myself interested.

I have the honour to be with equale Truth and respect

Your Excellency's most obed't hble. Serv't

Jno. Sloss Hobart.

I was likewise to inform Genl. Burgoyne that they had now the Key of America—(say the passes thro: the Highlands of Hudson's River).

MILITIA UNCERTAIN.

So George Clinton Informs the Council of Safety—He is Prepared to Fall Back on Kingston— The Enemy's Losses at Montgomery.

Head Quarters Mrs. Falls' 10th October 1777.

Gentlemen,

When I wrote you last I was in great hopes of being able to have collected and imbodyed so many of the Militia of this and Orange County as with the two small Continental Regiments now with me and the Reinforcement promised me by General Putnam I should have such a formidable Force as to enable me to prevent the Enemy's penetrating the Country by throwing myself in between them and the most Important Places as they moved up the River.

But I am sorry to inform you I am greatly disappointed in my Expectations. The Militia do not join me as I could wish, they are well disposed but anxious about the immediate Safety of their respective Families who for many Miles back are moving yet farther from the River many of them come in in the Morning, return in the Evening & I never know when I have them or what my Strength is. The Reinforcement I had Reason to expect & was promised by Genl. Putnam I am informed by a Letter from him last Night, is only to consist of Brinckerhoof's Regiment, which I am sure will not pass the River, indeed it is unreasonable to desire them. This being my Situation I think it my Duty to advise you of it as my only Hopes are that my Force may not be known to the Enemy & that I thus may deter them from doing what if they should attempt I could not prevent.

I have 7 Field Pieces with me five of the Heaviest I have ordered on the West Side of the Wallkill, towards Shawangunk which is the Rout I mean to take to Kingston the moment the Enemy move up the River.

I wish some small works could be thrown up towards the Esopus Landing so as to cover the Landing, & secure the Defiles leading to the Town. Every Man that can fire a Gun should be immediatly imbodyed & employed at those Works. I rejoice with you on the most agreeable Intelligence from the Northward & thank you for the Early communication of it. I know of Enemy on this Side Butterhill Clove. The four armed Vessels that were near Polopen's Island fell down out of sight yesterday Evening.

I am with much Esteem Your Most Obed't Serv't

Geo. Clinton.

Yesterday my Guards took two Persons from Fort Montgomery, one of them Daniel Taylor, charged with a Message from Genl. S Hen'y Clinton to Burgoine. The purport is his having taken that Post was prepared to weigh the Cheveaux Defrize & proceed up the River & that he Burgoine might now act as if every Obstruction was removed. The Enemy losst 4 Field Officers & 350 Rank & File killed at Fort Montgomery by their own Accounts, a young Noble Man, a Volluntier mortally wounded, and a vast many others wounded. They say they have 350 Prisoners. I know they have not.

Colo. Livingston, Bruyn, Maj'rs Hammil & Logan are Prisoners, the latter only wounded.

I have not yet been able to ascertain the Numbers Missing on our Side, as Part of the Garrison were Militia from whom it is difficult to get Returns. Lieut. Collo. McClaghry of the Militia & my Brigade Major Lush, are missing. I inclose your Excellency a Letter from Genl. Sir Henry Clinton to Genl. Burgoine which I found on one Daniel Taylor. It was inclosed in a small Silver Ball which when he was taken, he swallowed but a strong Dose of Tartar emittic brought it forth.

The Enemy suffered great loss at Fort Montgomery. I have good Authority to assure your Excellency the Enemy suffered great Loss at Fort Montgomery; they had 7 Field Officers & a young Noble Man Voluntier mortally wounded & by their accounts upwards of 300 Rank & file killed.

I am now to acknowledge the receipt of your favor of the 27th Ultimo, your kind expressions of Friendship and regard Justly demand my warmest acknowledgments of Gratitude and thanks. Similar Sentiments animate my Own Breast which neither distance of Place or length of Time can Obliterate. You are often mentioned in my Family and the agreeable Hours which we Passed whilst at Kingbride, White-Plains and Peeks-Kill are recapitulated; and in the Marks of respect and Confidence Confered on you we participate. In particular you will please Sir to accept my most Hearty Congratulations on your Advancement to the first seat of Government in so respectable a State as that of New York, and my wishes for the Divine aid & assistance, that your administration may be easy, agreeable & Honorary to your Self, acceptable and Happy to your Constituants.

As to our Publick affairs they are a Subject too Copious for a Letter of Friendship. Happy should I esteem an Hour or Two Spent with you in Conversation on the momentous concerns of our Dear Country.

The Situation of our Northern army affords us a pleasing prospect of Success in that Quarter; with respect to our Southern army we are at present held in painful Suspence, we are One Day told that the Enemy have Possession of Philadelphia, the next that they have not, to Day General Washington Covers the City with His army to morrow Howe Commands it, and General

Washington is close in his Rear, The Anxiety of the People is Therefore great, momentarily expecting the arrival of news the most Important and Interesting. We are Just Informed that the Enemy are advancing from Kingsbridge; whether this report be true or not Time will discover, But Guard well the Highlands. I view them as One of the most Important Posts in America and whatever the Manoeuvres of the Enemy have been, or may be, I think those Passes to be One of their principal Objects, and that too much attention cannot be Paid to them.

I think our greatest danger at Present is from monopolisey and depreciators of our Currency, Speedy & effectual measures must be adopted,

If the great & Important Business with which I know you are Surrounded will admit of it, pray write me now and then as opportunity offers,

If any of the Gentlemen who were with you in the army, are now with you in the Councils of the State please to present my regards to them, Governor Clinton Offers Excuses for Contumacious Militiamen Who Live Along the River Banks.

Head Quarters near New Windsor 10th Octob'r 1777.

Dear Colonel,

I am just now informed that Colo. Brinckerhooff's and Colo. Freer's Regiments are ordered on this Side of the River by General Putnam to reinforce the Army under my Command. The Reinforcement I expected from General Putnam & which he promised me were Continental or Eastern Troops. I never suspected that your Militia adjoining the River woud have been ordered for this Purpose. I am very sensible Men (however well attached to their Country) who have their Familles on the Banks of the River and Consequently exposed to the Enemy, shoud they move up it, must leave them with great Reluctance, if they have those Feelings about them which I woud wish them to have. Therefore let my Situation be ever so disagreeable for want of a Reinforcement I do not desire the Regiments of your County who lay adjoining the River to cross to this Side. It is my only wish & desire that they turn out like Men, join Genl. Putnam and defend their Country & this is my Order; & I am sure you thus will obey it both from Principle & Duty. I wish you to communicate the Contents of this Letter to Cols. Brinckerhoff & Freere to whom

There is a clever baggage Waggon at Fishkill that you can have by sending to Major Keese, if it can be got over.

I order'd him to deliver it to your Order, Sir. If your Excellency should be in want of Entrench'g Tools there are some at Bogardus's, that have not been sent over for want of some Person at Newboro, to receive them. I have desird Col. Taylor to fix a Person, and believe he did, but he is so often absent that it retards Business, and, therefore, that you would please to mention the affair to him.

Axes we cant furnish, they must be collected from the Inhabitants, if wanted.

I am, Dear Governor your most Obdnt.

*George Clinton Announces to the Council the Capture of Daniel Taylor, Sir Henry Clinton's Spy.

Head-Quarters,

Mrs. Falls', 11th October, 1777.

Dear Sir—I am this moment favoured with your letter of yesterday, with a letter from Mr. Morris (by a second express,) containing the most agreeable accounts from the northward. By a copy of a letter from Genl. Sir Henry Clinton to Burgoyne now enclosed you, you will observe that Clinton is no way confident of their being able to form a junction of their armies, though there are nothing but bars between them. I wish nothing more than that Clinton may attempt it. I am persuaded that though the chance of war may at times occasion our prospect to appear gloomy when the enemy push hard, yet it is in that way their ruin must and will be affected; and I greatly hope that Clinton, not wise enough to improve by example, will, like Burgoyne, (flushed with his late success,) give stretch to his forces, or at least send parties out to try the affections of the inhabitants; in either case, I have not a doubt but he will meet with the same fate. Should this not be the case, I hope in a few days to have strength enough to be the assailant.

*From the Journal of the Council of Safety.

We have nothing new here since I wrote you yesterday. I have sent a flag to Genl. Clinton for a list of our prisoners, &c. which is not yet returned.

The letter from Clinton to Burgoyne, taken from Danl. Taylor, was enclosed in a small silver ball of an oval form, about the size of a fusee bullet, and shut with a screw in the middle. When he was taken and brought before me he swallowed it. I mistrusted this to be case from information I received, and administered him a very strong emetic, calculated to operate either way. This had the desired effect; it brought it from him; but though close watched, he had the art to conceal it a second time. I made him believe I had taken one Capt. Campbell, another messenger who he knew was out on the same business; that I learned from him all I wanted to know, and demanded the ball on pain of being hung up instantly and cut open to search it. This brought it forth.

I have been particular in this little matter that you may in future understand this new mode of conveyance.

I am, in great haste, with high esteem,

Your most obedt. servt,

Geo. Clinton.

I have the Honour and Pleasure to inclose you a Letter from Doctr. Tappen, by which you will see Mrs. Clinton's Situation. When I got here I found it precarious leaving Camp, and therefore sent an Express who returned with the above mention'd Letter this Morning. It is my humble opinion that your Lady & Friends are too near our Stores, which are at Col. Vandenbargh's. If you approve of the Situation, I would propose Sharon, from where, if Necessity require, She can easily remove to Hartford.

I have no spare cover'd waggons here, but as soon as they come in I shall furnish your Excellency & Lady with each one.

The Ammunition Waggon that is, 6 of them, are got this Side the Mountain, from Fredricksburgh, and Col. The Chandler is gone to the D—I I imagine, for there is no Intelligence of him. Col. Taylor writes for Saddles & has them just as plenty as we have. He must take them & give Rects &c. Entrenching Tools are sent back, but will be got in as fast as possible & forwarded. Col. GENERAL DICKINSON CONCERNED FOR NEW JERSEY.

One Thousand New Jersey Troops Ordered to Gen. Putnam and a Brigade to Gen. Washington.

Head-Quarters Elizabeth Town 12 October 1777. 12 O'Clock at night.

Dear Sir,

Your favor of the 10th instant, was this moment handed me. I am stationed at this Post, by express Order of our Governor & Council, for the Defence of this State, & have only one thousand men with me. The Enemy have left five Regiments of Greens, & one of Anspachers upon Staten Island, who are only waiting the removal, or dismissal of our militia, to make an excursion into this State.

A few hours ago an order came from Gov'r Livingston to me, to raise & detach one thousand of our militia to join Genl. Putnam, their rout directed towards the Clove. This Order shall be complied with, as speedily as possible, but you know the movements of the militia are slow, I shall use my utmost Endeavours to forward them, under the command of one of our Brigadiers. We have another Brigade raising, to join his Excellency General Washington. The Enemy have made two fruitless attempts, to raise the Cheveaux de frise in the Delaware; a severe cannonading has been heard all this day, from that Quarter the event not known.

I am D'r Sir,

Your most Ob' Serv't

VAUGHAN'S RAID ON KINGSTON.

Governor Clinton Apprehensive—His Communication to the Council of Safety—Short of Men and of Ammunition.

Head Quarters near New Windsor 12th October 1777.

Gentlemen,

I am informed that many of the Soldiers of Colo. Du Bois Regt. Continental Troops and Colo. Allisson's Regiment of Militia who made their Escape from Forts Montgomery & Clinton are scattered up and down in different Parts of the Country And as it is essential to the Public Service that those Corps should be speedily collected, I must request that you will cause all such of them as are now in your District immediately to repair to Head Quarters at this Place & join their respective Regiments.

Little Britain 3 Miles from N. Windsor 12th Octo' 1777.

Gentlemen,

An armed Schooner, two Row Gallies & a small Brigg passed the Cheveaux Defrize & are ought of Sight up the River this Morning. They can have very few if any Men on Board; but they may be able notwithstanding to distroy Effects which may be found in Stores on the Banks of the River. I therefore give you this early Notice of this Movement that you may Order out small Parties to such Places on the River at which there are any Public Stores or other valuable Effects—this I am sure will secure them. I woud advise that proper Care be taken to defend Kingston Landing. The few Pieces of Artillery you have ought to be taken to the most suitable Place for that Purpose. Our Galley moved up the River some Miles before the Enemy.

If we had Round Shott for our 24 lb'r we might make this small Fleet very uneasy in the River but this we have not, nor do I know any nearer than Albany to which Place I begg you woud send for 100 of that Size & 200 for 4 lb'rs. Three Waggons will bring the whole. I wish [to know] how soon I may have them; they are essentially necessary; indeed I believe I may venture [to] say Sir James Wallace who commands this Musquito Fleet woud not have ventured to pass the Cheveaux Defrize had we been able to use our 24 lb'r whose Axle Tree was broken at the Time but is now repaired.

I have no late Accounts from the Enemy below. Genl. Putnam just now writes me that he hears they have Landed & are about moving up, but dont mention on which Side the River; his Letter implies on this. I sent a Party out yesterday to look in Forts Montgomery* & Constitution; they are not yet Returned. Capt. Wooster who went in with a Flagg returned yesterday Evening; he was received on Board a Ship about a Mile this Side Fort Montgomery; he thinks they were destroying the Works there & at Fort Clinton as from the Smoak he judged them to be on Fire. Genl. Vaughan Commands there; Genl. Clinton was Absent. Vaughan's Aid De Camp answered my Letter by informing the Prisoners were sent to N. York, that any Thing I wanted to send them might be sent on Board the Advanced Ship & from thence woud be forwarded to them Directed to Mr. Geo. Clinton Fishkill. No List sent me but all Colo. Du Bois's Officers missing are Prisoners with Major Lush, Colo. Allison & McClaghry. The later has seven wounds but none dangerous.

*The British called Fort Montgomery Fort Vaughan during the twenty days it was held by them.—STATE HISTORIAN.

I am distressed for want of Horse Men. The Duty is too hard for Capt. Woodhull's small Company. Capt. Salisbury's Company of Light Horse (a few to attend you as Expresses) must immediatly Join me for which please to given him an order as I have not at present Time to do it. The Communication being now cut off between Genl. Putnam & me & before I had a proper Supply of Ammunition, I must begg you will forward me to the Artillery Park Shawangunk 10,000 Catridges for Small arms of different Sizes.

I am this Moment favoured with your Letter of yesterday. The Militia of Shawangunk are now with me. I have sent a proper Guard there from another Quarter for the Artillery, which in my Opinion is much better than to leave Men of the Neighbourhood for that Purpose.

Colo. Snyder's Regiment may continue at Kingston to throw up the necessary Works to defend the Landing & Town. The rest of the Reinforcement from the Northward must immediatly join me. Were the whole to continue with you they woud not be able to meet the Enemy shoud they pass by and land near Kingston; & shoud they take their Route by Land which is most likely with my Present Force which consists only of the Militia of this Quarter of the Country: two small Continental Regim'ts & Colo. Southerland's Regt. consisting of 130 Men—Out of these I have strong Guards along the River Shore who have Orders to keep Pace with the Vessels now in the River & throw themselves between them & Kingston Landing shoud they go that high up. I am perswaded it is not only for the Safety of Kingston, which I have much at Heart but for that of the Country in Genl. that I shoud have my whole Force collected to one Point, as in that Case I shall be able to meet & oppose the Progress of the Enemy or at least throw myself in between the Enemy & such Places as may be an Object with them to gain which shall be my constant Care to do.

I am with much Esteem Gentlemen

Your Most Obed't Serv't

G. C.

From many Circumstances I am perswaded the Enemy are about moving. Genl. Clinton's being out when my Flagg was down yesterday—This small Fleet coming up the River confirms me in this Oppinion And I believe it will be by Land agt some of our Stores & ravage the Country.*

ON THE EVE OF BURGOYNE'S CAPITULATION.

Matthew Visscher's Report of the Recent Operations of the Northern Army.

D'r Sir,

I rec'd yours of yesterday's Date by Capt. Benson; I do not think upon the whole that the Enemy will endeavour to come up the River any great Lenght, for I am sure they must ere now have heard of Burgoyne's Fate, who as well as his Troops is dispirited, surrounded and out of Provisions, His late precipitate Retreat is marked with Fear and Confusion, his own markee he left behind & is fallen into our hands. The remainder of his Tents he has destroyed.

Deserters & Prisoners are bro't into our Camp every Hour. Burgoyne must fight his Way thro' or surrender, & from the Situation of Affairs the latter is most likely.

We have now in the Fort confined above 200 of the Enemy, principally British & no guard to send them off, as the Citizens by the late Guard sent to Hartford are so reduced that they can hardly compleat the Guards necessary.

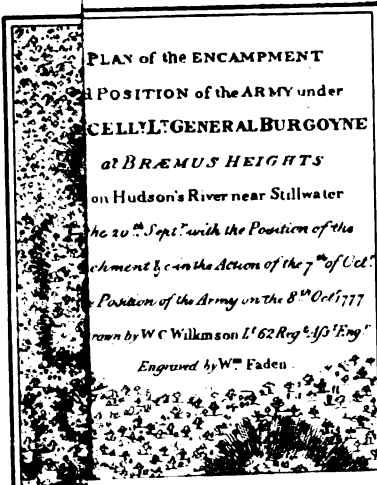

Gen'l Lincoln is not yet come down & the brave Gen'l Arnold is as well as can be expected, & there is reason to believe he will keep his Leg.

Sir Francis Clarke, Burgoyne's Aid D C. is very dangerously wounded & it is supposed he will not recover; he lies at Swarts.

Gen'l Gates might e'er now have attacked & defeated Burgoyne compleatly, but it must have been at the Expence of many brave men, which he wishes to avoid, as he is confident Burgoyne must soon move & then his Advantage must be great.

Albany 14th Oct'r 1777 8 O'Clock a m.

Tis said the Enemy have thrown some of their heavy Cannon into the River.*

*From the diary of Lieutenant Digby:

[September] 10th. About 11 o'clock, an express arrived with intelligence that the enemy were on the move, and had advanced from their camp at Half Moon to Stillwater, a few miles nearer us, but they might have saved themselves that trouble, as we should soon have been up with them. He also informed [us] that in consequence of that unfortunate affair at Bennington, they were joined by some thousands of Militia, who in all probability would have remained neuter had we proved successful. From these accounts we threw up more works to protect our camp till ready to move towards them; after which we should be as liable to an attack in our rear as front, and the waiting to secure every store &c. against such an attack, caused our being so long on that post.

11th. We received orders to be in readiness to cross the Hudson river at a moment's warning; but all that day was a continued fall of heavy rain, which continued till the 13th. when the morning being very fine, the army passed over the Bridge of boats and encamped on the heights of Saratoga. We encamped in three columns in order of Battle. The duty here turned very severe, such numbers being constantly on either guards or picquets; during that day and the next we had many small alarms, as parties of theirs came very near our camp; but a few companies soon sent them off.

15th. Moved about 3 miles nearer the enemy, and took post on a strong position late in the evening, and had just time to pitch our camp before dark; about 11 at night we received orders to stand to our arms, and about 12 I returned to my tent and lay down to get a little rest, but was soon alarmed by a great noise of fire, and on running out saw Major Ackland's tent and markee all in a blaze, on which I made the greatest haste possible to their assistance, but before I could arrive, Lady Harriot Ackland, who was asleep in the tent when it took fire, had providentially escaped under the back of it; but the major was much burned in trying to save her. What must a woman of her rank, family and fortune feel in her then disagreeable situation; liable to constant alarms and not knowing the moment of an attack; but from her attachment to the major, her ladyship bore everything, with a degree of steadiness, and resolution, that could alone be expected from an experienced veteran.

16th. A detachment with about 2000 men with 6 pieces of cannon attended Gen. Burgoyne on a reconnoitering party towards the enemy. We remained out till near night, and fired our evening gun at sunset to make them imagine we had taken post so much nearer them; and afterwards returned to our camp with the gun. We heard Gen. Gates had been there the preceding day attended by a corps of riflemen. It was then pretty certain and generally believed, and indeed wished for, that we should shortly have a decisive engagement,—I say wished for, as they never would allow us to go into winter quarters, till we had gained some great advantage over them; should that be the case, many of the country people would join us, but not till then—they choosing to be on the strongest side.

17th. The whole moved about 9 in the morning, and tho we were marching till near night, we came but 3 miles nearer them—we going a great circuit thro thick woods, for such is all that country—in order to keep possession of the heights, we lay on our arms not having light or time to pitch our tents.

18th. About 11 in the morning, we heard the report of small arms at a small distance. It was a party of the enemy, who surprised some unarmed men foraging not far from our camp. They killed & wounded 13, and then retreated on our sending a party to oppose them; and during that day and night we were very watchful and remained under arms.

19th. At day break intelligence was received, that Colonel Morgan, with the advance party of the enemy, consisting of a corps of rifle men, were strong about 3 miles from us; their main body amounting to great numbers encamped on a very strong post about half a mile in their rear; and about 9 o'clock we began our march, every man prepared with 60 rounds of cartridges and ready for instant action. We moved in 3 columns, ours to the right on the heights and farthest from the river in thick woods. A little after 12 our advanced picquets came up with Colonel Morgan and engaged, but from the great superiority of fire received from him—his numbers being much greater—they were obliged to fall back, every officer being either killed or wounded except one, when the line came up to their support and obliged Morgan in his turn to retreat with loss. About half past one, the fire seemed to slacken a little; but it was only to come on with double force, as between 2 & 3 the action became general on their side. From the situation of the ground, and their being perfectly acquainted with it, the whole of our troops could not be brought to engage together, which was a very material disadvantage, though everything possible was tried to remedy that inconvenience, but to no effect, such an explosion of fire I never had any idea of before, and the heavy artillery joining in concert like great peals of thunder, assisted by the echoes of the woods, almost deafened us with the noise. To an unconcerned spectator, it must have had the most awful and glorious appearance, the different Battalions moving to relieve each other, some being pressed and almost broke by their superior numbers. This crash of cannon and musketry never ceased till darkness parted us, when they retired to their camp, leaving us masters of the field; but it was a dear bought victory if I can give it that name, as we lost many brave men. The 62nd had scarce 10 men a company left, and other regiments suffered much, and no very great advantage, honor excepted, was gained by the day. On its turning dusk we were near firing on a body of our Germans, mistaking their dark clothing for that of the enemy. General Burgoyne was every where and did every thing [that] could be expected from a brave officer, & Brig. gen. Frazier gained great honour by exposing himself to every danger. During the night we remained in our ranks, and tho we heard the groans of our wounded and dying at a small distance, yet could not assist them till morning, not knowing the position of the enemy, and expecting the action would be renewed at day break. Sleep was a stranger to us, but we were all in good spirits and ready to obey with cheerfulness any orders the general might issue before morning dawned.

20th. At day break we sent out parties to bring in our wounded, and lit fires as we were almost froze with cold, and our wounded who lived till the morning must have severely felt it. We scarce knew how the rest of our army had fared the preceding day, nor had we tasted victuals or even water for some time before; so sent parties for each. At 11 o'clock some of our advanced sentrys were fired upon by their rifle men,

I hope they will arrive in time, to be serviceable to your Excellency. I have directed Genl. Winds to take the nearest route to New Windsor, & to advise your Excellency of his approach.

and we thought it the prelude to another action; but they were soon silenced. It was Gen. Phillips and Fraziers opinion we should follow the stroke by attacking their camp that morning; and it is believed, as affairs after turned out, it would have been better for the army to have done so; why it was not attended, to I am not a judge; tho I believe Gen. Burgoyne had material objections to it, particularly our hospitals being so full and the magazines not properly secured to risque that movement. About 12 the general reconnoitred our post and contracted the extent of ground we then covered to a more secure one nearer the river, which we took up in the evening—our left flank near the Hudson river to guard our battows and stores, and our right extending near two miles to heights west of the river, with strong ravines, both in our front and rear, the former nearly within cannon shot of the enemy. On our taking up this ground, we buried numbers of their dead. Their loss must have been considerable, as the fire was very severe. Contiguous to our ground was a fine field of Indian corn, which greatly served our horses, who had but little care taken of them the last 2 days, and many were killed the 19th. At night, half stood to their arms, and so relieved each other, in which time of watch we could distinctly hear them in the wood between us felling trees; from which we supposed they were fortifying their camp, which by all accounts, and the situation of the country, we had reason to believe was very strong.

21st. Their morning gun, from its report, seemed almost as near as our own, and soon after we heard them beating their drums frequently for orders. At 12 we heard them huzzaling in their camp, after which they fired 13 heavy guns, which we imagined might be signals for an attack; and which would be the most fortunate event that we could have wished, our position being so very advantageous. Soon after we found it was a Feu-de-Joy, but for what cause we could not tell, In the evening, an express was sent thro the woods to Gen. Clinton, informing him that if he could not advance nearer to Albany, by which movement many troops then opposing us would be drawn off to stop his progress, we should be obliged to return to Ticonderoga by 12th October at farthest, as our provisions would not allow of our remaining there beyond that period. At 6 in the evening we encamped, It rained very heavy, and the general often expressed his desire that the men would take some rest—being greatly harassed after their great fatigue—to make them the better able to bear what might follow. The night was constant rain, and we lay accoutred in our tents.

22nd. Formed a bridge of boats across the Hudson, on the left flank of our line. A spy from the enemy was taken near our camp, and we had reason to suppose there were many others around. He informed that they had a report Gen. Burgoyne was killed on the 19th, which must have arose from Cap'n Green, one of the aid de camps, being wounded and falling from his horse near the general. About noon there was a confused report of Gen. [Sir Henry] Clinton's coming up the river, and it must be owned Gen. Burgoyne was too ready to believe any report in our favour. Orders were given for our cannon to fire 8 rounds at midnight from the park of Artillery. It was done with a view of causing the enemy to draw in their outposts expecting an attack, at which time 2 officers in disguise were sent express to Gen. Clinton with messages to the same effect as was sent the 21st. The intention answered, as they stood to their works all that night which was constant rain.

Camp at Saratoga 15th Sept. [Oct.] 1777.

Dear Sir,

I have just received your Letter of the 13h Inst. It is certainly right, to collect your whole Force, and push up the East Side of the River, after the Enemy. You may be sure, they have Nothing they care for in New York, then why should you attack an empty Town, which you know to be untenable, the Moment they bring their Men of War against it.

Yesterday General Burgoyne proposed to surrender upon the inclosed Terms, the Capitulation will, I believe, be settled today, when I shall have Nothing but General [Henry] Clinton to think of—if you keep Pace, with him on one Side, the Governor [Clinton] on the other and I in his Front, I cannot see how he is to get home again.

I am Dear General your affectionate Humble Servant

Horatio Gates.

Honble. Major Genl. Putnam.

The annexed Answers being given to Major General Gates' Proposals, it remains for Lt. General Burgoyne, and the Army under his Command, to state the following Preliminary Articles* on their Part.

1st. The Troops to march out of their Camp with the Honours of War, and the Artillery of the Intrenchments, which will be left, as hereafter may be regulated.

2nd. A free Passage to be granted to [this] Army to Great Britain, upon condition of not serving in North America during the present Contest and a proper Port to be assigned for the Entry of Transports to receive the Troops whenever General Howe shall so order.

3rd. Should any Cartel take Place by which this Army or any Part of it may be exchanged, the foregoing Articles to be void, [so] far as such Exchange shall be made.

4th. All Officers to retain their Carriages, Batt Horses and other Cattle, and no Baggage to be molested or searched, the Lt.

*These articles differ in several minor respects with those published in Burgoyne's Orderly Book. The text of the latter has been followed.—STATE HISTORIAN.

General giving his Honour, that there are no public Stores secreted therein, Major General Gates will of course take the necessary Measures for the Security of this article.

5th. Upon the March, the Officers are not to be separated from their men, and in Quarters the Officers [shall] be lodg'd according to Rank, and are not to be hindered from assembling their Men for Roll Callings and other necessary Purposes of Regularity.

6". There are various Corps in this Army composed of Sailors, Batteau Men, Artificers, Drivers, Independant Companies and followers of the Army and it is expected that [these] Persons of whatever Country shall be included in the fullest [sense and utmost] Extent of the above Articles and comprehended in every respect as British Subjects.

7h. All Canadians and Persons belonging to the Establishment in Canada to be permitted to return there.

8th. Passports to be immediately granted for three Officers, not exceeding the Rank of Captain, who shall be appointed by General Burgoyne to carry Despatches to S'r Wm. Howe, S'r Guy Carlton, and to Great Britain, by the Way of New York, and the public Faith to be engaged that these Despatches are not to be opened.

9h. The foregoing Articles are to be considered only as Prelimanaries for framing a Treaty, in the Course of which others may arise to be consider'd by both Parties, for which Purpose it is proposed that two Officers of each Army, shall meet & report their Deliberations to their respective Generals.

10h. Lt. Genl. Burgoyne will send his Deputy Adjutant General to receive Major General Gates's Answer Tomorrow Morning at 10 O'Clock.

J. Burgoyne.

Saratoga Octbr. 14" 1777.

*[The eight first Preliminary Articles of Lieutenant General Burgoyne's Proposals, and the second, third and fourth of those of Major General Gates of yesterday being agreed to, the foundation of the proposed Treaty is out of Dispute, but the several Subordinate Articles and Regulations necessarily springing from those Preliminaries, and requiring Explanation and precision between the parties before a Definitive Treaty can be safely executed, a longer Time than that mentioned by General Gates in his answer to the 9th Article becomes indispensably necessary. Lieutenant General Burgoyne is willing to appoint two Officers immediately to meet two others from Major General Gates, to propound, discuss and settle those Subordinate Articles, in order that the Treaty in due form may be executed as soon as possible.

Dr. E. B. O'Callaghan who Edited Burgoyne's Orderly Book, from which these names are taken added this explanation:

These names have been compared with the original, kindly placed in our hands by Mr. Thornton for the purpose; and with those on another parole, given when the prisoners were marched to Virginia, also in the possession of Mr. Thornton. They will be found in some cases to differ slightly in orthography from the names on p. 155, et seq. We have followed the original.

Report of Lieutenant Noble, acting aid-de-camp to Major-general Phillips:

In the course of conversation at Saratoga, October 17, 1777, I heard Major-general Gates say, that he did not mean to injure private property; and as the colonels would suffer by the loss of their accoutrements, the soldiers might take them. I was the officer sent to the commanding officers to tell them, the soldiers were to keep their accoutrements; they had taken them off with a design to leave them behind, and upon my delivering the message, they put them on again. This was before dinner—Major-general Phillips and Major-general Gates together.

Wm. Noble, Lieut. 21st Reg.

Conversation between Major-general Gates and Lieutenant-colonel Kingston.

At the convention of Saratoga, October 17, 1777, when the troops marched with their accoutrements, General Gates asked me, if it was not customary for arms and accoutrements to go together. Replying, that the accoutrements were the colonels, and private property, General Gates said, very true; they are yours as such, and because we have not mentioned them in the convention.

Deputy Commissary General Cuyler Stands Flatly On His Prerogatives.

Albany October 17th 1777.

Sir,

Yesterday About noon I Received A Letter from Council of Safety dated Kingston October 13th And Signed by Robert Benson in behalf of the President.

In Answer to which I am to Observe to the Council, that the Suppling of Any troops out of my limitts will thro the business of the different departments into A State of Irregularity, And As D C G [Deputy Commissary General] Purchase for the Northern Department* my Attention to that business Gives me full Employ. I would Recommend the Council to write to Gener'l Putnam on the Subject. Peter Colt Esqr. was Appointed D C G Purch' for the Eastren or Middle Department And Samuel Gray Esqr. D C G of Issues. If Mr. Colt Acts under his Appointment As purchaser I Should Suppose he will Supply Such troops as Are at or Near Esopus which must be Considerd in the middle or Eastren department.

Give me Leave to Observe that the Opening of An Account

*When General Burgoyne arrived at Bemus Heights, he was received by Gen. Gates at the Head of the Continental Army, which was drawn up on that occasion. Gen. Gates advanced to receive him, told him he was glad to see him. Gen. Burgoyne replyd, I am not glad to see you; it is my Fortune, Sir, but not my Fault. Gen. Schuyler's Carriage was sent for, to receive and conduct Gen. Redsell, (Riedesel) his wife and five children to Albany. Gen. Burgoyne and the rest of the Staff Officers were escorted on Horseback. They all dined at General Schuyler's. At Table General Gates drank the King of Great Britain's Health. Gen. Burgoyne in return thanked him, and in the next Glass drank the Continental Congress. Gen. Burgoyne observed to Gen. Gates, he admired the Number, Dress and Discipline of his Army; but above all, the Decorum and Regularity that was observed; said, Your Funds of Men are inexhaustible, like the Hydra's Head, when cut off, seven more sprang up in its stead.

When Gen. Burgoyne arrived in Albany, the Boys gathering round, cryed out, "Make Elbow Room there"—the Rejoycing Word.—From Burgoyne's Orderly Book.

And Appointing persons to Act, is Attended with many Inconveniences, Nor Can Any Supply be deliverd unless the Issuing department Acts in Conjunction with me the D C G of which is now with the Army.

It will Allways Give me pleasure to do Any business that will feliciate the forwarding of the public Good but when I have Reason to belive, it Can be done by persons, under whos Care it properly falls I must decline it.

I am Sir your most Obdt. & most humble Serv't

Jacob Cuyler.

General James Clinton Regrets the Loss of Kingston.

Little Britain Octob'r 18th 1777.

D'r Brother,

Yours of yesterday's Date I have Just Received. I am Sorry for the Loss of Kingston &c.*

*No event connected with the Revolutionary War has been more confusing in the matter of dates, than the destruction of Kingston. Col. Stedman, a very careful historian, whose work is considered an authority in Great Britain, fixes the date as the 13th of October, 1777. Gordon, Lossing, Ramsey, Sparks' Correspondence of the American Revolution, and Beatson's Naval and Military Memoirs, and one of the foremost American Encyclopedias fail to agree upon the correct date.

As a matter of fact, Vaughan committed this atrocious piece of vandalism on Thursday, October 16, 1777. The British fleet arrived and anchored near Esopus Island on the night of October 15, and the following morning, at an early hour, weighed anchor and sailed up to the mouth of Rondout Creek, opposite Columbus Point. The British opened a lively fire upon the "Lady Washington" galley, which was lying near the mouth of the Creek, without perpetrating much damage. Shortly after noon the British proceeded to land in two divisions, one in Rondout Creek, and the other in the Cove above Columbus Point.

Vaughan in person brought the main body of his command to the beach above Columbus Point. Seizing a negro and forcing him to act as pilot, the English took up the line of march to Kingston, climbed the hill, formed a junction with the other division and marched to the village without meeting resistance. Here the troops divided into small parties and guided by Tories through the streets, fired the houses as they went along.

When General Clinton arrived on the scene, the whole village was in flames, and the invading forces were retreating to their ships.

The following are the official accounts of the British officers in regard to the burning of Kingston:

" On Board the Friendship off Esopus,

October 17, 10 O'clock Morning.

" Sir I have the honor to inform you that on the evening of the 15th instant I arrived off Esopus; finding that the rebels had thrown up works and had made every disposition to annoy us and cut off our communication I judged it necessary to attack them, the wind at that time being so much against us that we could make no way. I accordingly landed the troops attacked the batteries drove them from their works, spiked and destroyed their guns. Esopus being a nursery for almost every villain in the country I judged it necessary to proceed to that town. On our approach they were drawn up with cannon which we took and drove them out of the place. On our entering the town they fired from their houses which induced me to reduce the place to ashes, which I accordingly did not leaving a house. We found a considerable quantity of stores, which shared the same fate.

" Sir James Wallace has destroyed all the shipping, except an armed galley which ran up the creek, with everything belonging to the vessels in store.

" Our loss is so inconsiderable that it is not at present worth while to mention.

" I am etc.

" Galleys and Armed Vessels off Esopus Creek, Oct. 17, 1777

" Sir We proceeded up the river destroying a number of vessels as we sailed along without stopping till we arrived at Esopus Creek where we found two batteries one of two guns the other of three guns erected, and an armed galley at the mouth of the creek who endeavored to prevent our passing by their cannonade. Gen. Vaughan was of opinion such a force should not be left behind. It was determined to land and destroy them, and immediately executed, without retarding our proceeding up the river. The general marched for the town and fired it. The boats from the armed vessels went up the creek burnt two brigs, several armed sloops and other craft with all their apparatus that was in store upon the shore. Lieut. Clarke of the 'Dependence' with two or three others, in firing the stores was blown up, but we flatter ourselves not dangerously.

" The officers and men on this occasion behaved with the greatest spirit.

" By all our information I am afraid that Gen. Burgoyne is retreated if not worse.

I have wrote to Genl. Putnam for a Reinforcement this day and Expect Genl. Winds will be Ordered to Remain here.

General Winds Reports to George Clinton His Approach with 300 of the Jersey Militia.

Waywayanda 18 Oct'r 1777.

Sir,

In Consequence of Orders from his Excellency Governor Livingston, I am now at this place on My way to New Windsor, with About 300 Men the front of My Brigade of New Jersey Militia, In Aid of General Putnam: The remainder Must be In March by this time; When Joined by the Whole Believe I shall have from 800 to 1000 Men.

Gates heard of this piece of unwarranted brutality subsequent to the surrender of Burgoyne. He dispatched the following letter to Gen. Vaughan by the boat which carried Lord Petersham with dispatches from Burgoyne to Sir Henry Clinton, informing him of the surrender:

“ Albany 19 October 1777

“ Sir

“ With unexampled cruelty, you have reduced the fine village of Kingston to ashes, and most of the wretched inhabitants to ruin. I am also informed, you continue to ravage and burn all before you on both sides of the river. Is it thus your King's generals think to make converts to the Royal cause? It is no less surprising than true, that the measures they adopt to serve their master, must have quite the contrary effect. Their cruelty establishes the glorious act of Independence, upon the broad basis of the general resentment of the People.

“ Other Generals, and much older officers than you can pretend to be, are now by the fortune of war in my hands; their fortune may one day be yours, when, sir, it may not be in the power of any thing human to save you from the just vengeance of an injured People.

Governor Clinton Notifies Gen. Putnam that the Enemy Will Not Proceed Much Farther Up the River.

Hurley 18th October 1777 12 o'Clock A. M.

Dear Sir,

I am this Moment favoured with yours of this Morning. There is nothing New happened in this Quarter since I wrote you yesterday. The Enemy is 8 or 10 Miles above this burning away but as there are no Capital Settlements there on this Side the River & the Situation of the Country such as with my present Force I cant advance opposite to them with safety to my Artillery, I mean at present to continue where I now am in Front of the most valuable Settlements & where the Stores & Effects from Kingston are removed.

I imagine the Enemy will not proceed much higher up the River & that on their Return they will attempt to lay Waste the Places they have passed going up after our Troops are drawn from them. This induces me to think some more Troops ought to be left at Poughkeepsie & Fishkill but of this you can best Judge. Adieu you shall hear of me frequently.

Hurly, Oct'r 20th 1777.

Sir,

I have this moment received your letter of this date with the letters you mention concerning them I have only to Congratulate you on the fortunate event by which the present purposes of the enemy are defeated.

With respect to the galley—She is Sunk about Two miles from the landing place;* there will be some difficulty in raising the Cannon, especially the 32 pd'r for which we have no carriage on this side. However if you can send me a travelling Carriage & Ammunition I will endeavor to bring her on shore.

I very much approve of your intention to annoy the enemy's fleet, & shall chearfully co-operate with you and as General Gates is arrived in Albany. The Cannon may soon be procured—what think you of attempting Fort Montgomery?—by Genl. Parsons & the troops from Jersey.

*Hurley, 21st Octobr. 1777.

Gentlemen—The bearer† Mr. Colden, has been with me for a pass to return home, and continue at his own house as a prisoner on parol to the State.

When Mr. Colden was put on parol by the Council of Safety, his parol was taken to the Governor, but being afterwards taken in custody by your Honourable Board his parol in my opinion, was at an end. In this point of view I considered the matter when he applied to me at New-Windsor, and therefore referred him to the Council. I don't consider myself empowered to make him a prisoner now. I confine none but such as I have reason to believe Relative to Collecting and Building Boats.

Headqrs. Redhook, 22nd Octbr. 1777.

My dear Governour,

The General honord me with a Sight of your Favour of Yesterday, wherein you mention the Building of Boats. Capt. Addams is going down this Minute to see what Boats are sav'd in Wappins Creek; at Bogardus's, Newboro' &c. and make a Return, which shall be transmitted to your Excellency, when you will be better able to judge of the Number wanted.

I think there are some of all sorts sav'd, and considerable of the Flatbottom'd, but cant tell exactly how many. There is some Board already provided at the Creek where the Boats are, and those that are there can be sunk as well as such as may be built, if it shall be thot best, and a covering Party left with the Workmen.

Now I recollect, the General has order'd a Party there for the Annoyance of the Enemy, going up & down the River, which can be augmented, if necessary; besides, it is imagin'd as few Men can protect that Post as almost any that can be pitch'd on.

When Addams returns, if it be thot necessary to build more, I shall do myself the Honour to wait on your Excellency.

Poughkeepsie Oct'r 22d 1777.

Sir,

I received your Excellency's favor of the 18th Instant on yesterday. I have heard nothing of any reinforcements coming from Gen. Putnam. My Corps at present consists of about 120 Men. And Col. Fraer's Regiment by the last returns consisted of 108 arms and 63 without arms. I am using my best endeavors to collect all the well affected people who have arms, and are not already out, but have no reason to expect any considerable addition to my present Force. You may rest assured I shall exert myself, to protect the Inhabitants & oppose the Enemy's landing at this place, as far as the Force I have with me will enable me. Your Excellency however must be sensible, that with the force here at present, no opposition can be made to purpose should the Enemy Land with their whole Force, I submit it therefore to your Excellency, whether it would be proper to make any farther application to Gen. Putnam on the subject.

I have the honor to remain Sir Your very humble Servant

CLINTON CONGRATULATES GENERAL LINCOLN.

He Describes the Fall of the Highland Forts and the Sacking of Kingston.

Hurley 22d October 1777.

My dear Sir,

In the midst of a variety of most mortifying Missfortunes which I have lately sustained I can with great Truth say that those which you & the Brave Genl. Arnold (with whom I have not the pleasure of a personal Acquaintance) have suffered in being wounded, added greatly to my Distress, For, exclusive of the most sincere personal Friendship I owe you, believe me, Sir, I regard'd your Presence in the Field in the Critical Hour in which you was constrained to retire, as a Matter in which the public was deeply interested. It is with the highest Pleasure then I have just learned from Colo. Wilkinson the prospect you have of a happy & speedy Recovery & it woud add greatly to my Happiness had your suffering Brother an equal Prospect.

Think, my Dear Sir, how unfortunate your Friend a few Hours after my Arival in an Important Fortress (on which the Safety of the State so much depended) attacked by Eight at least to one in extensive unfinished Works & ousted at the Point of the Bayonet; the one half of the small Garrison not having a Bayonet or Spear to resist their repeated Assaults & to this, add the Destruction [of] one of the Capital Towns of the State by a lawless & Cowardly Banditti, and I, oblidged to stand by, an Idle Spectator for want of Force to prevent it; tho my small Army had forced a March of 40 Miles in 24 Hours & were within three or four Miles at the Time but yet too late to prevent Calamity or punish the perpetrators who fled with precipitation out of our Reach on Board their Shipping on being informed of our Approach. Thus I am left to be buffeted but it is my Comfort that their Success is as partial indeed confined to this small Quarter while on every other they dearly pay for it. Nor do I despair but a few Days will even here turn the Scale ag't them. With the utmost Regard & Esteem I am my D' Sir,

D'r Brother,

Yours of the 21st I Received Yesterday with the Letter and Papers Inclosed for Genl. Washington which I Imediately forwarded by one of the Light horse from this place, Agreeable to Your Directions, though I Suppose you know that there is Express Riders Stationed from the Continental Ferry here through Goshen to Easton and from that to Head Quarters.

The Enemy's Frigate Lies Still below the Chivedefreeze and it was my Oppinion She was Stationed there to prevent our Sinking any more. But Genl. Winds Informed me yesterday he thought she wanted to get higher up as she has boats Constantly Sounding the Channell &c.

Genl. Winds Brigade Consists of about 5 or 600 men and are still Increasing; they are stationed at N. Windsor; Capt. Nicholls and his Company at the Creek; Coll. Thursten and Coll. Woodhull's Regt. from the County Line to Butterhill and thence along the Clove Road to Francis Smith's; Coll. McClaughrey's Regt. at Hasbrouck's mill keeping their main Guard at New Burgh; Maj'r Dubois with his 4 Compa's from N. Burgh along the River as you formerly ordered them.

I find it a very Dificult Task to keep the Militia from Stroeling home; they often slip away and Return again that it is not Easy to know how many men we have; we are Daily sending after them.

I have four Prisoners Under Guard, viz, Elias Impson for Deserting from Capt. Jackson's Company Coll. Livingston's Regt. upon Examining him he had several bills of Continental and state money Defaced and altered from a 4 shilling bill to 5 and 10 Dollars Badly done which he Endeavoured to pass.

Edmund Tomkins taken near Doodle Town by our scouts with a parcell of Cattle which he was Collecting for the Enemy as we suppose.

Henry Crans for Toryism, the Examination Inclosed. Thomas Marsh for Do, by saying he would not fire at the British Troops but now wants to Inlist in the standing Forces; his father is an old Tory and Lives on Delancey's Land near New Shawungunk and most of his Neighbours Blames the father for the Conduct of the Son.

I have got Mr. Dubois to move your slay and several other things from your House; Capt. Bellknap has moved your sashes & Corn. Your Buckwheat I believe is Chiefly shaken out and not Cut but your Potatoes, Turnips, Cabbage & I Doubt there will be a poor acct. of them would it not be best to secure what we Can of them for your use by Employing hands to Dig them &c.

I have nothing further to acquaint you of that I can think of at present. I would be glad to hear what news you have and about Burgoyne's Capitulation &c.

CLINTON UNABLE TO MEET GATES.

In Poor Health—He Anticipates the Enemy Will Concentrate Against Washington.

Poughkeepsie 26th October 1777 2 o'Clock P. M.

Dear Sir,

I am this Moment honored with the Receipt of your Letter of the 24th Instant with Colo. Malcom's of the same Date & find myself greatly obliged to you for the early Attention you have been pleased to pay to the Measures which thro Colo. Malcom I took the Liberty of mentioning to you. I woud with the greatest Pleasure wait upon you at Coemans Tomorrow Noon, if my Health (which is greatly Injured by Fateigue & a Bad Cold) & the Time in which I woud have to make the Journey in, admit. The Situation of the Enemy being very different from what you must have supposed at the Time of writing me will of Course occassion some Alteration in the Measures you proposed to pursue against them. On the 23d their Fleet fell down from Saagertjes where they had for some Time lay to Kingston, came too there that Evening & next Morning came under Sail passed down the River & the last Account I had of them yesterday were out of sight from New Windsor but this not in such Manner as to be depended on tho I believe it to be true. The next Evening after the fleet left the River at Kingston I crossed over on this Side in hopes to have mett Genl. Putnam to advise with him of the proper Measures to be pursued but unfortunately found he had moved down the Day before with his Army. I rode till midnight in hopes to have come up with him at this Place but was again disappointed. He had left this about Noon for Fishkill. I then concluded it best to move my small Force down to New Windsor & accordingly sent them Orders yesterday to march for that Place providing they had not received Contrary Orders from you. So that unless your Letter to me has occasioned a Delay they must already be on their Way for that Place & there if I find myself a little better I propose to join them Tomorrow.

It appears to me essentially necessary that we should take some Post on the River where we may be able to prevent the Enemy's getting above us with their Shipping without great Difficulty. This with the Artillery mentioned in Colo. Malcom's Letter I think may be effected at the Cheveaux Defrize near New Windsor or perhaps at Fort Constitution & the lower down the River the better. I am clearly of Opinion the Enemy will not Attempt any Thing Capital up the River since the Object which induced them to venture up it, is by your Important Successes over Genl. Burgoyne's Army, (on which happy Occasion I most heartily congratulate you) now at an End. It is now become the Enemy's true Interest to strengthen Genl. Howe & it is therefore my humble Opinion that Genl. Clinton will detach his principal Force towards Philadelphia for that Purpose. At the same Time keep up the Appearance of Force in the River to prevent our Strengthening Genl. Washington's Army as if our Affairs should prove so fortunate as those under your Directions to the Northward the Campaign must be decisive against them.

I am unhappy in not being able to wait upon you Tomorrow at Coeymans; at any other Time & Place you may please to appoint for an Interview I will (health permitting) do myself the Pleasure of waiting upon you. In the Mean Time any Orders you shall think proper to communicate shall be most faithfully complied with.

I am D'r Sir with particular Esteem Your Most Affectionate Humble Serv't

Geo. Clinton.

The Troops under my Direction being at New Windsor will be able to act ag't the Enemy in that Quarter as you may direct. To the Honble. Major Genl. Gates.

Governor Clinton Notifies Colonel John Lamb that He Proposes to Transfer His Troops to New Windsor.

*D'r Colo.

I wrote you Yesterday desiring the Troops at Hurley might march immediately for New Windsor providing Contrary Orders were not received from Genl. Gates. I imagine my Letter must not have reached you before you received & forwarded Genl. Gates & Colo. Malcom's Letters of the 24th Instant to me or you woud have wrote me by the Person with whom you sent them. The Situation of the Enemy being so very different from it was when Genl. Gates wrote me Nothing in his Letter will warrant the Continuance of the Troops at Hurley. It will be therefore best to move on for New Windsor as soon as the Weather will permit. I mean to set out for that Place Tomorrow. You'l please to forward the Letter accomp'g this to Genl. Gates by a Light Horse Man & with best Compliments to the Genl. of the Familley believe me D'r Sir with great Sincerity

Dear Sir,

There is not a man in the world, to whom my Sentiments, respecting the present Controversy, are better known than to yourself. I affected no Disguize to conceal them from any man. To you I have expressed myself at all Times, in every Stage of the Quarrel, with the most unreserved Confidence. I owed this to my Honor and my Conscience. I could not suppress the convictions of my mind, without violating the Ties of Friendship, and that Love for my Country, which I trust no man can question, who is not ignorant, uncandid or unjust.

You will therefore naturally imagine, that I concieve myself injured by my present Bonds. I do so, and believe that you, and many Hundreds of others, who have a Regard to the Rights of private Judgment, are of the same opinion. It is my consolation that tho' this Violence exposes to Loss, it creates no Scandal, but upon the Intemperance and Passion of the Day; for they who attackd my Liberty, would have imprisoned every Patriot in England, who pleaded our cause with a Benevolence, not restricted to one, but imbracing all the Branches of the British Empire.

I foresaw and predicted this Hour, and resolved to hold fast my Integrity. God forbid that I should suspect others who are not of my Sentiments. I do not. I believe there are Thousands of honest men as well as Knaves, among the advocates for opinions diametrically opposite to each other. I think both Sides wrong; but I find no Inclination to persecute those who are not of my mind; nor should if my little Party grew large and powerful, as I think it will in proportion to the growing miseries of our Country. At present it is a very small Flock. That consideration rendered me suspicious and inquisitive; but there being no necessary connection between Infallibility & numbers, I am neither swayed by the majority here, for one opinion, nor of all the Rest of the British Dominions for another. There is a third different from both; and from the Proposal of the 20th Feb'y 1775, the message to the congress by Drummond & Elliot, and the Interview had with Lord Howe on the 11th Sept. 1776 I believe it will 'ere long be found most friendly to the Re-Establishment of Peace & Harmony. I am sorry that the neglect of it costs the Empire so much Blood.

So conceiving, in the Integrity of my Heart, could more be required of me, than to continue quiet within the Limits of my native country, especially after a written Promise to do so, and the Loss of Thousands by the conflagration of the capital, and much more indangered by the Receipt of the Paper in circulation? I have since lost £150 in the Desolation of Kingston, and in consequence of my present Bonds have some Thousands at Risk at Haverstraw; Part of which, might have been rescued, could I have resorted thither, or my servant had not been driven back a month ago, by a committee at Pogkeepsing, with Threats of Imprisonm't, and brutal Imprecations upon his master. Poor Colo. Hay is burnt out, and imploring my compassion to my Sister; but I am not to stir without the order of the Executive of the new Republic; which according [to] the Kingston model and the late Dissolution, rests, if in any Person, solely in the Governor. I should be wanting to my-self, and my suffering Relations, if I did not apprise you of these attacks upon my Liberty, which prevent me from going to their Relief, and for the Protection of my own Interests, and that if for any Reasons of State, there is a necessity for this Kind of Policy, my servant, John McDonald, the Bearer, may be clothed with your authority, to save what he can from Destruction; for with all due Reverence to the aforementioned committeemen, I do not imagine it to be the Design of the late Council of Safety, that after being fettered, my Legs should be cut off; it being little short of that cruelty, to seperate me from my Estate, and then prevent me from employing my servants to take care of it. I find nothing to justify this, in the new Constitution intended to have been erected for more Indulgences to Liberty, than we enjoyed under Great Britain. But it is very possible that I may be mistaken. Of this however I am confident, that I lose no Part of my affection to any of my Friends, meerly on the Score of a Diversity of opinions; and that as I do not distrust your Integrity, I am, dear George, affectionately your's

Wm. Smith.*

*This letter, written while the historian, William Smith, was on parole, serves as a fair index to the character of the man. Smith was born in New York, June 25, 1728, and graduated from Yale in 1745. He studied law, and at once gained an extensive and profitable practice. It was considered the highest honor for any young man to obtain a position as law student in his office, and the records of jurisprudence of this State show that nearly every lawyer of prominence in the colony during the Revolutionary struggle learned the rudiments of his profession under the eye of this erudite and able scholar.

From 1763 until the outbreak of the Revolution, he served as Chief Justice of the Province, and in 1767 he succeeded his father as member of the Council. When war came, he straddled, and was contemptuously termed the "weathercock." He left the city of New York in 1776, and retired to his country place up the Hudson, where he was paroled by the Americans.

It was during this period that the above letter was written. In 1778 he openly declared his preference for the British cause. The Royalists welcomed him with open arms, although to many he was more or less an object of suspicion. In 1783 he left this country, and repaired to England with the troops. In 1786 he was appointed Chief Justice of Canada, and held office until his death in Quebec, November 3, 1793. He was the author of the "History of the Province of New York from its Discovery to 1732." For Governor Clinton's reply see page 492; see also Document 1739 which will appear in Volume IV.—STATE HISTORIAN.

Mr. Hay informs me that my House was broke by the Kings Troops and plundered by both Sides on the 11th Inst. That he recovered what was taken at first but that I suffer much by the last seizure or Robbery.

General Lincoln Hopeful for the Future—His Wounds Are Healing—His Reflections on General Burgoyne.

Albany October 28th 1777.

Dear Sir,

I was honored with your favor of the 22d on the 24th. The tender concern which you express at my misfortune, penetrates me with the most sensible gratitude, & demands my most cordial thanks. My wounds are healing: And believe me, Sir, that hearing of the safety of your person is no small alleviation of my afflictions; though at the same time I am uneasy on your account, knowing how unhappy a person of your disposition must be under such circumstances. A cruel & barbarous enemy ravaging your coasts—burning & plundering like Savages,—not making war like men who have any of the feelings of humanity; but in a manner, that would have made an antient Briton blush, to have had imputed to him—thus endeavouring to distress those whom they cannot conquer—and yourself unable to relieve the suffering inhabitants. Yours must be the situation of anxiety; but you are consoled from reflection that you have done all in your power to prevent it. Notwithstanding this little success, I fancy, that they soon will be obliged to retire, and my friend continue the father of a Free State.

Your favor of the 8th in answer to my letter of the 5th I received 10 or 12 days after. Matters here were so totally different, at the time of receiving, to what they were when you wrote, that it made it unnecessary for me to lay it before Genl. Gates, agreeable to your request.

I congratulate you and my country on the great successes in this quarter. That gentleman, who so lately was employed in writing and publishing Proclamations, promising Protection &c. &c. now seems to be as busily employed, after the loss of his army, in attempting to justify his conduct to the King, his Master; and, as I hear, is fixing the blame upon the ministry.

I am, Dear Sir, with the sincerest affection

Your Excellency's most obedient Hble. Ser't

The Authorities of New York Urged by the Congress to Work the Lead Mines in Order to Make Bullets.

In Congress Oct: 30: 1777.

Resolved,

That a letter be written by the board of war to the government of the State of New-York, representing in the strongest terms, the great want of lead, the absolute necessity there is, for providing seasonable resources of that invaluable article. That it be therefore earnestly recommended to the said government forthwith to take measures for having the lead mines in that State worked, & that in case a sufficient number of labourers cannot be procured for that purpose, the commissary general of prisoners be directed to furnish a competent number of prisoners of war for that end.

Governor Clinton Suspects an Intention on Henry Clinton's Part to Reinforce Howe.

*Fishkill, 31st October, 1777, 4 o'clock P. M.

Dear Sir—I am this moment favoured with yours of yesterday, with respect to Colo. Wemple's and Livingston's regiments. I can only say they were ordered down by Genl. Gates to reinforce the little army under my command, when the enemy's shipping were at Saagertys, to enable me to invest Fort Montgomery. The situation of the enemy is since very different; they have demolished and evacuated Fort Montgomery, and all the other posts in the Highlands, and have drawn their whole force to New-York, I suppose with intention to reinforce Howe, at Philadelphia. I have attended here since yesterday noon, in a council of war, to determine the measures most proper to be pursued by our army in this quarter, what they will be, is yet unknown. Genl. Gates considers the troops sent down on the west side of the river as belonging to his department, I cannot, therefore, discharge them; it is to him they must make their application for this purpose. If they join me they shall be well supplied with provisions, and every other necessary in my power to command. We shall either attempt New-York or reinforce Head-Quarters, and between this and 15th November, much may be done.

I enclose you the last accounts from Head-Quarters, which, though not so well authenticated as I could wish, I believe to be true, and congratulate you on the important success. Excuse great haste.

Yours, sincerely,

George Clinton.

In Congress Nov. 1: 1777.

Forasmuch as it is the indispensable duty of all men, to adore the superintending providence of Almighty God—to acknowledge with gratitude their obligation to him for benefits received, & to implore such further blessings, as they stand in need of— And it having pleased him in his abundant mercy, not only to continue to Us the innumerable bounties of his common providence, but also to smile upon Us in the prosecution of a just & necessary war for the defence & establishment of our unalienable rights & liberties: particularly in that he hath been pleased, in so great a measure to prosper the means used for the support of our troops, & to crown our arms with most signal success;—

It is therefore recommended to the legislative or executive powers of these United States, to set apart Thursday, the 18 day of December next, for solemn thanksgiving & praise: That at one time, & with one voice, the good people may express the gratefull feelings of their hearts, & consecrate themselves to the service of their divine benefactor, & that together with their sincere acknowledgment & offerings, they may join the penitent confession of their manifold sins, whereby they had forfeited every favour; & their humble & earnest supplication, that it may please God through the merits of Jesus Christ, mercifully to forgive, & blot them out of remembrance. That it may please him, graciously to afford his blessing on the governments of these States respectively, & prosper the public council of the whole. To inspire our commanders both by land & sea, & all under them, with that wisdom & fortitude, which may render them fit instruments under the providence of Almighty God, to secure for these United States, the greatest of all human blessings, Independance & peace. That it may please him, to prosper the trade & manufactures of the people, & the labor of the husbandman, that our land may yet yield its increase. To take schools & seminaries of education so necessary for cultivating the principles of true liberty, virtue & piety, under his nurturing hand, & to prosper the means of religion for the promotion & enlargement of that kingdom, which consisteth in righteousness, peace & joy in the Holy Ghost.

And it is further recommended that servile labor, & such recreation as though at other times innocent may be unbecoming the purpose of this appointment may be omitted on so solemn an occasion.

NEW YORK DEPENDED UPON FOR LEAD.

Prisoners of War to Work the Mines If Ordinary Workmen Cannot Be Procured.

War Office Nov'r 2d 1777.

Sir,

I am directed by the Board of War to represent to you the great Scarcity of Lead likely to ensue from the Want of an Importation of that indispensibly necessary Article great Quantities whereof have been captured by the Enemy on the Passage hither. While America has upon its Surface & in its Bowells the Means of defending itself against every Invader it is impolitic as well as dangerous to depend too much upon foreign Supplies which are at best but precarious. It is therefore necessary to exert all the Strength we can spare for the Purpose, in procuring such articles among ourselves as are requisite for the Prosecution of the War.

The State of New York affords great Prospects of valuable Lead Mines* & I am to request that you will with the Concurrency of the Government of the State be pleased to employ at Continental Expence a sufficient Number of Persons to work at the Mines forthwith as Nothing is more wanted at this Time than Lead.

If Workmen cannot otherwise be had the Commissary General of Prisoners will on Application furnish a Number of Prisoners of War for the Purpose, the Employment of whom in this Way is justifiable on every Principle of Retaliation. Some allowance too should be made them by the Public to encourage them the more cheerfully & industriously to perform the Service. Mr. Wisner some time ago sent down a Number of Samples of Ore the Essays whereupon I returned him & pointed out that which yielded the most Lead. He will no Doubt inform you upon the Subject as far as he is acquainted with it. One Mine is extraordinarily rich yielding a great Proportion of Lead & some Silver. The Board will be happy to be informed what

* Explorations were made for lead in Dutchess County in 1740. During the first three years of the war, the New York lead mines were regarded as the main reliance for the material to manufacture bullets for the patriot cause; lead mines were found in Albany, the present Columbia, Dutchess and Ulster Counties. The principal lead mine was situated at Ancram, now Columbia County, or as it was sometimes called the "Livingston mine."

John McDonald, a contractor of ability, was employed by the state authorities to work the mines at and near Rochester, in Ulster County. In January, 1778, he submitted a report to Governor Clinton in regard to the progress that he had already made. On June 3, 1778, he filed his final report, in which he frankly stated that the Rochester mines could not be operated to the advantage of the state. McDonald's final report will be found under document 1462, Vol. III.—STATE HISTORIAN.

Prospects you have of complying with the Resolution of Congress as soon as you have put the Matter in a proper train.

SMUGGLING FLOUR TO THE ENEMY.

Governor Clinton Submits the Matter to the Committee of Safety—Asks for a Command in the Southern Army.

New Windsor 6th Nov'r 1777.

Gentlemen,

I was informed yesterday by Colo. Willett and this Day by Colo. Ludington who has come from his House for the Purpose of giving me the Information, That for three Months Past, vast Quantities of Flour have been purchased in this State and carried across the Country to Norwalk & from thence transported, as he has the strongest Reasons to believe, to Long Island for the Use of the Enemy. Colo. Ludington has been stationed in West Chester County with his Regt. of Militia during that Time & from his Situation has had an Opportunity of gaining such Intelligence concerning this wicked Practice as to convince him of its existence tho he has not been able to procure positive Evidence of the fact. He assures me that many Mills in Dutchess County are employed by one Helmes to grind up all the Wheat that can be purchased for this Business & the most exorbitant Price given. That one Abot of Norwalk is his Partner & transacts the Business there. That even tho the Flour carried out of the State was not for the Enemy The Exportation from different Parts of it is so great as to endanger a Famine in the Army & Country. Some Measures must therefore be immediatly taken to prevent this Evil and as I am not vested by the Constitution with Powers Competent for the Purpose I have thought it my Duty to mention it to you that you may take such effectual steps as in your Power to prevent it or the Legislature if practicable convened for the Purpose.

I have ordered 500 Men out of the two Regts. in the lower End of Ulster & those of the Upper End of Orange to reinforce the Army in this Quarter & enable us to erect the Necessary Works in the Highlands & at the Chevaux Defrize on which I am in hopes in few Days to make a Beginning. Our first Object in my humble Opinion is so to reinforce the Grand army under Genl. Washington as to enable him to strike a decisive Blow in that Quarter. This is the easiest and most effectual way to retake & hold New York every other will prove in the End ineffectual.

I wish therefore as large a Proportion of the Northern Army & of this to be sent to Head Qu'rs as can be spared consistent with the Safety of this State but I fear this will not be the Case, tho it is Genl. Gates's Sentiments as well as mine & all the Officers with me.

Genl. Gates wishes me to command that Part of his Army which he means to detatch Southward. He wrote me yesterday on the Subject & with the Approbation of your Honorable Board it woud give me great Pleasure to accept as I am perswaded I can be of little or no Service here & not very happy. The Council will obldige me by Letting me know what Place is proposed for the meeting of the Legislature as I woud wish to accomodate my Family accordingly who are now scattered in different Quarters of the Country. No news since I last wrote you. I am with due Respect

Generals Putnam and Clinton Notify Governor Trumbull of the Contraband Flour Business.

New Windsor 6th Nov'r 1777.

Sir,

We have this Day received Information that large Quantities of Flour are purchased in this State, transported to Norwalk under the specious pretence of sending the same to the Eastward to barter for Salt & other Necessaries but from thence sent across the Sound on Long Island & disposed of to the Enemy. If such Wicked Practice does really exist & we have but too good Reason to fear it does, The Enemy will not only derive a plentiful supply of an Article they much need while the very Existence of our Army may be endangered for want of Proviision. The most exhorbitant Prices given for that Article by the People concerned in this Trade is alone a Presumptive Evidence against them; their sending it from Poughkeepsie by Way of Norwalk for Boston, Strengthens the Presumption especially from Mills & Stores as high up the River as Poughkeepsie & North of that.

We have thought it our Duty to write to the Council of Safety of this State apprizing them of the Information Received by us that they may in the Recess of the Legislature pursue such Measures as may by them be judged necessary to prevent the Evil as far as it comes within their Jurisdiction & have not the least Doubt but your Excellency will cause the most effectual Steps to be taken for defeating the Wicked Trade in your State. Messrs. Helms late of N. York & Abott of Norwalk are supposed to be concerned deeply in this Business. We are with the highest Esteem & Respect

The very critical situation of my private affairs obliges me to solicit leave to go to New York with my family; with the reasons for which, I have furnished my Brother Mr. Walter Livingston who will deliver you this, and will acquaint you with them.

Persuaded that I stand in a singular predicament, and that nothing detrimental to the people over whom you preside, has ever appeared in my conduct; I have no doubt of obtaining your approbation of what I request. GENERAL GATES' POWERS ENLARGED.

Action and Resolutions of the Congress Looking to the Strengthening of the Defenses of the Hudson River.

York Town 8th Novem: 1777.

Sir,

I had the honour of writing to you the 1st Inst. to which I beg leave to refer.

My present duty is to enclose Copy of the Resolutions of Congress of the 5th for recovering & securing the Possession of Hudson's River & other matters contained in the minute.

I have the honour to be with great regard Sir

Your most Obedient Serv't

Henry Laurens, Pres'dt in Cong.

His Excellency Governor Clinton.

In Congress Nov'r 5, 1777.

Resolved,

That general Washington be informed that it is the earnest wish of Congress to regain the possession of the forts & passes of the North or Hudson's river, & to secure the communication thereof; & for that purpose, that general Gates should remain in command in that quarter & that general Putnam be called upon to join the main army, with such a detachment from the army under the command of general Gates as general Washington may think can be spared, not exceeding the number of two thousand five hundred, including col. Morgan's corps.

That a copy of the foregoing resolution be sent to general Gates, & that he be directed to make a proper disposition of the army under his command for reducing forthwith the posts of the enemy on the North river; & that he order such of the continental troops & militia in the service of the United States as are posted on or near the said river to join him for the services aforementioned.

That general Gates* be empowered to apply to the respective states of Massachusetts Bay, Connecticut, New-York & New Jersey for such a number of their militia, as he shall judge necessary to maintain the posts, which he shall order to be taken on the said river, to the end that his army may be in readiness to pursue such operations as Congress shall direct; & that the said militia be inlisted to serve until the fifteenth day of March next, unless sooner discharged by Congress or the commander in chief.

*Gates' success with the northern army was in such marked contrast with the ill fortunes that had followed Washington from the beginning of the year that the enemies of the commander-in-chief were given an opportunity to organize a strong combination, which had for its ultimate object the overthrow of the patient patriot in favor of the marplot Gates. This plot crystallized into what is known in history as the Conway cabal. Gates was unquestionably concerned in it from its inception, for his subsequent conduct was such as to demonstrate that he was fully aware of the contemptible business through all its development.

He had ignored Washington, by his failure to communicate to the commander-in-chief the success of his army after the victory at Stillwater, and his correspondence with the notorious Gen. Conway, who had habitually spoken of Washington in terms of the strongest contempt dispels any doubt as to Gates' part and parcel and association in the whole business. Of course all the malcontents in and out of Congress, and in and out of the army, seized the opportunity to hold Washington responsible for all the mishaps and calamities that had overtaken the American cause, while at the same time they eulogized Gates and glorified him as the future savior of the country.

The Legislature of Pennsylvania went out of its way to express dissatisfaction with Washington when information was brought that he proposed to go into winter quarters at Valley Forge. The legislature forwarded a strong remonstrance to Congress on the subject. To add to the embarrassments which now seemed to concentrate upon Washington, a new Board of War was created, of which Gates was appointed president, and Mifflin of Pennsylvania, who was supposed to be inimical to Washington, a member. Conway, a junior brigadier, was promoted Inspector General over the shoulders of many of his seniors to the rank of Major General.

That general Washington be directed to order one or more able engineers to the North river to attend the army under the command of general Gates.

That general Gates be empowered to order such a number of galleys, gunboats, fire rafts, chains, cassoons & chevaux de frize to be provided, & such fortifications to be erected for obstructing & keeping possession of the North river as he shall judge necessary.

That the governor & council of the state of New York be furnished with a copy of these resolutions, & requested to appoint a committee of three active & judicious persons to assist general Gates in obtaining such artificers & materials for accomplishing these purposes as he shall direct; & the said committee are empowered to apply to the several States of New Hampshire, Massachusetts Bay, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New-York & New Jersey for their assistance, who are requested to afford the same,

The public were not alert in discovering the true purpose of the cabal. Its devotion to the commander-in-chief could not be shaken by machinatlous, misrepresentations and conspiracies, nor was the discerning eye of Washington deceived. This majestic man accepted this crisis as he did every one throughout his entire life with the same equipoise, dignity, disinterestedness and patriotism.

His old friend, Patrick Henry, at that time Governor of Virginia, apprised him of the operations of the cabal in Washington's own home State, by forwarding to Washington three anonymous letters, one of which contained these sentences:

"The northern army has shown us what Americans are capable of doing with a General at their head. The spirit of the southern army is no ways inferior to the spirit of the northern. A Gates, a Lee or a Conway would, in a few weeks, render them an irresistible body of men. The last of the above officers has accepted of the new office of Inspector General of our army in order to reform abuses but the remedy is only a palliative one."

In gratefully acknowledging Henry's kindness, Washington wrote: "My caution to avoid anything that could injure the service prevented me from communicating except to a very few of my friends, the intrigues of the faction which I know is formed against me, since it might serve to publish our internal dissensions, but their own restless zeal to advance their views has too clearly betrayed them, and made concealment on my part fruitless. I cannot precisely mark the extent of their views but it appeared in general, that General Gates was to be exalted on the ruin of my reputation and influence. This I am authorized to say from undeniable facts in my own possession, from publications the commanding scope of which could not be mistaken, and from private detractions industriously circulated. * * * it is commonly supposed bore the second part in the cabal; and Gen. Conway I know was a very active and malignant partisan; but I have good reason to believe that their machinations have recoiled most sensibly upon themselves."—STATE HISTORIAN.

by furnishing the said committee with such artificers & materials, as they by direction of general Gates shall apply for; & the said states are respectfully requested to furnish such a number of men as general Gates shall require to accomplish the important & salutary purpose of maintaining the communication between the Northern & Southern States by keeping possession of the North river.

That general Gates be authorised & directed to apply to the State of New York & the States eastward of North river for such aid as he shall judge necessary for the reduction of Ticonderoga & fort Independence, if not reduced by general Stark, at such time as he shall deem best adapted for that expedition; & that the said States be requested to supply general Gates with such a number of their militia, as he shall judge necessary for the purposes intended:

That general Gates be directed to take effectual care, that the fortifications which shall be erected on the North river be not too extensive, & that each be compleated with a well, magazines, barracks, bomb casements &c sufficient for a determined defence.

That if general Washington, after consulting with general Gates & governor G. Clinton shall be of opinion that a reinforcement exceeding the number above mentioned can be detached to the main army consistent with the attainment of the objects specified in the preceding resolutions, in such case he be directed to order such further reinforcements to the main army as may be thought conducive to the general welfare, any thing in the preceding resolutions to the contrary notwithstanding.

Conolly is just handed me, by him I shall forward the Money you request, Viz 1 half Jo. 9 Guineas 100 Dollars which I should have left at Fish-kill for you but that General Putnam told me, we should have the pleasure of your Company with us this way. We yet live in hopes you will join us, as your presence may be of great service to the Inhabitants of West-Chester County. Yesterday the Army moved down two miles below Wards to cover a Forageing party which brought off considerable quantity of Wheat and Hay. We have had upwards of Twenty Deserters from the Enemy since at this place—all Green Coats but two Hessians; they all agree that the Enemy's Strength on York Island

General Parsons'* late excursion into West-Chester and taking a body of the Tory's Cow stealers &c. has had very happy effects;—the day following Delancy's Corps of Light Horse,—and other Tory's resideing near Delancy's Mills disbanded themselves and fled to Long Island;—had we a sufficient force great advantages might now be taken and many of our friends released from their cruel imprisonment. We anxiously wait to hear from General Washington expecting something of the greatest importance from that quarter. Be pleased to make my com-

* General Samuel Holden Parsons was the son of the Reverend Jonathan Parsons, an influential minister, and was born in 1737; graduated from Harvard in 1755. He sat in the State Assembly of Connecticut for eighteen sessions, and created the plan of forming the first Congress, which opened the way for the Continental Congress. He gave much time to the study of military affairs, and April 26, 1775, he was appointed Colonel of the Sixth Regiment, stationed at Roxbury, Mass. Here he remained until the British evacuated Boston, when he was ordered to New York. He was with Ethan Allen in the capture of Ticonderoga, and many of his admirers give him full credit for originating the idea for this brilliant feat, and for carrying it out. He participated in the Battle of Long Island, was commissioned a Brigadier General for gallant service, commanded his brigade at Harlem Heights and White Plains, and was subsequently stationed at Peekskill to protect that important post on the Hudson River.

While in command at New London, he planned the expedition to Sag Harbor. He was in the command of the troops in the Highlands in 1778-79, when were constructed the works at West Point. He sat as a member of the board that tried the unfortunate Andre, and the same year was commissioned as Major General.

From beginning to end he held the absolute confidence of Washington. When hostilities ceased, he resumed the practice of law at Middletown, Conn., and in 1785 was appointed by Congress a commissioner to treat with the Miami Indians. In 1788, Washington appointed him the first judge of the northwest territory, where he became a prominent member of the Ohio Company, and assisted in organizing the settlement of Marietta. After the war he was accused of maintaining a treasonable correspondence with the British generals, but time has amply vindicated him of this grave injustice.—

GEORGE CLINTON WRITES TO GENERAL GATES.

Criticises the Conduct of Sir Henry Clinton's Troops—Exchange of Prisoners.

New Windsor 13th Nov'r 1777.

Dear Sir, Inclosed you have the Report made to me by Colo. H. B. Livingston* on the Commission with which he was charged by you to Lieut. Genl. Sir Henry Clinton. I fancy with the Colo. that my Name Sake found himself incapable of Justifying on any Sound Principle the Villanies committed by the Troops under his Command & therefore has evaded answering your Letter. In this at least he has discovered a Degree of Prudence beyond Mr. Burgoine who seemed pleased with those Literary Productions which now add to his Confussion.

Major Van Beuren who was charged with your last Flag to N. York called upon me on his Way down. I found there were four Persons on Board who were Inhabitants of this State & did not immediatly belong to the Military Line. These People informed me that they had your Passes which they had procured through the earnest Sollicitation & Importunity of the Committee of Albany who I am perswaded must have been uninformed of the Conduct of the Enemy with Respect to our Friends who are in their Power, not one of whom are suffered to come out of the City without by Exchange for a Person of equal Rank & Importance in Life, & even then they are not suffered to bring any Part of their Effects with them but by Exchange for equal Value. This being the Case & perswaded that your only Motive was to oblige the Committee & serve the State, I took the Liberty to put the four Men on Parole Exchangeable for so many of our Friends in the City & then suffered them to pass on with their Family & Effects. They were perfectly pleased with the Measure, declared they thought it Reasonable & I trust it will for the above Reasons meet your Approbation.

We have no late News from the grand army. The Reinforcement intended for Howe sailed from N. York Wensday a Week ago as p'r N. York Gazettee. The People of New York are very Apprehensive of an Attack. Deserters from their Troops at the Bridge daily coming in to Genl. Parsons who is at or near White Plains with this Brigade. We should have been happy had your Excellency's Letter been more explicit, with respect to the Destination of the Detachment of the Army, you wish to command. We are therefore under the Necessity of leaving the Matter discretionary with your Excellency. And tho' we concur with your Excellency with Respect to an Expedition to New York in the first Instance; yet should it be determined upon, we would chuse for the most obvious Reasons that your Excellency should have a Command in that Undertaking.

We have not yet fixed either the Time or Place of the Meeting of the Legislature; tho' imagine they will be obliged to meet at Albany, as no other Place in the State can possibly contain the Members. The Matter will shortly be taken into Consideration and we shall immediately inform your Excellency of the Result of our Deliberations. A GOOD WORD FOR THE SHIP CARPENTERS.

And Sharp Criticism for the Militia from Governor Clinton.

Poughkeepsie 17th Nov'r 1777.

Gentlemen, The Ship Carpenters residing in and about this Place who were employed in building the two Continental Frigates here some Time ago presented me a Petition setting forth their distressed Situation which I intended to have transmitted you but before I had an Opportunity it was mislaid. It set forth in Substance that they were all lately Citizens of New York who there supported their Families comfortably by their Trades, That they all either moved up to this Place at the Instance of the Public to work on those Frigates or afterwards fled to it from the city on the Approach of the Enemy. That almost ever since the Completion of the Frigates they have been out of Employ, during which Time they have expended their former Earnings in the Support of their Familles & that unless some mode be devised to employ & such Wages allowed as shall be in some Degree proportionate to the high Prices they are obliged to pay for the necessary Articles of Life, they will be constrained, however, tho with great reluctance, to leave the State.

I am convinced their Case is hard and that if so many valuable Artificers leave the State it will be public Injury. I wish, therefore, something could be done for them to keep them in it. I have wrote to the Dep'y Qu'r Master Genl. recommending their Case to him but I fear the Wages he is authorized to give is not such as *[will enable them to support their numerous Familles] in these extravagant Times. Perhaps the Council taking their Case into Consideration may fall upon some scheme by which these valuable (——) may be able to live in the State & Serve the public. I cant help but think it woud be wise policy & perfectly consistent with Justice to place these People & other of our distressed Friends in the Houses of those who have gone to the Enemy which alone woud be a great Relief to them. The Want of Tools & Sloth of the Militia which is as great as ever, occasions our Fortifications to go on very slowly. I am Complications Threatened with Neighboring States on Account of Trade.

Manor Livingston 19th Nov'r 1777.

Dear Sir, It is long since I have had the pleasure of seeing you & were my affairs a little settled I sh'd endeavour to wait upon you, as I have many subjects upon which I wish to converse. Our affairs are not in such a train as I would wish, & some late resolutions of our Council convinces every body of the necessity of an immediate call of the Legislature, before our own state is ruined by the want of necessaries, and before we are involved in the most unfortunate controversy with our neighbors; already we are charged with endeavouring to starve them & have lost all the credit we gained by the liberal sentiments we have hitherto entertained on the subject of trade. But no more of this till I have the pleasure of seeing you upon a call of the Legislature, which will I hope be spedy.

What induces me more particularly to trouble your Excellency at this time is to introduce Mr. Patterson,* who has obtained leave to go to New York from the Council on the conditions which he will communicate to you. As the season is advancing, and he has a large family on board, he wishes to be expedited as much as possible. I have ventured to promise in your name that your Excel-

LEGISLATIVE PROBLEMS.

John Morin Scott Protests Against a Special Session of the Legislature and Gives His Reasons.

Hurley, Friday Evening Nov'r 21st 1777.

Sir, I am sorry that the Fever and ague, a return of which I expect to morrow, will prevent my attendance with the Rest of the Committee of the Council of Safety, in a Conference with You, about the propriety of putting an End to their session, by a Call, either of the Legislature, or of the Convention who constituted the Council.

The Subject of the Conference is, in my opinion, of the highest political Concernment, which, while Indisposition prevents my personal Attendance will I hope sufficiently excuse me, for conveying my Sentiments to the Governor of the State by Letter. And these I wish your Excellency may communicate to my Brethren of the Committee, lest my Want of Health may be construed into a meer Apology for a private Communication with You, on a matter, in its Nature, public and Important.

By the XVIII Article of the Constitution of this State the Governor is authorized "to convene the Assembly and Senate on extraordinary Occasions;" and by the Resolution of the Convention, the Council of Safety is to exist, only, during the recess of the Convention; and no longer than the Necessities of the State will require. That the power of convening the Legislature by Anticipation, resides evidently in the Governor; and that the actual meeting of that Body or the Convention will abolish the Council is as clear: While an Assembly of the Legislature will annihilate both the Convention and the Council.

Moreover, the Council's Existence being only during the Recess of the Convention, tho it undoubtedly implies a power in them to call the Convention, who having adjourned sine die, cannot convene themselves, forbids as well as the Constitution, the Supposition of any Authority in them to interfere in convoking the Legislature. If, therefore, their meeting be necessary, it must be effected by your sole Authority; The exertion of which seems indeed to apply most properly to the Legislature when in recess by their own adjournment, or your Proclamation. But, as it would be dangerous to raise the Question on another Ground, let it be a postulatium that the Governor has now a full power to convene them. The only Inquiry will then be, whether to call them at this Juncture, will be safe and expedient for the State? I must frankly, Sir confess, I have great Difficulties about the Safety & Expediency of it, for the following reasons, to wit:

First; because it is doubtful at least, whether such a constitutional Act of Government, which, viterminorum,* must necessarily suppose the Existence of the Legislature, will not extinguish both Convention & Council immediately;

Secondly; because if that be doubtful it will be the wisest policy to call the Legislature, under Circumstances which will render their Meeting at the appointed Time and place most probable;

Thirdly; because such probability will be better ascertained after a meeting of the Convention than it now can. By convening a Quorum, to consist of twenty Six members of the Convention, which may be exacted by repeated Efforts of the Council, so many members may be brought to this place, be provided with Lodgings, take their Seats in Council; and thereby convert it into a Convention. These will constitute a majority of the Number necessary to make both Houses of the Legislature. It is indeed found, upon Inquiry that at least thirty five Members, may be temporarily accommodated at this place.

By the tenth Article of the Constitution the Senate is to consist of twenty-four, and, by the fourth Article, the Assembly of seventy members. The twelfth Article makes a Majority of the number of Senators, which is thirteen, a Senate, and the ninth Article, a Majority of the Assembly, which is thirty six, an House, sufficient to proceed to Business. Hence it is evident, that forty nine members, proportionately collected from the two Branches, will form a compleat Legislature, to proceed to Business, who may compel the Attendance of the rest, as they shall think proper. If therefore, Sir, You should suspend the issuing of your proclamation, until the Council of Safety shall have convened a sufficient Number of Members at this place, to form a Convention, and they should increase their Number to thirty five, who may for some Time be accommodated here, the State during all that Interval will continue to be represented; and the addition of fourteen, necessary to constitute a Legislature, sufficient to proceed upon Business, being in such Case most probably to be effected; You may, by issuing your proclamation at that period, and allowing therein a sufficient Time for meeting, be almost certain, that a Legislature will be formed at the appointed day, if you should therein assign another place than this; which I am sure will not afford sufficient Accommodations for their Session.

*This is evidently a corruption of the phrase "With power that shall end it."—

But, if, on the contrary, when with difficulty we form a Council, when it is uncertain how soon that Council may be able to procure a Convention, and when it is still more uncertain whether the Legislature contrary to former practises, will meet at the day to be assigned by your proclamation, a Call of the two Houses should be precipitated, You may easily see what terrible consequences may ensue. Sound policy, for the above reasons, totally reprobates in my opinion the issuing it at present. Should they happen, that they may in no wise subject me to censure, I beg Leave, by this Letter to disapprove of the Measure, and to assure You, Sir, that I am with equal respect & esteem Your Excellency's most obedient humble Servant

Jno. Morin Scott.

P. S. As I would not wish to obtrude my Sentiments on the rest of the Committee, it might perhaps be best, Sir, to hear their Opinions before you communicate mine to them, especially as they have already heard it in Substance in the Council.

His Excellency the Governor.

†The subject matter under this number has been transferred to document 936-937, page 546.

The last Dispatches we receivd were from the Council of Safety on a delicate Subject which is now under the Cons' of a Committee. To them I have written the present State of our military operations in this Quarter to which you'l be pleas'd to be referred. Some foreign Intelligence having arrivd last night & my Letters to that honourable Body being closd I have staid the Express to give you the Information. It is confidently asser'ted that a number of French merchant ships having been seizd by the British Cruizers, the Court of Versailles has instructed their Embassadour peremptorily to demand Restitution of such of Them as were taken out of the Limits prescribed by the last Treaty of Peace: and that the least Hesitation shall be considered as a Declaration of war; that 5000 French Troops are embarked for their West India Islands; that Wickes* who

*Lambert Wickes was born in New England about 1735. He was one of the first naval officers appointed during the War of the Revolution, his first commission bearing date December 22, 1775. Under date of October 24, 1776, Robert Morris of the Committee of Secret Correspondence notified the Commissioners in Paris that the ship of war "Reprisal" commanded by Captain Wickes, and carrying sixteen 6-pounders and about 120 men, had been assigned to convey Dr. Benjamin Franklin to France—landing him at Nantes, whence Dr. Franklin would proceed to Paris. The "Reprisal" was represented as a fast sailing ship, and her captain had "already done honor in action to the American flag" by capturing, during the summer of 1776, when on a cruise to the West Indies, the British ships "Friendship" and "Shark" and the schooner "Peter."

The "Reprisal" was the first American warship that ever visited Europe. Upon landing at Nantes, Wickes was directed to take in refreshments, stores, provisions and other necessaries, and then to proceed on a cruise against the enemy. He was ordered to send such prizes as he might capture into certain French ports, and the Commissioners were directed to make immediate application to the Court of France to grant the protection of their ports to American men of war and their prizes. Wickes made a cruise in the Bay of Biscay, and captured several English vessels, which were sent to France, but the British government remonstrated with France, which at that time was at peace with England. This complication necessitated mock sales of the prizes at sea, and the ordering from France of the American cruisers.

Every precaution was taken to protect Wickes in the undertaking in which he had embarked. Under date of Paris, March 12, 1777, Franklin and Deane wrote to the Committee of Secret Correspondence that Wickes had made a cruise during the winter, and returned with five prizes, this act bringing considerable trouble and uneasiness to the French Court. The Commissioners, however, ordered Wickes to make another cruise before his return to America, and had given him as a consort to the "Reprisal" the armed cutter "Captain Nicholson." On this trip Wickes was chased by a British ship of the line, and only escaped capture by throwing his guns overboard. The little squadron separated, and the "Reprisal" continued the cruise alone. October 1, 1777, the "Reprisal" foundered in a storm off Newfoundland, every soul aboard perishing, except the cook.—STATE HISTORIAN.

commands a small continental Squadron in the European Seas has caused prodigious Consternation. That he has taken a multitude of Prizes particularly near Fifty from the West Indies. That the King of Prussia has opened his Sea ports to the American Ships* & appears eager for our Commerce. In short that we stand in a respectable Light in Europe and that a war is become inevitable.

Congress have finally agreed upon Confederation & other useful Expedients to reestablish the publick Credit & the value of our paper money. I have the Honour to be with great Respect Sir Your Excellency's most obed't hum'e Ser't

Monday Morning Nov'r [23] 1777.

Dear Gov'r, I am this minute informed that Wm. Emmott has the promise of Your permission to go to New York, You certainly have been imposed on, by whoever recommended him as a person to be trusted, to go among our Enemies, There are certainly few Characters more to be guarded against; he always keeps Regular Journals from day to day, of every Occurrence that happens, and his swearing, Notwithstanding, is a principal'd Tory (in my Opinion). The Whigs in our Neighbourhood are much allarmed, Mr. Hendricks is determined to see Your Excell'y on the subject. If You Consistantly can I heartily wish for Many Good Reasons, he may be prevented from Going. I have the Honor to be Your Excellency's Most Obed't Humble servant,

Gilbert Livingston.

His Excell'y Geo. Clinton Esqr.

May it please your Excellency, We the good people of the Town of Poughkeepsie having Understood that your Excellency has been pleased to Grant Mr. Emmit Permission to go to N. York for the purpose of Receiving a Legacy Left him there by his Unkle,

Now from the high Esteem we have of; and the Confidence we put in your Excellency as a Father and a Friend to our Bleeding State; we are well assured that your Excellency was not nor has been rightly Informed of the Character Which Mr. Emmit Sustains among us. Otherwise we Flatter ourselves your Excellency would never have granted him Liberty; For altho he has taken the Oath of Allegiance to this State yet he has never done or meritted any thing which should Entitle him meerly to be call'd a Subject—but Contrarywise he has always behaved as a Sly, Crafty, Designing Tory. For as a Man is known by his Company, so he is ever with those Who we are assured would do all in their power to Injure our Cause—and, therefore, Sir, we Look upon him as a very Dangerous person to be trusted amongst our Enemies.

We would Further beg Leave & Represent to your Excellency that we cannot Suppose he can get his money without takeing the Oath to the King of Great Brittain—(& has been heard to Say so himself) which we think he will not Hesitate a moment upon.

We would yet Further Acquaint your Excellency that there is many good people (Refugees of N. York) now in this Town, Who have much money due in N. York, & who would think themselves Entitled to the Same Indulgence with Mr. Emmit was there a Possibility of Obtaining their Money without takeing the Oath to the King of Brittain.

We the good People as aforesaid, would yet once more beg Leave to Represent to your Excellency that Great Dissatisfaction has taken Place amongst the Whigs in this Town on account of Mr. Emmits having obtain'd Liberty for such an Embassy.

Therefore, we doubt not but that when Your Excellency Receives this Memorial he will Countermand Mr. Emmit's Permission as we think if he proceeds it may be attended with some bad Consequences.

And we shall ever Pray &c.

Poughkeepsie Nov'r 24th 1777.

His Excellency George Clinton Esqr. Gov'r of ye State of N. York &c.

Sir, The Petition of sundry of the Inhabitants of Poughkeepsie to which you are a Subscriber was this Day Handed me by Mr. Hendrikse.

Had the least Intimation been given me that Emott was a dangerous Person not to be trusted in the City be assured he never Coud have obtained my Consent to go there. His first Application to me was rejected but on Inquiry the next Day which I confined to his Moral Character which finding to stand fair & Conceiving his Case rather a Hard one add to this if he coud obtain the Fortune left him by his Uncle (which he alledged was considerable) it woud be drawing Property out of the Hands of the Enemy into the Country I was influenced to encourage him to expect my Permission. Accounts however which I have since received of him as well as the Reasons offered in your Petition induce me to believe he does not merrit the Indulgence intended him. I have therefore wrote him by the Bearer not to expect it of which you'l please to inform the other Gentlemen who subscribed the Petition & assure them that I much approve their Vigilance. I am your Most Obed't Serv't the Same State.*

New Windsor, 24th Nov'r 1777.

Dear Sir, I received your Favour inclosing Copies of Letters from Major Genl. Jones before which Capt. Lee was permitted to Return with his Family & Effects to New York agreeable to your first Letter. With Respect to Alexander Robertson I have no Objection to his being exchanged for a Mr. Miller of West Chester County or any other Subject of this State in the Power of the Enemy; but I cant Consent to his being exchanged for John Dennis Esqr. of New Jersey, tho I believe him a useful good Man. I have sent for Robertson down to this Place & as soon as I am informed of Mr. Miller's being released & Sent Home or even an Engagement to do it Robertson shall be sent in to the City.

As to the Women whose Husbands are with the Enemy the Council of Safety have directed the different Committees to send such of them into N. York as they may judge expedient as soon as they can collect them I will give them a Flagg. Mrs. Banyar & other Ladies to whom you granted Permission to go to New York have passt down this Day. I fear many Ill Consequences will arise from granting such Indulgences if they should be continued. I am with much Esteem your most Obed't Serv't Governor Clinton Informs Mrs. Livingston that Her Captive Husband Is in Good Health on Long Island.

New Windsor 24th Nov'r 1777.

Dear Madam, The Situation of our public Affairs in this Quarter since the Loss of Fort Montgomery has been such as to prevent my having had the Honor of addressing a Line to you before this, and indeed Madam I found the private Friendship I entertained for your good Husband as well as the high Esteem I have for him as an Officer, both conspiring to make the Task disagreeable since I could only have informed you with the bad Tidings of his Captivity which I knew must but too soon reach you. I confess however this was false reasoning; I ought to have gave you a Line to inform you he was living as soon as I knew the Fact but this I trusted to a Joint Friend of ours who promised to wait upon you on his Way to the Southward & give you a more particular & Satisfactory Account than I was able to commit to writing.

I have the Pleasure now to inform you that I have, within these few Days, heard from the Colonel that he enjoys good Health & his usual flow of Spirits that he is on his Parole on Long Island and the Treatment of our Officers in Genl. is improved for the better by Burgoine's defeat. I sent about £50 hard Cash with the last Flagg for the Use of the Officers taken at Fort Montgomery with some Flour which they must have received ere this.

Colo. Lamb will inclose you a memorandum in the Colo's own Handwriting a Copy of which I have sent to Colo. Webb & have also desired Major Huntington to send Colo. Livingston some Hard Cash which I know he has in his Possession for that Purpose.

Be assured Madam that every Thing in my Power to render Your Sweetheart Comfortable in his Confinement shall be done & no means left unesayed to effect his speedy exchange & that I am with the greatest Regard Your Most Obed't Serv't

Dear Brother, By the inclosed Papers you will learn that the Bearer Mr. Patterson* has Permission from the Council of Safety to pass with his Family & Effects (his Male Servants excepted) to the City of New York as a Prisoner, nevertheless exchangeable for one or other of the Persons mentioned in the Proceedings of Council or such other Person as I shall direct. I must confess I do not approve of this Step I am clearly of Opinion that we ought not to suffer any Person under Mr. Paterson's Circumstances to go into the Enemy until the Exchange was first specifically agreed upon & the Person for whom the Exchange should be made sent out & this Caution would be the more Justifiable on our Part considering the perfidious Conduct of Hugh Wallace & others. However I do not chuse to counteract in this Instance what the Council has done, tho' I am not unsensible they have interfered in a Matter that did not properly belong to them, yet my refusal would rather lessen their Importance & discover What I should not wish our Enemies to know, to wit, a Fickeldness & Uncertainty in our Councils & Determinations.

You will therefore grant a Flagg to Mr. Patterson to proceed to New York with his Family putting an Officer if one can be spared & you & Colo. Lamb shall Judge it necessary on Board the Sloop with this further Caution: The Flagg not to pass our Advance Water Guard at Peek's Kill or Tarry Town until they shall have General Putnam's Permission, as his Operations may be such as to render it unadviseable to suffer a Flagg to go in at this particular Time.

It will be therefore necessary that you write to Genl. Putnam with the Flagg & when it arives at Peek's Kill let Mr. Paterson forward the Letter & wait the Answer. I have changed the Names of Van Wagenen & Miller in the Council's List, by striking them out & adding in their Room Major Lush, as I can have those two Gentlemen exchanged for Persons of less Importance. I am in Haste Yours Affectionately,

His Ideas Relative to Instructions to Scouting Parties—No Man to Be Removed from Office Without a Hearing.

New Windsor 28 Nov'r 1777.

Sir, I am this Moment favoured with your Letter of the 26th Instant. So far from having any Intention to remove Capt. Johnston be assured I did not before the Receipt of your Letter even know that he held any Command in your Quarter. I am glad to be informed that the Inhabitants have been protected in their Persons & from plunder by the Prudence & bravery of Capt. Johnson & his Company & that he has so conducted as to gain the Esteem & Approbation of the People & you may rest assured, Sir, that I will remove no Man from Office without a Hearing, as to do it is inconsistent with the Idea I entertain of Public Justice.

I wish to have a List of the good Inhabitants of your Part of the Country who are Prisoners in New York as it is my earnest desire to have them exchanged & it may be in my Power you will therefore be kind enough to transmit it me.

It is impossible to give particular instructions to a Ranging Company or Scouting Party. They must ever Act according to present Exigencies. To protect the Frontier Inhabitants, Cut off all Communication between the Disaffected & the Open Enemy, & as opportunity offers to annoy their Out Guards & Partics are the great Objects, & in effecting those to prevent Plunder of every Species (except such as may be taken within the Enemy's Lines & even that is to be disposed of in an Orderly & regular Manner) & every Species of Distress to the Well affected is carefully to be attended to. FIRST APPEARANCE OF NATIONAL POLITICS.

The Articles of Confederation and the Bewildering Question of Taxation.

York Town Pennsylv'a 28th Novem. 1777.

Sir, I had the honour of writing to you the 1st Inst.

In obedience to order I am now to forward to Your Excellency in company with this the undermentioned Copies of minutes & Resolves of Congress:

1st. Of Articles of Confederation & perpetual Union between the United States of America. (three Books.)

2d. Of Address* from Congress to the States respectively recom-

*The committee appointed to prepare a circular letter to accompany the Articles of Confederation, brought in the following draught:

" In Congress, York-town, November 17th, 1777.

Congress having agreed upon a plan of confederacy for securing the freedom, sovereignty and independence of the United States, authentic copies are now transmitted for the consideration of the respective legislatures.

This business, equally intricate and important, has, in its progress, been attended with uncommon embarrassments and delay, which the most anxious solicitude and persevering diligence could not prevent. To form a permanent union, accommodated to the opinion and wishes of the delegates of so many states, differing in habits, produce, commerce and internal police, was found to be a work which nothing but time and reflexion, conspiring with a disposition to conciliate, could mature and accomplish.

Hardly is it to be expected that any plan, in the variety of provisions essential to our union, should exactly correspond with the maxims and political views of every particular state. Let it be remarked, that, after the most careful enquiry and the fullest information, this is proposed as the best which could be adapted to the circumstances of all; and as that alone which affords any tolerable prospect of general ratification.

Permit us, then, earnestly to recommend these articles to the immediate and dispassionate attention of the legislatures of the respective states. Let them be candidly reviewed under a sense of the difficulty of combining in one general system the various sentiments and interests of a continent divided into so many sovereign and independent communities, under a conviction of the absolute necessity of uniting all our councils and all our strength to maintain and defend our common liberties; let them be examined with a liberality becoming brethren and fellow-citizens surrounded by the same imminent dangers, contending for the same illustrious prize, and deeply interested in being forever bound and connected together by ties the most intimate and indissoluble; and finally, let them be adjusted with the temper and magnanimity of wise and patriotic legislators, who, while they are concerned for the prosperity of their own more immediate circle, are capable of rising superior to local attachments, when they may be incompatible with the safety, happiness and glory of the general confederacy.

We have reason to regret the time which has elapsed in preparing this plan for consideration: With additional solicitude we look forward to that which must be necessarily spent before it can be ratified. Every motive loudly calls upon us to hasten its conclusion.

More than any other consideration, it will confound our foreign enemies, defeat the flagitious practices of the disaffected, strengthen and confirm our friends, support our public credit, restore the value of our money, enable us to maintain our fleets and armies, and add weight and respect to our councils at home and to our treaties abroad.

In short, this salutary measure can no longer be deferred. It seems essential to our very existence as a free people, and without it we may soon be constrained to bid adieu to independence, to liberty and safety; blessings which, from the justice of our cause and the favour of our Almighty Creator visibly manifested in our protection, we have reason to expect, if in an humble dependence on his divine providence we strenuously exert the means which are placed in our power.

To conclude, if the legislature of any state shall not be assembled, Congress recommend to the executive authority to convene it without delay; and to each respective legislature it is recommended to invest its delegates with competent powers ultimately in the name and behalf of the state to subscribe articles of confederation and perpetual union of the United States; and to attend Congress for that purpose on or before the day of mending the immediate consideration of that important plan for Compact.

3d. Urging the necessity for Taxation in each State in order to raise five Million Dollars* in the Year 1778 for the service of the United States & as one mean for establishing Public Credit, recommending also Confiscation & Sale of the Estates of persons who have forfeited the Right of Protection—& for other purposes.

These Papers so expressive as they are of the meaning & good views of Congress require no attempt to a more minute detail of their several Contents, It remains therefore for me only to repeat the request of Congress that you will be pleased to take the earliest opportunity of laying them before the Legislature of your State. I am with very great Respect Sir Your Excellency's Most obedient Servant

Henry Laurens, President of Congress.

His Excellency George Clinton Esquire, New York.

*Resolved, That it be most earnestly recommended to the respective states to raise in the course of the year 1778, commencing on the first day of January next, by quarterly payments, the sum of five millions of dollars, by taxes, to be levied on the inhabitants of the respective states, in the proportions following, viz.

New Hampshire	200,000 dollars
Massachusetts-Bay	320,000
Rhode Island and Providence Plantations.....	100,000
Connecticut	600,000
New York	200,000
New Jersey	270,000
Pennsylvania	620,000
Delaware	60,000
Maryland	520,000
Virginia	800,000
North Carolina	250,000
South Carolina	500,000
Georgia	60,000
	5,000,000

That the sums to be assessed and to be raised shall not be considered as the proportion of any state, but being paid into the treasury shall be placed to their respective credit, bearing an interest of six per centum per annum, from the time of payment until the quotas shall be finally ascertained and adjusted by the Congress of the United States, agreeably to the confederation hereafter to be adopted and ratified by the several states. And if it shall then appear that any state is assessed more than its just quota of the said tax, it shall continue to receive interest on the surplus, and if less it shall be charged with the interest on the deficiency until by a future tax such surplus or deficiency shall be properly adjusted.—From Journals of Congress.

Little Britain 1st Dec'r 1777.

Gentlemen, I have received your Letter of the 30th Ultimo with the Resolve of your Board inclosed therein. In Consequence of which I shall issue a Proclamation for convening the Legislature at Poughkeepsie on Monday the 5th of January next.

I have not a Word of late News from the Southern Army. A small Party from our Advanced Water Guard a few nights ago slipped down on a dark Night passt the Enemy's Shipping & burnt Genl. Dickenson's Troops have been on Staten Island but with what Success I have not yet learned; other small Parties have been [at] Bergen and Hobuck where they took some Prisoners & Horses. Red Bank Shares the Fate of Fort Mifflin.

York Town, Pens. 2d Decem'r 1777.

Sir, Since I had the Honour of writing to you last week: Fort Mercer at Redbank has shared the Fate of Fort Mifflin. The attempts to relieve both were a day too late. Lord Cornwallis crossed the Delaware at Cooper's Ferry at the Head of 2500 or 3000 men* where he Joind a Detachment that had preceeded him and with a Train of artillery pushed forward to besiege the Fort. General Green† was ordered to relieve the Fort but coming too

*From English official sources, the force under the command of General Sir William Howe, at Germantown, Philadelphia, &c., October 13, 1777, consisted of: 1 colonel; 13 lieutenant-colonels; 20 majors; 121 captains; 214 lieutenants; 96 second lieutenants; 3 chaplains; 23 adjutants; 23 quartermasters; 25 sergeants; 16 mates; 452 sergeants; 319 drummers and fliers; and 8009 rank and file, present and fit for duty.

The German contingent consisted of 9 regiments, constituting two brigades, aggregating 182 officers and 3456 non-commissioned officers and privates; or a total force of English and Germans of 10961, exclusive of officers and non-commissioned officers.

The same table shows that 1729 British and German troops were "Prisoners with the Rebels." The number of officers who were captured by American troops is not given.

December 14, 1777, Howe's forces consisted of an aggregate of 15311 officers and men, fit for duty, of which number 11000 were English, exclusive of two regiments of light dragoons, and one regiment of artillery. On this date the return showed that 1918 Englishmen and Germans were in the hands "of the Rebels."

†November 23, 1777, Washington, from his headquarters at Whitemarsh, wrote as follows to the President of Congress:

• • • I am sorry to inform Congress, that the enemy are now in possession of all the water defences. Fort Mifflin and that at Red Bank mutually depended on each other for support; and the reduction of the former made the tenure of the latter extremely precarious, if not impracticable. After the loss of Fort Mifflin, it was found Red Bank could derive no advantages from the galleys and armed vessels; (they could not maintain their station;) and, in case of investiture, the garrison could have no supplies, no retreat, nor any hope of relief, but such as might arise from a superior force acting without on the rear of the enemy, and dislodging them. Under these circumstances, the garrison was obliged to evacuate it on the night of the 20th instant, on the approach of Lord Cornwallis, who had crossed the river from Chester with a detachment, supposed to be about two thousand men, and formed a junction with the troops lately arrived from New York, and those that had been landed before at Billingsport.

From General Varnum's account, I have reason to hope that we saved most of the stores, except a few heavy cannon; however, I cannot be particular in this instance. I am also to add, from the intelligence I have received, that most if not all the armed vessels have been burned by our own people, except the galleys, one brig, and two sloops, which are said to have run by the city. How far this might be founded in necessity, I am not able to determine; but I suppose it was done under that idea, and an apprehension of their falling into the enemy's hands if they attempted to pass up the river.

Upon the first information I had of Lord Cornwallis's movement, I detached Gen. Huntington's brigade to join General Varnum, and, as soon as possible, General Greene with his division; hoping that these, with Glover's brigade, which was on the march through Jersey, and which I directed to file off to the left for the same purpose, and with such militia as could be collected, would be able to defeat the enemy's design, and preserve the fort. But they were so rapid in their advances, that our troops could not form a junction and arrive in time to succor the garrison; which obliged them to withdraw. • • • late, it was evacuated. And our own People set fire to several of our Vessells of war which were employd in the Defence of the River. The way is now clear for the Introduction of the British Fleet, & our Gallies [are] in no small Danger. In the mean time, Green and Cornwallis are too near each other to part without Blows. Indeed a Report prevails that they have had an Engagement that Cornwallis is taken Prisoner & his Division broken: but it wants confirmation.

Congress have agreed to a Confederacy & recommended it in strong Terms to the respective Legislatures. It pleases here after the most mature Investigation, & I am well persuaded that it is the only Plan that can be reconciled to the Majority of the States. This with other Important Resolutions for supporting our publick Credit will be announced to your Excellency thro' the President.

I am not yet reliev'd by Mr. Morris or Mr. Lewis. The weather is severe already. With every wish for your Happiness—I have the Honour to be Sir Your Excellency's most Obed' hum'e Se't

Jas. Duane.

His Excellency Governour Clinton*

Be pleased to forward the enclosd to G. Arnold.

*Head-Quarters, 2 December 1777.

Dear Sir,

The importance of the North River in the present contest, and the necessity of defending it, are subjects which have been so frequently and so fully discussed, and are so well understood, that it is unnecessary to enlarge upon them. These facts at once appear, when it is considered that it runs through a whole State; that it is the only passage by which the enemy from New York, or any part of our coast, can ever hope to coöperate with an army from Canada; that the possession of it is indispensably essential to preserve the communication between the eastern, middle, and southern States; and, further, that upon its security, in a great measure, depend our chief supplies of flour for the subsistence of such forces, as we may have occasion for, in the course of war, either in the eastern or northern departments, or in the country lying high upon the west side of it. These facts are familiar to all; they are familiar to you. I therefore request you, in the most urgent terms, to turn your most serious and active attention to this infinitely important object. Seize the present opportunity, and employ your whole force and all the means in your power for erecting and completing, as far as it shall be possible, such works and obstructions as may be necessary to defend and secure the river against any future attempts of the enemy. DEPRECIATION OF OUR CURRENCY.

Congress Introduccs an Antidote to Meet a Devise of the Enemy.

York Town 3d Decem. 1777.

Sir, The last trouble I gave Your Excellency was under the 28th Ulto. by Messenger Ad. Cookas—to which I beg leave to refer.

will consult Governor Clinton, General Parsons, and the French engineer, Colonel Radière, upon the occasion. By gaining the passage, you know the enemy have already laid waste and destroyed all the houses, mills, and towns accessible to them. Unless proper measures are taken to prevent them, they will renew their ravages in the spring, or as soon as the season will admit, and perhaps Albany, the only town in the State of any importance remaining in our hands, may undergo a like fate, and a general havoc and devastation take place.

To prevent these evils, therefore, I shall expect that you will exert every nerve, and employ your whole force in future, while and whenever it is practicable, in constructing and forwarding the proper works and means of defence. They must not be kept out on command, and acting in detachments to cover the country below, which is a consideration infinitely less important and interesting. I am, dear Sir, &c.

[Geo. Washington.]

[To Major-General Putnam.]

Congress ever watchful over the Interests of the United States of America & diligent to defeat the numerous & various practices of our grand Enemy, equally cruel & subtle, have taken under consideration, a device calculated for depreciating the value of Money Issued by authority of Congress* & of the several States after the good people had found it necessary to assert their Rights. & to take Government into their own hands—the pernicious stratagem now in view although the discovery of it is not quite new, appears more glaring from a late Publication in Philadelphia subscribed by a very great number of those misguided persons who chose to remain in the City & welcome the Enemy to rivet their fetters.

It is also notorious that many timid & lukewarm friends in several of the States have, from motives probably more avaricious than directly Inimical, long given a great preference to what is called the old Money, which evidently tends to lessen the Estimation & Currency of the new & does in the same Instance demonstrate, if not an Inclination to overturn our Independence, apprehensions, which ought to be banished from the mind of every Inhabitant in the Union.

* Whereas it is the uniform practice of our enemies to pursue every measure which may tend to distract, divide and delude the inhabitants of these states; to effect which purposes, they have, amongst other arts, promoted associations for supporting the credit of the public money, struck under the authority and sanction of the king of Great Britain, which associations are evidently calculated to sap the confidence of the public in the continental bills of credit, and in those issued by the authority of the respective states, and to furnish a medium for carrying on a pernicious and traitorous commerce between the enemy and the citizens of these states:

Resolved, That it be earnestly recommended to the legislative authorities of the respective states, forthwith to enact laws requiring all persons within their respective states, who may be possessed of any bills of credit struck under the sanction and authority of the king of Great-Britain, on or before the 19th of April, 1775, forthwith to deliver in the same to a commissioner or commissioners for that purpose to be appointed in each county of the respective states; authorizing such commissioner or commissioners to give in exchange for any sum so paid in, continental money or bills of credit of their respective states; and to declare in the laws so to be enacted, that all bills of credit, under the description above-mentioned, which shall not be so delivered in within such reasonable time as the respective states shall for such purpose limit, shall thenceforth become utterly irredeemable.—From the Journals of Congress.

From an earnest desire therefore to counteract the wicked projects of our Enemies & to rectify such errors of our almost-friends, Congress have confirmed a Resolution of this date recommending to the States respectively to enact Laws sufficient for accomplishing these good ends.

I have the honour of forwarding a Certified Copy of the Resolve under this Cover which Your Excellency will be pleased to lay before the Legislature of New York. I am with very great respect Sir Your Excellency's Most obedient Servant

Henry Laurens President of Congress.

His Excellency George Clinton Esquire New York.

BRUTAL TREATMENT OF AMERICAN PRISONERS.

Sufferings Aboard Prison Ships—The Case of James DeLancey.

Poughkeepsie 12th Dec'r 1777.

D'r Sir, I am this Moment informed that Ensign Adamson of the British New Levies who was taken in small Schooner in Hudson's River by your Troops & put on his Parole absconded last Night from his Lodgings about Eight Miles West of this Place & it is supposed is now on his Way to the Enemy. This Breach of Faith alone woud Justify the close Confinement of the other Officers in our Power at least till he shall be returned; But when we consider the Cruel Treatment of our Officers who are in the Hands of the Enemy it becomes an indispensable Duty to treat theirs in a similar Manner. Lieut. Colo. Livingston who with Colo. Pawlings & Major Stewart made their Escape the 2d Instant, informs me that for above three Weeks after he was taken he with the other Officers were confined in the Provost & not till the Surrender of Burgoine were released from thence & put on Parole on Long Island.*That some Time ago they were all removed on Board

*January 16, 1777, Congress appointed a committee of seven "to inquire into the conduct of the British and Hessian generals towards the officers, soldiers and mariners in the service of the United States, and any other persons, inhabitants of these states in their possesson as as prisoners of war or otherwise, and also into the conduct of the said generals and officers and the troops under their command toward the subjects of these states and their property, more especially of the states of New York and New Jersey."

The committee consisted of Mr. Chase of Maryland, Mr. Witherspoon of New Jersey, Mr. Clark of New Jersey, Mr. Lewis of New York, Mr. Ross of Pennsylvania, Mr. Haywood of South Carolina, and Mr. Smith.

of two Prison Ships about 220 in Number & confined between Decks; that their allowance is 2-3ds of a British Soldiers when at August 7, 1777, Congress authorized Washington to negotiate the "exchange of prisoners with the enemy in such manner and on such terms as he shall judge expedient, notwithstanding the resolution of Congress respecting Lieutenant Colonel Campbell and the five Hessian field officers"—the latter of whom within a couple of weeks were admitted to parole.

More or less correspondence ensued between Washington and the British generals, especially after the capitulation of Burgoyne's army.

November 23, 1777, Washington, from his headquarters at Whitemarsh, wrote the President of Congress:

" * * * I have been endeavoring to effect an exchange of prisoners, upon principles of justice, and from motives of humanity; but at present I have no prospect of it. Yet General Howe has assured our officers it was his wish, and, if it could not be done, that he should readily agree to their release on parole. The enclosed copies of my letters and his answer will show Congress what has passed between us upon that subject; and, at the same time, that I had remonstrated against the severe and cruel treatment of the prisoners, and proposed the plan of sending in a suitable person to inquire into the facts, before the receipt of their resolution. Their sufferings, I am persuaded, have been great, and shocking to humanity. I have called upon General Howe for redress, and an explicit answer to my letter of the 14th. If I do not receive one by to-morrow night with the most positive and satisfactory assurances that a proper conduct shall be observed towards them in future, we must retaliate, however much we wish to avoid severity, and measures that bear the smallest appearance of rigor or inhumanity. * * * "

February 5, 1778, Sir William Howe, in a letter to Washington, wrote: "My letter of the 21st of April last explained to you what was afforded to the prisoners; clothing, and some other necessaries, they had a right to expect from those, who had been the occasion of their being exposed to the chance of captivity, and that idea I have ever understood to be mutual. But notwithstanding the remonstrances I made to you upon that point, finding that supplies were not sent in, my humanity interposed in behalf of the unfortunate men in our possession; and, on a late representation of their distress, I permitted in this city the purchase of blanketing, and such other necessaries as the severity of the winter required, and without which they must absolutely have perished.

"Confident as I am, that you will acknowledge this to be a just recital of facts, I cannot but think it unnecessary to say any thing farther, either upon the cruelty falsely alleged to have been exercised against the prisoners, or the unjust reflections you have been so often induced to transmit to me upon that head. In consideration, however, of the real and unavoidable distresses of the prisoners on both sides, as well as to put an end to all fruitless altercation on the subject, I shall consent to an immediate exchange of all prisoners now in our possession, as well officers as private men, so far as the number of the latter, and parity of the rank of the former, will admit. In the mean time, I shall wait the arrival here of the British officers, whom you have released upon their paroles, and shall, without delay, send an equal number to you in return."

Under date of February 14, 1778, Howe wrote Washington:

"I have received the favor of your letter of the 10th instant, in consequence of which I shall send two commissioners to meet those on your part at Germantown, on the day appointed. The distresses, which from too good authority I understand the lower class of prisoners labor under, induce me to request you will give such directions as may expedite the exchange of the non-commissioned officers and private men, in the mode you have proposed; and as the foreigners and British must be equally desirous of their liberty, and equally considered in the general release, I trust you will direct that the prisoners sent in are proportioned as nearly as the numbers of each in your possession and their situation will admit.

"With respect to the exchange of commissioned officers, you will permit me to premise, that this must be governed by the release of the Hessian field-officers taken at Trenton, and Lieutenant-Colonel Archibald Campbell of the seventy-first regiment, who have not only been longest confined, but have hitherto been the objects of particular exception; the exchange for those gentlemen, as well as for the other officers, will then take place as is agreed upon. This will explain the meaning of the paragraph in my letter quoted by you, with respect to the release of officers upon parole prior to the arrival of Lieutenant-Colonel Campbell and the Hessian field-officers. I desire to be understood, that in this general exchange the officers and soldiers belonging to the army commanded by Lieutenant-General Burgoyne, who were taken prior to the convention of Saratoga, are to be considered within the description of prisoners, equally with those of the army more immediately under my command.

Sea which is 1-3d less than that on Shore & even this small Allowance is unwholsome & bad Provisison.

Are we then, Sir, to submit tamely to this?

"It seems necessary, with regard to citizens, to postpone the exchange of them until the meeting of the commissioners, who, by a personal discussion, may finally ascertain the distinctions and equality of the persons to be exchanged. With due respect, I am, &c."

Under date of March 8, 1778, Washington wrote as follows to President Laurens:

"In consequence of the letters, which have lately passed between General Howe and myself, particularly those of the 5th and 10th ultimo, copies of which I had the honor to transmit to you in mine of the 8th, continued to the 14th, I was about to send commissioners to meet those appointed by General Howe for adjusting the disputed points between us, carrying into execution an exchange of prisoners, and improving the old cartel, as far as it might be practicable, for their better accommodation in future. This meeting was to be on the 10th instant; but, yesterday morning, Dunlap's paper of the 4th being put into my hands, I found that a resolution had been made on the 26th of February, calling for all accounts against prisoners in our hands, and declaring that no exchange should take place, till the balance due thereon to the United States is discharged. Some of the States are not required to exhibit their claims till the 1st of June. The time that would be taken to adjust them, and make a delivery of the prisoners, would more than exhaust all the ensuing summer.

"This resolution I cannot consider as an intended infraction of my engagements with General Howe; yet its operation is diametrically opposite both to the spirit and letter of the propositions made on my part, and acceded to on his. I supposed myself fully authorized 'by the instructions and intentions' of Congress to act as I did; and I now conceive, that the public as well as my own personal honor and faith are pledged for the performance.

"By the direction of Congress, I in the first instance stipulated with General Howe an exchange of prisoners, 'officer for officer, of equal rank, soldier for soldier, and citizen for citizen.' This agreement they have ever approved, and repeatedly declared their willingness to carry into execution. Their resolution of the 24th of March last empowered me (on condition of General Lee being declared exchangeable) not only to proceed to the exchange of prisoners, according to the principles and regulations of the cartel before agreed on, but also to enter into such further principles and regulations as should appear to me most proper and advantageous. A subsequent resolution of the 6th of June holds forth the same language, sanctions my conduct and reasonings in the negotiations about that time on the subject, and directs an adherence to them. No event has occurred since that period, by which I could conclude there was any alteration in the views of Congress; so far from it, that all my late letters breathing the same spirit with the former, and pointedly signifying my wish to bring about a general exchange, if not with an express, at least met with a tacit approbation. General Howe at length, by profession if not in reality, is willing to perform the agreement on the conditions required by me and confirmed by them.

"It may be said, that, with whatever powers I was originally vested to negotiate an exchange, the resolution of the 19th of December last was an abridgment of them, so far as to annex a new condition, the settlement and payment of accounts previous to its taking place. I had no conception of this being the case in the present instance, however the letter may warrant the construction. Besides the common principle of preventing the inconveniences, necessarily resulting from allowing the enemy to make their payments in paper currency, I had reason to imagine that General Burgoyne's army was more particularly the object of the concluding clause. This interpretation I the more readily adopted, for, exclusive of the affairs of that army, I verily believed, that, from the confused, defective state of our accounts relating to prisoners, there would be a considerable balance in favor of Mr. Howe. Nor was the situation of our accounts the only reason for this belief; the prisoners in our hands, especially those westward of the Delaware, as I am informed, have been in a great measure supported by their own labor, and at the expense of the enemy, who have had agents constantly among us. If this is the case, the reason of the resolve not applying, the effect ought not of course.

Are our Officers & Soldiers who become their Prisoners to be confined like Criminals & starved while theirs go at large & exist on the Luxuries of our Land when it is in our power to prevent it. I trust not.

"But perhaps it may be thought contrary to our interest to go into an exchange, as the enemy would derive more immediate advantage from it than we should. This I shall not deny; but it appeared to me, that, on principles of genuine, extensive policy, independent of the considerations of compassion and justice, we were under an obligation not to elude it. I have the best evidence, that an event of this kind is the general wish of the country. I know it to be the wish of the army; and no one can doubt, that it is the ardent wish of the unhappy sufferers themselves. We need only consult the tide of humanity, and the sympathies natural to those connected by the cement of blood, interest, and a common dread of evil, to be convinced, that the prevailing current of sentiment demands an exchange. If the country, the army, and even the prisoners themselves, had a precise idea of our circumstances, and could be fully sensible of the disadvantages, that might attend the giving our enemy a considerable reinforcement without having an equivalent, they might perhaps be willing to make a sacrifice of their feelings to the motives of policy. But they have not this knowledge, and cannot be entrusted with it; and their reasonings, of necessity, will be governed by what they feel.

"Were an opinion once to be established (and the enemy and their emissaries know very well how to inculcate it, if they are furnished with a plausible pretext), that we designedly avoided an exchange, it would be a cause of dissatisfaction and disgust to the country and to the army, of resentment and desperation to our captive officers and soldiers. To say nothing of the importance of not hazarding our national character but upon the most solid grounds, especially in our embryo state, from the influence it may have on our affairs abroad, it may not be a little dangerous to beget in the minds of our own countrymen a suspicion, that we do not pay the strictest observance to the maxims of honor and good faith.

"It is prudent to use the greatest caution not to shock the notions of general justice and humanity, universal among mankind, as well in a public as a private view. In a business on the side of which the passions are so much concerned as in the present, men would be readily disposed to believe the worst, and cherish the most unfavorable conclusions. Were the letters, that have passed between General Howe and myself from first to last, and the proceedings of Congress on the same subject, to be published with proper comments, it is much to be feared, if the exchange should be deferred till the terms of the last resolve were fulfilled, that it would be difficult to prevent our being generally accused of a breach of good faith. Perhaps it might be said, that, while the enemy refused us justice, we fondly embraced the opportunity to be loud, persevering, incessant in our claims; but, the moment they were willing to render it, we receded from ourselves, and started new difficulties. This, I say, might be the reasoning of speculative minds; and they might consider all our professions as mere professions; or, at best, that interest and policy were to be the only arbiters of their validity."

March 9. Washington had written Howe: "Particular circumstances make it inconvenient for my commissioners to meet yours at the time appointed. I must therefore beg to have the meeting deferred to the 31st of March."

In answer to this, under date of Philadelphia, March 10, Howe wrote: "I cannot refrain from expressing my surprise, upon the receipt of your letter dated on the 9th instant, desiring that the meeting of the commissioners, appointed by yourself to be on the day following, should be deferred, and to so remote a period as the last of the month, when you must be sensible how essential this meeting is to the relief of the prisoners on both sides, and particularly of those with you, whose sufferings are extreme from the want of the necessaries lately intended for them, which by the most unjustifiable means they were prevented from receiving. Upon these considerations I am to request you will propose some day in the ensuing week for entering upon the business of the commission.

" My order for sending General Lee to Philadelphia by sea was prior to my knowledge of General Prescott's arrival at New York; I have since signified my permission for him to come hither by land, accompanied by Major Williams, of the British artillery, agreeably to the General's own request. When the agreement was concluded upon to appoint commissioners to settle a general exchange, I expected there would have been as much expedition used in returning Lieutenant-Colonel Campbell, and the Hessian field-officers, as in returning Major-General Prescott, and that the cartel might have been finished by the time of the arrival of General Lee. If, however, there should be any objection to General Prescott's remaining at New York, until the aforementioned officers are sent in, he shall, to avoid altercation, be returned upon requisition. With due respect, I am, Sir, &c."

March 12, Washington wrote to Sir William, from Valley Forge: " Your letter of the 10th came to hand last night. The meeting of our commissioners cannot take place till the time appointed in my last.†

" I am not able to conceive on what principle it should be imagined, that any distinction, injurious to Lieutenant-Colonel Campbell and the Hessian field-officers, still exists. That they have not yet been returned on parole is to be ascribed solely to the remoteness of their situation. Mr. Boudinot informs me, that he momentarily expects their arrival, in prosecution of our engagement. You are well aware, that the distinction originally made, with respect to them, was in consequence of your discrimination to the prejudice of General Lee. On your receding from that discrimination, and agreeing to a mutual releasement of officers on parole, the difficulty ceased, and General Prescott was sent into New York, in full expectation, that General Lee would come out in return. So far from adhering to any former exception, I had particularly directed my commissary of prisoners to release Lieutenant-Colonel Campbell, in lieu of Lieutenant-Colonel Ethan Allen.

" I wish, Sir, I was not obliged to say, that there are some ambiguities still characterizing the measures taken concerning General Lee, which justify alarming surmises, notwithstanding all that has passed to the contrary. I have now been as explicit as you can desire, on the subject of Colonel Campbell and the Hessian gentlemen; and I hope to find you as explicit on the subject of General Lee, by giving directions, without further delay, to liberate him in place of General Prescott. General Lee's request, mentioned by you, to be permitted to come by land to Philadelphia, can be no objection to this requisition. It was founded upon your order to send him round by water to that place; and, conceiving it would be insisted on, that he should pass to Philadelphia, he preferred the mode of going by land, as the least inconvenient alternative. But the measure appears to me wholly improper, and a departure from our late stipulation, calculated to impose unnecessary hardships on that unfortunate gentleman, and to produce needless procrastination, at least, in allowing him the common benefit of a general agreement. With due respect, I am, &c."

March 15, Howe wrote Washington, from Philadelphia: " I have received your letter of the 12th instant, wherein I observe you still persevere in the procrastination of the meeting of the commissioners. That a measure urged by yourself as confessedly interesting to the unhappy prisoners on both sides, and in which I cannot conceive you to be controlled, should be thus peremptorily suspended without any reason assigned, carries with it the appearance of something disingenuous. My last letter was, in my opinion, clear and explicit on the subject of General Lee; and my proposition concerning General Prescott might, I think, have obviated any suspicion of ambiguity on my part.

† The time appointed was the 31st of March, or rather General Washington found it necessary to defer the meeting till that time, on account of the resolve of Congress, which made this postponement necessary. The commissioners were Colonel William Grayson, Lieutenant-Colonels Harrison and Hamilton, and Elias Boudinot. Their instructions were dated on the 28th of March, and they were empowered to confer with the British commissioners, " and determine and agree upon a treaty and convention for the exchange of prisoners of war, and for all matters whatsoever, which may be properly contained therein, on principles of justice, humanity, and mutual advantage, and agreeably to the customary rules and practice of war among civilized nations."

“On the arrival of Lieutenant-Colonel Campbell, any officer of yours of the same rank, whom you may be pleased to name, shall be immediately released. Mr. Ethan Allen, I understand, bears the rank of a colonel. With due respect, I am, Sir, &c.”

March 18, Congress having considered the letter which Washington wrote to the President, under date of March 7th and 8th, voted to suspend the operation of their former resolve in the present instance, and authorized General Washington “to proceed to an exchange of the prisoners then in the power of the enemy, without waiting for a previous settlement of accounts.” In arranging future cartels of exchange however, he was required to conform to the resolves which ordered a liquidation of accounts for the support of prisoners, before they could be exchanged.

In regard to the letters that passed between Washington and Howe, Laurens wrote March 21, that these documents were in a committee “from whom may be expected a special report respecting the many opprobrious terms and epithets scattered throughout the papers from Sir William Howe, applied to the good people of these United States, and to the representatives in Congress, which were heard by the House with great indignation. From expressions of sentiment by members on all sides it appears to be the general opinion, that such papers should have been marked with the contempt of an immediate return.”

March 24, Sir William Howe wrote to Lord George Germaine: “The time appointed for the meeting of the commissioners being postponed by General Washington to the 31st of this month, without assigning any specific reason, leads me to believe that neither he nor those under whose authority he acts, was sincere in their professions to carry the exchange into execution at this time.”—STATE HISTORIAN. Christopher Tappen Utters a Series of Complaints.

Rochester Dec'r 13th 1777.

D'r Brother, Yours of the 1st Instant I rec'd. It gave me pleasure to hear that you and your Family were well. I and my Family enjoy (thanked be God) a good Share of health.

I wrote to you some time in the latter End of November last which I suppose you have not received—among other things therein I mentioned a Request of my Father in Law for 30 or 40

Hides which are at Hurly—which he want to purchase or Tan for the half if you wou'd be kind enough to procure an Order or give one on the Commissary for that purpose. I also told you that I had resolved to Build next Summer in Kingston, on which Subject I bagg'd your Opinion. I do assure you this matter gives me concern—to live in the manner we do at present is very Incomfortable and very Expensive—this needs no Argument to convince you of, as you daily experience the same, The people in this quarter seem to be infatuaged; they think, as it appears to me, to breed a Famine by Ingrose'g the necessaries of Life or detaining them, by asking such a price that it is impossible to Buy them, I cou'd wish the Legislature wou'd at their next Sessions provide some means to remedy this evil; if they do not Genl. How may lay Still and laugh at us, and we will soon make a Conquest for him. I am yours Affectionately ABUSES UNDER FLAGS OF TRUCE.

Colonel Hughes Calls Governor Clinton's Attention to the Matter and the Latter Expresses His Sentiments.

Fishkill, 16th Dec'r 1777.

My dear Governour, I feel myself so much concern'd for the pernicious Consequences of this Flagging Business that I cannot be silent. It is indeed become a trading affair. Bogardus's Sloop came up on Sunday, when I happen'd to be at the Landing, and heard him giving very agreeable Accts. of the People's Situation, and the Treatment he receiv'd &c; that he was permitted to go where he chose, having a Soldier with him, and permitted to purchase what he wanted. But this last he did not confess to me, I learnt it since, and from one that sent by him, and declar'd to a Friend that he intended to send for more. I will not offer your Excellency such an Insult to your Understanding, as to mention the Consequences of such a Commerce. They are too obvious to require it. And, with Submission I offer it, I think such a Person as Bogardus (either Father, or Son) unfit to go with a Flagg, if allow'd to go on Shore.

Neither of them being capable of giving proper Answers there, nor when they return. Indeed Sir, if a stop be not speedily put to these Clandestine Proceedings, I am apprehensive we shall have ample cause for Repentance.

I have the Honour to inclose your Excellency a late Newspaper from N. Y. by the above Flagg, and to be, with the greatest Respect, My Dear Governour your most obedient Hugh Hughes.

His Excellency Governour Clinton.

P. S. I am told Borgadus is gone again this Morning, but know not the Truth of it. H. H.

[Dec. 16, 1777.]

D'r Sir, I am obliged to you for your Letter of this Date with the News Paper inclosed. Your Sentiments respecting the frequent & unguarded Business of flagging I have from the Beginning much dreaded & opposed it. The first went from

Albany by Permission of Genl. Gates for Stores & Medicines for the British Hospital there. The next was from N. York to Albany for the same Purpose. These It was not my Duty to interfere with tho indeed I made them unload 25 Bar'ls Flour & deliver up some Hard Cash. All the Rest, two only excepted, with Cloathing & Necessaries for the Prisoners taken at Fort Montgomery were by Permission of Genl. Putnam to oblige Tory Ladies or in Consequence of a Resolution of the Council of Safety for Transporting Tory Women & Children with which I was under a Necessity of complying tho ag't my Inclination, but in every Instance in which I was concernd I gave the Direction of the Flagg to a careful Officer & positive Orders ag't Traffick. Upon the whole I am determin'd as far as my Authority or Influence will extend they shall be used to put a Total stop to a Practice I utterly disaprove; & be assured Sir that every Hint you may think proper to give in Respect to any publick Matter will be rece'd as from a Faithfull Friend to your Head Quarters, Sawpitts 16th Decem'r 1777.

William Adamson of the New York Volunteers, taken in a Small Vessle, when the Enemy went up the North River towards Albany; and Liberated on his Parole, by Order M: Genl. Putnam, did on the Evening of the 13th Inst. abscond from his Quarters, and Break his Parole, was yesterday taken at mile Square, within the Enemy's Lines, on his way from where he was Parol'd to New York, in Company with several other Persons, from near the place where he was Quarterd—his Reasons (he says) for his coming away, was that Dr. Forman made a Complaint to the Commissioners, that he had used him Ill, & the Committee heard the matter and Clear'd the S'd Adamson, he also says that the People ab't Poughkeepsie, Says there goes the Damn'd Rascal, and he ought to have his Brains knock'd out.

The General ask'd the Prisoner, who bro't the men which were taken with him from Poughkeepsie; or who persuaded them—the Prisoner very Impertinantly said he did not choose to answer the Genl. any Questions.

Thomas O'Bryant of Dutchess County; says he Left home soon after sowing time, and went to N: York—for some cloaths which had been taken from him by Robt. Simmonds, got part of his things, and went home; about 8 Weeks ago, and there kept conceal'd untill he met with the above Adamson, at Mr. Gleanes's; about one mile this side Croton Bridge. He says a Guide came and told him that Adamson was to be there, that all the men taken with him were there, (at Gleanes's); he says Adamson had no horse, but the Guide bro't him a Bay one, which Belongs to Danl. Wright at Fish Kill; they came all the way from Gleanes's house in the night, and Intended to go into N: York, when he went in first, ab't 20 men went with him, to Join the King's Army—two Northops, one Bailey from Cortlandts Mannor, and Sam'l Mosely; the others he does not Remember, but heard there was a Company going and tho't he would go with them—to get his Cloaths;—he was in the 10 month Service under Genl. McDougall, and a fortnight or thre Weeks with the Militia last Winter,—says the Reason he Resisted and fired at our Party when taken was because he was Drunk.

William Smith of Dutchess County was taken by some of our Parties at North Castle Last May, and made his Escape from a Vessle Laying in Hudson's River off Poughkeepsie, has been taken by the Americans four Different times & made his escape—says the first time he ever saw Adamson, was at mile Square at the house which he was taken in—says he belongs to Col. Fannings corps, and got Liberty to come over the Bridge to get some milk & fresh meat—for which Purpose he Disguis'd himself in a Peasants Dress; says that Isaac Washburn came out with him and was at the [house] with him when taken.

Isaac Washburn, of North Castle, went to the Enemy Last May, and Inlisted in Col: Fanning's Corps, he came over the Bridge yesterday morning, with the above Smith (note; Smith says they came over Sunday night, & Washburn says Monday morning but both agree they came together), Washburn says he Intended to come up to North Castle, but had no Furlough from his officer—the first time he saw any of these men (taken with him) was yesterday morn'g the time they were taken and declares he never heard anything of any of them coming.

Tom a negro, belongs to Col: Humphreys Left his master on Friday night, but that, Wm. Smith sent for him Last fall & told him he must go to the Kings Troops for the Rebels would be conquerd; and that all the negroes must be Given to the King, one of Joe Harrison's Negroes came to him last Thirsday Week, and told him that Wm. Smith was come out from N: Y: and that he must go & see him, which he did. Smith told him that he must go to N: Y: or else the next Spring he Should be taken, there and Kill'd; Says that Smith told him Genl. Washington was taken with 7,000 men and brot into N: Y: before he come away from there; he also desir'd the S'd Tom to go Round amongst the Boys in the Neighborhood and ask which of them would go to the Enemy, (meaning the Kings Troops); the S'd Smith told him, that if he would go to N: Y: he should be free, & have a Dollar a Day for his work—and also that the negroes master Col. Humphrys would that Evening which was Last Friday night, with all his Silver money & Guns, after which he went off with S'd Smith into the mountains, together with O Bryan, Washburn, Okerly, (who made his escape yesterday), the above Adamson who Smith fetch'd from Poughkeepsie directly; after the party Departed from the mountains—the Bay horse mentiond in O Briant's Examination, was stole from Danl. Wright, by S'd O Bryant, and Akerly and bro't to them upon the March;—they came to an old man's house in a Mountain and ask'd him, if he had any Victuals; he answer'd no upon which Smith and Akerly, went out & Immediately got some Beef, which appeard to have been Buried under the Leaves. Smith was call'd their head Pilot,—had a Pistol & O Briant one, Washburn a Gun, & Akerly one—they kept in the woods that night, Washburn Piloted some of 'em in the Woods Saturday night; on Sunday they Lay conceald in the Mountains all day, and in the Evening march'd off towards N: Y: and never stop'd untill they arriv'd at the house in which they was taken.

Manual Marquis belongs to Hansy Wilson of Hopewell ab't 12 miles above Fish Kill, give the Same account of the other negro Tom which makes it unnecessary to Recite it.

Isaac Wall, a Serv't to Adamson, was taken up the River with him, says Adamson never mentiond going to N: Y: to him untill he was Just going off—a Lying rascall Like his master, will tell nothing but what he knows is an absolute falsehood.

Sampson Smith, Brother to William Smith 'tho he Denies it & says he never saw him, the Latter part of his Story ab't as true as the former.

Thomas Miles, a person who says he works ab't the Country, and has no particular home, says he saw Adamson, William Smith and the other persons before Examin'd at Oswego and Sampson Smith at the Highlands, who ask'd him if he would not go below, on which he enquired where his Brother Wm. was, he told him he had Just gone down, & if he would come along soon they would overtake him by night on which he came along and overtook them on the mountains in the High Lands, and came on thro the Woods Living in Rocks, Dens & mountains; they Lay Conceald in the day & march'd in the night—some of the men had Horses but he did not know where they got them; O Bryan brot one & Washburn the other.

The Former is the exact account the Prisoners gave.

Attest—D: Putnam.

Poughkeepsie 18th Dec'r 1777.

D'r Sir, I am this Moment favoured with yours of the 16th Inst. I am happy in the Recapture of Adamson & the Vilians who accompanied him, and as soon as they arrive at this Place I will see that they be properly secured & dealt with according to their respective Crimes.

Colonels Webb's & Eli's* Misfortune gives me real Concern; the Fate of the Former I particularly lament as a Friend as well as a valuable Officer. I sincerely Hope Genl. Parsons has mett with the Success you have Reason to expect & shall impatiently wait a Confirmation of the Account respecting him.

It is my Opinion that we must get the Troops, at least a Part of them, nearer the Works to be erected for the Defence of Hudson's River than either Fish or Peekskill; however this can be better determined when I shall have the Pleasure of seeing you, which will be as soon as you let me know you are at New Windsor. I expect the Council of Safety at this Place this or the Beginning of next Week when I shall propose to them the Propriety of raising a Regt. in the State & shoud be glad to have Colo. Ludington's Plan. I am your most Obed't Serv't

GEORGE CLINTON'S POOR JUDGMENT OF PUTNAM.

Requests General Gates To Inspect the Defences of the Hudson Before He Proceeds To Congress.

Passes of the Highlands, & thereby the Communication between the Eastern & Southern States. But a bad State of Health under which I then laboured prevented my answering it before this and I am not yet perfectly recovered I dare not venture on a Journey or I would do myself the pleasure (I have much wished for) of waiting upon you at Albany to confer with & take your Directions on this very Important Business. In my last I mentioned the little I had been able to Effect which I am pleased to find has your Approbation. Much more might have been done had that Attention been paid to the Business by the Commanding Officer of this Division which in my Humble Opinion its Importance justly demanded. A few of the Militia only which you sent from Albany with those of Colo. Du Bois's Regiment who escaped from Fort Montgomery about 70 Connecticut Militia & a Regiment I embodied in this State were assigned for this Work. The Rest of the Troops were drawn off to White Plains & the Adjacent Neighbourhood on the Sound where they yet continue with Genl. Putnam for what Purpose he best knows. The Militia that came from the Northward were worn out with the Fatigues of the Campaign & their long March hither & the Time which they were engaged to serve expired the first of this Month, & before which we were so illy provided with Teems, Tools & materials that very little indeed could be done for want of them. And at this Day, Du Bois's broken regiment are the only Troops we have which so far from being sufficient to carry on Works are too weak to mount the necessary Guards.

The Materials you have been pleased to order down & the Steps taken with Respect to the Ship Carpenters for Building of Floating Batteries &c. are indeed essential but in our present Situation, (without Troops & Money* Ever since the Reduction of Fort Montgomery The little Army under my immediate Command have subsisted on Credit alone & this is at length greatly impaired by being unable to make Payments punctually at the Time agreed upon. While I had Reason to expect you in this Quarter after you had adjusted the Business of the Northern Department which I readily conceived woud require your personal Attendance at Albany I was contented to struggle with many Inconveniencies in Hopes they woud be but of short Duration. But since I have heard of your Intentions to go to the Southward (In Consequence of your late Appointment to the office of President of the New Board of War on which Honorable Testimony of Confidence & Respect paid to you by the Representatives of a Free People accept my most sincere Congratulations) I realy despair of seeing the Intentions of Congress fulfilled.

The Completion of the necessary Works in Season will not only require more Men than I have in my power to command but a Person better quallified for the Task than I am to take the Direction of them. Not mention the unavoidable Delays that will occasioned in the executing of Business of this kind by the Absence of the Commanding Officer of the Divission whose Orders are always better obeyed & who not being Subject to the Controul of a Superior can act more deciseively. Were you, Sir, only to be here only for a few Days before you set out for the Southward or on your Way thither I am perswaded it woud be of great Service; it woud at least enable you to put Things in a proper Train; see what is wanting which you might be able to supply when at Congress. In Expectation therefore of seeing you here in a short Time I remain D'r Sir with particular Regard & Esteem

Your Affectionate Humble Serv't

G. C.

P. S. Since I wrote the above I have received a Letter from Genl. Putnam in which he informs me that he is directed by his Excellency Genl. Washington to direct his future Views solely to the Works in the River & that he intends marching his Troops up in a few Days to Peeks or Fishkill for that Purpose. This may help something; but however a good Man & brave Soldier he may be (in Confidence I say it) he is not calculated for the Conducting of this Business. I wish therefore as much as ever to see you were it but for a Day or two.

GEORGE CLINTON SUGGESTS WEST POINT.

Recommends the Construction of a Strong Fortress at That Spot—Reasons for the Loss of the Highland Forts.

Poughkeepsie 20th December 1777.

Dear Sir,

I was not honored with the Receipt of your Excellency's Letter of the 3d Instant before Friday last. I am truly sensible that the Security of the North River is a matter of the utmost Importance to the United States in the present War & that the Safety of this State in a more particular manner depends upon it. It gives me real Concern therefore that so little has been yet done to effect it. Works are laid out & began to defend the Chevaux-De-Frize & something done towards finishing & sinking such of them as were not completed when the Enemy came up the River and these are the only steps that have hitherto been taken.

When the Enemy left the River it was my Oppinion that as many of the Troops from the Northern Department should be sent to reinforce the Grand Army under your Excellency's more immediate Command as cou'd be possibly spared. That no greater number shou'd be left in this Quarter than what wou'd be barely sufficient to cover the Country which is more immediately exposed to the Ravages of the Enemy, to assure them from sending large Reinforcements to General Howe & to carry on the Necessary works for the Security of the River, one Brigade of Continental Troops with the Militia then in service & such of this State as I should be able to call out I conceive fully sufficient for these Purposes. Two small New Hampshire Militia Regiments which were sent down from the Northward by Gen'l Gates about 70 Connecticut Militia and those of Colo. Du Bois—who escaped from Fort Montgomery—& a Regiment of Militia of this State were assigned for the Works. The rest of the Troops consisting of General Warner's Brigade of Militia (which arrived earliest) General Parson's Brigade and some Connecticut Militia were drawn off to King's Street and the adjacent Neighborhood on the Sound under the immediate Command of General Putnam. It was late before the Militia from the Northward arrived, and they were worn out with the Fateigues of the Campaign and their long march hither. The time for which they were engaged in the Service expired the first of this Month, and of those of this State the 15th and while they were with us The Want of Tools & Materials was such as to prevent their being employed to any degree of advantage. Du Bois's Regiment are the only Troops on the Spot at present which are by No means sufficient to Mount the Necessary Guards of Course the Works are entirely neglected.

The Resolutions of Congress of the 5th of November for regaining the Forts and Passes on Hudson's River & securing the Communication thereof vested General Gates with such Ample Powers for drawing Supplies of Men & Materials from New Jersey and the different States Eastward that something essential might yet have been done towards the Completion of this Important Business before the opening of the Spring would betake upon himself the Direction of it; But as (I understand) that Gentleman proposes taking his seat at the Board of War agreeable to his late appointment those Resolutions as they apply to him particularly will loose their intended effect, and tho' I learn by a Letter I received from General Putnam accompanying that from your Excellency that he is directed to turn his Views in Future to the Object yet (however capable he may be for the task) I fear he will fall short in the Execution of it unless he shall be able to command the same Aids at least which Gen'l Gates was impowered to do.

I am clearly of Oppinion that a strong Fortress ought to be erected either on the opposite Side of the Creek from where Fort Montgomery stood or at the West Point opposite Fort Constitution. The latter I prefer as the most defensible Ground and because the Navigation of the River there is more difficult & uncertain and the River something narrower than it is at the former place. A new chain should be procured (if possible) & with the Boom which is nearly completed stretched across the River. This with a Floating Battery or two & some Gun Boats I am persuaded would answer the purpose effectually and in this opinion I am confirmed as the Enemy chose to risque every Thing for the Reduction of Fort Montgomery rather than to attempt passing it with their shipping while in our Possession. If the West Point should be the place fixed upon it might be of great advantage to erect a small strong work on the high Point on the opposite Shore a little above Fort Constitution.

As to the Management in this Department of which your Excellency desires my sentiments, I am constrained to say (but I wish it may be considered as in Confidence) we have either been very unfortunate or it has not been as wise as might be wished. Prudent Management of our small Force in my humble Opinion would have saved the Forts, tho' perhaps with the far less Important Loss of the Continental Village. By loosing the Forts the Village fell of course. It is true a few stores were moved from thence & saved but I dare say not of equal Value with those lost at the Forts exclusive of the Shipping; besides, had we held the Forts we should have commanded the Navigation of the River and drove the Enemy to the necessity of attempting to relieve Burgoine (for it is evident that this was their Intention) by Land, in which Case it might have been in our Power by calling the Militia to our assistance to have destroyed Clinton's whole army. Indeed without Opposition they cou'd not have effected a March in season for the intended Purpose, and I am confident they never would have attempted it. I never considered Peek's Kill or the Village Posts of great Importance only as they stood connected with the Defences of the River, for without the latter the Enemy cou'd by landing above come in the Rear of the Former in which case they must fall of course (the Event has fully proven this) notwithstanding, the chief Part of this Department were kept idle at Peek's Kill and the Village, while the Forts were left without a sufficient Number of Men to carry on & compleat the Works or defend them.

If the Shipping had been properly man'd and was often solli-cited the Congress at least might have been saved, and even after the Loss of the Forts by a prudent Disposition of the Force in this Quarter, which was soon greatly increased by the coming in of the Militia, Kingston might have been saved & the greater Part of the Mischief committed by the Enemy along the Shores of the River prevented. A constant Intercourse which has been permitted between the Country & City by Flags has I fear been very Injurious, as well by frequently enabling the Enemy to learn our Strength as otherwise, without our being able to derive similar Advantages from such Correspondence. I have heard that there has been a Weekly exchange of News Papers with Gov'r Tryon & that the Printers Gaine & Loudon are permitted the like Liberty. The latter I have no doubt of. An over share of Complaisance & Indulgence to the disaffected (which tho' arising from Principals of Benevolence and Humanity will always create Jealousies & unfavorable Suspicions especially among the Common People and often even reach the Army) & shou'd therefore be carefully avoided. In these respects I cant help thinking there has been a want of Common Prudence. I have taken the Liberty of hinting my sentiments of these Matters to Gen'l Putnam and I would fain hope that there may be more Circumspection used in future.

The Legislature of this State is to meet at this place the fifth of next Month. The variety of important Business to be prepared for their Consideration and other Affairs of Government will employ so great a Part of my Time that I should not be able to give that attention to the Works for the Security of the River as their Importance and the Short Time in which they ought to be compleated require. But you may rest assured Sir that every Leisure Hour shall be faithfully devoted to them & my Advice and assistance shall not for any Consideration be withheld from the Person who shall be intrusted with the Chief Direction of them.

I have the Honor to be with the most sincere Esteem & Respect your Excellency's Most Obed Servt

SAVAGE CRUELTY OF THE BRITISH TO PRISONERS.
Amelioration Hampered by Our Discredited Currency. Difficulty in Procuring Supplies.

War Office ye 22nd Decem'r 1777.

Sir, The unhappy situation of the American Prisoners of war confin'd in Philadelphia and in the city of New York renders it indispensably necessary that measures be immediately taken to afford them every possible relief.

Had the Enemy on their part observed a Conduct equally humane with that which has been inviolably adhered to by the States in their treatment of the British Prisoners of war, the measure that is now requisite to be adopted, to render the captivity of our prisoners in any degree supportable, wou'd have been unnecessary; but so far from observing even the common line of humanity, their Conduct towards our prisoners thro the several stages of the war, has been marked with more than savage cruelty, and has rendered it necessary for Congress to send in provisions for their support least a greater number shou'd fall a sacrifice to their inhumanity.

I am to acquaint your Excellency that Elias Boudinot, Esq: Commissary General of Prisoners finds it impossible to procure a sufficient quantity of Flour & Beef wthout paying a price too extravagant to be allowed and that so little regard is paid to the Currency, that delays may be attended with many ill Consequences to the prisoners without the Interposition of the Civil authority. I am, therefore, in the name of the Board of War most earnestly to request your Excellency will be pleased to furnish Mr. Boudinot or his Deputy with every assistance in the procuring of sufficient quantity of Flour & Beeves to send into the City of New York and whatever else may be thought necessary, not only for the immediate subsistence of our prisoners, but also, to afford a sum of Money to purchase Cloathing to cover them. Mr. Boudinot or his Deputy will wait on your Excellency with this, to whom they beg leave to refer. I have the honor to be sir, Your very ob't Servant

Orange Town, December ye 22d 1777.

Sir, Your Excellency's Favour of the 28th Ult. came to hand some days since and should have been answer[ed] by me before this time had it not been for the following reasons: first, that there was a report that some of our friends Confined in New York were to be set at Liberty. Secondly, that I wanted to Get farther Information respecting the number of Our friends from this part of the Country still in Confinement. The first reason now Ceases so far that I think my Conduct should not be justifiable was I to delay any longer Transmitting the names requested; I shall therefore now proceed with them in the following Order, to wit:—

Harmanus Tallma, Daniel Lawrence, Nathaniel Lawrence and Daniel Betts now are and for some months past have been under the provost Guard; there were taken at this place and merit your Excellency's attention, tho' the person last mentioned after he was Confined gave out that he belonged to our army. John Hayes, David Phillips and Thomas Kennedy fled from New York upon the approach of the enemy, were taken in Bergen County New Jersey and Confined under the same guard with those already mentioned. Govern'r Livingston says they dont belong to their state and therefore he cant exchange them, and I am informed that one John Terjay is under the same Circumstances with those last mentioned.

Besides those already mentioned, there are some from this place said to be prisoners upon parole in New york, for certain reasons I shall not yet return their names as proper persons to be exchanged.

Bernardus Verbryck and Samuel Garritson Verbryck I have omitted mentioning in the former part of this letter, being under some expectation that their Father would be the bearer hereof; But lest that should not be the Case I beg leave to inform you that they have already been Confined for better than seven months; they had been a few days at Hackinsack when they were taken; their Conduct while among us was such that there is no room to doubt their attachment to the Cause of Liberty. Gov. Livingston has made an attempt to Get them exchanged but without effect. If God saves me from the hands and fury of those infernal Villians who infest this place, I shall from time to time Give an account of such as may return home as well as of those who may be taken by the enemy. I am Your Excellency's Obed't and Very Humble Serv't

Gov. Clinton.

CONCERNED OVER WASHINGTON'S ARMY.

James Duane Notifies Clinton that Gates Is Disposed to Exert Every Nerve for the Defence of the Hudson.

Manour Livingston 23d Decem'r 1777.

Dear Sir, Since I got here we have no news from General Washington's army.* From the critical Situation in which I left it, some thing important must probably have happend: & as I wait the Event with anxious Solicitude, I beg the Favour of your Excellency to relieve me as soon as it is in your Power.

*On this same day Washington from his winter quarters at Valley Forge wrote the following memorable letter to the president of Congress:

Valley Forge, 23 December, 1777.

Sir, Full as I was in my representation of the matters in the commissary's department yesterday, fresh and more powerful reasons oblige me to add, that I am now convinced beyond a doubt, that, unless some great and capital change suddenly takes in that line, this army must inevitably be reduced to one or other of these three things; starve, dissolve, or disperse in order to obtain subsistence in the best manner they can. Rest assured, Sir, this is not an exaggerated picture, and that I have abundant reason to suppose what I say.

Yesterday afternoon, receiving information that the enemy in force had left the city, and were advancing towards Derby with the apparent design to forage, and draw subsistence from that part of the Country, I ordered the troops to be in readiness, that I might give every opposition in my power; when behold, to my great mortification, I was not only informed, but convinced, that the men were unable to stir on account of provision, and that a dangerous mutiny, began the night before, and which with difficulty was suppressed by the spirited exertions of some officers, was still much to be apprehended for want of this article. This brought forth the only commissary in the purchasing line in this Camp; and, with him, this melancholy and alarming truth, that he had not a single hoof of any kind to slaughter, and not more than twenty-five barrels of flour! From hence form an opinion of our situation when I add, that he could not tell when to expect any.

All I could do under these circumstances, was to send out a few light parties to watch and harass the enemy. Whilst other parties were instantly detached different ways to collect, if possible, as much provisions as would satisfy the present pressing wants of the soldiery. But will this answer? No sir; three or four days of bad weather would prove our destruction. What then is to become of the army this winter? And if we are so often without provisions Now, what is to become of us in the Spring, when our force will be collected, with the aid perhaps of militia to take advantage of an early campaign, before the enemy can be reinforced? These are considerations of great magnitude, meriting the closest attention; and they will, when my own reputation is so intimately connected with the event and to be affected by it, justify my saying, that the present commissaries are by no means equal to the executions of the office, or that the disaffection of the people is past all belief. The misfortune, however, does in my opinion proceed from both causes; and, though I have been tender heretofore of giving any opinion, or lodging complaints, as the change in that department took place contrary to my judgment, and the consequences thereof were predicted; yet, finding that the inactivity of the army, whether for want of provisions, clothes, or other essentials, is charged to my account, not only by the common vulgar but by those in power, it is time to speak plain in exculpation of myself. With truth, then, I can declare, that no man in my opinion ever had his measures more impeded than I have, by every department of the army.

I have exchanged Letters with General Gates from this place. He assures me that he is zealously disposed to exert every nerve for the Defence of Hudson's River. It will not be long before I shall have an Interview with Him, & I shall not fail to urge every measure which can be servicable. I can do it with the more Confidence because there is nothing which Congress has more at Heart than the Security of the Passes and navigation of this River.

Since the month of July we have had no assistance from the quarter-master general, and to want of assistance from this department the commissary-general charges great part of his deficiency. To this I am to add, that, notwithstanding it is a standing order, and often repeated, that the troops shall always have two days' provisions by them, that they might be ready at any sudden call; yet an opportunity has scarcely ever offered, of taking an advantage of the enemy, that has not been either totally obstructed, or greatly impeded, on this account. And this, the great and crying evil, is not all. The soap, vinegar, and other articles allowed by Congress, we see none of, nor have we seen them, I believe, since the battle of Brandywine. The first, indeed, we have now little occasion for, few men having more than one shirt, many only the moiety of one, and some none at all. In addition to which, as a proof of the little benefit received from a clothier-general, and as a further proof of the inability of an army, under the circumstances of this, to perform the common duties of soldiers, (besides a number of men confined to hospitals for want of shoes, and others in farmers' houses on the same account,) we have, by a field-return this day made, no less than two thousand eight hundred and ninety-eight men now in camp, unfit for duty, because they are barefoot and otherwise naked. By the same return it appears, that our whole strength in Continental troops, including the eastern brigades, which have joined us since the surrender of General Burgoyne, exclusive of the Maryland troops sent to Wilmington, amounts to no more than eight thousand two hundred in camp fit for duty; notwithstanding which, and that since the 4th instant, our numbers fit for duty, from the hardships and exposures they have undergone, particularly on account of blankets (numbers having been obliged, and still are, to sit up all night by fires, instead of taking comfortable rest in a natural and common way), have decreased near two thousand men.

We find gentlemen, without knowing whether the army was really going into winter-quarters or not (for I am sure no resolution of mine would warrant the Remonstrance), reprobating the measure as much as if they thought the soldiers were made of stocks or stones, and equally insensible of frost and snow; and moreover, as if they conceived it easily practicable for an inferior army, under the disadvantages I have described ours to be, which are by no means exaggerated, to confine a superior one, in all respects well-appointed and provided for a winter's campaign, within the city of Philadelphia, and to cover from depredation and waste the States of Pennsylvania and Jersey. But what makes this matter still more extraordinary in my eye is, that these very gentlemen,—who were well apprized of the nakedness of the troops from ocular demonstration, who thought their own soldiers worse clad than others, and who advised me near a month ago to postpone the execution of a plan I was about to adopt, in consequence of a resolve of Congress for seizing clothes, under strong assurances that an ample supply would be collected in ten days agreeably to a decree of the State (not one article of which, by the by, is yet come to hand).— should think a winter's campaign, and the covering of these States from the invasion of an enemy, so easy and practicable a business. I can assure those gentlemen, that it is a much easier and less distressing thing to draw remonstrances in a comfortable room by a good fireside, than to occupy a cold, bleak hill, and to sleep under frost and snow without clothes or blankets. However, although they seem to have little feeling for the naked and distressed soldiers, I feel superabundantly for them, and, from my soul, I pity those miseries, which it is neither in my power to relieve or prevent.

I had the Affliction to find Mrs. Duane's Health greatly impaired & her Spirits exhausted a nervous Complaint having made great Havock in her Constitution. Terror from the near approach of the Enemy, and anxiety on account of my unexpected long absence got the better of her Fortitude. She flatters me that she daily mends. Be so obliging as to forward the enclosed to Mr. Jay: & to present my respectful Compliments to Mrs. Clinton, the Doctor & his Lady: and believe me to be—With every Sentiment of Regard Dear Sir Your Excellency's most Obed't & most hum'e Servant

Jas. Duane.

Increasing the Number of Representatives in Congress.

York Town 23d Decem. 1777.

Sir, The last I had the honour of writing to you was dated the 3d Inst. hitherto I have received none of Your Excellency's favours.

Under Cover with this, Your Excellency will receive a Letter framed by, & signed by order of, Congress to which I have prefixed the present date, together with a Resolution* of the 20th

*Resolved, That it be most earnestly recommended to the respective legislatures of the United States, forthwith to enact laws, appointing suitable persons to seize and take, for the use of the continental army of the said states, all woolen cloths, blankets, linens, shoes, stockings, hats and other necessary articles of clothing, suitable for the army, which may be in the possession of any persons inhabitants of or residents within their respective states, for the purpose of sale and not for their own private use or family consumption, giving them certificates or receipts for the same, expressing the quantity and quality of the goods; provided, that such laws do not extend to any goods, wares or merchandises which are or shall be, bona fide, imported into the respective states on account of any persons not citizens of any of these United States, so long as the same shall continue their property and no longer; and that they inflict such penalties as may be deemed proper on such persons possessed of any of the above-enumerated goods, wares or merchandise, or other articles of clothing suitable for the army, who, to evade the good intention of the said laws, shall falsely affirm or declare the same to be the property of persons not citizens of any of the said United States.

2. That it be further recommended to make provision in the said laws to empower the commissary-general of purchases, or any of his deputies, or such other persons as the respective legislatures may deem expedient, to seize all stock and every kind of provision necessary for the army, which may have been purchased up or engrossed by any person with a view of selling the same, giving to the person, from whom such stock or provisions have been taken, certificates as aforesaid.

3. That the value of all such goods, wares and merchandize as are above-enumerated, or other articles of clothing, stock or provisions necessary for the army, which shall be so seized and taken, be ascertained at the rate at which the said articles shall be stated by the convention of the committees of the several states, to be held agreeably to the recommendation of Congress of the 22d of November last; the articles of clothing to be paid for by draughts made by the respective states upon the clothier-general; and the stock or provisions by the purchasing commissaries receiving them.

4. And it is further recommended to the respective states, to cause to be made up so much of the clothing aforesaid as they can complete within a reasonable time, and to send the whole of the clothing so taken or seized, as well that part which may be made up, as that which may remain unmade, (except so much as may be necessary for clothing the recruits enlisted in the states for their respective battallions in the continental service,) to the clothier-general, to be distributed in the first instance to the supply of the troops belonging to the state furnishing such clothing, and the residue in such manner as the commissioners of the war-office or the clothier-general shall, from time to time, direct: provided, that this resolution shall not repeal or affect any part of the seventh proposition recommended to the legislatures of the respective states, the 22d of November last, relative to the additional clothing to be furnished to their respective battallions. And it is further resolved, that the clothier-general transmit, from time to time, to the respective states, an account of the clothing furnished to their battalions out of the stock by them collected and sent forward, in order that each state may be satisfactorily informed that their troops receive immediate advantage from its exertions in the common cause.

5. And whereas, great waste of clothing has arisen from the want of fidelity or skill in the persons employed to make up the same:

Resolved, That it be recommended to the respective states to appoint one or more suitable persons to superintend and direct the tradesmen employed to make up the cloths to be collected as aforesaid, who shall conform themselves to the instructions of the board of war relative to the form thereof, provided that no delays be suffered to take place from the want of such instructions.

6. And whereas, the comfortable support of the army of these states may hereafter greatly depend on the supplies which they may be able to draw from their own internal resources; it is therefore most earnestly recommended to the said states, to employ a sufficient number of manufacturers and tradesmen to supply the clothing wanted for their respective battalions, exempting them, under proper regulations, from military duty; and authorizing suitable persons to collect and supply, at the stipulated prices, cotton, wool, flax, leather, and other articles for carrying on the said manufactures.

7. And whereas, certain persons, devoid of, and in repugnance to every principle of public virtue and humanity, instigated by the lust of avarice, are, in each state, assiduously endeavouring, by every means of oppression, sharpening and extortion, to accumulate enormous gain to themselves, to the great distress of private families in general, and especially of the poorer and more dependant part of the community, as well as to the great injury of the public service; for the effectual suppression of such nefarious practices it is most seriously recommended to the several legislatures aforesaid, forthwith to enact laws, limiting the number of retailers of goods, wares and merchandize in their several counties, towns and districts, and obliging them to take license and enter into bonds for the observance of all laws made for their regulation; to make provision in the said laws that no persons be allowed to sell by wholesale except the importer, and he only to persons having such license or the certificates hereafter mentioned; and that such of their inhabitants as are not licensed as aforesaid, be restrained from purchasing a greater quantity of such goods, wares and merchandize than is requisite for their own private or family's use and consumption: and that it be farther recommended to the several states to prohibit any persons whatsoever, not citizens of their respective states, from purchasing within the same, any articles of clothing or provision necessary for the use of the army. (unless so much as may be requisite for their own private or family's use or consumption,) excepting only such person or persons as shall produce a certificate, under the seal and sign manual of the supreme executive authority of the respective states, purporting that the said person or persons are employed or permitted to make purchases either on account of the public or for the use or benefit of the inhabitants of the state of which he or they are members; and to inflict such punishment upon all atrocious offenders before described, as shall brand them with indelible infamy.

8. And whereas, there is good reason to apprehend that many of the emissaries and abettors of general Howe are dispersed through the United States, under various pretences of amusement or business, whereby they are enabled to spread disaffection, intimidate the people by false news, depreciate the currency of the United States, and avoid serving in the militia or paying their fines: to prevent these mischiefs, it is most earnestly recommended to the supreme executive power of each state, to take the most effectual measures to cause all persons, whose character and business is not well known and approved of, to be apprehended, and if they cannot give a good and satisfactory account of themselves, that they be obliged immediately to return to their own states or be confined in gaol.

The committee having prepared a circular letter to accompany the foregoing resolutions, submitted it to Congress, and the same was read, and agreed to as follows:

Sir,

I AM directed by Congress to transmit to your honourable body the enclosed resolutions, which the pressing wants of the army and the arts and avarice of engrossers and extortioners have rendered indispensibly necessary to the general welfare.

It is with deep concern, that Congress, after having for some time contemplated, in painful silence, the mischiefs which threatened this extended continent from the growing avarice of the times, feel themselves constrained to recommend measures, which the virtue of all classes of men rendered not long since unnecessary. And which particularly referred to in the Letter—also a Resolve† of the 9th Inst. recommending to several States, & among others to New York to contribute to a more ample Representation of Delegates than appear at present in Congress, by sending forward an additional number of Members without delay—these your Excellency will be pleased to lay before the proper powers in your State as early as possible. I am With very great Respect Sir—Your Excellency's Obedient & most humble servant a scrupulous regard for security of property to every citizen of these states has hitherto restrained from adopting. But, unhappy the case of America! laws unworthy the character of infant republics are become necessary to supply the defect of public virtue, and to correct the vices of some of her sons; and she is called upon by the grand principle of self-preservation to guard against the parricide of those whom she has fostered in her own bosom.

To minds, whose reflexions are employed on the importance of the cause in which we are engaged, and that feel for every circumstance which may affect the honour and safety of these states, it must give the most painful sensations to consider, that, at a time when the late signal successes we have been blessed with, the reduced numbers of the enemy, the difficulties they meet with in procuring foreign levies, and the political complexion of affairs in Europe, have deprived Britain of many of those resources, on which she so much depended; when the number and improving discipline of our army, the prodigious augmentation of our military-stores, the quantity of provisions with which this country abounds, and the large supplies of clothing which have of late been imported by private persons, afford not only the opportunity, but the means, under divine providence, of establishing our liberties by a few exertions, this bright prospect should be clouded over, and this great and glorious event endangered by the languor of too many, and by the arts and avarice of designing individuals, who, like the British nabobs of the east, are corrupting the manners of a whole nation, and building vast fortunes on the destruction of the liberties of the western world.

It is to be hoped, however, that the wise and spirited laws of the different states, aided by the influence and exertions of the real patriots, will apply effectual remedies to these alarming evils; that the old and hardened offenders will be punished; that those, in whose bosoms the sparks of public virtue are not yet extinguished, will be reclaimed, the languid roused from their present apathy; and that all classes of men will unite with their former spirit and virtue against an enemy, whose progress is marked with every vestige of barbarity, and whose determined object is to establish a tyranny of the most dangerous and debasing nature over the inhabitants of a vast continent.

Congress flatter themselves that the resolutions herewith transmitted will tend to accomplish some of these valuable purposes, and they therefore esteem it their duty to recommend them to the serious consideration of your honourable house, and hope they will be carried into execution as secretly and expeditiously as possible. By order of Congress.—From the Journals of Congress.

†Resolved, That the president write letters to the several states of Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, Maryland and South Carolina, representing to them the great and important matters to be transacted in Congress during the winter, and the few members now attending, and that he request them to send forward, without delay, an additional number of members.—From the Journals of Congress.

Lower Part of Orange, the Present Rockland County, Exposed to Marauding Bands.

Haverstraw 25 [24 ?] December 1777.

Sir, We think it our Duty to inform your Excellency of the Present Defenceless and exposed State of this part of the Country. The Part of Continental Troops formerly Stationed at this Place, has been for some time with drawn, and the time limited for the Continuance of Capt. Gardner's Company of Rangers being Expired, that Company is Discharged, so that the Public Ferry at Stoney Point, and the Inhabitants living near the River, are Exposed to the Depredations of the Enemy with out a Single Guard to protect them.

On the 14th of this month a Party of the Enimy landed from one of their armed Vessels at Slaughters landing and proceeded into the Country as far as Snedikers Pond, and before the Inhabitants could be collected to oppose them, they Plundered the house of Abraham Thew, and carried him off, with several other of the Inhabitants and a Number of Cattle. This Success, added to the Enimies great Distress for want of Fresh Provisions, and the Knowledge of the Defenceless State of the Country which might easily be procured from the number of disaffected People who are Constantly passing and repassing we are apprehensive will induce them to make further attempts to plunder the Inhabitants and distroy the Stores, that are constantly passing over the Ferry to the army, unless some Provision is made for the Protection of the Country.

Mr. Walker, a Prudent and Spirited Officer who Served as a Lieutenant in Capt. Gardner's late Company, and who is desirous of being Continued in the Public Service can give your Excellency the necessary Information on this Subject. We beg leave to refer you to him for Particulars and are with Esteem and Respect Your very humble serv'ts time when the troops of almost every other State are receiving supplies of everything necessary and comfortable. Circumstances so discouraging to the troops, that if not soon remedied, must end in a dissolution of the regiment, and thereby affect the Continent at large, but more particularly the State of New York. I am sensible that much has been said with respect to our not having paid for the surplus of clothing already received by the regiment; but this your Excellency must not attribute to any neglect on our parts, for though the continual movements of the regiment, has prevented the officer from coming to a settlement with the paymaster, your Excellency may be assured the money has long been in his hands, more than sufficient to answer the demands of the State against the regiment.

When your Excellency has maturely considered these matters, I have no doubt you will take such measures that the troops of the State of New York will no longer be ashamed to appear in the field with those of the other States.

I doubt not your Excellency will excuse the liberty I now take, and believe me, with great respect,

Your Excellency's Most Obedient humble servant,

Among These are Major Wickham, Major Hudson, Orange Webb, & Matth'w Wells of Southold Township, John Ireland of Huntington & sundry others. None of these act under military Commissions except Hudson; the others must be considered as State Prisoners & fall within your Direction being Subjects of your State: they are now with the Commissary of Prisoners at Hartford; if you think it necessary to give any Particular Orders respecting them the Commissary will doubtless comply with any Directions you give.

The well affected Inhabitants of Suffolk County are anxious to have Wickham, Hudson & Ireland kept upon ye main they much fear their Return, they are now all upon their Parole. I am y'r Excellency's Obed't h'e Serv.

Sam'l H Parsons.

*Governor Clinton Writes Hamilton Relative to Depredations on the

Poughkeepsie, 28th December, 1777.

Dear Sir: I was favored with the receipt of your letter of the 22d instant, some days since, and returned a short answer to it by the express who brought it; but as I have reason to believe you had left Peekskill before he got there, I conclude my letter has not been received. I have not a doubt but that there have been such unjust and dishonorable practices committed on the inhabitants as you mention; nor have I reason to believe they were without the knowledge of the commanding officer of the Department. Complaints have been exhibited to him of cattle, the property of the inhabitants of this State, living near Col. Robinson's, being drove off by parties of the continental troops, and sold at vendue in New England, without any account being rendered to the proprietors; and, if I am rightly informed, an officer with a party, took sundry articles from Robinson's, sent them off and sold them in like manner in Connecticut, and has not accounted with the States for the proceeds. Of this I informed General Putnam, and desired that an inquiry might be made into the conduct of the officer commanding the party, to which I was more particularly induced, as I found he had given an order on the Quarter-Master General for the payment of the teams employed in carrying off those effects; but I have reason to believe he has no regard to my request. Of this I am fully convinced, that the soldiery claim as lawful prize every thing they take within the enemy's lines, though the property of our best friends, and whatever is taken beyond our advanced posts, by a generous construction, comes within the above predicament. On this principle the several articles taken at and near Robinson's were sold because the enemy's shipping were then in the river near that place; and on the same principle indiscriminate plunder might have taken place on both sides of the river as high up as the manor of Livingston. Little good can be expected of an army whose interest it is to suffer a country to be abandoned to the enemy, thereby to justify plundering the inhabitants Perhaps, and I don't know that it would be uncharitable to suppose, that it is this trade that makes some people so very fond of little expeditions.

I have long thought to ascertain these facts, and seek redress not only for the parties immediately injured, but the public; but my time has been so fully employed of late about other matters that I have been obliged to neglect it.

* * * * *

May I expect a line from you whenever you have leisure; be assured it will always be most kindly received, though perhaps not quite so punctually answered by

Your most obedient servant

Geo. Clinton.*

My respects to Capt. Gibbs and young Livingston.

John Addison Writes a Letter of Acknowledgment.

Hurley Decemb'r 29th 1777.

Sir, I expected long ee'r now, to have returned you in Person, my most grateful Acknowledgments, for your generous Letter to me of the 1st of Novemb'r ult: had I not been prevented by some unavoidable & unforeseen Circumstances: such as Sickness, &c, &c,—

My early Acquaintance with you, on my Arrival on this side the Atlantic, I have ever esteem'd, and from Experience found it to be, One of the most fortunate Events of my Life. To be connected with, & approved by the Wise, the Great and the Good, is Sufficient, either to raise the meanest, or add a Lustre to the Brightest Character.

Permit me now, to assure your Excellency, that, reposing the most implicit Confidence in your Benevolence & Sincerity; I view the generous Offer of your Friendship to me, at this Time, as laying me under Obligations to you, which I can no more cease to forget, then ever be able, sufficiently to repay. And that in the Character of a Teacher, as well as in every other Sphere of Life, in which Providence may cast my Lot, it shall be my invariable Study & Concern, to render myself still more worthy of your attention and Regard.

The Trustees are preparing materials, and determined to rebuild the Academy in Kingston next Summer, if the public Calamities will admit.

Miss Blandina perused that part of your Letter which related to the Prisoners, alias to herself: She smiled, she Blush'd and thanked you for your kind Intentions to serve her. She has since, shewed me another from your own Hand on the same Subject: She says "you are exceeding kind & honour her much." If the Colo.* bravely lost one Fort, 'tis clear to me, Another will surrender of itself to him, upon his immediate Restoration to Freedom. Distribute my Respects among the Family. I am with all imaginable Respect & Esteem Your most Obed't

John Addison.†

P. S. Miss Blandina desires to be remembered to Gov'r Clinton.

Poughkeepsie 30th Dec'r 1777.

Sir, Your Excellency's Letter‡ inclosing the Resolutions of Congress of the 9th & 20th Instant came safe to Hand yesterday. My Letter of the 20th of this Month in Answer to yours of the

*Col. McClaghry.

†John Addison was the principal of the Kingston Academy from 1774 to 1784. He was described as "a man of nerve, of learning and of first-class educational talent." His school continued uninterruptedly until Vaughan's torch was applied to Kingston. He was senior trustee and president of the Academy in 1795. He served as member of Assembly in 1792, 1793 and 1796, and was state senator from 1798 to 1800.—STATE HISTORIAN.

‡See Laurens to Clinton, pages 601-603. Washington, under date of December 29, 1777, from his headquarters at Valley Forge wrote the following letter to the governors of the Eastern States:

"I take the liberty of transmitting to you the enclosed return, which contains a state [ment] of such of the New York regiments as are in the army immediately under my command. By this you will discover how deficient, how exceedingly short, they

3d & 4th I woud fain hope has been received er'e now; but least this shoud not be the Case I now inclose a Copy By which your Excellency will observe that I have directed the Legislature of this State to convene the 5th of next Month at which Time the

are of the complement of men, which of right, according to the establishment, they ought to have. This information I have thought it my duty to lay before you, that it may have that attention which its importance demands; and in full hope that the most early and vigorous measures will be adopted, not only to make the regiments more respectable, but complete. The expediency and necessity of this procedure are too obvious to need arguments. Should we have a respectable force to commence an early campaign with, before the enemy are reinforced, I trust we shall have an opportunity of striking a favorable and an happy stroke. But if we should be obliged to defer it, it will not be easy to describe, with any degree of precision, what disagreeable consequences may result from it. We may rest assured that Britain will strain every nerve to send from home and abroad, as early as possible, all the troops it shall be in her power to raise or procure. Her views and schemes for subjugating these States and bringing them under her despotic rule will be unceasing and unremitting. Nor should we, in my opinion, turn our expectations to, or have the least dependence on, the intervention of a foreign war. Our wishes on this have been disappointed hitherto, and perhaps it may long be the case. However, be this as it may, our reliance should be wholly on our own strength and exertions. If, in addition to these, there should be aid derived from a war between the enemy and any of the European powers, our situation will be so much the better; if not, our efforts and exertions will have been the more necessary and indispensable. For my own part, I should be happy if the idea of a foreign rupture should be thrown entirely out of the scale of politics, and that it may have not the least weight in our public measures. No bad effect could flow from it, but, on the contrary, many of a salutary nature. At the same time, I do not mean that such an idea ought to be discouraged among the people at large.

Your ready exertions to relieve the distress of your troops for clothing have given me the highest satisfaction. At the same time, knowing how exceedingly the service has been injured, how that every measure will be pursued that circumstances will admit to keep them supplied from time to time, no pains, no efforts can be too great for this purpose. The articles of shoes, stockings, and blankets demand the most particular attention, as the expenditure of them, from the operations and common accidents of war, we find to be greater than of any other articles. I assure you, sir, it is not easy to give you a just and accurate idea of the sufferings of the troops at large. Were they to be minutely detailed, the relation,—so unexpected, so contrary to the common opinion of people distant from the army—would scarcely be thought credible. I fear I shall wound your feelings by telling you, that by a field-return on the 23d instant, we had in camp not less than 2,898 men unfit for duty by reason of their being barefoot and otherwise naked. Besides these, there are many others detained at the hospitals and in farmers' houses for the same causes. I will no longer dwell upon the melancholy subject, being firmly convinced that your views and most studious care will be employed to render the situation of the troops, both officers and privates, comfortable in future. If the several States direct their attention to this indispensably essential object, as I trust they will, I have the most sanguine hopes that their supplies, with those immediately imported by Congress themselves, will be equal to every demand.

The return transmitted comprehends only such troops of your State as are at this camp. I imagine all the regiments stand nearly upon the same footing in point of deficiency; and from it you will be able to form a pretty just estimate of the men that will be necessary to fill the whole.

Before I conclude I would also add that it will be essential to inoculate the recruits or levies as fast as they are raised that their earliest services may be had. Should this be postponed the work will be to do, most probably, at an interesting and critical period, and when their aid may be materially wanted.

I have the honor to be, with great respect, sir,

P. S.—We have taken post here for the winter, as a place best calculated to restrain the ravages of the enemy, and busily employed in erecting huts."

Letter of Congress Dated the 23d Instant & Resolution therein referred to shall be laid before them.

In Consequence of the Resolution of Congress of the 9th Instant I begg Leave to inform you that an Additional Member for this State is ordered to give his immediate Attendance. I have the Honor to be with great Respect, Your Excellency's Most Obed't Serv't

NEW HAMPSHIRE OBJECTS

To Holding Prisoners that Belong to This State.

New Hamp'r Exeter Dec'r 31st 1777.

Sir, By order of the General assembly of this State, I am to inform you, that the persons sent by the committee for detecting conspiracies &c. in your state to this, for safe keeping in Nov'r 1776, have since that time been dismissed by orders from your state, or discharged in consequence of their taking an Oath of fidelity, & giving Paroles to appear, before the executive authority of your state, & abide the order concerning them; or have absconded without leave, except a number who were made prisoners, in a skirmish with certain Maj'r Rogers & were sent to Rhode Island for Exchange P order of Genl. Washington, and ten of said number who have remained ever since in Amherst Gaol in this state who are now sent to your care.

The General assembly (from constant representations) are of opinion, that their longer stay here will be dangerous to this state;—as they continue firm in their attachment to the late kingly Government; and by the acquaintance they have contracted, have considerable influence in the minds of many people here;—and besides we have scarce room in our prisons, from the large number necessarily confined for tryal on charges of Counterfeiting our Currency,—

The accounts of the expenditures, for necessary clothing, diet &c, for the said prisoners, as soon as they can be collected, from the several Sheriffs & properly adjusted shall be transmitted to you. I am your Excellency's most hble. Serv't

In Congress; Dec: 31: 1777.

Resolved, That as it is expedient to promote a speedy reformation in the army, as well as for the purpose of discipline, as economy; & the number of officers being already out of all proportion to that of the privates; to avoid further embarassments in this respect; it be recommended to the governments of the several States to suspend filling up any vacancies in their respective regiments, until they shall hear further from Congress on the subject.

PREPARING TO CONSTRUCT CANNON.

Colonel Hughes' Report on the Capacity and Capabilities of Salisbury Furnace.

Salisbury Dec'r 31st 1777.

Memorandum.

24—three pounders cast & bor'd, Purpose unknown;

20—six pounders Do & Do—all on Mullar's construction.

It is expected that the furnace will be in blast in 10 or 12 Days, to cast a few 13 Inch mortars at the request of his Excellency General Washington, but It's very doubtful whether the Hearth will stand to cast a large Number of Cannon. It will, therefore, be necessary to procure about 15 Ton of Hearth stone from Haverstraw,—about 300 Cord of Nut Wood from the state of New York, as being much more convenient than any other, It must either be staddle, or such as can be split, suitable for Coal-ing.

Some coarse Cloathing & Shoes &c. for about 30 Men, Ore Diggers, & Furnace Men, who must also be supplied with 2 or 3 Hhds. Rum.

A Company of Wood Cutters not less than 50, rather 75, with Officers, to enforce Business when necessary—these men must be furnishd with Axes, Blankets &c. as well as 3 or 4 Grind stones, Flour, Salt Pork, &c. Sufficient to support 60 or 70 Men, from the beginning of the Blast to the End.

12 or 15 Teams with Drivers, and Forge, the Carts to be built for Tilting &c.

On the supposition that the foregoing & every other incidental Necessary is supplied, It is thought that a 100—thirty-two pounders may be cast in 16 Weeks from the Time the furnace is in blast, which may be continued about a Year,—

Mr. Whiting is not quite clear, but the works for boring, may want some repair, &c. Neither is he Certain but some little Difficulty may arise in sinking a Shaft for casting the large cannon, on acco't of the springiness of the Ground, which may require a Pump &c.

42 pounders cannot be cast without a double blasted Furnace; that is, two Sets of Bellows.

Upon the whole Mr. Whiting,* seems to think that it will be absolutely necessary to play the Q M G, in order to insure Success in Time, as the Inhabitants of both States, in that Quarter, are rather backward, in promoting the Service, unless apprehensive of Compulsion &c.

COLONEL SNYDER VINDICATED.

Draft of a Paper by George Clinton Explaining the Proceedings for Calling out the Militia Prior to the Affairs at Forts Montgomery and Clinton.

That about the 27th of March last and shortly after the Enemy destroyed our Stores at Peeks Kill, I received a Resolve of the Honorable the Convention of the State of New York authorizing and requiring me as Brigadier General of the militia either on the Requisition of his Excellency Genl. Washington or at my own Discretion to call into actual Service all or any Part or Proportion of the militia as well Horse as Foot of the several Counties of West Chester Dutchess Ulster & Orange or either of them, and that I should station the said Militia in such manner as might be most proper for the securing the Posts & Passes in the Highlands and frustrating the attempts of the Enemy to make Incursions into the State, and that they should be discharged as soon as the arrival of a sufficient Number of Continental Troops or other Contingency should render their Continuance in the Field unnecessary; this Resolve was to continue in Force until 1st Aug't. In Consequence of which Resolve and conceiving it absolutely necessary from the small Number of Continental Troops in the Highlands and the Daily attempts of the Enemy to distress in the lower Parts of the Counties of West Chester and Orange, I conceived it my Duty to put the Resolve in Execution by ordering out a Part of the Militia to reinforce the Garrison and occupy the important Passes in the Highlands and to give Protection to the Inhabitants who were most exposed to the Incursions of the Enemy; but as the number sufficient for this Purpose was a Matter worthy of due Deliberation and good advice and at the same Time it became impolitic at that Season of the year to call out a greater Number of the Inhabitants from the Cultivation of their Farms than was absolutely necessary for the Service, I thought it most prudent to convene the Field Officers of the Counties of Ulster and Orange to consult upon the above Occasion and a Meeting was accordingly held on the 31st of March at which most of them attended. I then read them the Resolve vesting me with the Power of calling out the Militia, explained to them the Business of the Meeting, requested their advice and intimated that I meant to be governed by it as far as was consistant with my Duty. The first Points considered were, what Number was sufficient to reinforce the Garrison at Fort Montgomery, to occupy the Pass at Sidnam's Bridge and to give Protection to the Inhabitants in the Southern Part of the County of Orange. It was determined I think unan-tiously that twelve hundred Men at least, to consist of three Regiments, were necessary for the above Purposes & some of the Gentlemen thought a greater No. requisite. The Field Officers not being possessed of the Returns of their different Regiments, I desired them to furnish me with Estimate of their Strength as nearly as they could do it which they did, and it appeared that one third Part of the Militia of those two Counties, including the Exempts, would make up the Compliment required, some of which were profitable & more equally burthensome with Militaryservice.

They mentioned that the Militia complained of the great Number of Persons who were exempted from Duty by Reason of Offices & particular Business and which could not prevent them from joining in the Defence of the Country upon extraordinary Occasions especially in the Case of an Invasion. I therefore thought it my Duty to put the Question whether the State was actually invaded or not; they unanimously determined that it was & my private Opinion being then required I answered "That if it was not now invaded it never would be when the Capital & four or five Counties were in Possession of the Enemy and they were daily making Incursions into other Parts of the State carrying off the subjects & their Property, and if there was a Necessity for calling out Exempts I thought no public Disadvantage would arise from the Measure, as they were at Liberty [to] hire other Persons to serve for them to transact their Business while absent, even if it was particularly requisite for the Public Safety that such Business should be carried on and in such Case the Persons directed to be exempted from Military Duty would bear their Proportion of the Common Burthen and no more."

It was therefore resolved that that Proportion of the Militia sho'd be ordered out accordingly. I then by advice of the Officers present appointed Field Officers to command them, & directed them to appoint the Inferior in Command in Proportion to the Number of the Men and issued Brigade Orders directing the Troops to be draughted by Ballot or other equitable Manner & to march with all Expedition to the Station assigned to them—when I communicated my Orders to the Gentlemen present, they signified that they were entirely agreeable to their Sentiments excepting a few, who thought that Exempts ought to have been particularly mentioned as the Common People might then better comprehend the Meaning of these orders. I then said if the State was invaded, as we had all agreed in Opinion that it was, my Orders were sufficiently comprehensive to include Exempts, That it was late in the Evening I was obliged to meet the Field Officers of Dutchess upon the same Business, and not being possessed of the Militia Regulations and therefore uncertain whether some Persons were not exempted even in Case of an Invasion, I conceived it improper to be more particular in my Orders and Especially as I thought no Person would be unwilling to act in Defence of the State when invaded. I also requested the Field Officers present to be as particular in their Orders as they pleased but to be careful to consult the Militia Regulations & if any Persons were exempted in the Case of an Invasion not to subject them to Military Duty. Colo. Snyder appearing particularly uneasy, I further requested him as he had an Opportunity for being at Kingston to take the advice of the Gentlemen of the Convention & mentioned that if Time had permitted I would have wrote to them on the subject. The Field Officers present promised me and pledged their Honor for the Performance that they would follow the Measures agreed on and order out the Men with all possible Expedition. And from the Spirit they discovered I had great Reason to believe their Promises would be performed.

Being engaged in obtaining the Militia from the Counties of Dutchess & W. Chester agreeable to the Resolve, I heard nothing further respecting the Result of what was agreed on at the Meeting till I took the Command of the Militia at Fort Montgomery. In Conversation with Colo. Snyder then, I inquired of him whether they had met with any Difficulties in obtaining the Militia & he informed me that they had not, that they were daily coming in the slowly, that the necessary Preparation had detained a Part of them at Home but they would soon be at their station and further informed me he had conversed with several Gentlemen of the Convention, who highly approved of the Proceeding of the Field Officers and appeared entirely to coincide in Sentiment with them. Some Time there after, finding the Militia Troops were not all come in, I issued out positive Orders to the respective Captains to bring down all the Men belonging to their Companies that were draughted without Excuse, as those who were at their Posts began to murmur at the Delay of others and as the good of the Service required the full Compliment of Men agreed on at the Meeting the Colonels of the respective Regiments at this Post promised to put my Orders in Execution. And I heard nothing further respecting the Determinations of the Field Officers or their Proceedings in Consequence thereof, until I received a Resolve of the Convention requesting me to direct Colo. Snyder to attend their House immediately to answer for a Breach of Privilege with Respect to Charles Dewit Esqr. one of their Members.

This is a State of the Facts to the best of my Remembrance respecting the calling out of the Militia as far as I had any Part therein and I esteem it my Duty to furnish Colo. Snyder with it unsolicited that if the Censure he has received has been suffered by him by Reason of his having acted agreeable to my Orders or in Consequence of the Determinations at the Meeting of the Field Officers a'd he may so far stand justified to the Public and the Censure if any was merited fixed in its proper Place.

A CHARACTERISTIC EPISTLE.

George Clinton Notifies Governor Chittenden, of Vermont, of His Refusal to Waive Jurisdiction Over That State.

Sir, This acknowledges the Receipt of your Letter of the 18th Inst. which I thought proper to answer immediately upon my Return to this Place; and lest from my Silence, the contrary might be presumed to inform you that I never gave to Colo. Webster such Orders as are mentioned in his Letter.

Altho' I sincerely lament the Contest between this State and its Subjects in the Grants, and could wish, in our Opposition to the common Enemy, that the Dispute might be kept out of Sight, and both Parties could conduct themselves so as not to injure the Claim of either, yet you may be assured that until a Decision by competent authority, I will neither in my private or public Character do any Act from which there can even remotely be inferred an Acquiescence from me in another separate and independent Jurisdiction within what the State claims as its rightful Territory. I am Sir your Humble Serv't Nicholas Sause Petitions to Be Permitted to Go to His Brother in New York.

To His Excellency George Clinton Esq. Captain-General, Governor, & Commander in Chief in and over the State of New-York, Vice Admiral of the Navy of the Same, &c. &c. &c.

The Humble Petition of Nicholas Sause humbly Sheweth, That it has pleas'd Almighty God in the Dispensation of his allwise providence to afflict your petitioner with an Inflammatory Disorder in his head and Eyes almost two years, which after baffling the Efforts of some of the most Eminent Physicians in New-York and Philadelphia, and totally depriving him of the Sight of one Eye, and almost that of the other, terminated in Paralytic, Rheumatic and Apoplectic Complaints insomuch that the Doctors gave him over as incurable.

That notwithstanding this, it pleas'd the Lord of his infinite goodness and Mercy to grant your petitioner almost a year's Respite from the chief of these Complaints, till last September since which time he feels a Return of his old disorders, and his Health gradually declining, which renders him utterly incapable of Exercising the means whereby he could acquire a Livelihood without being dependent on or burdensome to, any.

That your Petitioner has no Relations or family Connections in America, except one Brother, in the City of New York (as your Petitioner has been lately inform'd) on whom all his Dependence has been placed since he has been deprived in so great a measure of his sight, and whose Circumstances in Life are such that he is able to make ample provision for your petitioner in Distress, could he be so happy as to be permitted to go to him.

That your Petitioner is not influenced by tory principles of Disaffection to the Country or Grand Cause of America (which he utterly abhors) but from real necessity, as he can be of no manner of service to the State, but on the Contrary, if depriv'd of his health, a Burthen to it. Your petitioner therefore most humbly implores your Excellency's Compassion, and prays that of your Clemency and humanity he may be permitted to go to his Brother, where he will be sure to meet that cordial Relief so necessary to assuage and alleviate the Feelings of the Distressed. And your petitioner, as in Duty bound, will ever pray, &c.

Nicholas Sause.

SELECTING A CAPITAL OF THE STATE.

Henry Williams' Objections to Goshen and Albany—He Favors Quaker Hill.

May it please your Excellency

Sire: My zeal for the weal of the State, and to prevent any censure for remissness being cast on the Legeslature, are my excuse for the liberty I took in my personal application to you last week, and this Address.

In a long intercourse I had the pleasure to have at Fishkill with Messrs. Sam'l and John Adams, in their journey from General Congress to Boston they earnestly wisht an early opening of the Courts of Justice in this State.

Since I took my leave of your Hon'r, I have consulted such members of the Legeslature, as I could, respecting the time and place most convenient for our next meeting; they assign no internal impediment to an early sitting; As to the place, with brevity I beg leave to communicate the following observations:

The remote situation of Goshen, is thought an impediment that will prevent a sufficient number of members from attending there to do buisness. The like objection is made against Albany; with the further addition, that were the Army hath lately been, provisions and forage must be Deere and scarce; This last objection is made to Poughkeepsie, and every other place lyable to the risque of any surprize by water.

Quaker Hill, is by sundry members proposed as an eligable station, containing many wealthy and good living inhabitants, chearfully ready to accomodate a hundred visitants, a meeting-house with two fireplaces, with plenty of provision and good forage. I visited that place on Friday last, and discovered no contradiction.

Yesterday I stoopt the Quakers after their meeting near Samuel Mabbets (he was at home and his wife near her time); I propounded the matter to them, and by my answer telling our present purpose was not to deprive them of their meeting house, but the Legeslature to sitt in Mabbetts premises they gave way, and said, they were not in general in such sufficient circumstances, nor did they raise a like quantity of Cattle, or Hay, as at Quaker Hill, but consented that about 80 members might be lodged and accomodated within a circle of about one mile and half, or One hundred persons within two miles of that place.

This I humbly offer to Your consideration, as a specimen of my best endeavors to serve the State, either in or out of Doors, for the Public good, with a sincere profession of my personal attachment to Your wholeself, who have the hon'r to be most profoundly. Your Excellencies Most obedient & very hble. ser't Hen'y Williams.*

Why the Drawing for the Lottery Was Postponed.

In Congress; January 6th 1778.

Whereas, it appears by a Return made to the Board of Treasury from the Managers of the Lottery of the United States that the Invasion of the States of Pennsylvania by the enemy has obstructed this business, and producted considerable delays in the sale of Tickets, insomuch that the Number yet remaining on hand renders it Necessary once more to post pone the Drawing thereof; and Whereas, Congress being desirous as far as possible to fulfil the Expectations of the Adventurers, think it proper to give them the fullest assurance, that at the time herein proposed, the Managers are to proceed on the business without further Delay.—

Resolved, That the Drawing of the first Class of the lottery mentioned, be postponed to the first of May next, at which time, the Managers are Dire[c]ted to proceed therein, and Compleat it as soon as may be; and that all the Tickets then unsold shall be the property, and at the risque of the United States.

That $\frac{1}{2}$ per Cent upon the Amount of Tickets sold, be allowed to the persons employ'd by the managers; or by the several States to sell Tickets, lieu of the encouragement given by a Resolution of Congress of the Thirtieth day of November 1776.

Colonel Brinckerhoff Ranked Out of Quarters by Juniors and Restored by the Governor.

Poughkeepsie, 6th January 1778.

Gentlemen, The Bearer, Colo. Exclusive of every other Consideration the Respect due to Colo. Brinckerhoff as an Officer & Member of the Legislature of the State I should have expected would have been sufficient to have prevented this unwarantable Proceeding, but as this it seems is not the Case, I am under the disagreeable Necessity of directing, that on Receipt hereof you will leave Colo. GUN BOATS FOR THE HUDSON.

Many Difficulties in the Way of Their Construction—Teams and Money Essential for Success.

Poughkeepsie 7th Jan'y 1777.*

Dear Colonel, I take it for granted that you have been informed that Genl. Gates some Time since directed the Building some Floating Batteries, Gun Boats &c. for the Security of the River at this Place & that a Number of Ship Carpenters have been for some Time passt employed by his Order getting the Necessary Timber.

*N. B.—This date (Jan. 7, 1777), must be a mistake; all the letters of Jan. 1777, show that G. C. was at Ramapo then, especially on the 7th. This must have been Jan. 7, 1778. He had not yet got over the habit of writing 1777 when he wrote this letter. (Note on back of MSS. by George W. Clinton.)

The Bearer, Capt. Benson, who was directed by Genl. Gates to contract with the Carpenters for this Service is just now returned from Genl. Putnam at Mamaroneck on whom he waited for Orders respecting this Business, & to be informed how the Workmen were to be paid, Materials provided & the Timber got out of the Woods to the River &ca. &ca &c. For all these the Genl. has referred him to you & says he has furnished with the proper Directions & Orders respecting them. Capt. Benson therefore waits upon you. The Genl. advises that the Workmen be employed in building one or two of the Gun Boats first by way of giving Time to provide Materials for the others; but before any Thing further can be done even towards these the Timber must be brought to the River. Teams are therefore immediatly wanted for this Purpose. Money too is so essential an Article that unless Arrears are paid I fear those Gentry will soon lay down their Tools but with this I conclude the Genl. furnished you a sufficiency when he gave you his Directions & Orders. Indeed my Dear Colonel I fear we are trifling with the Important Works necessary for the Security of the River and I know not how to remedy the Evil. What is in your Power I know will be done. Yours Sincerely,

Geo. Clinton.

Sir, General Gates I think must have gone by the Way of Minisink, as there is no Account of him.

General Putnam is this Moment arriv'd with the Troops & intends crossing tomorrow, in order to take Post at Moore's, near West Point, and desires me to acquaint your Excellency that he will be glad of a Line, relative to the Situation of the Fort, as the Engineer is against having it at West Point. The General would be glad of a Line by the Return of the Bearer.

I must wait on your Excellency in a Day or two. The Bearer will deliver the Blankets to your Order Sir. I am, with great Regard, your Excellency's most obedient and very Hhble. s't

Poughkeepsie 7th Jan'y 1778.

Dear Sir, I am this Moment favoured with a Letter from Colo. Hughes of this Date in which he informs me of your Arival at Fishkill & mentions that you wish to have my Opinion respecting the proper Place to fortify for the Security of the River. I have already given my Opinion in favour of West Point* & I have hitherto heard no sufficient Reasons to change my Sentiments. I pretend however to no great Skill in Fortifications I woud not wish therefore that my Sentiments shoud prevail ag't those of others who may be better Judges. If Fort Clinton† is to be the Place I shoud be glad to know how the Chain or Boom is to be defended if at the old Place & farther South it cant be fixed to answer any good Purpose—, indeed & if Works are more easy to be compleated at Fort Clinton than West Point which I understand the Engineer says is the Case. This is a Consideration of some Importance considering the short Time in which the Business must be effected. I am your most Obed't Serv't

DISPUTE BETWEEN LIVINGSTON AND THE STATE.

He Denies the Charge that He Sold Iron to the State Authorities at Extortionate Prices.

Manor Livingston 8th January 1778.

May it Please Your Excellency;

Sir; On the 7th of Last month I received an order from the Late Council of Safety for this State, a copy of which Marked No. 1 is herewith presented your Excellency. I did not wate to enquire whether under our present free and Happy Constitution the subject matter of that order fell properly under the Cognizance of the Council or whether I could be called before them to defend myself against the Charge which it contained nor tho I felt myself sensibly hurt, did I object to the being singled out of the whole Community to Exhibit the profits of my Business at a time when clamours on account of the immoderate price of Labour, and of every commodity and necessary of Life were Universal, not only in this but throughout every other State on the Continent, I could not but remark that if the charge had been true, I had transgressed no Law, and that even if I had been criminal it was very singular to call upon me to furnish Evidence for my own Condemnation. The Council however haveing been pleased to Resolve that it was their duty to take notice of the complaint, Insted of urging objections I determined to give them all the satisfaction which could be required.

Whether I have not acted with Candor and Decency, your Excellency will Judge from the paper No. 2, which is a Copy of my Answer to the complaint and letter from the Council,—the Charge that I had sold my Iron for £17- and for £20- a hundred, ware both Utterly Groundless, and it must I presume, be thought a full Vindication till the fact shall be proved, that I positively denied it, the Command to inform the Council of the highest price at which I had lately sold Bar Iron, and as nearly as the same might computed, of the difference of expence between that time and the year 1775: of manufacturing a Tun of refined Bar Iron from the Ore at my works, could not be complied with, but upon an accurate and a tegious examination drawn out into great lenght as for some time the price of labour, Cartage, provision, and Meterials has been daily encreasing; and disappointments and Extraordinary charges frequent, and almost Endless; all of which circumstances must necessarily be explained before a proper Judgment can be formed of my Sales. Whethe it was incumbent upon me to go into this Exemination need not be determined because I chearfully proposed it to the Council, to appoint any one of their Body, or any other Gentleman of repute to examin my Books; Nay it was my humble request that they would be pleased to do it, that they might be perfectly satisfied in this matter and convinced that the complaint was Melitious and propagated for sinister purposes; Assureing them at the same time, that to the person who should be Sent by the Council on this Enquiry I ment to be Explicite.

I was not However happy enough to satisfy the Council as your Excellency will be pleased to obsarve by an extract from their Minutes of the 15th of December last a copy of which is herewith transmitted.

Indeed the perticular complaint from the Committee of Rhimbeck precinct seems to be dropped, but the Council intimate that I have not treated them with delicacy, and express displeasure that their Questions with respect to the price of Iron, and the differences of the Expence of manufacturing between the periods before Stated are not answered, and Require me to make direct answers in writing to said Questions and to transmit the Answers to the Council or the Legislature of this state without Delay, I can conscientiously say, in my own Justification that I have endavoured to give them satisfaction and Studiously avoided every thing which might occasion dispute or Disgust; and I freely submit it to your Excellency and the Legislature whether I deserve the reproof which is implied in the Council's Resolutions.

I foresaw last Year the difficulties which woud attend the Iron Manufactory in the hand of an Individual; at all times great Embarrising, they increas with the Distresses of the Country,—and it was my most erdent wish that the State would then Except of my proposal to Carry on the works for the publick account. When this offer was rejected more from principle and duty to my Country, which must suffer if they are laid aside, then from interast or Inclination, I persued amidst numberless difficulties and Vexations in Every branch; I have been expos'd to immoderate exactions, Cartage of Ore—to mention but one Instance—which was formerly Eight pence a mile for a Tun, is now risen to Six and Eight Shillings; workmen and labourers of every Class, Contented with no indulgence, and bound by no contract, desert my service at thair pleasure, and while I am pressed with these difficulties, in a degree to which no other occupation is Exposed, Men who confine their own exactions within no bounds, are Clamerous against me, and their clamours unsupported by Profs or truth, are Judged by a Committee and countenanced by the Council as a sufficient ground to draw my Integrety into Question.

In short Sir, I find that while I secrifice peace of mind and Health to carry on a Usefull manufacture, while foregoing the advantage of £ 18 per Hundred which I could have recived for all my Bar Iron in the Massachusatts Bay, (to say nothing of the profits upon the returns), I retailed it to my fellow Citizens at a much less Price; my Reputation hitherto Unsullied; and which I Value far beyond any temporal good, is impeached, not for any fault of my own, but from the publick Distresses which give a keen Edge to censure and Calumny.

Give me leave to add, that if these considerations ware not a sufficiant discouragement, I am seriously apprehansive that it is becomeing utterly impracticable for me, or indeed for any private person, to prosecute a Business so Chargeable and extencive, and the Success of which depends on the fidelity of a great number of People, too many of whom will not be kept to their duty without a greater degree of authorety then any Individuel possesses or can exercise equelly Essential to the defance of the State and Subsistance of its Members. This Manufacture Cannot fail without produceing very great distress and the example of a Sister State in supporting it on the publick account, is not in my opinion undeserving of imitation, since in no other way can It's Benefits be Ensur'd. For these Resons I once more make an offer of my Furnace and forges, and of all their appurtenances and accommodations to this State, and entreat that they may be employed for the publick account, Allowng me only such compensation as shall be Judged resonable. The furnace is newly rebuilt and all the works are in excellent order, and preperations made for a sliting mill which can be completed in a short time, I mention this last work because without it, I fear the want of Nails will prove an Insuperable obstacle against fortifying Hudson's River.

I shall always be ready to treet on this subject with any Commissioners or persons to be appointed by the Legislature and flatter myself that my proposels will appear to be resonable and for the publick good,

The Late Council of Safety, referred me to the Legislature for a Vindication of my Conduct, I hope I am in the regular course of business when I request that this representation may be Submitted to them thro your Excellency, am with great respect
Your Excellencyes Most obedient Humble Servant

Robt. Livingston.

[To Gov. Clinton.]

In Council of Safety for the State of New York—

Hurley December 15th 1777.

The Committee to whom was referred the Letter from Robert Livingston Esquire dated at the Manor of Livingston, the 7th of December 1777, and directed to Mr. Benson one of the Secretaries of this Council, report that they have given the Same a deliberate Consideration and conceive it when viewed as an answer to the Enquiries made of him by Certain Resolutions of this Council therein referred to, to be Very unsatisfactory—

1st Be[c]ause it Seems to arraign the Regularity if not the Justice of the Conduct of this Council in proceeding on the Complaint of the Chairman of the Committee of Rhimbeck Precint in Dutches County, without Evidence on Oath, when in fact and truth the said Resolutions were framed and sent to Mr. Livingston, only for Information and Enquiry, and Cannot be considered as a Judicial act against him, and your Committee are of Oppinion, that this Council have discovered greater Delicacy towards Mr. Livingston in Exhibiting the Said Complaint to him for his admission or denial, and in Stateing for his Solution the Questions Contained in the said Resolutions before the Examination of any Witnesses than would have been shewn to him in Calling for expart Proof against him on Oath.

2dly Because tho the said Letter contains a full and flat Denial that Mr. Livingston ever sold any bar Iron for Seventeen or £20 per hundred, as is alledged in the said Complaint, And altho' also it asserts that no One Blacksmith Either in the Manor of Livingston or Dutches County has bought any Iron of him that has cost more then Eight Shillings for the quantety necessary to Shoe one Horse; Yet it Contains no answer to the said resolutions respecting the price at which he does sell his Bar Iron as by the said Resolutions was required:

3dly Because tho the said Letter contains an Enumeration of his Difficulties with respect to his work men; yet it affords no Solution to the question respecting the Difference of Expense between the present Time and the year 1775: of manufacturing a Tun of refined bar Iron from the Ore at his Iron works: as by the said Resolutions was also required Thereupon:

Resolved that the Letter from Robert Livingston Esquire dated at the Manor of Livingston the 7th Dec'r 1777 and directed to Robert Benson Esq'r one of the Secrétaries of this Council, Contains no answer to the Questions put to him in the Resolutions of this Council of the Twinty Eight of November last relateing to the price at which he sells his bar Iron and the difference of Expense between the presant Time and the year 1775 of manufacturing a Tun of refined bar Iron from the Ore at his Iron works—

Resolved that the said Robert Livingston Esquire be and he is hereby required to make direct answers in writing to the said Questions and to transmit the said answers to this Council, or the Legislature of this State without delay—

Resolved that for this purpose he be forthwith furnished with Copies of the Report of the Committee to whom was referred his said Letter of the 7th of December 1777 and of the Resolutions of this Council founded thereon.

BURGOYNE'S EMBARKATION SUSPENDED.

Congress's Prompt Retaliatory Action When Burgoyne Accused Gates of Bad Faith—Burgoyne's Puerile Complaints.

In Congress Jan: 8 1778.

The Committee, to whom the letters that passed between general Heath and general Burgoyne, and the letter from general Burgoyne to general Gates, were committed, brought in a report, which was taken into consideration and agreed to, as follows:*

“That they have considered with mature attention the convention entered into at Saratoga, between major general Gates and lieutenant general Burgoyne in October last, and find numbers of the cartouch boxes, and several other articles of military accoutrement annexed to the persons of the non commissioned officers and soldiers in general Burgoyne's army, have not been delivered up, and that agreeably to the spirit of the convention, and the technical interpretation of the word “arms” they ought to have been delivered up. This opinion is warranted not only by the judgment of the most approved writers, but by the interpretation and practice of British officers in similar cases in the course of the present war, particularly in the capitulation of St. John's on the 2d of Nov'r 1775.

Your Committee farther report, that there are so many other circumstances attending the delivery of the arms and military stores which excite strong suspicions that the convention has not been strictly complied with, on the part of general Burgoyne, agreeably to it's true spirit and the intention of the contracting parties, and so many instances of former fraud in the conduct of our enemies, as to Justify Congress, however cautious, to avoid even the suspicion of want of good faith, in taking every measure for securing the performance of the convention, which did not impose any new condition, nor tend to delay its execution. Of this nature, your Committee consider the resolution of Congress of the 8th of November last, directing general Heath "to cause to be taken down the name and rank of every commissioned officer, and the name, former place of abode, occupation, size, age and description of every non commissioned officer and private soldier, and all other persons comprehended in the convention of Saratoga." This cannot be considered as imposing any new condition, but as a measure naturally resulting from the articles of convention, which the conquering party has a right to avail itself of, and which is strictly justifiable, had no just suspicion of the want of good faith in the party surrendring presented itself. Your Committee are of opinion, that the reasons which general Burgoyne adduces for refusing a compliance, are inapplicable to the case; and they beg leave to observe that he is totally mistaken in his appeal to the conduct of Sir Guy Carleton and himself with respect to the prisoners released from Canada in August 1776. For notwithstanding his express declaration to the contrary in his letter of the 23d of Nov'r last to general Heath, it appears from the original list of the prisoners released from Canada, which is herewith presented, that the provinces, counties and towns to which the prisoners released belonged were annexed to their respective names, which for the greater security of the conquering party were in the hand writing of the respective prisoners. Your Committee therefore cannot but consider general Burgoyne's refusal to give descriptive lists of the non commissioned officers and soldiers belonging to his army, when connected with his former conduct, and ill grounded assertion on this occasion, in an alarming point of view; more especially when they consider that nine days previous to this refusal, he had without just cause given, declared in a letter to general Gates, that the public faith plighted in the convention of Saratoga, was broken on the part of these States. This charge of a breach of public faith is of a most serious nature, pregnant with alarming consequences, and deserves greater attention, as it is not dropped in a hasty expression, dictated by sudden passion, but is delivered as a deliberate act of judgment, committed to writing, and sent to the general, with whom he made the convention—and if credit is to be given to general Burgoyne's account of himself in his letter to general Heath of the 23d Nov'r he cannot be considered "of so light a character, as to have acted in a serious matter of State, upon a sudden impression."

The reason on which he grounds this charge is, that the officers included in the convention have not since their arrival in Massachusetts Bay been accommodated with quarters agreeable to their respective ranks; on which your Committee beg leave to observe, that though from the sudden and unexpected arrival of so large a body of troops, the concourse of strangers in and near Boston, the devastation and destruction occasioned by the British army not long since blocked up in that town, and by the American army which besieged them; and considering that the officers were not to be seperated from their men, and that the troops could not be quartered with equal convenience in any other place within the limits pointed out and described in the convention, as there are not a sufficient number of barracks in any other part of that State; though from these and many other unavoidable circumstances, the accommodation of general Burgoyne and his officers might not be such as the public could wish, or he expect, yet his charge of a breach of the public faith on this account is not warranted either by the letter of the preliminary articles agreed on between himself, and general Gates on the 14th of October, or by the spirit of the convention signed on the 16th of the same month: since by an examination of these articles it will appear, that the stipulation with respect to the quartering of officers was not to be construed in that rigorous sense in which general Burgoyne affects to consider it, but on the contrary that it was "agreed to as far as circumstances would admit."

Your Committee forbear to lay any stress on the attempt of the enemy to alter the place of embarkation from the port of Boston to that of Rhode Island, or the Sound, so contiguous to the port of New York, which as well as that of Rhode Island, is at present in their possession; on the seemingly inadequate number of vessels, (being only 26 transports sent to Rhode Island, as appears in a letter from general Pigot to general Burgoyne, dated 5th Dec'r) for an army consisting of 5642 in a winter's voyage to Europe; or on the improbability of the enemy's being able on so short a notice to victual such a fleet and army, for a voyage of such length; since the declaration of lieutenant general Burgoyne, that the public faith is broke, is of itself sufficient to justify Congress, in taking every measure for securing the performance of the convention, which the laws of nations in consequence of this conduct will justify.

These facts and opinions, your Committee in a matter of such high moment to the honor and safety of these States, esteem it their duty to report specially; and considering that general Burgoyne has not fully complied with the convention of Saratoga, particularly in not delivering up the cartouch boxes and accoutrements; that he has expressly and without just foundation charged these States with a breach of public faith; that in consequence of this declaration, whilst in our power, he may deem himself, and the army under him, absolved from their compact, and may, therefore, have refused compliance with a measure naturally resulting from the convention, and which only tended to render his officers and men insecure, in case the convention on their part was not complied with; considering farther that from the distance between America and Great Britain, there is no opportunity of accommodating this dispute in any reasonable period of time with the sovereign of the State, in behalf of which this convention was made, and that the operations of general Burgoyne's army in America would not only defeat the main object of the convention, but prove highly prejudicial to the interest of these States, Your Committee submit the whole to the consideration of Congress, in order that such measures may be adopted as are consistent with the safety and honor of these United States."

Whereupon Congress came to the following resolution:

Resolved That as many of the cartouch boxes and several other articles of military accoutrements annexed to the person of the non commissioned officers and soldiers included in the convention of Saratoga have not been delivered up, the convention on the part of the British army has not been strictly complied with:

Resolved That the refusal of lieutenant general Burgoyne to give descriptive lists of the non commissioned officers & privates belonging to his army subsequent to his declaration that the public faith was broke, is considered by Congress in an alarming point of view; since a compliance with the resolution of Congress could only have been prejudicial to that army in case of an infraction of the convention on their part:

Resolved That the charge made by lieutenant general Burgoyne in his letter to major general Gates of the 14th of Nov: of a breach of public faith on the part of these States, is not warranted by the just construction of any article of the convention of Saratoga, that it is a strong indication of his intention, and affords just ground of fear that he will avail himself, of such pretended breach of the convention, in order to disengage himself and the army under him, of the obligation they are under to these United States; and that the security which these States have had in his personal honor, is hereby destroyed:

Resolved therefore, That the embarkation of lieutenant general Burgoyne and the troops under his command be suspended, till a distinct and explicit ratification of the convention of Saratoga shall be properly notified by the Court of Great Britain to Congress.

By order of Congress.

Matthew Cantine Reports Progress in the Search for Lead Mines.

Marble Town January 9th 1778.

Sir, I am this day Honored with a Letter wrote by your Excellency's direction by Secretary Benson on the Subject of the lead Mines.* The Late Convention appointed a committee of their Body for the Purpose of exploring lead mines of which number I had the honor to be one. We accordingly employed a Mr. John McDonald to Work the mine at Neapanagh; his progress has not as yet turned out to any Considerable advantage; from our own Observation and from his reports the prospect is however not Vanished, he having discovered two Small Veins, in two different parts. This has induced us to Continue the work under his direction by a new Contract, which is not yet Completed. I flatter myself however when this Job is Completed, I shall be able to determine with a tolerable degree of precision whether it will answer to Continue the works. In the prosecution of this Affair we have met with many difficulties, especially in the articles of Steel for materials to Carry on the works & Gun Powder, to blow up such Obstructions as naturally intervene, which has not a little retarded the miners progress. He is however again at work.

*See pages 497, 681, and document 1462, Volume III.

According to your Excellency's request, I shall not fail to Send Mr. McDonald to you to report the progress he has made, from which I hope your Excellency will be able to Judge whether it will answer the desired purpose to Continue the Works. We have hitherto discovered Mr. McDonald to be an honest man & I believe your Excellency may rely on his representations.

Mr. McDonald was formerly employed by the same Committee to open a mine in Dutchess County; in Consequence of which he extracted out of it about a Hogshead of oar which will yield 60 lb. P Ct. we were then determined to keep it until such time as we could be able to discover what success we should meet with at this place, and if we should find it to answer the end to have a furnace erected at this side the River for selecting the Lead. This oar is left in the Care of Major Langdon at Dutchess County. I have the Honor to be Your Excellency's most obedient & very humble Serv't, Matthew Cantine.

NEW YORK NOT A CATTLE RAISING STATE.

Governor Clinton Points Out to Francis Lightfoot Lee the Sufferings and Privations Endured by Our People.

Poughkeepsie 10th Jan'y 1778.

Sir, I was honored with yours of the 30th Dec'r two Days ago and am extreamly surprized & alarmed at the Necessities of the Army & the more so as I have not observed any extraordinary Exertions for some Time past to relieve them. This State will do all in their Power to answer the Expectations of Congress; but I am sorry to observe that, that all must be extremely small. It's past Exertions, the large Armies it has subsisted for two Campaigns, together with the Ravages of the Enemy having quite exhausted us; Add to this that we have numberless Families who, having been dispossessed of their Farms by the Enemy, must be now maintained by that half of the State which has escaped Desolation. This State never raised any considerable Quantity of Cattle beyond what were necessary for their own Consumption. The Causes above mentioned, together with the great Demand for Forage has made them still less attentive to it than usual. I mention these Circumstances to induce Congress to put but little Reliance upon any Supplies of Cattle from this State.

Flour may be procured tho we have not only supplied the Army, but our Eastern Neighbours with considerable Quantities of that Article; But believe me, Sir, it will be utterly impossible to feed the Army any longer on Credit. The Hardships that Individuals have long labored under, from being obliged to accept the Certificates, instead of Money, are inconceivably great, many of them having been unpaid for Months (how much longer they may remain so we know not) & their value already expended in fruitless Journies for Payment. Let me add to this that the Want of Order, Dillegence & Occonemy in the several offices of Commissary & Quarter & Forage Masters, & the Oppressions to which they subject the Labourer & Husbandman greatly contribute to the Ill Supply of the Army.

The Regulation of Prices by the proposed Convention from the several States will I have great Reason to apprehend (at least for a Time) create a Scarcity that may be ruinous to the Army & be attended with no real advantage to the general cause.

I am warranted to make this Observation from the Experience of the several States that have after repeated Trials given up the Idea of obliging People to dispose of their Commodities at a stated Price—perhaps the inexpediency of the Measure was occasioned by the Regulations heretofore being partial. I wish most sincerely we may experience this to have been the Case by the proposed general Regulation (contrary to my Opinion) having the desired Effect.

You may depend on my giving Mr. Cuyler every Assistance in procuring Flour, we having before invested him with most extraordinary Powers for that Purpose; what use he has made of them I am unable to say; Tho I believe the want of Money has prevented his purchasing any more than was necessary for immediate Consumption. In short, Sir, unless this is furnished I dread the Consequences; without it, any considerable supplies for the Army cannot be laid in & what little may be procured on Credit (already greatly impaired) will be at advanced Prices.

As, Sir, you are a Committee to assist the Board of War, I conceive it will not be improper to mention that no material measures are yet taken to fortify the River, & that Genl. Gates's absence will greatly impede that necessary Work unless his Place is supplied by some equally active Officer, & Men, Money & materials furnished for it's Completion. Every Day's Delay may be attended with fatal Consequences, since no supplies can be expected from this State unless it is less harrassed the ensuing Campaign than it was the last. I have the Honor to be &c.

Sir, Major Quakenbush being on his way to Albany with the Deserter that gives an acct. of the Cohorns, Cannon, Small-arms &c. I have desired him to wait on your Excellency with him. He goes address'd to General Lincoln, to whom, a Line from you Sir, will not be useless, I imagine, after you have heard what he has to say. As Quakenbush is going up to procure & send down Boards &c. for the public works, it would be of great Service to him, could he have a Line from you to the Committee, Sir.

Just as we were preparing to cross to West Point Yesterday, it began to snow, when it was tho't best to wait till this Day, on which, I came up, & am going down immediately. I am, Sir, with great Regard, Your Excellency's most obdnt. & very Humble Serv't

SUFFERINGS OF THE ARMY AT VALLEY FORGE.

A Scheme to Impress Sleighs to Transport Salt, Ammunition and Clothing—Scarcity of Grain.

N. Burgh Jan'ry 13th 1778.

Whereas, there is a large Quantity of Slays wanted Immediately to transport Salt, amunition and Cloathing to Easton, and the army being in the outmost Distress for all those articles, it is his Excellency's positive orders that all of them be forwarded Immediatly.

The above Reasons makes it most necessary for me to Issue Warrents to Impress a sufficient Number of Slays for that purpose and as many of the Inhabitance Complain and have had Reason from time to time to do so, by having men sent amongst them for that purpose, that were Strangers to the Circumstances of the People and Nature of the Country, I for the above Reasons take this Method to apply to the Chairmen of the following Committes Voz. New Paltz, Shawangunk, Hanover, Walkill New Marlborough, Minisink, & Mamacotten & Rochester, that the Chairman of each Committee Shall furnish 50 Slays for the above Service; that they may have their Number Imbodied at Such place as they may see most Convenient and from thence have them Sent to this Post, under the are of two trusty Cunductors to every fifty Slays—who shall have the Care of them, and proper orders to Return at Easton, and they shall be allowed Capt's Pay for their Service, with Reasonable Expances of Extraordinarys that may happen.

As Grain is not to be had at present to Supply the Brigades that pass and Repass here, Each man will furnish his own Grain for the Journey, and they shall be paid for the same at the Rate of one Peck Each Horse Pr. Day for the time they are out. I flatter myself this Method will be most agreeable to the People in General, and that they will turn out willingly and with Spirit; if so I will follow the Method and can assure the Inhabatance it is my desire to do everything in my Power for their Ease and Comfort, so far as it is Consistent with the Publick welfare. This is the Method followed both in Pensylvenia and Jersy—they send Conductors of Credit and activity, and the Business is done with half the oppression it is here, Notwithstanding there is Six times the Business acted.

I ever thought the greatest Pity to see the Inhabatance dragged out by Guards, and hopes this for the future will be prevented, as it is obvious to every Person the preparations for the army must be forwarded at all Events.

N. B. this under Concerns the Presincts over the mountain. All the Precincts on this side the River, have agreed to Brigade their Waggon, and each of them to send in 25 Tons of Hay, but as these Precincts are at such a distance from the River it would be best to send Grain. Capt. Hunter will come in with the last of the Teams and direct Each Conductor where to deliver their Loads, I will take Care they have proper Certificates. I have the Honour to be your m. ob. Servant,

THE NEW DEFENCES OF THE HUDSON.

Necessary and the Ordnance.*

Poughkeepsie 17th Jan'y 1778.

Sir, We shall want a Number of Anchors & Cables to fix the Rafts for Bouying the New Chain* intended to be drawn across

*Under date of January 14, 1778, the committee of the Provincial Convention made the following report:

"Your committee, who were sent to ascertain the place for fixing a chain and erecting fortifications for obstructing the navigation of Hudson's river, beg leave to report: That they have carefully viewed the ground on which Fort Clinton lately stood and its environs, and find that the ground is so intersected with long, deep hollows, that the enemy might approach, without any annoyance from the garrison within the fort, to within a few yards of the walls, unless a redoubt should be raised to clear the hollow next the fort, which must be built at such a distance from the fort that it could not be supported from thence in case of an assault, so that the enemy might make themselves masters of the redoubt the first dark night after their landing, which would be a good work, ready to their hand for annoying the fort and facilitating their operations against it; and, together with the eminences and broken grounds within a short distance of the fort, would render it impossible for the garrison to resist a general assault for many hours together. Another objection that appeared to the committee was the want of earth on the spot, which would reduce the engineer to the necessity of erecting his works entirely of timber, which must be brought to Pooploop's kill in rafts, and from thence drawn up a steep and difficult road to the top of the hill. The rafts cannot be made till the water is warm enough for men to work in it, by which it is probable that a fort cannot be erected before the ships of the enemy will come up the river. Besides, at this place, the chain must be laid across the river so that it will receive the whole force of the ships coming with all the strength of tide and wind, on a line of three or four miles. Add to these, if the enemy should be able to possess themselves of the passes in the mountains through which they marched to the attacks of forts Montgomery and Clinton, it would be extremely difficult, if not impossible, for the militia of the country to raise the siege. Upon viewing the country at and about West Point, the committee found that there were several places at which the enemy might land and proceed immediately to some high grounds that would command a fort erected at West Point, at the distance of six or seven hundred yards, from which they might carry on their approaches through a light gravelly soil, so that it would be impossible for the fort to stand a long siege. But to balance this disadvantage in this place, there is plenty of earth. The timber may be brought to the spot by good roads from the high grounds at the distance of one to three miles. Three hundred feet less of chain will be requisite at this place than at Fort Clinton. It will be laid across in a place where vessels going up the river most usually lose their headway. Water batteries may be built on both sides of the river for protecting the chain and annoying the ships coming up the river, which will be completely commanded from the walls of the fort. There are so many passes across the mountains to this place, that it will be almost impossible for the enemy to prevent the militia from coming to the relief of the garrison. From these considerations, the committee are led to conclude that the most proper place to obstruct the navigation of the river is at West Point; but are at the same time fully convinced that no obstructions on the banks of the river can effectually secure the country, unless a body of light troops, to consist of at least two thousand effective men, be constantly stationed in the mountains while the navigation of the river is practicable, to obstruct the enemy in their approach by land.

We have the Promise of a Number of Cannon from the Salisbury Furnace, but as they are yet to be made, it will by no means be prudent to rely intirely on them; many unforeseen Accidents may prevent their Completion in Season.

It is my earnest Desire, therefore, to have those left at Ticonderoga & Mount Independence immediately brought down to Albany and that you will take the most effectual & expeditious Measures for doing this. We shall want Timber for stocking them & for Carriages which must be provided without Delay—well Seasoned Oak is best. The Guns must determine the Size of the Timber. I can send you a Person who understands the Business perfectly, if you have not any with you that do. The Iron Trucks for Carriages & every other Article of Value left by the Enemy at those Posts ought also to be brought down. McDONALD'S STATEMENT.

[January 1778.]

To his Excellency George Clinton Esqr. Governor, General, and Commander in Chief of all the Militia, and Admiral of the Navy of the State of New York:

In Consequence of an Order sent by Mr. Cantine one of the Committee for Exploring Mines within the said State in which he was very explicate toward Soliciting that I Should Repair with all possible expedition to the Council of Safety and there with Special care to make & Represent unto Your Excellency a Report Concerning all the Proceedings & Appearances of the Lead Mine of the Township of Rochester, Ulster County since my Commencement thereat, therefore by his Solicitation shall Express the Chief part of the Particulars of my proceeding therein hitherto which hereafter Expressed in the Manner Following—By a resolution past warrantable from the Majority of the Honourable Board of Convention at Kingston on the 2nd April 1777, Requesting me to Proceed to the said mine and there, to take proper Inspection of the Situation & appearance thereof with, returning a faithful Report of the Principal & only Complete method of working the same which I discribed Carefully, agreeable to the mining Regulation & suitable to the Bounds wherein the Several Discoveries made by an Order of the Committee Andries De Witt Esqr. Conducted me to a Large Mountain Lying Northeast & Southwest, there I found said mine the Vein of ore in which appear Lying from the West to the East in a Ledge of Milnston mixd with white flint & Sulpher, where a Company of Adventurer hath upwards of Fourthy Years Ago sunk two pits with a trial of 40 feet in Length, in the form of a Level, but Rising Gradually under Ground from the Latter Pit & inclining up the mountain; all in quest of Lead; the former Pit is sunk about 30 feet in Depth wherein is Reported the main satisfying prospect hath been Explor'd and that the increasing of the Water therein, Render'd it Impracticable to Work, which Occasion'd the said Company giving up prosecuting further into sinking the Pit; the Depth of the Second pit is uncertain to acknowledge to any Certainty by the Minery of the Present age, but is said with assurance to have seen good and sufficient quantity of ore taken out from it. The Disagreeable misfortunes of the water Containing in Both the Pits has brought the Adventurers to go on with a Level from the falling of the mountain, Directing the same under Cover upon the Trac of the Vein inclining to the Pit.

On Purpose to make a form of Communication Between the Level and the Pits to Prevent all Obstruction of water so as to enable the work to be Continued, which Level is Driven about 120 feet in Length Including from the Entry to so far as it hath already been Driven and by driving said level to about 44 feet further from the present State, thereof would answer the intended purpose of being nearly so farr as to be Perpendicular to whereon the said 30 feet Pit is Sunk and by finishing the said pit to about 14 feet further from its Present State would, by all possibility enter near or into the End. On Conclusion of the working said 44 feet the addition required to the present Length of the Level, so as to make a passage, Both addition required is in all 58 feet before the Performing a Communication in said mine and Perhaps in said Demention will find so much ore as to Defray part of the Expences Laid out for Driving the same. The ore seems to me will Lye in Body's in Different shapes, Lying some distant without the Continuation of a regular Vein. The Level has been impassable owing to its falling together by the former Difficent Pillars of Timber & Coverwood, placed Irregular for the Sufficient support of upholding such precarious piece of work through Wood, Water, sand & Clay; and therefore both the level & pits stood in need of Clearing & Repairing before any thing could be done by putting in Execution, Blowing the Rocks in several places which was absolutely Requisite, in order to open the Vein or Veins, on purpose to be the more experienced; to Judge further whether advantageous or not to any Adventurers to prosecute into making the Communication above mentioned. I am and has been informed by Men of Distinction, relative to the giving up Working said trials of making the Passage being owing to their not having the satisfying return of the Large Quantity of Leaden Ore sent Over to Old England. This report I think is perfect true and as accurate as can be without the use of Matha-matical Instruments. The Honourable Boards approbation thereon of the 18th April 1777 was that I should proceed on Repairing & Clearing the Level & the former Pit & to let the Latter Pit remain till further Consideration. And, therefore, in Compliance to the Command have taken special care with all possible Diligence in Clearing & Repairing the same in the Best & Neatest manner that Arts of minery Could afford, which to the entire satisfaction of those who were appointed to Take Inspection of the Same I have sunk & framed a new pit within 24 feet to the forend of said Level for the better success of procuring fresh Air, in Case of Driving from its present State which Pit named No. 1, the first sunk by the former Adventurers must now be named No. 2, the second sunk By said Adventurers must now be called No. 3, Lying next to the Top of the mine mountain as Your Excelency may find by looking in the Plan thereof. The proceedings of the mine from 18th April settled on 25th Sep'r thereafter 1777.

An Extract of the Contents of an Agreement made on 26th of Sept. 1777, By Messrs. Cantine & Lawrance with me in Order to make some further Experiment of the mine by finishing the different small trials in the Several places as Expressed at Large in the manner underneath.

1st. To at the Entrance of the Pit No. 2, to sink 12 feet, Extending the same 6 feet in Length & 3 feet in Breadth.

2nd. In the under Mining Level from the Pit No. 1 towards so farr as the level hath been Driven to sink 18 Inches & Raising into the Ruff thereof 18 Inches Extending the same 12 feet in Length & 3 feet in Breadth.

3d. Driving the Level from its present State 2 feet further in Length, 6 Feet in height and keeping the passage thereof 3 feet in Breadth.

January 17th 1778.) Have Performed the trials of sinking & Raising from the Pit No. 1 & Discover'd therein a Barren Vein, in which found but Little Sulphur. And have nearly performed the trial of driving the Level in which this Day finding great alteration of the Rocks & a Bed of fine Clay appeared, and till such time arising further therein the Best experienced miner Cannot from his skill & knowledge found in minery, give any satisfying information without accomplishing further therein; at the Entrance of the Pit No. 2, have Explor'd a Vein formerly in which appeared a Lump of fine ore; of its quantity is about four Inches Diameter, to which have not sunk so far as yet and when thereat will be more able to Report the Consequence thereof; the Clearing of the Pit No. 3, and making the form of Communication in full on Trying further Experiment in Several places on purpose of finding any Visible Prospect for the better Encouragement of going on Courageously with making the said Communication. These aforesaid Instructions is all the Satisfying information Can be given by Inspectors of mines, providing honest & Capable of Conducting Lead mines in its full Branches, as for my Part, I'll proceed no further in Discribing all which is Concluded after this is most humbly Submitted to Your Excelency's Serious Consideration By Your Excelency's most Obedient and Most humble Servant

Sir,

I have rec'd your Letter of the 16th Inst. Enclosed you have a Reprieve for Amy Auger for two months by which Time the Pleasure of the Legislature will be known on the Subject. Whatever may be the former Character of Thos. Delemer, I cannot, considering the many Robberies committed in this State, think it consistent with my Duty to the Safety of the People to pardon him; especially as the Judges have not recommended him as an object of mercy; without which I have hitherto made it the Rule of my Conduct not to grant a Pardon, unless some extenuating Circumstances, should appear which were not known to the Judges. I have received Petitions signed by a Number of respectable Inhabitants of Goshen in favour of DeLamar & one Ryan also under Sentence of Death; Was I at Liberty to pursue my own Feelings on these Occassions they woud incline me to Pardon these Unhappy Culprits but as a Servant to the public they ought not to Influence my Conduct. The safety of the Community requires, that the Law should take its Course & be vigorously executed at least untill the Crimes for which the Offenders are convicted become less frequent which is only to be expected by severe & exemplyary Punishments: Should I pardon Offenders who their Country have convicted on the fullest Evidence Sufferers in future may with propriety impute their misfortunes to the Conduct of Gov't.

You please to communicate the Substance of this Letter to the Gent. who have signed the Petition. Yrs.

the Defences of the Hudson.*

*Gentlemen, By a Letter from Col. Hugh Hughes, Deputy Quarter-Master-General, (a Copy of which will be delivered to you with this Message) you will observe, that from the Want of Money in this Department, the Works for the securing of Hudson's River will be greatly retarded, unless he can be supplied by this State with the small Loan therein mentioned.

As the least Delay in the Prosecution of this important Business may be attended with the most fatal Consequences to the Public in general, and to this State more particularly, I must earnestly recommend to the Legislature, the granting the desired Loan, if the State of the Treasury is such as to admit of it.

Geo. Clinton.

Poughkeepsie, January 22, 1778.

* From Journals of the Legislature.

Poughkeepsie 22nd Jan'y 1778.

Sir,

I find it impracticable to engage the Sterling Iron-works for the public Service, unless Arrearages are discharg'd, which it is not in my Power to do, as the office is entirely out of Cash. If the Legislature of this State would advance about £5,000 I think there will be little or no Difficulty in getting all the Iron that is necessary for the Obstruction of the River, providing the Department is furnish'd with Cash to pay for what shall be deliver'd. But without this small Loan, the Business of the Chain for the Security of the River, must be retarded. I am, with great Respect, your Excellency's most obedient,

Hugh Hughes D. Q. M. G.

His Excellency Governor Clinton.

P. S. This Sum shall be punctually repaid out of the first publick Monies re'd.

Progress of the Works at West Point.

Head Quarters Highlands 24th Jan'y 1778.

D'r Sir, I am fav'd with yours of the 20th enclosing the Report of the Joint Committee* of Both houses of Legislature of this state. I am verry Happy to find their Readiness to afford every assistance in their Power, to effect the Obstruction of the River. The number of Troops which they think necessary for the Security of the Highlands, I believe will be fully sufficient. The Resolution of Congress Refer'd to in their Report, I have

* "The Committee, from the joint Committees of the Senate and Assembly, appointed by the respective Resolutions of the several Houses, on that Part of the Message of his Excellency the Governor, which respects the Loss of the important Fortresses on Hudson's River, and the Aids of the Legislature thereby rendered necessary for securing the Communication of the River, and the Passes in the Highlands, beg Leave to report the following Result of the said joint Committee, viz.

First. That by certain Resolutions of Congress, of the 5th of November last, it is among other Things resolved, That the Governour and Council of this State, be requested to appoint a Committee of three active judicious Persons to assist General Gates, in obtaining such Artificers and Materials for accomplishing the Security of the said Communication and Passes, as he should direct, and to apply to the several States on the East Side of Delaware River, for their Assistance in Artificers and Materials for the Purpose aforesaid; And the said States are thereby required to furnish such a Number of Men as General Gates should require, to accomplish the important and salutary Purpose of maintaining the Communication between the Northern and Southern States, by keeping Possession of the North-River.

Secondly. That tho' the Assistance required by the said Resolution refers personally to General Gates; yet as the Reason for requiring the same, still subsists; the said joint Committee are of Opinion that the Legislature of this State ought, without Delay, to render the same to General Putnam, or such other Officer, as may from Time to Time have the Superintendance and Direction of the Works on Hudson's-River; and to that End, that they immediately appoint a Committee for the Purpose, as mentioned in the said Resolutions.

Thirdly. That every possible Exertion ought to be made to finish the Water Obstructions of the said River, and to cover them with proper Works.

Fourthly. That, considering the little Time left for perfecting the necessary Works, and the Probability that the Campaign will be opened by the Enemy, in an early Attempt to possess themselves of the River and Passes in the Highlands, the necessary Steps should be immediately taken, not only to cover the said Works while under Construction, but also for their speedy Relief in Case of an Attack.

Fifthly. That therefore in the Opinion of the said joint Committee, this important End cannot be fully attained, with less than a Corps of 5000 light armed Troops, so posted in the Highlands, as not only to answer the above Purposes, but also to furnish the necessary Garrisons at the different Fortifications.

Sixthly. That in the Opinion of the said Committee, the Cheveaux de Frise in the River, ought without Delay, to be completed in their Workmanship, so as to be in a Condition for sinking, as soon as the Ice will permit, and that no Time should be lost in finishing the Works necessary to cover them.

Seventhly. That for those Works, as well as for the Fortifications in the Highlands, a sufficient Number of heavy Cannon with their necessary Apparatus, should be immediately provided, and such of them as must be conveyed by Land Carriage to the never been furnish'd with, nor have I ever seen it, only when Your Excellency shew it me at Poughkeepsie; and therefore, did not think myself authorised to call on any state for their assistance.

But as the Legislature of this state have authorised and desired me to call on them for their aid, I think it my Duty to acquaint them, that it will be necessary (to carry on the works with Expedition) to have at least forty good Teams stationd at West Point, with Forage Sufficient for their Subsistence. I different Posts, drawn to their respective Vicinities, while the Snow affords Slidding; among these, the joint Committee recommend the Use of those which were retaken to the Northward, which may, as they are informed, be rendered fit for Service, by Stocking.

Eighthly. That besides heavy Cannon, which ought to be directed to the River, and a sufficient Number of Howitz, which are excellent for Annoyance of Shipping, the Land Defences of the Fortifications, ought to be supplied with lighter Cannon, to cover the Curtains of the Works, which are naturally the weakest Parts of all Fortifications.

Ninthly. That besides these, a proper Train of Artillery should be provided, as well for more securely occupying and commanding the Passes in the Highlands, as for checking a Column, and preventing dangerous Lodgments of the Enemy.

Tenthly. That if a Chain or Boom, is to make a Part of the Water Obstructions, all the Iron Works in the Country, which have proper Metal and Conveniences for the Purpose, should be immediately employed at making different Parts of it; and that all the necessary Cables, Cordage and Anchors, ought to be collected without Delay.

Eleventhly. That as many of the Gondolas and Gunboats, necessary for River Use, as possible, ought to be built at or near Albany, to prevent their Destruction by Surprise.

Twelfthly. That Magazines of Provisions, should be immediately laid up at different Places not much exposed to the Enemy, and sufficiently near to the Fortifications and other Posts in the Highlands, for supplying 5000 Men, for Six Months.

Thirteenthly. That as it will be impossible to construct Fortifications capable of effectually sustaining a Siege, and as a small Army is in that Point of View, absolutely necessary to attain the salutary Ends of Congress, the Aid of Men pointed out by their Resolutions, ought to be asked for, immediately.

Fourteenthly. That if the two Houses of Legislature should concur with the said joint Committee, it would be adviseable forthwith to furnish General Putnam or such other Officer as may superintend and direct the Works, with a Copy hereof, and of the said Resolutions of Congress of the 5th of November last, and request him to make an immediate Demand, in writing, of the Legislature of this State, or the Committee to be appointed by them for the Purpose, of such Aids both in Artificers and Materials for carrying the said Resolutions into Execution, as he may judge necessary."

Resolved, That this House do agree with the joint Committee appointed by the respective Resolutions of the Senate and Assembly, on that Part of the Message of his Excellency the Governor, which respects the Loss of the important Fortresses on Hudson's-River, and the Aids of this State, thereby rendered necessary for securing the Communication of the said River, and the Passes in the Highlands, in their Report.

Resolved, That his Excellency the Governor, be requested, on the Part of this Assembly, to transmit to General Putnam, or such other Officer as may superintend and direct the Works on Hudson's River, in the High Lands, the necessary Information of the said Report.

Ordered, That Mr. Honeywell and Mr. Rea, wait on his Excellency the Governor, with a Copy of the above Resolutions and Report.

Ordered, That Mr. Morehouse and Mr. Wickes, wait on the Honorable the Senate with a Copy of the above Resolutions and Order.—From the Assembly Journal.

have no Instructions from Congress nor any especial authority given me, and, therefore, cannot call on any other state for their assistance. But I fully concur with the Committees Report, and am happy to find that their Sentiments agree exactly with mine. I am D'r Sir Your Mo. Obed't Serv't,

P. S. If General Gates was authorisd to call on the State of Connecticut, I should be glad of a Copy of the Resolve, that as the Assembly are now sitting I may make the necessary application in proper Time.

*Under date of January 13, 1778, General Putnam had written:

"The forts and other works in the Highlands were entirely demolished by the British, and it now became a question of some importance, whether they should be restored in their former positions, or new places should be selected for that purpose. About the beginning of January the grounds were examined by General Putnam, Govenor Clinton, General James Clinton, and several other gentlemen, among whom was Radière, the French engineer; and they were all, except Radière, united in the opinion, that West Point was the most eligble place to be fortified. Radière opposed this decision with considerable vehemence and drew up a memorial designed to show, that the site of Fort Clinton possessed advantages much superior to West Point. As the engineer was a man of science, and had the Confidence of Congress and the Commander-in-chief, it was deemed expedient by General Putnam to consult the Council and Assembly of New York, before he came to a final determination. A committee was appointed by those bodies, who spent three days reconnoitring the borders of the river in the Highlands, and they were unanimous in favor of West Point agreeing herein with every other person authorized to act in the affair, except the engineer. It was accordingly decided, on the 13th of January, that the fortifications should be erected at West Point."

Complications in the Way of Carrying Flour to the Troops in Boston.

Head Quarters, Boston Jan'y 26, 1778.

Sir, The Troops of the Convention together with the Guards here and the Troops doing duty at Rhode Island, demand large Quantities of provisions for their daily subsistence. The article of Flour we are obliged to obtain from some other Quarter it not being obtainable here. As we are transporting large quantities of public Salt to the North River in order to its being forwarded to the Southward, the Commissary General of provisions intended the Teams should load back with Flour, which would supply our wants and also make a saving of expence to the public; but I have been lately informed that it cannot be done consistant with a Resolve of the Convention of the State of New York. I would request your attention one moment, Sir, to this matter and that you would please to obtain an order that the Flour may be forwarded if possible without delay as it is wanted for the Troops and the public Expence will be lessened by embracing the present oppertunity. ant Circumstances to afford that aid and Assistance Against the Sudden Emmergances and Depredations of the Enemy, as the Importance of the Event might Justly require, or that we might otherwise Be, ware the Dificulties under which we Labour removed, which is occasioned Chiefly By the Regiments to which we Belong, Being too Extencive, and the Generall places of Randivoze Being at so Greate a Distance, viz: from Twenty or Thirty miles from the most of us, which makes it Impracticable for us to Be Collected in Three or four Days, so as to Be in Any formidable State of Defence. But have often Been oblig'd on Sudden Emmergancies To Assemble and March to Stop the Depredations of ye Enemy all In Confution and without Any order. Instancies of this kind are too obvious, as at Danbery, fort Montgumry &c.

Wherefore, we Beg Leave to Recommend to your Consideration that a New Regiment be Compos'd, part of Collo. Thomas's & part of Collo. And if after your wise Deliberations, you should agree with us in opinion, we Doubt Not but that your general Concern For the Good of the publick, will prompt you to Compleat the above S'd Regiment with all possible Dispach for which you will Receive the Sinclear thanks of us Your Humble Constituants. *Colonel Cuyler Sounds a Note of Warning Relative to Shipment of

Albany January 30th 1778.

Sir, By Information of my assistant Purchas's and from my own observations; I conceive it my indispensable Duty as a Public officer to inform you, that since the late resolution Passed by the Council of Safety Permitting the Exportation of flour out of this State under Certain restrictions, very large quantities of that article have been and are Dayly Conveyed into the Eastren states under Pretence to Exchange for salt, but I fear that the Salutary Purpose of the Resolution is Greatly abused. I am, therefore, apprehensive that unless a total stop for a limited time is put to the Exportation thereof, I shall not be able to Procure a sufficiency for the Consumption of the troops in this Quarter & the westren Garrisons, much less to lay in magazines for the Support of an army which in all Probability will be formed on the Hudson's River, as well as to Supply the Troops in the Eastren states & the Prisoners of the Convention, the whole of which look to me Chiefly for her Supplies of flour.

I could therefore wish If the Lagislature think It adviceable & Conceive that it would answer the Public good, that a Speedy method might be adopted, as they in their wisdom think Proper, so as that the armies may not want the Necessary article of life. I am Sir with respect & Esteem Your Excellency's most Obedt.

THE NEW CHAIN AT WEST POINT.

More Encouraging Prospects for Its Completion—The Agreement with the Iron Company.

Fishkill, 3rd Feb'y 1778.

Tuesday Even'g.

Sir, I have the Honour to inclose your Excellency a Copy of the agreement enter'd into with owners of the Sterling Iron-works, and wish that it was better, on the Part of the States. Haux was got Home, which increas'd the Difficulty. However, I did the best that I could, and hope that it will meet with your Excellency's Candour, as well as that of the Legislature, in general.

They want 8 or 10 Hands to blow and strike till they can call in others to supply their Places. But mean to pay for their Labour. In the Morn'g I shall apply to the General for them.

*Congress took into consideration the form of the oath to be taken by the officers in the service of the Continent, which was agreed to as follows.

I _____ do acknowledge the Thirteen United States of America, namely New Hampshire, Massachusetts-Bay, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia to be free, independent and sovereign States, and declare that the people thereof owe no allegiance or obedience to George the third, king of Great Britain; and I renounce, refuse and abjure any allegiance or obedience to him; and I do swear that I will to the utmost of my power support, maintain and defend the said United States against the said king George the third, and his heirs and successors, and his and their abettors, assistants and adherents; and will serve the said United States in the office of _____, which I now hold, and in any other office which I may hereafter hold by their appointment or under their authority with fidelity and honour, and according to the best of my skill and understanding. So help me God.

Resolved, That every officer who holds or shall hereafter hold a commission or office from Congress, shall subscribe the above declaration and take the foregoing oath.

The first Exemption was given them, which I transcribed and inclose a Copy; recollecting that there was no Transcript kept by your Excellency. There was no such Thing as concluding the agreement without exempting their Teams for the same Time. Nay, they had the assurance to demand Exemption for all they should hire, which I positively refus'd, telling them that might enable them to sell Exemptions, by giving Certificates that Teams were in their Service, when otherwise, which they affected to resent.

They are in want of two Pr. Bellows, which will go on tomorrow from here. Sir, Major Keese has not yet rec'd the Letter Major Hatfield left at Hendrickson's for him. To remedy which I shall send off a Person in the Morning after Lignum Vitæ.

In the Morning I set out Hartford, and when I return will do myself the Honour to wait on you Sir.

There is a Prospect of Cash that induces me to make the Excursion, which it is hop'd, most devoutly, may be successful. I am, with the greatest Respect and Esteem Your Excellency's most obdnt.

Hugh Hughes.

P. S. I wrote to Mr. Thomas Lawrence, near Dobbs's Ferry, & late of N. York, a most excellent workman to superintend the Chain & anchors whilst making & hope he will accept.

GOVERNOR CLINTON AND GENERAL LINCOLN.

Gates Snubs Lincoln as He Snubbed Washington—Clinton's Sense of Co-operation Again Shown.

Albany Jan'y 24th 1778.

My dear Sir, I received your Excellency's favor of the 22d instant, the last evening. As I am denied the pleasure of going down the river, I shall be exceedingly happy to see you here, before I leave the city.

When General Gates left us, I was so ill as to be unable to attend to any business; I suppose, for that reason, he left nothing in charge with me; which, with my ill state of health since, will account for that inattention which I have paid to every public matter. It is painful to be under this necessity. I hope it will not long continue,—as the appearance of my wound is favorable indeed. I have none of the resolves of Congress relative to fortifying North River in this state, and am totally at a loss, what is intended for its security. Col. Hay mentioned to me last evening, that gun-boats were to be built, and asked my advice relative to some of them being done near this place. I think, upon his representation of the matter, there can be no doubt of its propriety. I am, My dear Sir, with the warmest sentiments of regard & esteem yours affectionately,

B. Lincoln.

[To Gen. George Clinton.]

 Poughkeepsie 4th February 1778.

Dear Sir, I am favoured with your Letter of the 24th ultimo. It gives me the highest Pleasure to learn that your Wounds wear such favourable appearances as to promise you a speedy Recovery. When I had the honor of writing you last I hoped to have been able to have visited you in Albany but I find the Business of Government increasing so much on my Hands that I now despair of enjoying that Pleasure. A Copy of the Resolutions of Congress respecting the Security of the North River are inclosed. You will observe they leave the Measures to be taken to effect that Object much to Genl. Gates's discretion who was then intended to have the Direction of them. I cant however doubt but that the Building of Gun Boats &c. for the Purpose at Albany will be approved as I am perswaded they will be wanted for the Defence of the River & a sufficient Number cant be compleated elsewhere. I am with the most perfect Regard & Esteem your affectionate & Most Obed't Serv't, Clinton Makes a Few Strong Suggestions to Gates.

Poughkeepsie 5th Febr'y. 1778.

Dear Sir, I am favoured with your Letter of the 25th Jan'y Ulto. Inclosing a Copy of a Resolve of Congress of the 24th and have accordingly ordered out 400 Militia of this State for the Purposes therein mentioned to rendezvous at Albany & continue in Service four Months tho' I have not yet had the pleasure of seeing Colo. Hazen or receiving the Information from him which he was to have given me. The works in this Quarter for the defence of the Country and Security of the River go on very tardily indeed, it can hardly be said (with strict propriety) they have yet Commenced. Colo. Hughes alone has exerted himself in procuring the necessary materials and has Contracted for a Chain to stretch across the River to be Compleated the first of April which if effected will be in good season; he meets however with Insuperable Difficulties for want of Cash in his Department; his Credit as a public officer is Impaired by his Inability to pay off the many old debts which he has Necessarily Contracted, & unless he is speedily supplied with that indispensibly Necessary article his utmost Efforts will in future be fruitless.

I fear the Engineer who has the direction of the works is deficient in point of practical Knowledge; without which altho possessed of ever so much scientific I need not mention to you Sir, how unfit he must be for the present Task, the Chief Direction & Management of which too requires a Man of Business & Authority. It was indeed unfortunate that the public Service required your attendance elsewhere, for I am perswaded could you have continued here through the Winter those Matters woud have been in a very different Train. I am with great Respect Your most Obed't Serv't,

HAMPERED FOR IRON AND MONEY.

The Cost of Iron Exceedingly High, and Money Exceedingly Scarce—Big Cannon Needed for the Defence of the Hudson.

Albany 1st Feb. 1778.

Honour'd Sir, I am just now informed by Quarter Master Dow, who was sent to Livingston's Manor for the quantity of iron mentiond in the annexd Memorandum, that none can be procured there for the public use, though he understands it is sold every day to the People from N. England.

As there is an expedition* of the utmost consequence on

*The winter campaign against Canada was but another development in the Conway cabal, another strand in the rope with which the marplots hoped to strangle Washington. The suggestion emanated from the Board of War, of which Gates was president, and carried more politics than war. The primary political proposition contemplated the weaning away of the Marquis de Lafayette from the Commander-in-chief.

The alleged military proposition involved a forward movement from Albany through the wilderness, the crossing of Lake Champlain on the ice, the destruction of the British shipping at St. Johns and the hurried advance upon and the capture of Montreal. What Burgoyne had failed to do, during the cooperative months of late spring, summer and early fall, with the best equipped army & staff, America ever had seen, Gates expected, whether hopefully or otherwise, to accomplish in the most disheartening months of the year, late winter and early Spring, under the auspices of a staff that was demoralized, a militia that was dispersed and a currency that was discredited & dishonored. Every thing depended upon Lafayette. He was young, ardent in the cause & generous, and his knowledge of the French language & character, the conspirators imagined, would exert a wholesome influence over the French Canadian people that he was destined to subjugate.

Congress, which at the time was completely under the malign influence of Gates and his fellow conspirators, promptly acquiesced in the scheme and on January 23, 1778 nominated Lafayette to command the expedition with Conway and John Stark as his lieutenants. Young as he was, Lafayette was not led away by this tempting bid upon his military ambition and for military glory. He declined the command until he heard from Washington and unless the Baron DeKalb who was Conway's senior, was assigned second in command: "I would rather it should be you than another," wrote to Lafayette the magnanimous Washington who had not been consulted in any way, either in regard to the expedition or in the selection of its commander.

Lafayette in pursuance of instructions, proceeded to York, Pennsylvania, where Congress was in session, for his orders. Here he found Gates, the hero of the hour, surrounded by flatterers and sycophants, willing to do all sorts of homage to the conqueror of a great British army. Never was a youngster welcomed with more unction and treated with more cordiality and conviviality. Before Gates was spread all the luxuries that an epicure craves. Washington in this assemblage was ignored. His name was not mentioned. Lafayette, sensible and intelligent and excessively loyal to his chief, could not help but contrast the sumptuously laden table before him with the hard fare that he had been accustomed to share during the winter at Valley Forge with Washington. Gates was disposed to make the rashest sort of promises. Lafayette was to be given 3,000 regulars at Albany; he was to be assisted by the Board of War in every possible way to make his triumph complete. He was toasted and flattered by the wine saturated revellers who predicted for him a glorious success. The young Frenchman was not deceived by these blandishments. Wine was flowing freely and toasts were given enthusiastically in accordance with the custom of the times. But Lafayette never lost his head or the sense of the proprieties. Patient and placid, he waited until the revelry came to an end, his orders were placed in his hands and the time arrived for him to go. He calmly arose, elevated his glass while every officer in the room stood expectant upon his words: "I have a toast to propose, gentlemen, that in the generous excitement of the occasion has been overlooked. I have the honor to propose to you: The Commander-in-chief of the Armies of the United States."

A bolt of lightning could not have startled the company more. All were surprised; a few touched their lips to the glass while several churlishly set their wine on the table untasted. Before they recovered their self possession the chivalrous young soldier bowed politely to the assembled host and took his departure.

The expedition proved to be a rank failure. Lafayette who had predicted that it would be "as famous as the secret expedition against Rhode Island" found upon reaching Albany that no preparations had been made for him, that the judgment of such thoroughly well informed generals as Schuyler, Arnold and Lincoln sustained the opinion of Washington's committee in camp at Valley Forge who had disapproved of the scheme, and on March 28, Washington ordered Lafayette to return to Valley Forge to command a division. A similar order was transmitted to DeKalb. Conway was left with the command at Albany but in a short time, he was ordered to join McDougall's forces in the Highlands.

This lamentable fizzle settled the fate of Gates' Board of War. Congress awakened from its dream. Gates and Mifflin were removed from the Board. The former was sent to command the forts on the Hudson and reminded that he must not forget to report to the commander in chief. Conway taking a fancied slight, sent his resignation to Congress which accepted it with an alacrity that bewildered Conway. A few months later Conway fought a duel with General Cadwallader, was dangerously wounded, and believing he was on his death bed he wrote a most humble and penitent letter to Washington. He recovered, returned to France, and American history knows him no more.

foot (to which I suppose you Sir, are no stranger) which will require great exertions in our department, particularly in having a number of axes made in a very short time, for the greatest part of which iron is yett wanting, I must take the liberty to beg your Excellency would use your influence with Mr. Livingston to lett the public be first supply'd, especially at this present time when so much depends on it.

Mr. Sickles the bearer of this will carry your letter to Mr. Livingston, or obey any other commands you are pleas'd to give him.

I arrived from Skeensborough a few days agoe. About thirty sleighs are gone after the Cannon, but the ice will not permitt bringing away the heavy pieces as yett, as soon as I think it will depend on the most speedy and proper method being taken for bringing them here.

A list of Iron wanted for the Q. M. G. at Albany: Iron wanted: Three Tons of rod iron sorted; six do common flatt sorted; two do square iron; five do ax iron.

The ax iron, or at least a part of it, to be forwarded as soon as possible, [the]* rest to be sent before the sleighing is [over].* The rod iron is to be slitt at Col. Fa— *mill to which place the iron is to be sent for that purpose. I have the Honor to be with the utmost respect, Honoured Sir, Your most obed't humble Se't, Udny Hay.

His Excellency George Clinton, Esqr., Governor of the State of N. York, Poughkeepsie.

Sir, I am favoured with yours of the 1st Instant & I am concerned to learn that you meet with any Difficulty in procuring the necessary Supply of Iron, which the public Service requires.

I have furnished Walter Livingston, Esqr. with a Copy of the List of Iron wanted containd in your Letter who has promised to write to his Father, the Colo., immediately in the most pressing Manner on the Subject and I doubt not his Letter will have the desired Effect. The Price of that article is most extravagantly high, but the public however reluctantly must give what it is sold for to Individuals or we cant expect to be supplied unless by Force; were we impowered it would be wrong to exercise it, as in the End it woud occasion a real Scarcity. I fear you are much Injured for Want of Money in your Department. I know it to be the Case here, without which you will always find great Difficulties in obtaining that or any other article.

I am pleased to find that we are likely to get the Cannon to Albany. The Heaviest are of most Consequence & must be had. I trust when they arrive at Albany you will have them stocked immediately. I received a line from Genl. Lincoln Concerning the building Gun Boats &c. at Albany & wish not how soon that Business may be commenced by you. I am your most Obed't Serv't,

FOR THE DEFENCE OF THE HUDSON.

General Putnam Puts a Number of Pertinent Questions and George Clinton Answers Them in True Military Style.

[February — 1778.]

Questions proposed from Genl. Putnam to Governor Clinton.

*1—Where and in what manner is the Fort to be Built on West Point?

2—Was it the Intention of the Council of Safety or Convention of this state, that the different Committees should grant Flags when, and to whom they please without Consulting the Commander Officer of the Department?

3—Is it expected that Mr. Moore should have permission to Remove from where he now Lives into Robinson's house† & take

*The numbers to the questions and to the answers are inserted for the sake of convenience.

†Beverly took its name from its owner Col. Beverly Robinson, who was the son of the Hon. John Robinson of Virginia, at one time president of that colony. Beverly Robinson, on a visit to New York, fell in love with Susanna, daughter of Frederick Philipse of Yonkers, one of the lords of the manor, and one of whose daughters had rejected no less a person than George Washington. Vast estates came to the young people. Their country seat was situated two miles south of West Point, on the east bank of the river, a large, low, rambling, wooden structure, maintained in the best style of the day, renowned for miles around for its unsparing hospitality, for its delicious fruits, rare flowers and plants.

When hostilities began between England and her dependencies, Robinson was living at Beverly, and publicly announced that he preferred to live the life of a quiet country gentleman. He opposed the measures of the British Ministry, gave up the use of imported fabrics, and clothed himself and his family in domestic manufactures. Eventually, however, he entered the military service of Great Britain, and was commissioned Colonel of the Loyal American Regiment, which was principally raised in New York. His prominence was recognized by the several British commanders in chief, who continually called his services into play in matters of diplomacy. He commanded part of the British forces that captured Forts Clinton and Montgomery. His estates were early confiscated, and Beverly became the headquarters of the American generals who successively commanded in the Highlands.

Robinson was thoroughly informed of Arnold's treason, from its inception. The "Mr. B." mentioned in Arnold's note to Andre, of date August 30, 1780, is unquestionably Beverly Robinson. This incident indicates that Robinson had been working on the matter since July 30, five days before Arnold assumed command at West Point. From the beginning of the treasonable correspondence, Major John Andre, Adjutant General of the British army, had represented Sir Henry Clinton, and it seems natural enough when the time for decisive action should come and a personal interview should be necessary to arrange the details to bring about that action, that Arnold should desire to deal with Andre, rather than with a man less conversant with the conditions, and the facts. Accordingly Arnold requested that Mr. John Anderson, a bearer of despatches from New York, should meet him at a cavalry outpost well within our lines, on the east bank of the Hudson, between Salem and North Castle. Sir Henry Clinton's parting and emphatic instructions to Andre prohibited him from entering the American lines or changing his uniform.

Accordingly Andre cleverly notified Arnold that he would meet him at Dobbs Ferry the following Sunday, Sept. 10th, at noon. Arnold left West Point Saturday afternoon, spent the night at Joshua Hett Smith's house on the west bank of the Hudson, two miles and a half south of Stony Point on the Haverstraw road, and Sunday morning started down the river to Dobbs Ferry, where Andre and Beverly Robinson were awaiting his arrival. But the good fortune that has invariably attended the United States at every crisis in its history, was present then, and Arnold was forced to return to West Point, because of the heavy fire which was opened upon his barge by British gunboats that were at anchor off Dobbs Ferry. Robinson has been held responsible for this fiasco, for an ounce of thought would have obviated such an occurrence. Up to this time the conspirators had had plain sailing, but now a complication menaced them. Washington was daily expected in the neighborhood. Arnold was reluctant to go beyond the American lines and Sir Henry Clinton refused to permit Andre to meet Arnold elsewhere than on neutral territory or on a British dock. For several days the negotiations were in the air. Sept. 13, however, Arnold ordered Major Benjamin Tallmadge, who commanded the American outer post, to bring Anderson to him should he present himself. The following day, Robinson called up the Hudson on the Vulture, whose commander had been taken into the secret. On the seventeenth Robinson artfully transmitted intelligence to Arnold by flag, that he was within call, and desired an interview. Arnold received this message while entertaining a dinner party in the picturesque dining hall of Beverly—the old home of the man who made the request. He glanced over it, put it in his pocket and casually mentioned its purport, Honest John Lamb, then a colonel, and Arnold's second in command, protested against the meeting, his judgment receiving the indorsement of the Commander in chief, to whom Arnold read Robinson's communication the following evening when he joined Washington at the King's Ferry.

Arnold had gone down the river to meet his chief who had left his camp at New Bridge in New Jersey, September 13, for the purpose of conferring with the French commanders at Hartford. Arnold escorted Washington from the King's Ferry to Peekskill, where preparations had been made for their reception and entertainment. Here they passed the night of September 18th. The following morning they separated, Washington proceeding to the eastward, and Arnold to Robinson's house. The same day, Arnold erroneously dates the letter September 18th, Arnold wrote Robinson that he had left Washington that morning, that Washington advised him to avoid seeing Robinson; but that he would "send a person to Dobbs Ferry or on board the Vulture, Wednesday night, the 20th inst., and furnish him with a boat and a flag of truce." He further stated: "to avoid censure, this matter must be conducted with the greatest secrecy." In a postscript he warned Robinson that Washington was expected "to lodge here on Saturday night next" Sept. 23.

Concealed within this letter to Robinson were two notes of a totally different character, signed "Gustavus" to "John Anderson:" "September 15th.—Sir: On the 11th at noon, agreeably to your request, I attempted to go to Dobb's Ferry, but was prevented by the armed boats of the enemy, which fired upon us; and I continued opposite the Ferry till sunset.

"The foregoing letter was written to caution you not to mention your business to Colonel Sheldon, or any other person. I have no confidant. I have made one too many already, who has prevented some profitable speculations.

"I will send a person in whom you can confide by water to meet you at Dobb's Ferry at the landing on the east side, on Wednesday the 20th instant, who will conduct you to a place of safety, where I will meet you. It will be necessary for you to be disguised, and, if the enemy's boats are there, it will favor my plan, as the person is not suspected by them. If I do not hear from you before, you may depend on the person's being punctual at the place above mentioned.

5—Who would you Recommend to have the Direction of making and Sinking the Chevaux de frise?

"My partner, of whom I hinted in a former letter, has about ten thousand pounds cash in hand ready for a speculation if any should offer, which appears profitable. I have also one thousand pounds on hand, and can collect fifteen hundred more in two or three days. Add to this I have some credit. From these hints you may judge of the purchase that can be made. I cannot be more explicit at present. Meet me if possible. You may rest assured, that, if there is no danger in passing your lines, you will be perfectly safe where I propose a meeting, of which you shall be informed on Wednesday evening, if you think proper to be at Dobb's Ferry. Adieu, and be assured of the friendship of Gustavus."

In the meantime Robinson had notified Arnold of his determination to remain on board the Vulture; and Andre wrote Robinson directing him and Captain Sutherland of the Vulture to drop down to Dobbs Ferry, and there await his arrival. Sir Henry Clinton in bidding adieu to Andre whom he regarded in the tender light of a son, impressed every precaution that an experienced soldier would impress upon the mind of an enthusiastic youth, and above all, warned him against changing his uniform, penetrating the enemy's lines or receiving papers.

Andre started from New York for Dobbs Ferry in the early morning of the 20th. The Vulture lay off Teller's Point and as the tide was running flood, Andre continued on and boarded the man of war about seven o'clock that night. Nothing had been heard from Arnold; and Capt. Sutherland, and Robinson insisted that Andre should remain all night. Feverish with impatience, Andre reluctantly complied, but reported to Sir Henry Clinton under date of September 21. But the day before, occurred an incident which, though trivial in itself, was fraught with the most momentous results to this country. Several "Skinners" as the marauders in Westchester who were friendly to America were called,—in contradistinction to the English sympathizers of the same propensities who were termed "Cowboys"—had come down to the shore at Teller's Point and run up a white flag. Robinson interpreted the act as a signal from Arnold. Accordingly a ship's boat was put out. Before it reached land, it was treacherously fired upon in violation of all rules of war. Sutherland formally complained to Arnold.

In the meantime Arnold had made other plans. He had determined that the meeting with Andre should take place within the American lines and had selected Joshua Hett Smith's house. And in this connection it may not be amiss to say that all of Smith's testimony should be weighed and accepted with liberal margins of allowance. The conspiracy blasted, one of the ringleaders in the hands of the enemy, his own perfidy known and himself in captivity, the law of self-preservation became his guiding star, and all other considerations were subordinated to that law. It is reasonable to suppose that Arnold made his plans on Tuesday, the nineteenth of September, the day he left Washington at Peekskill, for on this same day, Smith called at the Robinson House on his way home from Fishkill whence he had taken his family on a visit. Mr. Sparks fixes the date at Sept. 14 or 15, when Arnold met his wife on her arrival at Smith's. But at that time Arnold was not in possession of Washington's programme and Andre's movements were full of uncertainty. On the nineteenth, however, Arnold knew he had four days in which to operate before Washington returned and he had already notified Andre of his intention to send a messenger. The absence of Smith's family at the time was but a coincidence which Arnold utilized but which he did not suggest. Smith's claim that Arnold brought the papers to his house at Haverstraw will not bear examination in view of all the facts. It is certain, however, that on the day Arnold elected to meet Andre, Arnold supplied Smith with the necessary papers at the Robinson House and gave him a pass for himself and "Mr. John Anderson, who is with him and his two servants, to pass and repass the guards near King's Ferry at all times." On the morning of Thursday the 21st, ascertaining that the connection had not been made, and fearing that Andre might refuse to proceed further than Dobbs Ferry, he issued an additional pass for Smith "to go to Dobbs Ferry with three men and a boy with a flag to carry some letters of a private nature for gentlemen in New York and to return immediately." A postscript read: "He has permission to go at such hours and times as the tide and his business permits."

Toward midnight of the 21st of September, Joshua Hett Smith started for the Vulture for the purpose of bringing Andre ashore. The oars of the boat were muffled with sheepskin, the sky was clear, the stars shone brightly, the water was calm and unruffled, as the distance of twelve miles between the King's Ferry and Teller's Point was covered. Smith was shown into the cabin of the Vulture, and was introduced by Col. Robinson to "Mr. Anderson," who wore the full uniform of a British officer underneath a blue travelling coat. The party left the Vulture and landed at the foot of "Long Clove" on the west bank of the Hudson, five miles south of Smith's house, six miles south of Stony Point, and two miles south of Haverstraw. Robinson had protested against going ashore, and had endeavored to dissuade Andre from going. When the boat struck the beach, Smith left it and groping his way through the underbrush and the darkness, found Arnold at the appointed place, concealed among fir trees. Arnold expressed regret that Robinson had not come, but directed Smith to show Andre to his presence. This conference, appropriately enough held under cover of the darkness of the blackest midnight, continued for several hours. With the approach of dawn, the boat was sent back to the Vulture and Arnold and Andre proceeded on horseback to Smith's house. The challenge of a sentry startled Andre, and brought to his mind for the first time the startling intelligence that he was within the American lines.

The ill-luck that had pursued Andre from the beginning of this wretched business, pursued him even now. The position of the Vulture had been regarded as a menace by the patriotic inhabitants on the east bank of the Hudson, and Col. Livingston had succeeded in obtaining a four-pounder cannon, which he conveyed to Gallows Point. At daylight of the 22nd, he opened a vicious fire, and he forced the vessel to retire down the stream. Andre, from a window in Smith's house saw the Vulture pass out of sight, and with it passed every hope of the success of his undertaking. After breakfast, he and Arnold repaired to an upper room in Smith's house, where they were closeted for several hours, arranging the details for the surrender of West Point. At the conclusion of the interview, Arnold turned over to Andre all the papers bearing upon this important post, in Arnold's own handwriting. It was then agreed that Andre should return to New York, piloted by Smith, and furthermore that he should accompany Admiral Rodney and General Clinton on the expedition which was to result in the fall of West Point. The route, the place of debarkation, the passes through which the British army was to come—to be left unprotected by Arnold—were all agreed upon, and every detail was arranged. Even the great chain across the Hudson, every link of which weighed 240 pounds, was to be weakened in order to permit the passage of Rodney's fleet—a link having been withdrawn under pretence of making a repair.

Before 10 A. M. of the 22nd, Arnold bade Andre goodbye. "Before we parted" says Andre, "some mention had been made of my crossing the river and going another route but I objected much against it and thought it was settled that in the way I came, I was to return."

Arnold suggested that Andre should exchange his uniform for another, to be supplied by Smith, a proposition to which Andre finally gave reluctant consent. Andre passed the day at Smith's house, under more or less anxiety. Smith endeavored to obtain for him an American uniform, but at the same time absolutely refused to hazard the risk of rowing down to the Vulture. Andre was, therefore, compelled to start for New York by land, Smith agreeing to accompany him to the British outpost. Smith professed his destination to be Robinson's house. Just as the sun was sinking behind the Haverstraw mountains, Smith, accompanied by his negro servant, proceeded to the King's Ferry and crossed the river from Stony to Verplanck's Point.

Along the road they encountered numbers of Smith's acquaintances and they proceeded without molestation until they reached Crompond, where a sentinel of a patrolling party challenged them. The pass signed by Arnold was produced, and examined carefully by the captain in command, and Smith and Andre were allowed to proceed on their way. The captain however, had warned them of the dangers of travelling at night in that vicinity, and greatly to Andre's annoyance, Smith insisted upon spending the night in the farm house of Andreas Miller. The following morning they were under way bright and early following the road that leads to Pines Bridge. They obtained breakfast at the house of a hospitable Dutch woman, after which Smith divided his supply of paper money with Andre and bade him goodbye. With his servant, Smith returned to Peekskill, and thence to Fishkill, stopping on his way at Beverly, where he dined with General Arnold, and made a complete report of Mr. Anderson's progress.

(General Clinton' answers):

1st. In determining on the particular Spot on which the Fort is to be built on West Point we must be governed by the make of the Ground. The nearer the Point I think the better,‡ as it will effectually cover the Water Batteries & annoy the Enemy's Shipping should they attempt to pass the Chain—besides the Works near the Edge of the Bank will be more defensible & easier to be compleated than if at distance from it. It should be built considering the Short Time which remains to do it in that Manner in which it can be most expeditiously effected either by Facing it with Timber or Facines secured by Frames like Chandeliers as the latter I imagine will be the most expeditious & it can when we have more Leisure be faced with Sod which will render it durable.

It was Andre's misfortune to take the river road which ran through Tarrytown, rather than the road that led through White Plains. It is not necessary to go into the well-known details of his capture by the three patriots, John Paulding, David Williams and Isaac Van Wart, and of his trial and execution. It is only necessary to say that Arnold was at breakfast at Beverly when the news of Andre's capture reached him; that Washington on his return from Hartford, stopped to examine the redoubts on the east side of the river at West Point, or he would have been present when the blow struck Arnold. Arnold, with splendid self-control, explained to the company that his presence was required across the river, ordered his horse saddled, hastened to Mrs. Arnold's apartment, where he disclosed the appalling situation, then hurried downstairs, mounted his horse and rode down a bypath through the woods to what is now known at Beverly dock. He had already impressed several men into manning his barge, and was rowed to the Vulture under a flag of truce.

When Washington reached Beverly and was informed that Arnold had crossed over to West Point, he proceeded after him and was greatly surprised to learn that Arnold had not been there and had not been sent for. He promptly returned to the east side of the river, and walking up the path from Beverly dock, met Alexander Hamilton, who with anxiety depicted on his face, and who held in hand a package of papers that Col. Jameson, who had charge of Andre after his capture, had sent forward, broke the alarming news to his chief.

On the 29th of September, Washington convened a court-martial, which consisted of six major generals and eight brigadier generals, to determine Andre's fate. The decision of that court is well known. Andre would have preferred to have been shot, but fate willed otherwise.

Historic old Beverly eventually passed into the hands of the Hon. Hamilton Fish, and for a number of years was occupied by Mr. Fish's son-in-law, the Hon. William E. Rogers. It was burned to the ground, March 17, 1892. In a letter to the State Historian's department, under date, March 22, 1900, Mr. Rogers wrote: "The old house, my former home 'Beverly,' burned down on March 17th, 1892. It took fire, I think, from a defective stove pipe in a small upper north room. A hot fire was built in the stove about half-past eight in the morning. The house was discovered to be on fire a little after nine. I have built a new house on the property but not on the same site. The site of the old house is partially occupied now by a green house."—STATE HISTORIAN.

Dr. Jones' Health Still Too Precarious for Him to Attend George Clinton.

Sir, Upon my return to this place, I found several messages, requesting in the most urgent manner a performance of engagements long since made, to visit some persons whose deplorable cases it wou'd be the height of inhumanity to neglect. I hope your Excellency will do me the Justice to believe that I am not influenced in this matter by interested motives, for I can assure you with great truth that notwithstanding my reputation & practice I am now growing poorer in purse every day of my life. I am Just setting out for Morris Town, to visit a man who has been waiting for me near six months, & has during that time sent half a dozen messengers to request my assistance; this will unavoidably prevent my waiting on you at Poughkeepsie for the present & it is more than probable the same causes joined to my precarious health, will continue to do it for the future; for which reasons I must again repeat my wishes, that some person whose situation & circumstances better qualify him for an attendance on public business might supply my appointment in Senate. I hear the old Gentleman at Mathews-field, who is at present under the tutillage of his worthy eldest son, has lately sent his son James to sollicite a Flag to New York, for the purpose of procuring papers & documents relative to a villanous scheme for depriving him of his estate. The whole matter will probably in due time be laid before a court of equity, where it will be discovered who these plotters are. As I have very few opportunities of writing to my Brother on this side the river, I have taken the liberty of enclosing one under your own cover, & beg leave to subscribe myself with great esteem & respect your Excellency's Most Obedient Humble Servant,

John Jones.

THE NEW BOARD OF WAR AT WORK.

Gates' Circular Letter Requesting Information Relative to the Purchasing Department.

War Office February 10, 1778.

Sir; Enclosed you have a Copy of a Resolve of Congress, directing the Board to enquire into the causes of the Deficiencies in the Department of the Purchasing Commissaries, the present state of which, is really alarming. In order to enable us to comply with the Directions of Congress, it is necessary to get all the evidence the subject will admit of, as well for present satisfaction, as future Government. I am therefore, to solicit your immediate enquiry into the situation of the purchasing Department in your State, & that you will be pleased to give such Information, both as to Men and measures, as you shall think the necessity of the Case demands, and if any abuses have arisen, from the men employed either principally or subordinately, Measures may be taken for their removal; and if any want of Regulation on public, or private obstructions, has been the Occasion of the Languor in the Department, as far as has fallen under your Notice, the proper representation may be made to Congress, who are ever ready to remedy, when properly informed, of the Evil. The Board would also be happy to receive your opinion as to what supplies may at this time or in the course of the next Campaign be drawn from your State specifying the Species & probable quantities of the respective articles. The Board have taken the Liberty to address this Letter to you, as they have done to the Governments of the other States, not with a view to any particular Person or Measure, nor with a Desire to draw from any State more Provisions or supplies than it is prudent for them to part with, but, as they have been placed in a great Department, and do not yet know where the Enemys Operations the next Campaign may point, it is necessary for the Board to know what abuses prevail, what Regulations should be made in the provision Business, & what resources each State can furnish in Case of any Emergency, or movement of the Enemy; keeping always in view the supply of the Army, whether it preserves its present Position, or shall move, as the Theatre of war may change. I am, Sir, Your Most Obed't Hum. Serv't, Horatio Gates, President.

I just beg leave to mention that the old Board of War, on the 16 June & 25 Novem'r last wrote Circular Letters, to the several States, requesting "a List of Officers appointed by ye States in the Continental Army," which I am to request your Excellency will be pleased to transmit.

His Excellency Geo. Clinton Gov. of the State of New York.

In Congress Feb'y 9, 1778.

Resolved That the Board of War be directed forthwith to enquire into the causes of the deficiencies in the Department of the purchasing Commissaries and report to Congress.

TO CONSTRUCT POWDER MILLS.

M. Fouquet and His Son Authorized by Congress and the Board to Proceed in This Important Work.

War Office 10 Febr'y. 1778.

Sir, By the enclosed Copy of the articles of agreement enter'd into between the Board of War, & Mons'r Fouquett* the Father

*By act of Congress January 15, 1778, M. Fouquet, the father, was given the brevet rank of Captain and Mark Fouquet, the son, the brevet rank of Lieutenant of Artillery in the Army of the United States, dating from November 17, 1777.

& son, your Excellency will observe they are obliged by their Contract, to superintend the erecting of powder mills, & of improving such as are already erected, by constructing a machine for preventing their blowing up.

Mons'r Fouquett came over with General Du Coudray† & highly recommended as an ingenious man, well acquainted with the art of powder making, in all its branches & is obliged by his Contract to propagate the knowledge of his Profession to such persons as may be pointed out to him for that purpose. He has received directions to wait upon your Excellency with his son, and obey such orders, as you may be pleased to give—and not to leave your State until he shall have done every thing, that shall be required of him in the line of his Department, but, as it is the wish of the Board, that the knowledge of his profession, shou'd be fully known throughout, the different States, I am to request your Excellency will give such directions, that every thing may be in a proper train, for him to work upon, as the time for which he is engaged is but short, considering the extensiveness of the undertaking. The Board are sensible you will see the propriety of putting two or three persons, intelligent, & good artists, to be instructed by Mons'r Fouquett in the knowledge of his profession. I have the honor to be Your Excellency's most obedient hum. Servant

Horatio Gates President.

† Philippe-Charles-Jean-Baptiste, Tronson-Ducoudray, a voluminous writer on artillery, was one of fifty of the first band of French officers who were despatched by Beaumarchais to the United States. The expedition which consisted of three ships laden with arms and ammunition was scheduled to leave Havre December, 1776, but was delayed several weeks owing to the laziness of Ducoudray. It finally arrived at Portsmouth, in May, 1777. September 17, 1777, while on the way to join Washington. Ducoudray's horse backed off the flat bottom boat that was conveying the party across the Schuylkill, and man and animal were drowned. Owing to the humble circumstances in which he was born, promotion came to him very slowly. At the time of his death he had just passed his thirty-ninth year, and held the rank of chief of brigade of artillery.—STATE HISTORIAN.

Mons'r Fouquett has received 3 months pay for himself & son—also one hundred Dollars to bear their Expences.

Mons'r Fouquett by agreement is to receive the pay and rations of a Captain, and when travelling the Board agree all his reasonable expenses shou'd be paid, moderate requests for the purpose, your Excellency is requested to comply with.

His Excell'y George Clinton Esqr.

Gov'r of the State of New York.

Charles Moore Gives Reasons Why He Should Occupy the Robinson House.

West Point Feb'y 10th 1778.

Sir, As my Farm is wanted for the use of ye Army and General Putnam wants the House for himself or ye Commanding Officer at this post, I went by his direction, last Week, to Peaks Kill, to look for a vacant Farm there, or in it's vicenaty, ye income of which shoud be equal to my own at West Point; I made all ye enquiry I possibly coud, but coud not find one. As ye House is immediatly wanted, and it is very difficult to move to any distance, at this inclement season, I shoud be greatly obligd to your Excellency if I coud have ye Favor of Mr. Robinsons, as that is near, and I coud with ease be removed to it. It may be objected that that Farm is greatly superiour to this; it's true Mr. Robinson has made great improvements on it, but it's but a few years sinse he told my Brother, that this Farm was very near as good as his, and as I am obliged to leave my possessions, which were every day gowing better, it woud be extreamly hard, to make me remove to any distance, at this season, and also to a worse place than where I am; you will doubtless join with me in thinking that in justice it ought to be better, as you must believe it must be with regret, that any person can leave a place they are improving and expected to be sett down on for life. I suffered greatly last Fall, by having almost all my Stock taken from me, by ye Sailors belonging to the enemy, and this affair, will I fear entirly ruin me. I coud say much more on these things, but will not trouble your Excellency any further; but leave it to your own brest to judge of my sittiuation, and give me all the relief in your power. TREACHERY OF JELLES FONDA AND COLONEL FREY.

The Tryon County Committee Expostulates Against Military Preference Being Shown Them.

Tryon County, 10th of Febu'y 1778.

To his Excellency George Clinton Esqr., Governor, and Commander in Chief, of the State of New York, &c., &c., &c.

May it please your Excellency; The still unsettled State of the public affairs of this County, calls upon us once more to address your Excellency, and humbly request your Recommendation of the Inclosed Return of Officers, Civil and Military, (who have obtained the Majority of Votes of the good people of this County). We could have wished, that the Commanding officers of Mohawk District Battalion, had complied with the request of this Board in consequence of the inclosed advertisement of the 27th of January last, that we could have been able to lay the Sense of the County at large before your Excellency: it seems that the two Colonels of that Battalion, having come to the Height of bad Conduct the 6th of August last, when they crept into Hollows and left our brave men to command and defend themselves, still are adding to their guilt. There are circumstances which would convince any impartial Enquirer that many were actuated by principles worse than Cowardice. No less extraordinary was the Conduct of Mr. Van Veghten, an Adjutant, now Sheriff of this County, who sat the greatest Part of our Militia Running before they saw an Enemy by repeatedly Crying aloud in low-dutch "Run Boys Run or we shall all be kill'd." The integrity of his Father in law, Major Jellis Fonda, is as much questioned in this County as Van Vegten's.

A Deposition of Mr. Zimmerman is log'd with this Committee witnessng that Major Jellis Fonda advis'd him, the Deponent, when going to the Battle not to fire upon the Indians and to Dissuade others from firing likewise. It is natural to us to suppose that his Son in law, Van Veghten, had the same Instructions befor he sat out for the field of Battle. Whither such men may safely be trusted with posts of importance we submit to your Excellency's superior Judgment. We can but observe that the good people of this County ever since the Commencement of the present unhappy dispute have been greatly Anoy'd by the wiles of their internal Enemies, who Chiefly were men of great connections and Influence, able to baffle the best efforts of the Committee's from Time to Time, till the were ripe to turn open Enemies: many of them have been indulg'd with Liberty, which they have improved by Running of and joining the Enemy, and have since sealed their wickedness with the Blood of their worthyest Neighbours; as such a one we consider Henry Fry who is return'd amongst us with the inclosed letter from the Attorney General. It seems strange that one single person (unacquainted with Tryon County,) should take upon him to determine contrary to the Opinion of the whole County, that the s'd Frey can do no harm when he has the Liberty of his own Farm, with the priviledge of Visiting Mr. Yates. Had this last mentioned Gentleman acquainted the Attorney General, that his own house is much frequented by people from all parts, and that on s'd Frey's Farm there stands a Grist mill, to wich there is continually a great Conflux of people of all sorts, he would doubtless have thought otherwise.

As this County has been a long while and still is in great confusion, we think it absolutely necessary that Posts of importance be put in the hands of men of unshaken integrity and Men who have the confidence of the well affected inhabitants which we humbly concieve would restore a considerable degree of tranquility to the County.

The unprovided State of our Militia we leave to your excellency's searours consideration; we take the leave of referring your Excellency for further particulars to the Bearer hereof, Doct'r Moses Younglove, a member of our Body and have the Honor of being your Excellency's most humble Servents

NO BRIGADE RETURNS FOR EIGHTEEN MONTHS.

General Ten Broeck Gives a Lurid Example of the Carelessness of Military Commanders.

Albany 5th Febr'y. 1778.

Sir, I have Received yours of the 9th Jan'y & Immediately Issued my orders to the Colonells in my Brigade ordering them Immediately to make Return of their Regts. I am Sorry that I am not yet able to send your Excellency a Return of my Brigade as Severall Colonells have not as yet made Return; as soon as I am enabled to do it I will send it. I have had no Returns made to me from my Colonells Since July 1776. I can furnish your Excellency with this but am well Convinced that great alterations have taken Place since that time.

Your Excellency's letter of the 1st Instant I Rec'd yesterday afternoon, I am now Issuing my orders to Detach 320 men out of my Brigade & 80 men officers Included out of the Militia of Tryon County, which makes the number Required. I am altogether unacquainted with the Strength of the Militia of Charlotte County & from the Scituation that County was in last Campaign, I thought it not adviseable at Present to call upon that militia, of which I hope your Excellency will approve. An active vigilant officer is to Command the above 400 men but his Rank is not mentioned. I would be glad to have your opinion. I Remain with great Respect Your Excellency's Most Obdt. Humble Serv't, Ab'm Ten Broeck.

His Excellency George Clinton.

D'r Sir, I am favored with yours of the 5th Inst. I sho'd be happy how soon I can have the Returns of your Brigade as the Military appointments cannot be made without it; pray be particular in pointing out vacancies & extremely carefull in recommending the most proper Persons to fill them; it is essentially necessary for the Service that the 400 Men ordered from your Brigade rendezvous immediately at Albany to prevent any Delay in the Northern Expedition. The Number of Men will point out to you the rank of the officer who is to command them as by a Resolution of Congress which must have slipt your Memory that Number of Men is to be commanded by a Lieut. Colo. I am with my best Respects to Mrs. Tenbroeck & Family Your Most Obed. Ser.

The unhappy Condition of the Families of those brave Men, who fell in Defence of their Country, in the Action under General Herkimer, I flatter myself, will engage your early Attention, and that such Relief will be afforded to them by the Public, as Justice will warrant, and their peculiar Distresses require.

You will also receive with this Message, Copies of the Resolutions of Congress, of the 19th December and 21st of January last, regulating the Conduct, to be observed in future, in the Treatment of Prisoners of War; which, as they are founded on the TRYON COUNTY AND PATRONAGE.

The Committee Petitions that Only Men of Tried Loyalty Be Chosen—Governor Clinton's Reply.

To his Excellency George Clinton Govenor and Commander in chief of the State of N. York and the Teritories depending thereon in America.

The Petition of the Committee and Freeholders of Tryon County

HUMBLY SHEWETH, That we ever since the commencement of this War have Suffered unaccountable as we lay a Fronteer to most of this State and some of the powerfulest enemys on the Continent had been amongst us, besides their great Connections with the Indians the fatal affects of which we felt the sixth of August last when many of our best and bravest Men fell a Victim to a Savage and Crual Enemy, and as our present & future Safety and Hapiness depends upon the Officers of this State: And it is not to be supposed that the Council of Appointment can be able to chuse the officers for this County agreeable to the people or welfare thereof, As three of them is unquainted with us, and the other hath but an imperfect knowldge of us, And if, threw unacquaintance or partiality, Men who has never distinguished themselves Since the begining of our Contest, with Great-Britain, but even waited to step in the ballance that preponderated, should be prefer'd before those that Stood firm in the Glorious Cause of liberty, it is to feared bad consequences will Ensue; We therefore Pray your Excellency to lay before the Council of appointment the request of your Petitioners to defer the appointment of Officers for this County both Civil and Military till recommended by them, which shall be done as soon as possible.

Your Petitioners would also lay before your Excellency the Suffering and defenceless State of this County As several of our militia has lost their Arms and Cloaths at General Harkemer's Battle, and many of them unable to provide themselves with others or even provisions for their March and went Barefoot on expeditions, not having received their pay to provide them necessaries for their Journey.

And as there is many distressed widows & orphants amongst us whose Husbands & Fathers fell in defence of our inestimable Rights and Liberties, would pray your Excellency (as the Guardian of the People) to recommended them to the Legislature of this State to take their case into consideration and to provide for them as they in their Wisdom think Meet. And your Petitioners as in Duty bound will ever pray.

Sign'd by order of the County Committee and a Number of the Freeholders of Tryon County.

Will'm Wills, Chairman.

January 27th 1778.

Sir, The Petition of the Committee of Tryon County of the 27th Ult. under your Signature is duly rec'd and agreeable to your Desire the several Matters therein contained recommended to the Consideration of the Legislature who are also furnished with a Copy of the Petition. The Council of Appointment had completed the Civil List for your County before the Petition came to Hand. You must be sensible that a Delay of that Business wo'd be prejudicial to the County and justly subject the Council to Censure. They have taken every Precaution in their Power for appointing the Persons the best qualified to fill the several Offices in your County and besides their own Knowledge of Characters they were assisted by Lists from your County Committee & Representatives. As early as last August I wrote to your Committee, to furnish me with the Names of Persons* the most proper for Officers civil & military in your County at this same Time I wrote to the Command'g Officers of the Militia to make Returns of their Regiments to point out the vacancies & the best Persons to fill them & to make out Pay Rolls & abstracts for such Militia services as had been performed in the County & that the same might be audited & paid, which Requests have hitherto remained un-complied with. You must be sensible, Sir, that it is impossible to settle & pay of accounts before they are received, nor is it possible to compleat your Military List before vacancies shall be ascertained by proper Returns made by the Officers at present Command'g the Militia and I am sorry to say that it is from their Neglect you have Reason to complain of the present Derangement of your Militia & of their not being p'd for their Services. I have not the least Reason to doubt but the Council will give a proper attention to such Recommendations as shall be made by the Committee & wherever they can consistent with their own Judgment give the Preference to such as shall be recommended as they earnestly wish for every Species of Information that may enable them to execute the Trust reposed in them by their County for the best advantage of the people. McDOUGALL APPOINTED PRESIDENT.

Inquiry into the Loss of the Forts in the Highlands—George Clinton Vindicated by Congress.

Head Quarters, Valley Forge, 12 February, 1778.

Dear Sir,

The Congress, so long ago as the 30th November last,* directed me to have an inquiry into the causes of the losses of Fort Mifflin upon the Delaware, and Fort Montgomery upon Hudsons river. The peculiar situation of the army has hindered me from attending to the matter before this time. As most of the principal officers up the North River were immediately concerned in the defence of Fort Montgomery, or eventually so by being very near it, there cannot in my opinion be a sufficient number proper to compose a Court found upon the spot. It is therefore my intention to send three at least from this Army, and it is my wish that you should be one and act as president upon the occasion, if your health will permit you to attend. I shall therefore be glad to hear from you upon the subject, that, I may either proceed to fill up the commission for you, or appoint another, if your health should not be sufficiently established to go thro' the Business. It is my wish to have this inquiry carried on, not only in obedience to the Resolve of Congress, but for other reasons, which I need not explain to you. It is besides impatiently expected by the Gentlemen in the State of New York,

*November 28, 1777 Congress adopted the following resolution: That an enquiry be made into the loss of Forts Montgomery and Clinton, in the state of New-York; and of Fort-Mifflin, on the river Delaware, in the state of Pennsylvania, and into the conduct of the principal officers commanding those forts: and that gen. Washington be directed to cause this enquiry to be made, and to transmit the proceedings of the court to Congress with all possible dispatch.

September 9, 1778 Governor Clinton wrote to Congress, in which he intimated a desire to be informed of the sentiments of that body respecting his conduct as commander of the forts on the banks of Hudson's-river, which were taken by the enemy, and desiring to be furnished with certified copies of the report of the court of enquiry, &c.

Ordered, That gov. Clinton be furnished with copies of the papers desired, and that the president inform him that Congress are well satisfied of the propriety of his conduct as commander of the forts on Hudson's-river.

who are in hopes that some beneficial consequences will result from it. You are particularly well acquainted with many circumstances relating to the situation of matters in that quarter and therefore more capable of conducting the enquiry than any other officer. I shall only add one reason more to induce you to strain a point upon this occasion, which is, that the scarcity of General Officers is already so great, that, supposing one as proper as yourself, I could not spare him without injury to the service. I shall expect an answer by return of the express.* I am, &c.

WASHINGTON DECLARES THE SITUATION ALARMING.
A Famine in Camp—Troops Naked and Starving, but Patient and Displaying Fortitude.

*Head-Quarters Valley Forge, 16 February 1778.

Dear Sir:—It is with great reluctance I trouble you on a subject, which does not properly fall within your province; but it is a subject that occasions me more distress, than I have felt since the commencement of the war; and which loudly demands the most zealous exertions of every person of weight and authority, who is interested in the success of our affairs; I mean the present dreadful situation of the army for want of provisions, and the miserable prospects before us with respect to futurity. It is more alarming, than you will probably conceive; for to form a just idea, it were necessary to be on the spot. For some days past, there has been little less than a famine in camp. A part of the army has been a week without any kind of flesh, and the rest three or four days. Naked and starving as they are, we cannot enough admire the incomparable patience and fidelity of the soldiery, that they have not been ere this excited by their suffering to a general Mutiny and dispersion. Strong symptoms, however, of discontent have appeared in particular instances; and nothing but the most active efforts everywhere can long avert so shocking a catastrophe.

Our present sufferings are not all. There is no foundation laid for any adequate relief hereafter. All the magazines provided in the States of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, and Maryland, and all the immediate additional supplies they seem capable of affording, will not be sufficient to support the army more than a month longer, if so long. Very little has been done to the eastward, and as little to the Southward; and whatever we have a right to expect from those quarters must necessarily be very remote, and is, indeed, more precarious than could be wished. When the fore-mentioned supplies are exhausted, what a terrible crisis must ensue, unless all the energy of the continent shall be exerted to provide a timely remedy!

Impressed with this idea, I am, on my part, putting every engine at work, that I can possibly think of, to prevent the fatal consequences, we have so great reason to apprehend. I am calling upon all those, whose stations and influence enable them to contribute their aid upon so important an occasion; and, from your well known zeal, I expect every thing within the compass of your power, and that the abilities and resources of the State over which you preside will admit. I am sensible of the disadvantages it labors under, from having been so long the scene of war, and that it must be exceedingly drained by the great demands to which it has been subject. But, though you may not be able to contribute materially to our relief, you can perhaps do something towards it; and any assistance, however trifling in itself, will be of great moment at so critical a juncture, and will conduce to the keeping of the army together, till the commissary's department can be put upon a better footing, and effectual measures concerted to secure a permanent and competent supply. What methods you can take, you will be the best judge of; but, if you can devise any means to procure a quantity of cattle, or other kinds of flesh, for the use of this army, to be at camp in the course of a month, you will render a most essential service to the common cause. I have the honor to be, &c.

Governor Clinton Appeals to Governor Cooke of Rhode Island for Cannon.

Sir, By the loss of the forts on Hudsons River, the enemy have got the command thereof, & thereby the Communication between the E, & western States is become very uncertain.

In that Situation the Public Service in the course of next campaign might Suffer in a variety of ways. And the H., the Congress view the matter as so capital, that they have Resolved and ordered that every possible measure shall be pursued by the C. [Commanding] officer in this department to put the passes on the River in a respectable state of Defence before the Season will permit the enemy to possess it; and they have requested me to afford every aid in my power to effect the accomplishm't of this important Service.

As we have no cannon but such as the enemy have left, as supposing them unfit for Service, I am under the necessity of applying to you for such as can be spared from your state, of which I am informed there are a considerable number. Genl. Putnam will shew your Excell'cy a Copy of the Resolution of Congress, which will apologize for my request, as thereby every state are requested to furnish such materials as are their power for this use.

Captain Mott Reports Scarcity of Provisions at New Windsor—And Lieutenant Connolly Drops a Hint as to Flour.

New Windsor 16th February 1778.

Sir, General James Clinton, who has been much indisposed for Several Days past; has directed me to Send the inclos'd, & to Communicate to your Excellency, the Situation the Troops &c. are at present in, at this post respecting provisions, with the means which have been made use of for three weeks past for our Support. Capt. Robinson purchasing Commissary for this place, Resigned about three weeks since, at a Time when we had no Stock of provisions on hand; not Even for three Days. Since which, all the Supply we have had, has been obtain'd by press warrants—a mode of Supply precarious & impolitick; By the General's order, I have repeatedly wrote to General Putnam on this matter, informing him fully of our Situation; his answers were, that he had, & woud again, order one of the Commissaries on the other side of the River to Supply the Store here; & all the Benefit receiv'd from his order has been only Eleven Cattle the week before last which was like a Drop of the Buckett, for 500 or six hundred men. General Clinton wrote to General Parsons yesterday on this matter; & am in some small hopes that it will have the Desired Effect. The principal Design of the General, in writing this is, to acquaint your Excellency, with our Transaction here, & the reasons which influenced the same, least Evil minded persons might make an Ill use of it, to our prejudice. I am Sir very Respectfully Your Excellency's most hum. Serv't D'r Sir, A few minutes after I parted with you I met a man inquiring for Governor Clinton. I told him, he was not at New Windsor, upon that he turn'd back with me; upon the way, he told me his Business with the Governor was to obtain a permit to ship 2 or 300 Barrels flour from some Post in New England for the West Indies; I ask'd him if the flour was there; No, Said he the flour is here. He lives at the Forge, he is Doctor in Company with Bruster—if you are Short in flour, there is a Broad hint for you. Yours,

MAJOR STRANG ADVISES FORCE.

But General Parsons Declines and Again Appeals to Governor Clinton.

Highlands 16th Feb'y 1778.

Dear Sir, Last Fryday I applied to Major Strang for Twenty Teams & had assurances they should be sent this Day: instead of Teams I this Day rec'd the inclos'd Letter. The Inhabitants here have made great Complaints & perhaps with some Reason against the Exercise of military Force in these Cases; indeed tis the Road to obliterate the Ideas of civil Liberty & the Rights of a citizen; I am sensible I come to this command in very disagreeable circumstances; The minds of the People not dispos'd to make favourable Interpretations of such Exertions as their own misconduct may at some Times make absolutely necessary, their Tempers sour'd with the General who commands the Department and not so well inclin'd to my Command as I could wish, these Things ought to make me more cautious in invading the Right of ye civil magistrate than would be necessary where Jealousies & ill Dispositions did not Subsist in the minds of those nearly adjacent to this Post.

The Importance of a Speedy completion of the works I need not urge to your Excellency who I know feels the necessity as forceably as any man; I must beg you, Sir, to give some Direction in this & such like Cases; and if the Committee appointed to Supply, want the authority mentioned in Maj'r Strang's Letter that might be empowered to impress where Necessary or if it must be orderd by ye Commanding Officer in the military Department, that your Legislature would give Directions for that Purpose; in which Case he would not act in a military Character merely but under the authority of your Act. The Weather is such that nothing can be now done & there's Time to wait your answer before I take any Steps in pursuance of his Letter which at present I have declind & shall not do unless directed thereto by your Excellency or the Legislative Body. Indeed I am of Opinion no Good has or will result from too frequent use of this Practice by military Officers. Your answer will much oblige Y'r Excellency's Obed't humble Serv't

Sam'l H. Parsons.

[To George Clinton.]

Hanover, Febru'y 16th 1778.

Sir, Agreeable to your request I have tryed these two days to get Teams but cannot prevail on any. The Committee supposes that it does not come under their authority to give a warrant to Impress Teams there being no clause in the Resolution for that purpose.

You being the Commanding Officer to whom the charge is Committed with the Committee appointed to assist you, I do not know of any better method (and so speedy to obtain them) as for you to send down a guard with Orders to Impress Teams for that purpose and if you desire I will direct them where to go. I am your most obedient & Humble Serv't

Dear Sir, I am favoured with yours of the 16th Instant inclosing a Letter from Major Strang to you. I am sensible of the many Difficulties you Labour Under in your new Command. I am perswaded most of them arise from the Causes you first ascribed them to & [not] from any dislike to your having the Command.

I am of Oppinion that Mr. Strang & the other Gentlemen of the Committee have competent authority to procure whatever shall be requested by the Commanding Officer & may be necessary for carrying on the Works for the Defence of the River in the Highlands & that whatever they shall do or order to be done therein will be considered as being done by the Civil authority of the State. ALARMING SCARCITY OF MEAT.

A Committee of Congress Makes an Appeal to All the States for Help for Washington's Army.

Camp near the Valley Forge Chester County
Pennsylvania Feb. 17, 1778.

Sir, We have the Honour of composing a Committee of Congress to confer with his Excell'y General Washington on the Affairs of the American Army.. We find ourselves interrupted in our Progress to form an Arrangement & make the necessary Dispositions for the ensuing Campaign by a most alarming Scarcity in the Article of Meat. The Course of the Enemy thro this State & continued Draught of our own Army have exhausted a Country which never raised sufficient Flesh for its own Consumption. Your Excell'ys Discernm't will easily point out the Variety of melancholy Events which such an Evil must produce, & how affecting they must be to the Interests of the United States: Mutany, Desertion, a Spirit of Depredation & Plunder ending at last in a total Dissolution perhaps of our whole Army (a Subject of great Exultation to our Enemies & Depression of our Friends) will be the immediate Consequences of this deplorable Failure unless some Remedy can be provided. Some of the Troops have been 4 Days without Meat, & the Prospects of the Commissaries are so light & precarious that Necessity obliges us to disclose our Situation & call most earnestly for your Assistance. Our limited Knowledge of the Resources of your State, & its present Condition forbids our pointing out any precise Mode in which this important Business of Supply can be affected & it is the less necessary, as the Zeal & Judgment manifested so frequently by your Excellency & the Gentlemen in Authority with you will so amply supply our Deficiency. We would only hint, that if from the peculiar Circumstances of the State of New York, it can afford us little or no Relief in furnishing this necessary Article of Subsistence, it may probably do much in the Transportation of it from other States. Our Situation obliges us to call for Help of every kind & from every Quarter, & we flatter ourselves it will have its due Effect in animating the faithful Inhabitants of your State to the most vigorous Exertions. We are with the greatest Respect & Regard Your Excell's most obed. & very Hble. Serv'ts touching & Concerning Taxation America held such taxing unjust & illegal and unwarrantable by the Constitution of Brittain America Soon entered upon & into measuers to prevent Such illegal tax, Kingston soon unitedly Did join and Seconded the measuers to prevent the Expected oppression by their early embarking in the Cause of Liberty and their perseveering and Continued Exertions in Support thereof have undoubtedly Incurred the bitterest resentment of the enemy to Vent such resentment, & Expedition up the North river was Determined upon and the distruction of Kingston thereby Effectd & Completed to the great loss & Damage of the Inhabitants. Sir, many of the Sufferers [who] woud fain Build are Discouraged by means of the enormus prizes of things & Laybour; the unhapy Sufferers have always supported the Cause with a proper spirit; have allways Submitted to the present Government Chearfully; turn'd out their Number of men on all Detachments and those ordered to be raised to Reinforce the army, and always acted with Spirit & Resolution, however the Situation, Circumstances & Difficulties; the Committee thinks it there indispensable Duty to address your Excellency, in behalf of the Sufferers of Kingston, that your Excellency, therefore, will be pleased to make use of your Interest in Devising means, whereby the poor Sufferers may obtain Relief. Their Spirit to Rebuild the town is good, but their abilities Weak; assistance for that purpose wou'd be exceeding agreeable and mightily revive the present Dejection of many of the poor Sufferers. Sir, I have received the Address of the Committee of Kingston Dated the 9th Instant, respecting the Distresses of the Inhabitants of Kingston & the aid required to enable them to rebuild the Town. You may rest assured Gentlemen, That whatever may be in my Power to render them shall not be withheld but most chearfully afforded. I have already suggested to sundry Members of the Legislature, the Propriety of rebuilding the Court House & Goal at public Expence & I have Reason to hope it will be done. I have likewise mentioned the Propriety of exempting such Number of Artificers as shall be necessary from Military Drafts & Duty providing they agree to work at Rebuilding the Town for Reasonable Wages which likewise I hope I shall be enabled to do.

As to Freer I think no Public Injury can arise from his continuing at Home at Present; in the Mean Time I will lay his Case before the Commissioners for detecting Conspiracies to be appointed in pursuance of a late Act of the Legislature who I have no Doubt will deal with him according Justice in such Manner as will conduce most the public Safety & Peace.

A report of the Case of Jan Freer of Kingston of the matter and fact appearing against him—

Before the Committee of Safety & observation of the Town of Kingston in ulster in the state of Newyork. Vizt.

Whereas Information being given to the Committee of Safety & observation of Kingston on the 16th day of April 1777, that Jan Freer had Conveyed one Quackenbosch an enemy With a Knoo [canoe] From his Fathers house towards Albany as far as Sagertjes, and being sent for and examined by the Committee, he pretended to be deceived by one Isaac Low, hoo Informed that the person so conveyed had a good pass from his Colonell Low, being sent for by the then Convention or Council of Safety and said Low on his Confession Committed to paper, the Committee thinks Differs with the Information of Freer; but the Committee having Recourse to some other Kind of evidence which wood not be proper to Confront with Freer, but said evidence being Corroborated by many circumstances that attended that Matter, perfectly agreeing with Freer's Information & Low's confession, which sufficiently satisfied the Committee that said Jan Freer knew the person so by him Conveyed to be Innimical to the Welfare of America after being thus fully satisfied of Freer's Guilt, the Committee on the twenty third of April Last sent for said Freer for his farther Examination touching the Conveyance of the inimical person by night; said Freer appeared & on his Examination pretended as before mentioned thinking he had Done no harm also pretending Ignorance of the present Government and of the Resolutions of the Convention ordering & Directing the present and future Conduct of all Subjects & Inhabitants of the State of Newyork Respecting our Comon Enemy, what the Subjects ought to do and what they are prohibited to do, all his pretended Ignorance was not believed by the Committee. The members of the Committee then present in Committee being moved for Certain reasons to offer unto Jan Freer an oath of alliegance to test him that way, Which When offered to him he did not know the import thereof, the Chairman of the Committee Explaind & Expounded to him the Oath; he then urged to have some Longer time to Consider thereon; the Committee insisted upon his taken the Oath, which was tendered to him; finally Jan Freer Denied to take the Oath. Then the Committee took the Whole matter of Freer into Consideration and unanimously Resolved that said Jan Freer had merited to be secured in Goal for the offence by him Committed, and the Matter Reported to the Council of Safety Which was accordingly done; and said Jan Freer remain'd in Goal untill the Beginning of October last, and then ordered among other Prisoners to the state of Connecticut, and after Jan Freer had ben their a while Confind in Wethersfield in Goal, he their got So much in favour of the Sheriff to obtain his Certificate to go & Remain home untill the first day of march; in his coming home happened to meet with one Thompson, a school master, who wrote a petition for him Calculated to Deceive the illeterate, and got fifty nine persons to Sign it, timely [notice] of which the Committee was Informed. Sent for Jan Freer and Examin'd him, Touching the Petition, and said he meant no harm; there with he delivered up the petition to the Committee; a Little while afterwards the Committee was Informed of another petition by one of the Signers thereof, who being Inform'd that the Committee wou'd Examine therein; by the activity of the Committee the Scheme of Jan Freer became abortive, and all his private measures Counteracted; when said Jan Freer found his purpose So frustrated, it naturally Show'd him his bad principal & Weak side, & at once became Dejected & Despondent Concerning his present Case and Circumstances; he at once began to Supplicate, beg, & petition Verbally the Committee to accomodate matters, and after the Said Jan Freer had repeatedly made Verbal Supplication and petition and his offer to Swear true alliegance to the state of Newyork and abjuration to the tyrant King of Great Brittain and be a good Subject of the state of Newyork and always observe a proper Subordination to its Laws, and Support, said State in all its Rights and Liberties, therefore the Committee Resolved, to take his Verbal Supplication and petition into Consideration and Resolved that the state of Jan

Freer's Case be Drawn up and Laid before his Excellency, the Governour of the state of Newyork, Wether he ought, therefore, to be Discharged, provided, he, the said Freer, Compleat and execute the Offers made before mentioned by order of the Committee.

Poughkeepsie 17th Febry. 1778.

Sir, I am honored with the rec't of your Letter of the 15th Inst. I sincerely wish it was in my power to expedite the movem't of the Troops intended for the Northern Expedit'n by furnish'g the Necessary Supply of Cloath'g. It is not however in my power as there is not in the store of this state a Quantity worth mention'g of any of the Articles required by Col. Hazen (Shirts only excepted) what can be possibly spared I have ordered the Commiss'y to deliver to Col. V. Sch's order for the use of his Regt.

The peculiar Situat'n of this state cutt off by the Enemy from every species of foreign Trade and deprived of its most opulent settlem'ts will fully account for the barren state of our Cloath'g store. I am sorry to learn that the means for carry'g on the Exped'n falls so much short of your Expectat'ns tho' indeed ever since I heard of the Exped'n I fear'd this would be the Case as I had frequently heard the Troops to the Northward were for a long time unpaid and Naked for want of Cloath'g which had Induced the officers to suffer many of them to go home on furlough.

Be assured Sir that every assistance in my power shall be Chearfully afforded you and that I am with much Esteem your most obed. Serv't Clinton Regrets Colonel Hazen's Expedition Should Be Delayed In Consequence.

Poughkeepsie 17 Febry. 1778.

Sir, I am favoured with your letter of the 14th Instant and am unhappy to learn the Expedition in which you are Engaged should be delay'd for want of Cloathing the more so as it is out of the power of this state to afford you the Necessary Supply, tis but a few days since the Cloathing in this state were made Issuable on my order. I have not yet been favoured with a return of the quantity on hand but I have the best reason to believe from the acc't I have rec'd that there is not in store any Quantity worth mention'g of any one of the articles required shirts excepted. I have Nevertheless this day Issued my order to Mr. Henry the Commissary of Cloath'g in favour of Colo. V. Schaick or his order for all the Cloath'g in store which can be possibly spared by the law authoriz'g me to make Drafts on the Cloath'g store I am warranted to do it for the use of the 5 N. Y. Regts. only and it will be Necessary that Colo. V. Schaick authorize the person who is to receive them to receipt for the same otherwise the Com'y may refuse to deliver them & thereby occasion further Delay. I am sir Your Most Obed't Serv.

For the Protection of the Western Frontier Against Indian Raids.

*Gentlemen of the Legislature, I think it my Duty to lay before you a Copy of a Letter, dated the 5th of February, from James Duane, Esq; to the Commissioners of Indian Affairs for the Northern Department; with a Copy of a Letter from them to Congress, and also the Copy of a Letter from Major-General Schuyler to me, both dated the 8th of February Instant. As these Papers tend to discover the hostile Disposition of some of the savage Tribes (who are influenced by the Bribes and wicked Machinations of our cruel Enemy) and to evince the Necessity of adopting proper Measures for securing the Western Frontiers against their Ravages.

CHEERING NEWS FROM FORT SCHUYLER.

The Garrison in Excellent Health and Vigor and Ready for the Tories and Indians.

Fort Schuyler 20th February 1778.

D'r Sir, Ever anxious for your wellfear and Happiness, I embrace this Opportunity of inquiring after it; the last time I had the pleasure of seeing you, your mind was to much taken up with the safety of your family and Neighbourhood who was then invaded by the cruel oppressors of Liberty, where the committed the most Barbarious acts of cruelty on the peaceable Inhabitants on the North river, especially Kingston, which was once the happy peace & plentiful Situation of the antient posessors, But the glorious defeat of the most magnimous Lieut. Genl. Burgoyne, soon put a stop to their wild carrer and made them return with Shame and precipitation & quit thir wild project of reducing this State to the most deplorable situation of slavery & dispotic Tyrany,—We are makeing all the possible preperations for the ensuing campeign at this Garrison that the season will admit of; we have got in about 1000 Picquets, a large quantity of Square Timber for Bomb proof Barracks and about 400 Cord of firewood, Provisions are daily comeing in, that which is good and wholsom, so that before the Sleighing is done I am in hops we Shall have enough to enable us to stand a six month Seige, should the Enemy be so hardy as mak any attempts this way next Season. Our Regt I asure you cut a respectable figure when embodied, our number not dispicable, which amounts to 438 Effective Rank & File, in good Health and full of vigor. The infamous Buttler has had a treaty with the Indians this winter at Niagara, where he made them many large presents & in particular 300 of Burgoyne's Silver medals to their young Warriors, and many fair promises of Taking this Garrison next Season; this news we obtained by some of Tuscarora Indians who were at the Treaty and protended to be their friends; however Should he come, I am in hopes he will go off (if he can) with greater Shame than he done before.

Please to send me by the Bearer the Votes & proceedings of the Sennet [Senate] & whatever news you can collect, which I will esteem as a particular favour, for I asure you we have little or no news here but what is raised among ourselves.

My D'r S'r, it is now with shame & confusion, I begin to reflect on the many good & friendly advices you have graciously bestow'd upon, which had I follow'd I might have been more servicably to my country & a Better member Society; especially when I sit on Court martials I see the fatal necessity of not having that knowledge of the Law, which I once had so fair an opportunity obtaining from your wisdom & good Council. My best respects to Mrs. Clinton, Dr. Tappen & his Wife & to friends below, and may everything great & good conspire to render your administration as chief magistrate of this State easy; and may God of his unerring wisdom and providence guide & direct you in this great day of Tryal, is & ever will be, the wishes of your most affectionate & Humble Serv't

George I. Denniston.

The Case of Thomas Palmer, Tory.

Sir, The Bearer hereof Silas Gardner, being Permitted under Sureties by the Sheriff of Hartford in Connecticut to come home and see his Family and return again by the 10th of March next, in Case this State does not Judge Safe to Permit him to remain at home; he is Extreamly Anxious to remain at home with his Family has, therefore, Applied to the Committe of this Destrict, and to me as Chairman of the Committee of the County. But we are of opinion that the Nature of his Crime and manner of his Confinement, puts it beyond our Power to Interfere in the least in the matter were we Disposed to do it. We have, therefore, Informed him that his only Remedy is to apply to your Excellency. He has been Importunate with me to write to your Excellency in his favour which I Cannot do as I can Evidence nothing for him more than that he now Seems very full of Contrition. But that, every Villian will feign to be untill they have gained their Liberty. However, I Suppose the State may promise themselves as much Security from his Enlargement under proper Restriction and under Such Security as his ability will Permit him to give as many others that are Liberated. There is one Circumstance in my humble Opinion may weigh in your Excellency's mind, and that is, the Distressed Situation of his Family in Consequence of his Confinement, which no dout in that Case will become Objects of Charity, as almost the whole of his Personal Property was Sold by the Commissioners of Sequestration last Spring, and his Family being Considerably large Cannot be Supported without him.

I am Sir your most Obed't and most humb'e Serv't

Governor Clinton Hears Another Wail for Money from General Parsons.

Westpoint 20th Feb'y 1778.

Sir, The completion of the necessary Defences on Hudson's River is of very great Importance to this & every of the United States: Nothing more embarasses this matter at present than the want of money in the Quarter Master's Department.

For some Cause, I know now what, this Department has been so long neglected, that our affairs are already almost ruined: in this Exigency I must intreat your Excellency's Influence to procure a Loan from your State until we can be Supplied from Congress: or at least that the Sums already advanc'd the Quarter Master may not be cal'd for at present. Should he be obliged to replace them soon our Works I am certain will very soon be at a full Stand.

I ought to mention that none of the Troops to be rais'd by this State are arriv'd at or near White Plains, except about Thirty at Tarry Town—that the Time of Service of the militia orderd out by Connecticut expires next Fryday: and Col. Meigs will be orderd up next Week. I am y'r Excellency's Obed't h'e Serv.

Another Complaint of a Different Character.

Hurley, 20th Feby. 1778.

Sir, On my arrival at Schenectady with the order you was pleased to favor me for the Boards I had purchas'd for the Kerkenraad of Kingston, I found those were already taken away for the continent and carried down to Albany at the price of 2/7 & 3/10 pr. ps. being the price allowed by the County Committee. The Boards I had purchas'd for the Kerkenraad was at 2/- & 3/- in Albany. The Kerkenraad think it extremly hard to pay so much more than what they were realy bought for, when they consider that they were intended for the Church and Suffering Inhabitants of Kingston. The Kerkenraad have requested me to acquaint your Excellency, therewith, and beg to know whether they can't have their boards in Albany at the price they were bought at, and whether it be not more Reasonable that the Continent Suffer the Loss of the difference in price than the Sufferers of Kingston. Your Excellency's answer directed to me in Albany, (as I am on my way thither), will be deem'd a particular favor by the Kerkenraad of Kingston. I am very respectfully Sir Your most obed't Serv.

An Exciting Episode in the Life of Major Keese.

Fishkill 20th Feb'y '78.

Sir, In Consequence of the Information you have been pleas'd to give me respecting a Complaint made by Bogarson, I have drawn up a state of the affair, as follows—and shall thank you for laying it, before his Excellency Governor Clinton, Vizt., On Monday last a stranger call'd on me with a note from the Marquis de la Fayette, to Colo. Hughes, to furnish him with a Horse, Saddle & Bridle to Convey him to Boston, with Despatches of Importance, which he was to deliver in France. He Inform'd me (at my Quarters) that he had Come last from Poughkeepsy, where he had Hir'd Bogarson with his Horse & Sleigh to bring him here.

I ask'd the Stranger (in presence of a number of Gentlemen) what he was to give Bogarson for Transporting him; he answer'd Eight Dollars; and Immediately produc'd a large number of Bills, out of which he desir'd me to Pay Bogarson; upon which I took from them, an Eight Dollar Bill, and offer'd it to Bogarson who refus'd to take it; and when I enquir'd the Reason, he said that " he had agreed with the Stranger for Eight Silver Dollars, and wou'd have them, and was not to be fool'd " or words to that Import).

I enquir'd whether he belong'd to the army, he replied " I am an Ensign in the Militia and live near Poughkeepsie." I ask'd his name, he said it was Bogarson. I then offer'd him the Eight Continental Dollars, and desir'd him to take them; he persisted in refusing, and behav'd in such a Riotous manner that I Order'd him to leave the Room. He refus'd to do that also; upon which I open'd the Door and push'd him out; and return'd to the stranger & the company.

He stood muttering, without, for a few minutes, and then, at the request of the stranger, I went and gave him an Eight Dollar Bill. He immediately went off towards Poughkeepsie; however before he had gone half a mile, the stranger miss'd his Cloaths, and said "the Damn'd Tory had carried them away" upon which he drew his sword, & gave it to Mr. Jameson (a waggon master) to fetch Bogarson back, Jameson pursued him, and as soon as Bogarson perceiv'd a Person coming after him, he drove his Horses with all the Fury he cou'd. He was, notwithstanding, soon overtaken and oblig'd to return. The moment he Enter'd the Room, the stranger took his sword from Jameson, & seizing Bogarson, declar'd he wou'd Scalp him. We Rescued Bogarson, And the Gentlemen present were so much Enrag'd at his Scandalous Behaviour to a stranger (especially one who was just going from this Country to France) that they all desir'd me to take the money from him & put him in the Guard House.

I was as much Enrag'd as they, and took the Eight Dollars from him, put them in the stranger's Pocket and order'd Bogarson to get away. He then drove off and I have not since seen him.

This is the True state of the matter as far as I can recollect it—however shou'd any further particulars be requir'd, I can produce five or Six Gentlemen, of undoubted Characters, who will solemnly Swear to the whole; and prove Bogarson to be an Enemy to his Country, and unworthy of holding any Commission or Post whatever. I am, Sir, your most Hum'e & Obt. serv.

Governor Clinton Displays His Confidence in General Schuyler and James Duane.

Poughkeepsie, Feb'y 22d 1778.

I have your apology to the Gent'n of the Legislature who are perfectly satisfied with it, tho' I believe it would be very agreeable to them & I can assure you it would be very agreeable to me to receive a visit from you as soon as you can be spared from the Business you are now engaged in and which I conceive to be so important as to supersede every other Engagement.

I am exceedingly sorry to hear such disagreeable account of our affairs with the Indians. They were communicated to me some time since by Gen. P. Schuyler and I immediately laid them before the Legislature, tho I have no great reason to believe they will do anything in consequence of it, as it will be exceedingly difficult to keep a competent Quorum til the Tax, Militia & Election Bills have passed. For this Reason tho' I perfectly agree with you in the Propriety of our interfering in the Indian affairs as a State I shall not immediately mention this Business to the Legislature; however should there be the least Prospect before the close of the Sessions of any thing being done in the Matter be assured that I shall propose it.

Congress some time since by Resolution authorized me to appoint a Commissioner for Indian affairs in the northern Department and I wrote to Gen. P. Schuyler desiring him to recommend me a proper Person for the purpose and have not yet been favored with his answer; as you purpose to be present at the Treaty I am very willing should you not conceive incompatible with your Office as a Delegate or should it not in other Respects be inconvenient in this or disagreeable to you, to appoint you, otherwise if Gen. P. Schuyler & yourself would be good enough to recommend another fit Person and I will immediately make out the appoint't. While on the Subject of Indian affairs I take the Liberty of inclosing you resolutions of the Legislature with a Request to lay them before the Commissioners. They sufficiently explain themselves and would wish the Commissioners would comply the Request of the Legislature.

I shall desire the Speaker to write to Mr. Livingston as I ought to be informed of the Terms he is willing to engage upon with the Person he wants to construct his Slitting Mill, and as soon as I am furnished with this Information I will immediately write to Governor Livingston respecting the Matter. The Humble Petition of the Inhabitants of the County of Charlotte Humbly Sheweth; That, Whereas, by the late Depredations made by the Enemy on the Frontier part of this State, whereby the Inhabitants of this County are greatly Reduced and whereas we are apprehensive of the Enemy, Peticularly the Disaffected People that went to Canada, and the Indians, will make some Incursions on the Frontiers Early in the Spring.

And, whereas, the Inhabitants are in a most Deplorable Condition for want of the necessary support of Life and will be daily

Employed in Procuring the same whereby they will not be able to spend their time, to Pursue the necessary measures to defeat the Enemies Designs as usual,

And, whereas, it will be productive of Bad Consequences if any of the Inhabitants should unfortunately fall a victim to the savage Crew, as it would not only Depopulate the Frontiers, But also put all the Inhabitants of the County in the Greatest Confusion, I am, therefore, Requested by the Inhabitation of said County to pray, That your Excellency will adopt some mode whereby the minds of the People may be Quieted. Squair Rea's, 23d February 1778.

Worthy Sir, I herein presume to address your Excellency to acquaint you, that as I am out of Employment at this Time, and wou'd very willingly accept of a Place in the Service, for which reason I make bold to apply to your Excellency for that purpose, and if it is consistant with your Honour to appoint or assist me into some Place in our Army, I shall take it as an Honour conferred on me and as a favour not to be forgotten.

The Places I have more particularly in view is that of a Quartermaster, or Paymaster to a Regiment and I humbly conceive, that by being placed in some such Station, it wou'd enable me to be of more extensive usefulness to my Country, and also to myself than in the Station I now am in, but concerning this I wou'd just refer your Excellency to Matthew Rea Esqr. COERCION OR COAXING.

Colonel Taylor Wishes to Resort to Violent Measures, But the Gentle Hand of Clinton Restrains Him.

New Burgh 24th Febr. 1778.

S'r, I am under the Necessity of addressing your Excellency on a subject of much importance to the Publick service. Some Considerable time ago I applied to the Committee of Orange, for a number of Teams to be held in Readiness, with Conductors appointed, when Called on to forward Stores to the Grand Army.

To the above I Received an answer Yesterday, a Copy of which I have the Honour to Inclose to your Excellency. By the Tenor of Maj'r Moffet's Letter, it appears to me that the Committee of Orange, Consider themselves, as Exempted from Publick service, under pretence of furnishing materials Teems, Forage &c. for Obstructing the River, and it seems they have the sanction of the Legislature to support them therein.

I Beg your Excellency will inform me if that is the Case, that I may know how to Justify myself to the General, for not Complying with his Positive Orders, and in Duty which is Essential to the Army. Ulster County has done all the Service of this Quarter During the winter, and not in a Capacity of doing much more at this Time. Could I with any Degree of Reason call upon them, when their Neighbors have Contributed nothing? Your Excellency is not Unsensible of several methods I have taken, for the Good of the service; and Ease of the Inhabitants. I am still willing to spend and be spent in the Cause. Notwithstanding I am furnished with a warrant from the Convention of this state in the following words Viz; by a Resolve of the Convention of the state of N. York Impowering the Q. M'r Genrl. and his agents to Impress Drivers, Horses, Waggon, Oxen, Carts, and every other Cariage that may be for the Use of the Continental Army, Signed

Jno. McKesson, Sec.

At the same time I would do nothing Contrary to your Excellency's inclination. I hope you will furnish me with the means of getting Teems. at this time there is upward of Thirty Loads of Cloathing here and no Store to put them in. The Dock full of salt, and we are Deprived of Getting any thing stored at Kickmans as the small pox is in every House there.

I with impatience wait your Directions—and have the Honour to be your Excellency's Most Ob't Hu'le Serv't And'w Taylor D. Q. M. G.

Governour Clinton.

P. S. Kind Compliments to Lady Clinton.

The 21st before I Received the Inclosed I Requested 100 Teams, on Receiving this I wrote for 40. I dont Expect to be supplied with any, Poughkeepsie 24th Feb'y 1778.

Sir, I am this Moment favoured with your Letter of equal Date. I dont doubt in the least but you have done every Thing in your Power to serve the Public & have at the same Time endeavoured as much as in you lay, to distress the Inhabitants as little as possible. You must nevertheless be sensible they have been much distressed. It is a heavy Tax on this State to be the Common Carriers of the Army which you know has been the Case with the People in your Quarter this year past, besides being obliged to furnish their proportion of Teams for the Northern Expedition & every other Service. What adds much to their distress is being obliged to go with their Loads through the State of New Jersey to Eastown & often farther, & to accept of Certificates instead of Cash for pay.

I am however heartilly disposed to give you every Aid in my Power to impower you to impress. I am not authorized by Law. This the Legislature only can do & I am perswaded they will not if the Teams & Forrage are wanting for the Works in the Highlands as it is their Duty in a more particular manner to promote that Business as the safety of the State immediately depends on their being compleated in Season. Some other Mode must be adopted to procure Teams. I am perswaded the Country will not submit to the present as it is most unjust & unequal, the Inhabitants living near the different Posts being subject to the whole Burthen, others a little remote, pass without contributing in the least towards it. I am Your Friend & Most Obed't Serv't

Sir, I am favoured with your Letter of this Date. I am extremely sorry to learn that the Supplies of Provisison you are able to afford are so small as they were designed to relieve the most pressing Wants of the Army under the immediate Command of his Excellency General Washington, but even as they are, I must begg you will without a Moment's Delay forward them thither. The Slays which may be wanted to transport the Pork shoud be immediately procured in the Neighbourhood &

I wish you could enlarge the Number of Cattle on Hand by new Purchases & forward them also if they can be possibly spared without the Troops at Fishkill thereby suffering; & pray advise me immediately when you shall have forwarded this or any other Supply to Head Quarters in Consequence of my application, that I may advise the Genl. thereof. Congress Continues to Manifest its Confidence in Governor Clinton.

York Town, 24th Feby. 1778.

Sir, My last to Your Excellency was dated the 19th Inst, & went by Messenger Brown.

Yesterday I had the honour of presenting Your Excellency's favour of the 3d Inst. to Congress. The importance of the necessary works for obstructing the passes of North River & the near approach of the time when it may be in the power of the Enemy to oppose all our attempts awaken reflections truly alarming.

In the Letter above referred to, was inclosed an Act of Congress of the 18th Inst. authorizing & requesting Your Excellency to superintend & quicken the dispatch of that business & Congress still flatter themselves with an assurance that through Your Excellency's influence & exertions the whole intended work will be completed. I will take the liberty of reminding the House this very day of those essential articles Engineers & proper Artillery—in the meantime, in order to guard against accidents I judge it necessary to forward duplicates of the said Act & of the Warrant for fifth Thousand Dollars which Your Excellency will find within. I have the honour to be With very great Regard Sir Your Excellency's Most obedient hum. serv't

THE CASE OF COLONEL BIRDSALL.

General Parsons Forwards Correspondence to Governor Clinton—Work on the Defences Proceeding With Spirit.

Robinson's Feb'y [24] 1778.

Dear Sir, Inclos'd are some Letters receiv'd from N. York. Birdsall may not be worth attending to; I Know very little of him but as he was intrusted with a Flagg from the Commanding Officer here I think some attention ought to be paid to his Case for the Honor of the Officer whose Authority is Slighted By the Detention of the Flagg. I have therefore wrote to Genl. Clinton on the Subject, a Copy is Inclos'd, if you think it necessary to add your weight it may perhaps release an unhappy man from confinement.

We have the Works going on, now, with some order & Spirit. 1000 Sticks of Timber are cutt & many got out of ye mountains. I believe I shall this week have them mostly drawn to the Place where the Fort is to be built: and about 1000 or 1500 Fascines if the Weather proves favourable to our Designs.

A few more Teams we wish for, but are most distres'd for Forage, 'till to Day we have had none & now but a very small Quantity. I intend tomorrow to visit ye Iron works & find ye Situation of the chain, after which I will wait on your Excellency at Poughkeepsie. I am y'r Excellency's Obed't Serv't

GENERAL PARSONS TO SIR HENRY CLINTON.

Highland 23d Feb'y 1778.

Sir, I have lately rec'd an application from Mr. Benja. Bird-sall of the State of New York who went under the Sanction of a Flagg to Long Island, and has been confind as a Prisoner in N. York, contrary to the Laws of war, and the establish'd custom of Nations. The Reasons of his confinement as assignd by commissary Loring are an Order of L'd Howe publish'd sometime last Summer that no Flaggs of Truce should be permitted between Connecticut & Long Island, and the Detention of one David Rice at Fairfield who was Pilot to a Flagg of Truce from New York to N. Haven.

The first of these Reasons seems to have been mentiond by way of Jest & Divertion, as since the Publication of this order several Flaggs have gone from Connec'tt to Long Island & from Long Island to Connecticut without molestation, the Design of the Order having evidently ceased. I cannot tell, Sir, what construction is put upon this conduct in New York, but in the View of common Sense it is an open & abundantly Sufficient Revocation of L'd Howe's Prohibition, especially as the Practice of sending Flaggs from the prohibited Places was first recommenced by yourselves.

Rice the Person detain'd & now requested as a Ransom for Birdsall, escaped from Goal in Fairfield where he was confin'd for the Perpetration of an act not only infamous, but felonious in the View of every civilized nation. I need not Suggest to you, Sir, the total Impropriety of honoring such a Villain with the Protection of a Flagg nor the entire Rectitude of seising him whenever or wherever he might be found.

In addition to this the Flagg on board which Rice was, without any Reason or even Pretence, came into the Harbour of Fairfield, when their Destiny & Limits were singly New Haven; for this Transgression the Vessel & men might have been justly seised: But we are not punctilious and would rather err, if it be an Error, on ye Side of Benevolence. But, Sir, were Rice's crimes, character and first Imprisonment buried in Oblivion and the man by a magical Spell restord to the Reputation of Honesty, nothing can be more improper or unjust than the Detention of Mr. Birdsall by way of Retaliation for the imprisonment of Rice. Rice was seis'd by the order & authority of the State of Connec'tt. Birdsall receivd his Flagg from the commanding Officer of this Post, Departments, as you very well know Sir, totally distinct & unconnected; nor is it in the Power, were it ever so agreeable to the Inclination, of the Officer Commanding here to release Rice as he is responsible solely to the Laws & civil magistracy of that State.

For these Reasons, Sir, you will not wonder that I think it my indispensable Duty to make a Requisition of Mr. Birdsall. Were it possible, as I am not will to beleive it is, that Such a Villain as Rice a Felon taken in the piratical act of runing away with a Sloop & Corgoe, a man who the Interest of mankind and the universal opinion of refind nations condemns to the Gallows, could if known, be patriniz'd by a Person of the Rank & Character of Sir H. Clinton, yet it is exceedingly evident that the Act of Retaliation ought by no means to be directed to Mr. Birdsall.

I flatter myself therefore that upon the Receipt of this orders will be immediately given for his liberation and Return. I am &c.

S. H. Parsons.

Lt. Genl. Clinton.

THE MILITIA TO BE DRAFTED.

Congress Proceeds to Vigorous Measures to Replete Decimated Battalions.

In Congress Feb'y 26th 1778.

Whereas, the well being and safety of these states require, that a powerful army be early brought into the field, effectually to oppose and defeat the public enemies thereof, and, whereas, by the actual invasion of some of the said states, and the local circumstances of others, it would be inexpedient and unreasonable to draw forth, from all of them, their full proportion of the continental battallions, according to the establishment heretofore settled and apportioned in Congress;

That all persons drafted, shall serve in the continental battallions of their respective states, for the space of nine months, from the time they shall respectively appear at the several places of rendezvous hereafter mentioned, unless sooner discharged.

That it be recommended to the several states to appoint officers to superintend the making and forwarding the said drafts, and to direct such superintendants, to procure compleat lists of the men drafted, with a description of their persons, their age, stature, the places of their abode, and the regiment and company, from which they shall have been drafted, and to forward the same to the commissioners hereafter mentioned, who shall transmit an exact copy thereof to the commander in chief.

And to the end the commissioners may be enabled the better to execute their business, and the men, drafted as aforesaid, may be sent to the said places of rendezvous with the greater safety and expedition;

Resolved, That it be recommended to the several states to require their several militia officers, by whom any men shall have been drafted, to deliver to the said superintendants such descriptive lists of the men by them respectively drafted, for the purpose aforesaid; and further, to direct the said superintendants to make similar lists of the men by them, from time to time, sent to the said places of rendezvous, and take receipts for such men upon the said lists, from such officers, as they shall appoint to conduct them as aforesaid, and forward copies of such lists and receipts to the said commissioners.

That it be recommended to each of the said states to appoint one or more commissioners to reside at the said places of rendezvous, for the purpose of receiving the drafts of their respective states, and delivering them over to the continental officers, who may be appointed by the commander in chief, there to receive them; and further, to direct their respective commissioners to give receipts, for such drafted men, as shall be delivered to them, and make out such descriptive lists, as aforesaid, of the men by them, from time to time, delivered over to such continental officers, and take receipts thereon from them, and transmit copies of such lists and receipts to the commander in chief:

That it be recommended to the several states to make provision for their drafted men, upon their march to the said places of rendezvous; and that the states be allowed for such subsistence, one twenty-fourth part of a dollar per mile, for each man actually marching to the said places of rendezvous, and no more.

Resolved, That all the drafts from the New England states shall rendezvous at Fishkill, on Hudson's river; those of New York, at Easton, in the state of Pennsylvania; those of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland, at camp; those of Virginia, at Alexandria and Sheppard's town in the same state; and those of North Carolina, at Pitsylvania court house, and Petersburg, in Virginia, unless otherwise directed by the commander in chief.

Resolved, That every person, drafted as aforesaid, who shall supply himself with a good firelock and bayonet, a cartouch box, haversack, or blanket, and shall, at the expiration of the term of his service, produce to the proper paymaster a certificate from his captain, or other commanding officer of his company, that he hath been constantly provided therewith, shall receive, for the use of his firelock, bayonet and cartouch box, two dollars, and for the use of his blanket, four dollars, and in a like proportion, for any or either of them; and in case any of the said articles shall be lost, or rendered useless in the service, without the negligence or fault of the proprietor, he shall be paid the value thereof.

Resolved, That all persons, in whatever way procured, for supplying the deficiencies in the continental batallions, unless inlisted for three years, or during the war, be considered as drafts; and that it be recommended to the several states to exert themselves to procure recruits for their respective continental batallions, by inlistments for three years, or during the war, and that the drafts from the respective states be discharged in proportion, as such recruits, from the said states, shall join the army.

And whereas experience hath proved, that no confidence can be placed in prisoners of war, or deserters from the enemy, who inlist into the continental army, but many losses and great mischiefs have frequently happened by them; therefore,

Resolved, That no prisoners of war, or deserters from the enemy, be inlisted, drafted or returned, to serve in the continental army.

Arrangements for the Transfer of Prisoners.

In Congress; Feb'y 26th 1778.

Whereas, it appears to Congress, by the copy of a letter from general Washington to general Howe of the 10th of this month, that he has consented to the propositions of general Howe to the following effect; "That an exchange of all prisoners, now in our possession, officer for officer, soldier for soldier, and citizen for citizen, so far as number and rank will apply, be carried into execution as expeditiously as the nature of the case will admit, and without regard to any controverted point, which might prove an impediment to so desirable an end;"

And, whereas, by a resolution of Congress of the 19th of Dec'r last, a release of prisoners, in the power of these states, cannot take place, before the account of all provisions and other necessaries, which have been supplied by the public to such prisoners, are liquidated and discharged;

And, whereas, it is the wish of Congress to accomplish the desirable purpose of exchanging the prisoners without unnecessary delay;

Resolved, That an express be sent to the several legislatures, or supreme executive authorities of the respective states, for such accounts of money, provisions and other necessaries, which they have supplied to prisoners taken by the United States, since the commencement of the war, as have not been already transmitted to Congress; That they be requested to make up the said accounts to the first day of March next, and transmit them as speedily as possible to the commissioners of claims at the board of Treasury; That the accounts of each state, from New Hampshire to Virginia inclusively, be sent to the said commissioners on or before the 15th day of April next, and of the other states, on or before the first day of June next; and that the respective states sustain the losses, which may arise, from detaining such accounts longer than the time herein allowed them for rendering the same.

Resolved, That all officers in the departments of the quarter master, pay master and cloathier general, and commissaries of provisions and prisoners, the commissioners of accounts, and other officers, who may have accounts, or charges of money, provisions, or other necessaries, in their respective offices, for supplies furnished the said prisoners, be directed to send such accounts to the commissioners of claims at the board of treasury, on or before the 15th day of April next, and that they respectively sustain the losses that may arise from a neglect thereof.

That the commissioners of claims be directed to prepare the said accounts for adjustment without delay, and that no exchange of prisoners be made, until the balance, due to the United States, is discharged.

Cherry Valley Petitions for Rangers Under Competent Officers to Guard the State's Frontier.

The Petition of the Inhabitants in Cherry Valley & the Adjacent Settlements Humbly Sheweth,

That notwithstanding your Excellency & the Honour's Senators & Assembly, reciv'd a petition from the Reverend William Johnston, which we are not certain has been answered, for Granting a Number of Troops or Raingers, to Guard the frontiers of the Western part of this Sate; We, your Petitioners, Earnestly desire your Excellency to take our deplorable Situation into Consideration, as we have repeated informations & doubt not but it's from Good authority, of the preparations the Tories & Indians are making at Yunadilla & Augquaga, where they have recourse to the whole of the Old England District for their supplies, Brant and his warriors are prepareing to pay us a Visit, which We fear will be shortly, as it is but about 40 miles march for them; some Families are leaveing their Farms & moving down into the Country, and we have Great reason to fear it will be the Case with us, or fall a pray to their Savage Barbarities, We do not Petition your Excellency through Timidity, but have sufficient Grounds for our desires. As we are so well Acquainted With the Nature of the Savages as not to put any confidence in their Treaties, but it rather alarms us; Relying on your Excellency for our Imediate Relief, we are Resolved to be in duty bound to support your Government.

P. S. Should your Excellency be pleased to Conform to our Petition, Experience has taught us that our Safety depends much on Good Officers: We do not mean to dictate your Excellency; but presume to mention, that we are well acquainted with the Good Conduct as well as the abilities of Major Samuel Clyde, as to recommend him as a Genteelman that perhaps might be of Service in assisting your Excellency in the appointment of Officers.

GOVERNOR CLINTON PRESSES SUPPLIES FORWARD.

Vindicates the Apparent Indifference of New York and Pays Homage to the Greatness of Washington.

Gent. I have rec'd your fav'r of the 17th of Feb. last, acquainting me with the Distressed Situation of the army. That an American army in the Bosom of a fertile Country should be in Danger of disbanding for want of Provision is a very extraordinary Circumstance, & loudly calls for Inquiry.

His Excellency Gen. Washington has written to me on the same Subject, and I sh'd be extremely happy if the People of this State were as able as they are willing to afford the necessary supplies. Having been long the seat of war, it has been ravaged plundered & greatly exhausted. Supplies are drawn from it for both the middle & Eastern Dep'ts, between which the Commissaries consider Hudson's River as a Boundary. Besides, the Difficulty of obtaining Supplies has increased with the Difficulty of obtaining Paym't for them. The Troops collected on the west side of the River after the Reduction of Fort Montgomery, were subsisted by the Inhabitants, and they still remain unsatisfied, altho thier Accounts attested by the Quarter Master or issuing Commissary have long since been tentered to the Commissary of Purchases. The portion of the northern army which joined Gen. Washington when marching thro that country were subsisted & the Inhabitants treated in like manner.

Notwithstanding these Difficulties, a 100 Head of Cattle purchased on the w side of the River, & 150 Barrls of Pork are now on their way to Head Quarter and the most ample authority is granted to impress Teams & Carriages to transport a present supply of Provisions thither. The Interest which this State has in the success of the American cause, and I may add attachment the People have to the Commander in Chief, will excite them to the most vigorous Exertions for the Relief of his army. I wish I could give you assurance of further supplies, but I fear the exhausted state of the country will not admit of them. Permit me to assure you however that my Endeavours to obtain them shall be unremitted. I am Gent. &c.

Congress Undertakes to Raise a Cavalry Corps.

IN CONGRESS,

March 2, 1778.

Whereas it is essential to the operations of the army, during the next campaign, that the most vigorous measures should forthwith be adopted for forming a body of horse, upon such principles, as are most likely to advance the public interest and the honour of the officers and men who compose the same; And, whereas, in times of public danger, when the lives, liberties and property of a free people are threatened by a foreign and barbarous enemy, it is the duty of those, who enjoy, in a peculiar degree, the gifts of fortune and of a cultivated understanding, to stand forth in a disinterested manner in the defence of their country, and by a laudable example to rouse and animate their countrymen to deeds worthy of their brave ancestors and of the sacred cause of freedom;

Resolved, That it be earnestly recommended to the young gentlemen of property and spirit in the States of New-Hampshire, Massachusetts-Bay, Rhode-Island, Connecticut, New-York, New-Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and North-Carolina forthwith to constitute within their respective States, a troop or troops of light cavalry to serve at their own expence (except in the article of provisions for themselves, and forage for their horses) until the 31st December next:

That each troop so to be raised consist of not less than twenty nor more than Sixty rank and file; that they have a right to chuse their own officers, who shall receive continental commissions, and that they rendezvous at the main army on the first day of May next, or at an earlier period, if possible:

That, in order to excite a proper spirit of emulation in these troops, and to give them an opportunity of appropriating that fame, which their respective merits entitled them to, during the campaign, each troop shall bear the name of the State in which it was raised:

That these troops, when raised, shall not serve as expresses, except in time of action, nor as escorts to the person of any General, except that of the Commander of the army with whom they serve, unless with their own choice:

That every horse, which shall be killed, and every horse and all arms and accoutrements, which shall be taken, by the enemy in action, shall be paid for by the United States; the value to be ascertained under the direction of the Commander in Chief; and all booty taken from the enemy shall belong to the troop, by whom it shall be taken.

Resolved, That it be recommended to the government of the respective States, to countenance and encourage this design; and that the Board of War transmit to them forthwith copies of the foregoing resolutions together with a descriptive list of the accoutrements necessary for man and horse.

COLONEL MALCOM UTTERS A SERIES OF WAILS.

Condemns Commissary Boudinot's Policy of Purchasing 20,000 Bushels of Wheat for Prisoners in New York.

Walkkill, March 3rd 1778

Dear Governor,

Altho' I promise myself of seeing you in Three or four days, yet a matter which I have accidentally mett with induces me to take this opportunity of troubling you with a letter.

Mr. Adams, the bearer hereof, is charged with a Commission by his principal (Mr. Boudinot) to purchase the great Quantity of 20,000 bushels of wheat, & to send it to New York. The ill policy of such a measure is so very obvious that I hope it will be discountenanced in this state; its justfyd by the necessity of paying for the Cloathing purchased by the Pintards for our Prisoners.

No doubt, it was expected an opposition woud be made to so striking an absurdity & therefore it was necessary to hold an argument up that woud most likely operate on ye humanity of the Country,—but suppose a debt is due,—Where are Burgoyne's bills for supplys to his troops, and also the Commissarys in Pensyl'a.

In short, I believe it a Tory trick,—I have reasons for thinking so—from the Disposition of the party & their conduct in many respects.

At all Events the Credit of neither the Country nor Mr. Pintard can suffer much, by a few weeks delay, which from the nature of the late Regulation of Congress will enable out Commissarys of Prisoners, to pay them by Supplys in the Country to the English prisoners.

Such a Quantity of Grain will not only be of great use to the enemy at the opening of the Campaign but will affect our own magazines, which its high time to attend to. I am much mistaken if the enemy do not visit this Quarter very early in the spring.

I had some letters from camp dated the 21st ulto.—deserters come in, in numbers from P——a—but many of ours go there, driven thro' the want of Cloathing, & Provisions—which last article is only scarce by neglect of the Banditti employd in that Dept.—nor is the Cloathin much better attended to—it woud seem that Congress only had in view by their appointments, the making of great fortunes, to new converted Torys or Blockheads.

The returns of my regt. the 19th of Feb., bears only 10 men out of 200 (or near it) fit for duty—this is enough to make a musleman turn Christian—it puts one mad—I know it might be otherwise.

Its just told me that the enemys fleet are near Haverstraw, where I know a magazine of Grain was collecting;—I hope its removed. Genl. Parsons must take care; Father Putnam is not here now to bear the blame—its said here you have wrote for troops from the G. Army—if so & they come, probably my late Regt. will compose a part of them. My most respectfull Comp'ts to your Lady & family & believe me to be with due regard, Sir your much oblidge and very Hble. Serv't

FLOUR SMUGGLED TO THE ENEMY.

New York State Thoroughly Drained of Supplies—An Indifferent Commissary—The New Northern Expedition.

Poughkeepsie 4th March 1778.

Dear Sir, I was favoured with the Receipt of your Letter of the 17th Ultimo a few Days since. The deplorable Situation of our Army gives me great Pain & Anxiety of Mind. By my Letter to you & the other Gentlemen of the Committee of Congress, you will be informed of the Steps I have taken to forward a present Supply of Meat to the Grand Army. It will not be a large one, that is utterly out of my Power to afford. It is however the most I can. The Commissaries of the Grand & Northern Army have purchased large Quantities of Cattle in this State during the Course of last Campaign; this together with the Supplies furnished Putnam's Army has drained the State of that Article. Flour we yet have in Tollerable Plenty, but it is going like Snow before the Sun. It is amazing to think of the vast Quantities that are taken Eastward. It is impossible that it should be consumed by the Few Troops we have there or by the Inhabitants. It must be for Exportation, & tho I have no positive Evidence of the Fact, I have nevertheless Reason to believe it has found the Way across the Sound to Long Island & to Nantucket & from thence to the Enemy. But even tho in this I should be mistaken, that it is sent abroad is certain and this may in the End be as fatal to us as the other, tho the Commission of it not quite so wicked. In this State we will not reap near as much Grain the ensuing Harvest as we did last & next year, not half as much. This decrease accompanied with moderate Exportation will produce a Famine or I am greatly mistaken.

I have mentioned in my Letter to the Committee the necessity of taking proper Measures for paying off the public Debts in this Quarter. Let me begg you to interest yourself in having it effected. The Army on the West Side of the River as well as the Troops which marched from the Northern Army to Join Genl. Washington were subsisted on Credit. The Meal in the Mills near the River was taken & delivered, the issuing Commissaries for this Purpose, & Cattle from the Farmers, for which they have Certificates only, & these are in such bad Credit that they may be purchased at half their specific Value. The Commissary of Purchases on the East Side of the River says, he has nothing to do with the Troops on the West Side & we dont even know the Commissary's Name for the West Side, even Curiosity has never led him to see the River or the Troops for which he ought to feed.

Inclosed you have the Rank Roll of the five New York Regiments as made by the Committee of the late Convention, with such alteration as have since to my Knowledge taken Place; there may be many other Changes and doubtless there are, which I am unacquainted with as it has not been in my Power to obtain the Returns of the three Regiments you mention as they now stand. I am not able to point out all the Officers of Merrit, having special little Knowledge of Van Schaik's & Gansevoort's Officers. I therefore think it best not to venture on the Task least I should do Injustice. I would just observe to you that the Arrangement made by the present Rank Roll is much complained of by many valuable Officers as unjust, & I fear there is but too much Reason for such Complaints.

I wish to God I could tell you that our Tax Bill, Militia Bill & many other Important ones which I need not mention were in better forwardness. The Legislature has been sitting for two Months & hitherto have only passed a few Bills of little public Importance. The Members pay but indifferent attendance, & I have Reason to fear they will break up before those Laws, which are absolutely necessary for the Peace & safety of the State, can be completed.

I trust you had no great Hand in planning the intended Northern Expedition. As Matters now stand, it will at least have answered some good Purpose. Old Debts will be paid, the Troops Cloathed a Department most horridly deranged, reduced to a Degree of order.

I am requested by Congress to take upon me the Superintendance & Direction of the Works for the Security of Hudson's River, and to enable me to expedite this Important Business I am favoured with a Draft for 50000 Dollars on the Treasury in Albany, & authorized for the same Purpose to draw Monies out of the Military Chest. Did Congress know there was not a Farthing in the Albany Treasury & that empty as it is, charged with a Prior Draft in Favour of the Quarter Master Genl's Department for 150000 Dollars & that the Military Chest is not Competent for the Payment of the Arrears Due to the Troops up to the 1st of Jan'y.

This is the Case. Even at the Risque of my Reputation, I am willing to assist in this Important Service. & I will therefore devote every Leisure Hour to it but it is now too late to mend a bad Days Work & I cannot be answerable for the Completion of the Works in due Season. Jay & Livingston are here in good Health & Spirits & wish to be remembered to you. Adieu believe me yours Sincerely.

Geo. Clinton.

[To Gouverneur Morris or James Duane.]

P. S. The following Officers are desirous of resigning & have made Application to me for that Purpose & I promised to write to Congress on the Occasion, you'd be good enough therefore to mention this Matter to Congress which will save me the Trouble of writing.

Stephen Hooper lives near the Round Lake in Saratoga Patent, about 6 miles from the River; he is charged with Dispatches from Gov'r Guy Carlton & Sir John Johnson to New York which were secreted in the heels of his shoes; he set out for that place but whether he reached it or returned I have not been unable [able] to learn.

The most of the other persons ment'd in the list live in New Town in your County. I have also to Inform you, that the same persons who have made the discovery respect'g these people, Inform me that a certain Esquire Campbell, who lives upon the Road lead'g from Schenectady to Balls Town, of a Brown Complexion and, supposed to be a Scotchman, about two months since forwarded a Letter from Sir John Johnson to Newtown by Joseph Concklin, an Elderly man living at that place.

I am, therefore, to request, that you will cause the persons whose Names are contained in this list, together with the s'd Campbell and Concklin, to be Immediately apprehended, to enable you to do which, you must apply to the Commanding officer at Albany, who will undoubtedly furnish the Troops Necessary for that purpose. It will be Necessary to charge the officer who will have this command to make particular enquiries after other Confederates in that Quarter as I am informed there are about 50 Concerned. NEW YORK'S RESOURCES EXHAUSTED.

Incompetence of Commissaries—Need of Ready Cash—Necessity of a Prohibition Law.

Poughkeepsy, 4th March 1778.

Sir, I was hon'd with yours of the 10th Ulto. covering a resolution of Congress. I wish it was in my power to give full answers to the questions you put, relative to the conduct of the purchasing Commissaries & the resources of this State; as to the first I know of but one in the state, to wit, Mr. Cuyler in the northern department. The Commissary for the midle department is a Mr. Colt, who resides in Connecticut, of his abilities or conduct I know very Little. On the west side of the river the country has been drained of provisions & saturated with certificates to be paid by the commissaries who reside at Head Quarters for the supply of the [Nor]thern army. If any faults are to be attributed to our purchasing Commissaries, they arrise from their not laying up large magazines in proper season & acting only upon the spur of the occasion. But I can not pretend to judge how far they are to be censured on this account, without knowing their orders & the means they had of complying with them. Very considerable supplies of flour might have been procured in this State, had the Commissary been empowered to pay the market price; all attempts to reduce that ever have, & I fear, ever will be idle & visionary & only operate as temporary checks to industry & commerce.

A Letter which I did my self the honour to write to Mr. Lee as one of the Committee to confer with the board of war will explain some of the causes of the present alarming deficientcy. There is still much flour in this State, & if measures are immediately taken considerable supplies of that article may still be procured for ready money—tho' great quantities are daily going to the eastern states. This, considering the uncertainty of the enemies motions, might upon the whole be attended with salutary consequences, if we were sure that it remained among them. But we have long supposed, & with too much reason, that the enemy receive considerable supplies thro that channel, more particularly as the trade with Nantucket is unrestrained & the high price of salt, renders it extreamly profitable. Perhaps a law prohibiting the exportation of provisions of any sort, would have beneficial effects, for they can not be water borne on any pretext whatever without encreasing our wants, & afford'g both by design & accident, large supplies to the enemy. No beef or pork can be procured in this State, owing to the loss of part of it, & the great quantities that have been furnished to the army during the course of the war. Wheat is the only Staple of that part of the State which has had leisure to attend to husbandry.

Inclosed you have a List* of the Officers appointed in the Continental Army by the State, some of the Persons named therein did not accept, some have resigned & others appointed in their Room. I have marked such of the Changes as have come to my knowledge. This Rank Roll is much complained of by many of the officers. I am &c.

APPALLING SUFFERING AT VALLEY FORGE.

Governor Clinton, However, Promises Colonel Cortlandt That Soon the Troops Will Be Better Provided.

Camp, Valley Forge, Feb'y 13, 1778.

Sir, About the 12th of Jan'y last, (after Hutting my men) I made application to his Excellency Genl. Washington, for lieve of absence in Order to Settle the accounts of my regt. and to purchase Clothing for my men, but Could not obtain lieve as Colo. Weisenfels was absent. Since his Return three days ago, I apply'd again and was put off untill the New Regulations of the army takes place, which the General Informs me will be in a few Days but as it is uncertain when I Shall obtain a Furlough, must beg lieve to Request of your Excellency to order the Clothing (or a part), now in your State Store, to be sent to Camp for the 2d and 4th York Regts; for it is beyond Description to Conceive what the men Suffer, for want of Shoes, Stockings, Shirts, Breeches and Hats. I have upwards of Seventy men unfit for Duty, only for want of the articles of Clothing; Twenty of which have no Breeches at all, so that they are obliged to take their Blankets to Cover their Nakedness, and as many without a Single Shirt, Stocking or Shoe; about Thirty fit for Duty; the Rest Sick or lame, and God knows it wont be long before they will all be laid up, as the poor Fellows are obliged to fitch wood and water on their Backs, half a mile with bare legs in Snow or mud.

Least your Excellency shuld Conceive I had not made timely application, I beg lieve to Observe, that I procured at Albany all the Clothing I Could get, which fell Short of what was wanting; as I Could git no Breeches, Shirts, Shoes, or Hats, I then Sent to the Convention for the articles wanting, but have Rec'd only thirteen pair Breeches, and Some Shoes, which are now worn out; this was all I got from them, Notwithstanding was Inform'd that Several Hund'd pair of Leather Breeches &c. &c. was Delivered to the Two Northern Regiments, who are in great want; it Seams to keep their Thighs from Scorching this winter in their warm Barracks.

I have made Repeated applications and Sent Officers to no purpose. I am much at a loss to know the True reason of this neglect, but must Conclude they think us not Deserving; perhaps it may be said the Regiment is in debt and for that Reason will not Supply us—which to me is a very poor Reason, when they Consider in what manner I have been Employed, and will further add that I was obliged to Defer the Settlement last Nov'r for want of Cash and time to do it. When I left Peekskill for this army I had Five months pay Due, which I have Rec'd at this place, and have made the proper Stopages for a Settlement which I do Intend Shall take place on my Coming up to the State—the Convention perhaps think, that a Regt. Continually on Command and actual Service, that has marched in one Campaign Upwards of Twelve Hund'd Miles, Can at all times be Ready to pay their Debts and Settle their accounts, as well as those who lay in Quarters and always Ready to Receive their pay. However I know it has been Impossible for me to do it. I have much more to Say, but Shall not longer Intrude on your patience; Only beg lieve to Recommend me to your Self and good Family wishing you all Hapiness am with Great Respect,

Your Obt. Hum's Ser't,

Philip Cortlandt.

Sir, Before I received your Letter of the 13th Febry. ultimo I had given an order to Capt'n Ryker of your Regt., on the Commissary of Cloathing for the articles he returned wanted. I am sorry however to Inform you that from the low state of the store as returned to me by Mr. Henry, you will be able to receive but a very small proportion of the articles ordered (shirts excepted); the business of Cloath'g our Troops has hitherto been too much neglected. It is but within a few days since they have been in the least subject to my order and now indeed only in the Issuing of them. Measures are taking for acquiring a fresh supply, and I would fain hope the Troops will be soon better provided; and you may rest assured that however matters may have been hitherto mismanaged, I shall take care that an equal and fair Distribution of the Cloathing be made in the future among the Regiments. I am Sir with great regard Your Most Obed't Ser't

DEFENCES AT WEST POINT.

Governor Clinton in General Charge, by Order of the Board of War—Kosciuszko Ordered There.

At a Board of War March 5th 1778.

Present General Gates Presid't Col. Pickering, Mr. Peters.

The Board taking into consideration the Letters & Papers referred to them relative to the Posts on the North River & the obstructions & Works to be made & erected under the Directions of Governor Clinton, with the Assistance of General Putnam and the troops under his Command, came to the following Determinations, in Vertue of Authority vested in them by Congress, in Addition to the Resolves of Congress on this Subject, which, as well as the Directions of this Board are to be transmitted to General Putnam & Governor Clinton for their Government:

1. That the Plans of the Forts & Batteries to be erected, be left to the Discretion of Governor Clinton, as no Doubt they are best calculated for the Situation of the Posts taken, & the Board have the greatest confidence in the Judgment of the Gentlemen concerned in this Bussiness, & on this consideration they ratify & confirm all orders given & Measures taken by Governor Clinton or General Putnam for the Defence of the North River & all Matters incidental thereto, expressing however the Apprehensions of the Board, that the Plan is rather extensive for the Time & Number of Troops, & desiring that if possible Timber may be used for reveting the Works if it can be procured without Delay. The floating Batteries to be left 'till the last, not being of so immediate consequence however finally useful they may prove. The Appointment of Captain Machin, to superintend the making the Chain &c. is particularly meant to be included in the Ratification of General Putnam's Orders.

2. That Col. La Radiere accomodate his plans & Mode of constructing the Batteries & Forts, to the Nature of the Country and Materials, Time & Number of Men; in all which he is absolutely to be directed by Governor Clinton or the Commanding Officer of the Army in which he acts who are best acquainted with these circumstances.

3. That it will be improper for Col. Radiere to command the Troops, as he ought to confine himself to the Bussiness of an Engineer only this being the Case with other Engineers who have never had command but over each other according to their Ranks.

4. That Col. Kosciuszko be directed to repair to the Army under General Putnam, to be employed as shall be thought proper in his Capacity of an Engineer.

Horatio Gates, President.

TORY PLOTS AND DISAFFECTION IN ALBANY COUNTY.

Riotous Demonstrations in the Northern Section—Tories Flogged by Patriotic Americans.

discoveries were made by the Committee last Summer from such hints, we thought it our duty to endeavor to find out the author, and after making every possible enquiry in a private manner to no effect, it was agreed by the Committee together with the Marquiss De Lafayette to whom we communicated the affair to have the Persons mentioned in the Letter with their Papers secured, in hopes to extort a Confession from some of them, or make farther discoveries from their Papers. Mr. Cuyler, Jolly, and the Schoolmaster were apprehended, and seperately examined; they utterly denied their being, knowing or Privy to any Plots or Conspiracies against the Country and offered to swear to the same; in Consequence of which it was thought adviseable to permit them to return home. The Committee were in hopes that the apprehending of those Persons and releasing of them for want of Evidence, if no Proof could be had, would have been an inducement to the writer of the Letter to have stept forth and give the information in Person. John Duncan was released and his Papers delivered him; the Guard who went for Thurman not finding him at home, secured his Papers. Two Days after Thurman came to the Committee; after attending to many of his Circumlocutions with many protestations of his attachment to his Country's Cause, he was permitted to return. As no other proof could be Collected the Committee were induced to beleive that it was a fiction calculated to alarm and not inform. The Contents of a Letter from the Marquiss De Lafayette a Copy of which we enclose, No. 2, has caused us to alter our opinion and give Credit to our first information; we are however determined to keep the matter as Secret as possible, in hopes of farther discoveries, and if we should not succeed we would submit it, Sir, to you whether, it would not be adviseable to remove every suspected Person at the opening of the River from among us, whose Interest or influence may be dangerous to the States.

A number of Complaints have been made to us by Persons inhabiting Saratoga, Hosick and Cambridge Districts, setting forth that they were plundered of their property and otherwise ill treated by their neighbors, in Consequence of which the Committee made the enclosed Resolve No. 3, since which the Letter No. 4 came to Hand by Mr. Whiteside in Consequence of which the Resolutions No. 5, were made, a Variety of Complaints from Saratoga caused the Committee to write to the Chairman of that District the Letter No. 6.

We would beg the favour of your Excellency to favor us with your advise on those important matters.

We have the Honor to be with due Esteem your Excellency's Most Ob't Humble Serv'ts.

By order

John M. Beeckman Chairman P. T.

His Excellency Gov'r Clinton.

Since writing the above Deposition of Maes Van Beuren was taken, which corroborates with the other information before mentioned, we have sent for James Young and John, the Persons mentioned in Van Beuren's affidavit, and shall forward to your Excellency such intelligence as can be collected from them.

A British Officer and Doctor left this for New York some days ago; Andries Huyck and Walter Carpenter the Sleighman they have taken with them are great Enemies to our Country and as great Villains as any in it, the Committee would not have permitted them to have gone had they known it, Huyck was tried last Summer by the General Court Martial in this City; Carpenter was long confined in the Fleet Prison. We would suggest to your Excellency whether it would not be proper to have ~~them~~ apprehended and strictly examined at their return. It gives great umbrage to the Friends to our Cause that such Villians have an oppertunity of supplying themselves, while honest Men are obliged to suffer.

We are &c. By order

Sir, At one Jolly's, two Miles below this City you may find Papers of Consequence; at one Thurman's twenty Miles below, at one Holland's at Kinderhook over the River, at Mr. Cuyler's and a Schoolmaster's; a great many more are Leaders but not in my power to tell at present. The Plan is to burn your City, all your Stores and all your Mills, as soon as the River opens; great many Negroes are enlisted, Regular Soldiers, Tories. You may think little of this, but experience is better, if not too dear bought; you may if you will, take a good look out, find in your City recruiting Officers, Mind your Brittish Officers, Soldiers, Negroes, and Tories; trouble is nigh. I was one, but now decline; do not depend on your Goalers; put no Poor Man in Goal; only send them to York or to Boston. I wish you well, and Major Schermerhorn, but you will both be Murdered or taken and Captain Staats, by your own negroes and Neighbours, Colonel Rensselaer is to be a Prisoner; at Schonectaday one Duncan is one and one Captain Man in a place that I cannot remember is now in this Plot. Captain Man will join with many Tories and burn all the Sloops in the River.

Sir, By new intelligence I got in this place I find our Suspicious very far from being groundless. A Soldier who I think is a Spy has been taken up and examined by me Yesterday. It has been impossible to obtain a true Confession from that Man, but I can however assure you that there is a Conspiracy and an important one. Major Carleton, General's* own Nephew, was some days ago disguised in this Town and making preparations—two parties are gone on after him but I question much if they will be successful. I have been detained in this place for that business, and intend to go to night as far as Johnstown—two Companies of Van Schaick's Regt. will go to Schohary, where a number of true Rebels, Vizt. Rebels to the authority of the United States had designed to fix one of their Rendezvous. I hope I'll be back soon at Albany, where I'll have the Honor to confer with the Committee. My intention was only, Sir, in giving an account of what I had discovered, to put the Honourable Committee upon their Guard more than ever—perhaps some of you Gentlemen will be able to get intelligence which united with mine can bring us to a Certainty.

Gentlemen, On Tuesday last the Committee of this District met together, and whilst on business a Man appeared and informed us that a Party of Men had Collected together for some certain purposes, and just before night there came one James More, of Charlotte County, and forced himself into the Room where we sat on business, and appeared to be in a great passion, and after being asked what he wanted of the Committee He said he was Captain of a Mob that had Collected together, and went without orders or rule, and that they had flogged sundry damn'd Tories—at that Instant one Collins rushed into the Room and ordered the Committee to appear at the Door, being answered that we was on business, he repeated again that he was sent in to order us to the Door; he was asked what we were wanted for at the Door. He said we would find out when we would get there, and that we must go immediately; on which and hearing a great noise at the Door we opened it and saw two long Strings of Men with each a large long whip, with that some Person got in the Room gave a push and some stepped out, and as soon as we got out, Edmund Wells Jun. Repeated a long Harrangue Concerning the Tories; and we saw one Man they had Tied, in order to be whipp'd thro' the Guantlet as they called it; and on that we gave them advice to be Careful of their Conduct and behave with Humanity; immediately the Committee was ordered to go thro' the Guantlet first, for not putting the Tories to Punishment, (they being under Bonds and Sureties for their appearance), and immediately laid Violent Hands on the Committee, and drew some of them some distance thro' and on resistance they got out, and then they led the Man slowly on, some gave him one blow, some two till he got thro'. Then the Man that called himself Capt., Damn'd the Committee, and said if they resented the usage, they should all have as many Lashes thro' the Guantlet; damning the Committee and all the authority of the State, swearing by God, that no damn'd Committees or Congresses dare resent what they did or said, and on being reproved for so doing, they swore if we did not hold our — — Tongues, we should immediately be used in the same manner they used the Tories; and so went on in the most abuseful manner that could be thought of, untill two of the Mob, came with the Return of their Proceedings, as they said, which Return is enclosed, and shortly after the Committee was ordered not to come there any more to sit; and since that we are informed that they went round the Town that Day, and when they found a Man, they would ask him if he was sworn and if he said no, then they swore that he was so big a Tory that the Regulars had no need to swear and he must be whipp'd; and then they would proceed on to another, and if he confessed he was sworn and thought the oath binding then he must be flogged, and made the first flog the other. The next Confessed he was forced to take the oath of allegiance, But did not intend to keep it; nether had keep'd it; then they swore he must be flogged for not keeping his oath Caling him D—— pergurd villion and Could not Be trusted; and so preceded on in such a maner, I do begain to mention for the space of three days, all under the Spureous nam of Liberty—if Such conduct is Liberty, then there will Be many Torrys, and the more thinking part says if there is not a Speady Stop put to such proceedings they will have the place.

Last fall when the Torry came home, they was immediately laid under Bonds and Suretys for their apperance when Call'd to Trial, and shortly after one of our members informed the County Committee what we had done and the Conduct was appr'd, And Likewise, Mr. Abraham Yates, said that he thought it the Best thing that Could be done with them, as the Goals was full and Could not Receive them, and since then we have frequently Requested the County Committee to Be the means of haveing those torrys Brought to trial, and Received for answer that they would as soon As Possable; and Likewise we have sundry Times sent to the Legislature of our State, in order to have them Brought to Trial, and was answer'd that we must have a little pations, and they would provide for trials; one Eastwood, one of those torrys, was found to be Dangerous By ous and we sent him to Close Confinment; and all this while a number of men that is nam'd above, would find falt with our Committee for not punnishing the Torrys, and was often informd of our proceedings towards them, and that we had done all we could, unless we sent them to goal and that we went By the advice of our Leaders and could not do any more; they still insist that we should Bring them To Trial and that we was torrys for not doing it; and it is well knowing, to all men of knowldge, that it could not be done; now as the Committee's is all the authority we have in the Country, if they are to be trod on in this sort, their will soon be no authority, and if such a mob is not Curb'd for Damning all the athority of the state and swaring that they dare not Resent what they say or do, then their will soon Be no safety for any man.

Query is not this to be immediately stop'd; is not such men to be punnished; as that spirit has Rain'd long here and has often Been suppress by us with out publishing it untill they have got Harden'd, is it not the Best method to have one hundred Con-ñental Troops sent among us and take these Rioters and put them in Close Confinement is it not Best to have a Sheriff at the head of the troops.

the 28. I am Just informd By James Cavenour that they have flogged one man for not Leting a Colt go to a man's that said it was his, unless he woud make oath to it, and that they intend to go Round and flog all that they think desarves it.

Sign'd by order.

COMMITTEE.

No. 5.

Albany Committee Chamber, 4th March 1778.

Mr. Whiteside, one of the Members of the Committee of Cambridge District, laid before this Board a Paper delivered said Committee, setting forth that the said Edmund Wells, Jun'r, James Cowan, and the other Persons mentioned in said Paper had corrected sundry Tories and Protection Men. Mr. Whiteside farther informed that the Persons mentioned in said Paper who have been flogged and otherwise ill treated, had remained on their Habitations untill the Enemy came upon them, and obliged them to take the oath of allegiance to the King of Great Brittain previous to their being set at Liberty—and that such Persons as were deemed unfriendly to the Liberties of America had been put under Bonds by the Committee of said District for thir future good behaviour and appearance when called upon for Trial.

Therefore, Resolved, That the inflicting of any Corporal punishment or the depriving of any of the Subjects of this State of their property without proper authority is an infringement of the Priviledges of the People contrary to sound Policy and in direct Violation of all Law and Justice.

THE ALBANY COMMITTEE DETERMINED TO PUNISH THE ENEMIES OF THE COUNTRY AND TO ASSIST THE OPPRESSED.

Albany Committee Chamber, 4th March 1778.

No. 6.

Sir Samuel Cooper an Inhabitant of the District of Saratoga complained to this Board that on account of a very sore hand which has been attended with bad Consequences to him, as he has since lost one of his Fingers, he was obliged to remain on his Farm at the Time the Enemy penetrated into the Country, that he has been Robbed of a great part of his property by a number of People in your parts, and that a certain Warren Carpenter, threatens to kill him if he complains, It gives us pain, Sir, to hear that Persons who Commit such Depredations bear the Name of whigs.

Cooper appears to be by his deafness and other infirmities a Person incapable of doing any hurt to the Cause of America admit he was so inclined; his General Character is inoffensive; by the Laws of the Land he has not been Convicted as an Enemy to the Country; if he has his property ought to be appropriated to the use of the State agreeable to the Resolutions of the Convention made for that purpose.

How shocking it is to think that People who affirm they are Contending for their Rights and Priviledges should at the same time Rob their neighbours of their property, apply the ill gotten Gain to their private use, and threaten to Murder the Injured if they complain; this line of Conduct has not been pursued in similar Cases; Amboy, Brunswick or Trenton were not plundered by the Americans when General Howe's army Evacuated that Country, the Legislature of that State would not suffer such villainy to be practized. Where will the evil cease if People of such principles are suffered to go on, do they expect to pass with impunity, No, Justice and Humanity forbids it.

While on the one Hand, Sir, we are determined to assist in punishing the Enemies of our Country in the mode prescribed by Law, so on the other we are determined to assist in procuring Justice for the oppressed. We lament the necessity of representing this affair in such Warm Terms but, Sir, as a Body chosen by a Majority of the Inhabitants of the County, and as Guardians of their Rights, we are determined to leave no means, unessayed to Vindicate the Rights of the Subjects of this State, and punish offenders.

The interposition of those in authority and of every Friend to America where such base actions are Committed will Merit the approbation of every good Man.

We are Your most humble Serv'ts

By order

HAMILTON ATTACKS CONGRESS.

Assails General Conway—Clinton and Hamilton in Accord in the Enmity Toward Gates.

Head Quarters Feb'y 13, 1778.

Dear Sir, I did myself the honor of writing to you, immediately after my arrival at Head Quarters, in answer to two letters I found here, from you.

There is a matter, which often obtrudes itself upon my mind, and which requires the attention of every person of sense and influence, among us—I mean a degeneracy of representation in the great council of America. It is a melancholy truth Sir, and the effects of which we dayly see and feel, that there is not so much wisdom in a certain body, as there ought to be, and as the success of our affairs absolutely demands. Many members of it are no doubt men in every respect, fit for the trust, but this cannot be said of it as a body. Folly, caprice a want of foresight, comprehension and dignity, characterise the general tenor of their actions. Of this I dare say, you are sensible, though you have not perhaps so many opportunities of knowing it as I have. Their conduct with respect to the army especially is feeble indecisive and improvident—insomuch, that we are reduced to a more terrible situation than you can conceive. False and contracted views of economy have prevented them, though repeatedly urged to it, from making that provision for officers which was requisite to interest them in the service; which has produced such carelessness and indifference to the service, as is subversive of every officer-like quality. They have disgusted the army by repeated instances of the most whimsical favouritism in their promotions; and by an absurd prodigality of rank to foreigners and to the meanest staff of the army. They have not been able to summon resolution enough to withstand the impudent importunity and vain boasting of foreign pretenders; but have manifested such a ductility and inconstancy in their proceedings, as will warrant the charge of suffering themselves to be bullied, by every petty rascal, who comes armed with ostentatious pretensions of military merit and experience. Would you believe it Sir, it is become almost proverbial in the mouths of the French officers and other foreigners, that they have nothing more to do, to obtain whatever they please, than to assume a high tone and assert their own merit with confidence and perserverance? These things wound my feelings as a republican more than I can express; and in some degree make me contemptible in my own eyes.

*The anomalous position of this letter is due to its having been placed by the editor of the Clinton Manuscript in Volume XXIV instead of Volume IV.—STATE HISTORIAN.

By injudicious changes and arrangements in the Commissary's department, in the middle of a campaign, they have exposed the army frequently to temporary want, and to the danger of a dissolution, from absolute famine. At this very day there are complaints from the whole line, of having been three or four days without provisions; desertions have been immense, and strong features of mutiny begin to show themselves. It is indeed to be wondered at, that the soldiery have manifested so unparalleled a degree of patience, as they have. If effectual measures are not speedily adopted, I know not how we shall keep the army together or make another campaign.

I omit saying any thing of the want of Cloathing for the army. It may be disputed whether more could have been done than has been done.

If you look into their conduct in the civil line, you will equally discover a deficiency of energy dignity and extensiveness of views; but of this you can better judge than myself, and it is unnecessary to particularise.

America once had a representation, that would do honor to any age or nation. The present falling off is very alarming and dangerous. What is the cause? or how is it to be remedied? are questions that the welfare of these states requires should be well attended to. The great men who composed our first council; are they dead, have they deserted the cause, or what has become of them? Very few are dead and still fewer have deserted the cause;—they are all except the few who still remain in Congress either in the field, or in the civil officers of their respective states; far the greater part are engaged in the latter. The only remedy then is to take them out of these employments and return them to the place, where their presence is infinitely more important.

Each State in order to promote its own internal government and prosperity, has selected its best members to fill the offices within itself, and conduct its own affairs. Men have been fonder of the emoluments and conveniences, of being employed at home, and local attachment, falsely operating, has made them more provident for the particular interests of the states to which they belonged, than for the common interests of the confederacy. This is a most pernicious mistake, and must be corrected. However important it is to give form and efficiency to your interior constitutions and police; it is infinitely more important to have a a wise general council; otherwise a failure of the measures of the union will overturn all your labours for the advancement of your particular good and ruin the common cause. You should not beggar the councils of the United States to enrich the administration of the several members. Realize to yourself the consequences of having a Congress despised at home and abroad. How can the common force be exerted, if the power of collecting it be put in weak foolish and unsteady hands? How can we hope for success in our European negociations, if the nations of Europe have no confidence in the wisdom and vigor, of the great Continental Government? This is the object on which their eyes are fixed, hence it is America will drive its importance or insignificance, in their estimation.

Arguments to you Sir, need not be multiplied to enforce the necessity of having a good general council, neither do I think we shall very widely differ as to the fact that the present is very far from being such.

The sentiments I have advanced are not fit for the vulgar ear; and circumstanced as I am, I should with caution utter them except to those in whom I may place an entire confidence. But it is time that men of weight and understanding should take the alarm, and excite each other to a proper remedy. For my part, my insignificance, allows me to do nothing more, than to hint my apprehensions to those of that description who are pleased to favour me with their confidence. In this view, I write to you.

As far, as I can judge, the remarks I have made do not apply to your state nearly so much as to the other twelve. You have a Duane a Morris and may I not add a Duer? But why do you not send your Jay and your R. R. Livingston? I wish General Schuyler was either explicitly in the army or in the Congress. For yourself Sir, though I mean no compliments you must not be spared from where you are.

But the design of this letter is not so much that you may use your influence, in improving or enlarging your own representation, as in, discreetly, giving the alarm to other states, through the medium of your confidential friends. Indeed Sir it is necessary there should be a change. America will shake to its center, if there is not.

You and I had some conversation when I had the pleasure of seeing you last with respect to the existence of a certain faction. Since I saw you, I have discovered such convincing traits of the monster, that I cannot doubt its reality in the most extensive sense. I dare say, you have seen and heard enough to settle the matter, in your own mind. I believe it unmasked its batteries too soon and begins to hide its head; but as I imagine it will only change the storm to a sap; all the true and sensible friends to their country, and of course to a certain great man, ought to be upon the watch, to counterplot the secret machinations of his enemies. Have you heard any thing of Conway's history? He is one of the vermin bred in the entrails of this chimera dire, and there does not exist a more villainous calumniator and incendiary. He is gone to Albany on a certain expedition.

I am with great regard & respect, Sir, Your most Obed. servant

Alex. Hamilton.

His Excellency Governor Clinton, Poughkeepsie.

CLINTON SCOFFS AT GATES' NORTHERN EXPEDITION.

Poughkeepsie 5th March 1778.

Dear Sir, I have received your Favour of the 13th Feb'y last. Your other Letter has not reached me. I am so Circumstanced at present so much to do & no Body to assist me that I can hardly steal a Moment to write to my Friends tho their Letters always afford me the greatest Pleasure. May I then hope Sir that you will continue to write me frequently tho I should not prove a very punctual Correspondent—when I shall have more Leisure I hereby promise to pay the Debt with Interest. I wish the Defects of a certain great Body were less apparent. Even their Want of Wisdom but too Evident in most of their Measures would in that Case be less Injurious. A New Mode of doing Business by Proxy is very Fashionable whenever any alarming Difficulties arise they are referred to the New B of W & by them to the Executive Powers of the different States; this alone is a glaring Evidence of Weakness & Incapacity. Could our Soldiery subsist on Resolves, they would never want Food or Cloathing. Resolves are most Powerful Expedients. They are to fill to Cloath to Feed & pay our Armies at least this is the Language which the late Conduct of our Masters speak.

I need not ask you who contrived & planned the Northern Expedition, I have seen the Marquis's Instructions. They are a Curiosity indeed. They suppose the Enemy are to be pannic Struck & fly on the Approach of our Army. Our Army you may be assured were to take the advantage of this pursue them & take Possession of Montreal with all the public Stores & Cloathing therein &c. &c. What a Pitty we had not Men sufficient to have carried all this into Execution that those we had were not clothed or paid that Provisions & Forrage had not been provided in Season.

I wish Jay or Livingston or both in Congress tho they could be illy spared from here, but this cant be at present. I am D'r Sir &c.

I take for granted that Military Men burn Confidential Letters for fear of accidents as soon as they are read.

Governor Clinton Writes Hopefully to Washington.

Poughkeepsie 5th March 1778.

Dear Sir, Your Excellency's favor† of the 16th ulto. has been delivered to me. The distress to which the army has been reduced by want of provisions is no less Surprizing than alarming. Your Excellency's Idea of the Condition of this State is very Just; no material Supplies can be drawn from it. The attachment however of the Inhabitants to the American Cause as well as to the Commander in Chief will at all times Stimulate them to the most Vigorous Exertions. I am happy to Inform you that 100 Head of Cattle purchased by one of the Commissaries on the West side of the River are now driving to Head Quarters 150 Barrels of pork are also on the way and the most ample authority granted to Impress Teams and Carriages to Transport such Supplies as can be obtained; whether any further can be is uncertain but I can assure your Excellency that our most Strenuous Endeavours to procure them shall not be wanting.

*From Volume XXIV Clinton MSS.

†Washington's letter not found.

After the Reduction of the forts in the Highlands it became necessary to collect a Body of Troops on the West Side of the River. The Inhabitants for want of a Commissary of Purchases Supplied them with provisions delivered to the Issuing Commissary and to this day are unpaid. The Detachment of the Northern army when passing thro' that part of the Country were Supplied in like manner, and the Inhabitants in like manner remain unpaid. The accounts have been delivered to the Commissaries, but to no purpose; this kind of Treatment is discouraging and Injurious to the Service and the more so as the Country has Suffered so essentially by the Ravages of its Enemies. In my letter of the 20th Dec'r last on the Subject of the military operations or rather omissions in this Quarter I Suggested to your Excellency the obstacles to my undertaking the Direction of the fortifications ordered to be made on the River; those obstacles still exist. The Legislature is yet sitting and the Necessary attention due to matters of Government will prevent my Complying fully with the late Resolutions of Congress on that Important Subject. I shall nevertheless Continue to exercise the authority they vest me with, and in Conjunction with Genl. Parsons do my utmost Endeavour to forward the works, but an Empty Military Chest and a Country full of Complaints, are difficulties of Considerable weight, with these we have to Struggle; unless Military matters in this Quarter assume a more promising aspect than they have worn for a long time past a very fertile part of this Statè will be Depopulated; the Shores of Hudson's River will be deserted, nor will it be easy to persuade the Militias to repair to the Standard of an officer in whom they have no Confidence and to whom they ascribe no little Share of their misfortunes.

I have the honor to be

His Excellency Genl. Washington.

CLINTON WRITES DESPONDENTLY.

Departments Heavily in Debt, the People Disgusted and a Mischievous Trade Carried On.

*Poughkeepsie, 5th March, 1778.

Sir: Your Excellency's Favours of the 3d, 9th, 13th, 19th and 24th of February last with their several Inclosures have been delivered to me. The Confidence reposed in me by the late Resolutions of Congress respecting the Fortifications on Hudson's River merits my warmest acknowledgments and I should be happy were it in my Power to effect the valuable Purposes intended by them; But, Sir, the Legislature of this State is still sitting and the more immediate Duties of my office engross so great a Part of my Time that I shall not be able to devote all that attention to the Works which may be necessary to compleat them in Season. Be pleased nevertheless to assure Congress that I shall continue to exercise the Authority they have been pleased to vest me with and in Conjunction with the Commanding Officer do all in my Power to put the Passes & River in a State of Defence—Much Time has been lost—The Drafts on the Loan Office at Albany cannot be satisfied for want of Cash. Every Department is greatly in Debt and the People from these and other Causes greatly disgusted—Small parties of the Enemy have penetrated into the Country North of the Highlands and have carried Horses from thence thro' the passes to New York—I have Reason to believe they obtain no inconsiderable supplies from the Country. Major Ackland travelling on his Parole to New York by the Common Post Road arrived at that City without having been stopped except at the Enemy's Out Posts. If Credit is to be given to very general and continued Reports a Mischievous Trade is carried on at Nantucket & Long Island. Had no Provisions of any kind been permitted to be transported by water from any of the States between Massachusetts & Maryland the Troops and Citizens in New York could not in my Opinion have wintered in that City provided the Communication by Land had been properly guarded.

As I am informed Congress has been pleased to order an Inquiry* into the Causes to which the Loss of the Forts on Hudson's

*"The Congress having, by a resolve of the 28th of November last, directed that an inquiry be made into the loss of Forts Montgomery and Clinton, and into the conduct of the principal officers commanding those forts, I have appointed Major-General McDougall, Brigadier-General Huntington, and Colonel Wigglesworth, to carry the resolve into execution. It is more than probable, that the conduct of the officer commanding at the time in that department will be involved in the inquiry, and I therefore desire, that you would repair immediately to Fishkill upon the receipt of this, to meet General McDougall and the other gentlemen.

"General McDougall is to take the command of the posts in the Highlands. My reasons for making this change is owing to the prejudices of the people, which whether well or ill grounded, must be indulged;—and I should think myself wanting in justice to the public and candor towards you, were I to continue you in a command, after I have been almost in direct terms informed, that the people of the State of New York will not render the necessary support and assistance, while you remain at the head of that department. When the inquiry is finished, I desire that you will return to Connecticut and superintend the forwarding on the new levies with the greatest expedition."—Washington to Major-General Putnam, March 16, 1778.

*The same day from headquarters, Valley Forge, Washington wrote General McDougall:

I was favoured with yours of the 17th ultimo in due time, and should have proceeded immediately upon the business of the inquiry, had not General Putnam's private affairs required his absence for some little time. I have appointed Brigadier-General Huntington and Colonel Wigglesworth to assist you in this matter; and, enclosed, you will find instructions empowering you, in conjunction with them, to carry on the inquiry agreeable to the resolve of Congress. You will observe by the words of the resolve, that the inquiry is to be made into the loss of Forts Montgomery and Clinton, in the State of New York, and into the conduct of the principal officers commanding those forts.

Hence the officer commanding in chief in that department will be consequentially involved in the inquiry; because if he has been deficient in affording the proper support to those posts, when called upon to do it, the commandant and principal officers will of course make it appear by the evidence produced in their own justification. I am not certain whether General Putnam has yet returned to Fishkill; and I have therefore by the enclosed, which you will please to forward to him by express, given him notice that the inquiry is to be held, and have desired him to repair immediately to that post. General Huntington and Colonel Wigglesworth will set out as soon as they can make preparations for the journey.

Upon your arrival at the Highlands, you are to take upon you the command of the different posts in that department, of which I have advised General Putnam. Your time will at first be principally taken up with the business, which you now have in hand; but I beg that your attention may be turned, as much as possible, to the completion of the works, or at least to putting them in such a state, that they may be able to resist a sudden attack of the enemy. Governor Clinton has wrote his opinion very fully to Congress upon the propriety of ordering all the troops, except the garrison of Fort Schuyler, down to the Highlands, as all prospects of carrying on the

†In consequence of this letter the Congress decided that all the troops in the State of New York, including the whole Northern Department, should be under one general officer, and that he should be authorized to draw together at the Highlands such parts of them as he should deem expedient. To supply the place of those at Albany, the Governor of New York was requested to furnish such a number of militia as would be sufficient to protect the arsenal and magazines at that place, till the progress of the obstructions at the Highlands should put them out of danger of any sudden attempt from the enemy.—Journals, March 31st.

River is to be ascribed, and as that Event took Place while they were more immediately under my Command I take the Liberty of requesting the Favour of Congress to assign a short Day for that Purpose. I flatter myself that the Delicate & therefore pain-northern expedition seem to have vanished. I have backed his opinion forcibly with my own, and hope, if Congress see matters in the light we do, that those troops may be instantly brought down. I have, &c.

P. S. There has been a resolve of Congress vesting Governor Clinton with the direction of the works erecting for the defence of the river, and requiring the commanding officer at Peekskill to aid him in the execution of the same. Governor Clinton, I understand, from his Civil avocations, does not incline to take the immediate direction of the business, and the late commanding officer in that quarter has doubted from that resolve, whether his Command or superintendency extended to the forts. To remove difficulties of this kind, by which the public service must suffer, and as I consider it essential to the nature of the command, that one officer should have the general control and direction of all the posts in the Highlands and their dependencies, and be answerable for them, you are to consider yourself as possessed of this general control and direction, and to act accordingly. If the Governor has leisure from his official duties to undertake the more immediate management of the works, it will afford you a very desirable assistance.

I have written to Congress to give you every power necessary to promote the objects of your command; and in the meantime you are to consider yourself authorized, as far as can depend upon me, to take every measure conducive to that end. I am sensible this command will not be in itself the most agreeable piece of service, and that you would prefer a post on the principal theatre of action; but the vast importance of it has determined me to confide it in you, and I am persuaded your object is to be useful to the public. If you get things in a proper train by the opening of the campaign, so as that the prosecution may be assigned to other hands, I shall be extremely happy to avail myself of your services with the main army.*

To the President of Congress, under the same date Washington wrote:

I have the honor to transmit to you a letter from Governor Clinton, which he enclosed to me for my perusal and consideration.

The inconvenience he mentions, as resulting from the resolve respecting the appointment of a commandant for Forts Montgomery and Clinton, requires to be obviated. I do not conceive it to have been the design of Congress to make the Command of those forts altogether distinct and independent on the general command of the posts in that quarter; but only to designate the rank of the officer, who should have the immediate charge of them. There is such an intimate connexion between the forts and the other posts and passes in the Highlands and their vicinity, that it is necessary for one officer to have the superintendency and control of the whole, and to be answerable for all. If this were not to be the case, but the command were to be divided, there might want that cooperation between the garrisons and the troops without, which might be essential to their preservation and to the common purposes of defence. The assigning a fixed number of men to the garrisons would not remove this inconvenience; for the cooperation would still be necessary. But if it were otherwise, I should not think the measure advisable, because we do not know what number of men we may have in the field next campaign; and the number for the defence of the Highlands must be proportioned to the general strength, and the force of the garrisons to that number.

On these considerations, having ordered General McDougall to repair to the Highlands to assume the chief command there, I have comprehended the forts among the other objects of his trust; in the discharge of which I am persuaded he will manifest adequate zeal and ability. But as the resolve in question affords room for doubt, it will be proper to have it explained, so as more explicitly to ascertain the intention of Congress. I am perfectly in sentiment with Governor Clinton, on the propriety of drawing the troops from the Northward to reinforce and carry on the works in the Highlands. From every thing I can learn, there seems to be no prospect of prosecuting the intended expedition into Canada. If so, I apprehend it can answer no valuable end to keep a body of troops in and about Albany. In the present circumstances of Canada, little is to be dreaded thence; the enemy, in all probability, will be well satisfied to act on the defensive, without risking the consequences of an attempt against us. A proper garrison at Fort Schuyler, and a small party by way of guard at Albany, with the militia of the country that may be occasionally drawn together, will be a sufficient security against the inroads of the enemy from Canada, or the depredations of the neighboring Indians, supposing there were any of the tribes, whose dispositions were still actively hostile notwithstanding our late northern successes, which is by no means a natural supposition. All the men, more than are wanted for these purposes, would be of the most important utility in the Highlands.

If the arms and stores at Albany should be thought an objection to the plan, I would beg leave to observe, that Albany appears to me a most improper place for stationary arsenals or magazines, and that those which are there at present should be removed without delay. Besides, as they would be in most danger from an incursion up the North River, the best way to counteract that danger is to strengthen the passes in the Highlands, and obstruct the navigation; in order to which the reinforcing them with the troops ~~from~~ the northward would be no inconsiderable step. I have the honor to be, &c.

ful situation in which these Circumstances have placed me will apologize for my importunity on this Subject.

Geo Clinton.

P. S. I forgot to mention that the Acts of Congress of the 5 & 6th Feby mentioned in your Excellencys Letter of the 19th have not yet come to Hand.

His Excellency Henry Laurens Esq.

*There had been a series of misapprehensions on the subject of constructing military works in the Highlands, as well as a train of obstacles to their progress. On the 5th of November, Congress had appointed General Gates to command in the Highlands, or rather had connected that post with the Northern Department, and invested him with ample powers to carry on the works; but, as he was made President of the Board of War, he never entered upon these duties. Again, on the 18th of February, Governor Clinton was requested to take the superintendence of the works; but the multiplicity of his civil employments made it necessary for him to decline the undertaking. Meantime General Putnam went to Connecticut, and left the post in charge of General Parsons. Unfortunately this officer conceived the notion that he had no control over the works in the Highlands; that the resolves of Congress in regard to Gates and Clinton were personal, and not designed to apply to any one else; and that, having no direct instructions, he could not rightfully assume any authority in the matter. By the judicious advice of Governor Clinton, however, he was prevailed upon to exercise a proper supervision, till General McDougall arrived. When these doubts in regard to the extent of command are considered, and also the tardy movements of the engineer in executing a plan which he did not approve, the extreme fatigue of the service in the midst of winter, the privations and sufferings of the men, and the want of teams and other necessary aids, it is not surprising that very slow progress had been made. General McDougall took the command on the 28th of March. Two days previously Kosciuszko arrived, who had been appointed engineer in the place of Radère. From that time the works were pressed forward with spirit. To the scientific skill and sedulous application of Kosciuszko, the public was mainly indebted for the construction of the military defences of West Point.—Sparks.

Resolved, That the command of all the troops which now are, or shall be collected and stationed in the state of N. York and in the whole Northern-department, be vested in one general-officer; that this officer have in charge all the forts, posts and passes therein, and authority to erect and make such fortifications as he, with the advice of gov. Clinton and the general-officers there, shall judge necessary for securing the same, and to execute all the powers lately given by Congress and the board of war relative to the defence of the North-River:

That gov. Clinton be requested to yield to the said general-officer all the aid in his power, in erecting and making the fortifications and obstructions aforesaid:

That for the more speedy defence of the North-River, the said general-officer, or, in case of his absence or sickness, the officer next in command, in the district above-described, be directed forthwith to draw together, at the Highlands, such of the troops therein as he shall deem expedient.

And as the works would be greatly expedited if most of the continental troops now at Albany were employed therein; to enable him to do this, the said general-officer is hereby authorized to ask of the government of the state of N. York such numbers of their militia as he shall judge necessary, to serve at Albany for the security of the arsenal and magazines there, until the obstructions at the Highlands are in such condition as to render any sudden attempt upon Albany by that pass impracticable:

That for manning the gun-boats and floating-batteries built or building on the North-River, the said general-officer have power to engage the necessary officers and men for such time and on such terms as he shall judge proper.—Journals of Congress.

Governor Clinton Calls Upon the Governors of Connecticut and Massachusetts for Militia Reinforcements.

Poughkeepsie 6th March 1778.

Sir, I enclose you Copies of certain Resolves of Congress relative to the Defence of Hudson's River; by Several Letters from them on that Subject they appear to Consider it as an object of the last Importance. Could I believe that your Excellency would not see it in the same light I should endeavour to point out the advantages, that the Enemy might draw from the possession of this State, which would follow the possession of the River and the Ruinous Effects with which it would be attended to America in General but more particularly to your State & the State of Connecticut. I must, therefore, request your Excellency to raise in your State what you shall conceive your Quota of three Thousand men, which are absolutely necessary for the Security of the passes of the River, in Case of an Early attempt of the Enemy to gain the Possession of them; we, for our part, will raise 700 men, which I am satisfied you will think our full proportion of that Number, considering our Exhausted and mutilated State, and much beyond the proportion that Congress have assigned us upon other occasions. I do not, Sir, pretend to Settle your Quota agreeable to the Resolves enclosed, because I am Satisfied that you will readily make every Exertion in your power on this Important occasion, relying upon which, I refer it to your Discretion, to raise as many men for Eight months to be Counted, from the time of their arrival at the Posts on the River as you possibly can; and as I have not called for any particular Number, and only intimated that at least 3000, exclusive of what Continental Troops we may Col-

I would beg leave to Suggest to your Excellency the Propriety ^{Honor} of having a part of your Westermost Militia equiped and ready to march at the first notice under the Command of your best officers. No measure necessary for the Security of these Important posts will I hope be neglected by either of the States interested in their preservation. Your Excellency will be pleased to advise ^{Honor} me the State of Massachusetts of the Number of men your State propose to raise, that they may govern themselves accordingly and I will be much obliged to you for the like Information, by the earliest opportunity. If among the Number to be raised in your State there might be a Company or two of (armed) artificers ^{two or three Companies} especially Carpenters they would be of singular use. I have the honor to be with the Highest Esteem Your most obed. Serv.

Geo. Clinton.

P. S. If the Men to be raised in your State can possibly be sent to the Posts assigned them before the Time above mentioned it may be attended with the most salutary Effects as long before that the River will be free of Ice & accessible to the Enemy who may improve the Earliest Opportunity to obstruct the Works by sending up their shipping.

Congress Names April 22, 1778, as a Day of Thanksgiving and Prayer.

In Congress, March 7th 1778.

Whereas Almighty God, in the righteous dispensation of his providence hath permitted the continuation of a cruel and desolating war in our land; and it being, at all times, the duty of a people to acknowledge God in all his ways, and more especially to humble themselves before him, when evident tokens of his displeasure are manifested, to acknowledge his righteous government, confess and forsake their evil ways, and implore his mercy,

Resolved, That it be recommended to the United States of America, to set apart Wednesday, the 22d day of April next, to be observed as a day of fasting, humiliation and prayer; that, at one time, and with one voice, the inhabitants may acknowledge the righteous dispensations of divine providence, and confess their iniquities and transgressions, for which the land mourneth; that they may implore the mercy and forgiveness of God, and beseech him, that vice, prophaneness, extortion, and every evil may be done away, and that we may be a reformed and happy people: that they may unite in humble and earnest supplication, that it may please Almighty God, to guard and defend us against our enemies, and give vigour and success to our military operations, by sea and land; that it may please him, to bless the civil rulers and people, strengthen and perpetuate our union, and, in his own good time, establish us in the peaceable enjoyment of our rights and liberties; that it may please him, to bless our schools and seminaries of learning, and make them nurseries of true piety, virtue and useful knowledge; that it may please him, to cause the earth to yield its increase, and to crown the year with his goodness.

And it is recommended to the inhabitants of the United States to abstain on that day from labour and recreation.

By order of Congress

DEVELOPMENT OF THE TORY PLOT.

Governor Clinton Reprobates the Unruly Spirit Prevailing in Cambridge and the Absence of Courts.

Poughkeepsie, 8th March 1778.

Sir, I have received your Letter of the 5th Instant, wrote by Order of the Committee of Albany with the Inclosures. On the *Morgan Lewis was the son of Francis Lewis, the signer. He was born in the city of New York on the 16th day of October, 1754. Educated at the Elizabethtown Academy and Princeton College, he graduated in 1773, took his degree and entered the law office of John Jay. A year later, believing that a contest with the mother country was inevitable, he joined a volunteer military company, and a few days after the battle of Bunker Hill, he repaired to Boston as a volunteer. In the meantime he was elected captain of the New York City Volunteers, and was present when Marinus Willett removed the arms and munitions of war from the arsenal on the battery, under the guns of the British man of war "Asia." It was a detachment of Lewis' company who fired the volley into the scouting barge from the "Asia," which killed one of the crew and severely wounded another.

When the militia of New York was organized in November, 1775, Lewis was commissioned as first Major in the Second Regiment of Foot, of which John Jay was Colonel. The latter however, never qualified, and the organization and the disciplining of the regiment devolved upon Major Lewis. In June, 1776, he accompanied General Gates to the northern frontier as Chief of Staff, with the rank of colonel. Subsequently, he was commissioned Quartermaster General of the Northern Department, a position he held until the close of the war. He participated in the Ticonderoga expedition, and rendered inestimable services to Schuyler during the preliminary work which culminated in the surrender of Burgoyne. He acted as aide to General Gates in the battle of Stillwater on the 19th day of September, 1777, and the battle of Saratoga, October 7th.

It was Lewis who escorted Burgoyne's surrendered army through the long line of American troops, when they laid down their arms. He accompanied General Robert Van Rensselaer's expedition in the fall of 1780 against Sir John Johnson and Brant. His conduct in the affair at Stone Arabia was most courageous, and he repeatedly exposed his life with the utmost fearlessness. Later he joined Governor Clinton's expedition to Crown Point.

4th Instant I wrote to the Worshipful, John Barclay Esqr. the Mayor of your City, giving him Intelligence of a Number of Persons in Newtown, in your County, who had inlisted under one Stephen Hooper living near the Round Lake in Saraghtoga Patent. This Information I had from some of the Party whom our Guards in West Chester County was fortunate enough to take, on their way to New York, & I Inclosed a List of the Names of the Persons as far as I had obtained Knowledge of them. I hope that Letter has been received before now, as I flatter myself that a full Discovery may be had of those Fellows if apprehended & properly examined, & if any Conspiracy is on Foot against the Country it may be thereby in our Power to defeat it.

I am very unhappy to learn that so unruly a Spirit prevails among the Inhabitants of Cambridge & the adjacent Districts & that such Acts of violence should be committed by them,

At the close of hostilities, Colonel Lewis resumed the practice of the law, but his military instincts could not be subdued, and he was appointed by Governor Clinton, Colonel Commandant of a corps of volunteer militia, and had the distinction of escorting General Washington upon his first inauguration as president of the United States. He served two terms in the Assembly, and was appointed by the Council of Appointment one of the Judges of the Dutchess County Court of Common Pleas.

Originally a Federalist, he abandoned the party in 1790, and the year following he was appointed Attorney General of the state to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Aaron Burr, who had become United States senator. In 1792, he was appointed Supreme Court Judge, and nine years later Chief Justice. Three years subsequently he was nominated by the Republicans as their candidate for Governor, Chancellor John Lansing having declined. He defeated his opponent, Aaron Burr, by a handsome majority.

Although his administration was eminently respectable, he was defeated in 1807 by Daniel D. Tompkins. In 1810, he was persuaded again to enter politics, and was elected Senator from the Middle District. As a member of the Legislature, he threw all his influence and strength in behalf of Governor Tompkins' administration. Although a very old man, the martial spirit was still strong in him, and when the declaration of war between Great Britain and the United States was made, in 1812, he offered his services and was appointed Quartermaster General of the United States Army, with the rank of Brigadier General. March, 1813, he was promoted Major General. Although in very feeble health, he participated in General Dearborn's expedition to the Niagara frontier, and accompanied General Wilkinson's expedition down the St. Lawrence. A year later, he commanded the forces appointed for the defence of New York City. He again retired from public life, at the end of the war, but reappeared occasionally to deliver orations on important occasions. In 1835, he was elected president of the New York Historical Society, and at the time of his death, April 7, 1844, he was the presiding officer of the State Society of the Cincinnati, and the Grand Master of the Masonic Grand Lodge of New York. He strengthened his political influence by his marriage in the spring of 1779, to Gertrude Livingston, the sister of Robert R. and Edward Livingston.—STATE HISTORIAN.

while they profess themselves Friends to the Cause of America. It evinces the Propriety of a vigorous Government, & proves the necessity of having our Civil Magistrates appointed and our Courts of Justice opened as it is evident the Committee in that District has losst its influence and authority & can no longer maintain Peace & a due Subordination there. This I hope will soon be the Case, & I trust a due Exertions of Authority under the Constitution will have the happy Effect of reducing these People to a proper Sense of their Duty. In the Mean Time it is highly prudent & commendable in the most public Manner to discountenance their Riotous Proceedings & to give the well disposed & peaceable Inhabitants all the Protection in your Power.

It has been always my Opinion that no disaffected Persons especially those of Influence shoud be suffered to go at large, but how to confine them or where to send them, seems to be the Difficulty. The Legislature have passed an Act for appointing Commissioners for detecting & defeating Conspiracies with very Ample Powers & the Appointment of them is only delayed till we shall be able to learn who are the most proper Persons to execute this Important Trust. As soon as such Commissioners are appointed they will be the proper Persons to apply to on this Subject.

I am surprized to learn that a British Officer & Doctor shoud be suffered to pass to New York on their Paroles, without being under the Conduct of one of our Officers, to the Enemy's Lines, & I am Still more surprized that men of such Character as you mention, shoud be permitted to accompany them. You may rest assured, if they shoud fall in my Way, they will not pass unexamined & I trust you will take proper Notice of them on their Return. I inclose you a Proclamation I some Days since issued, to prevent the undue Communication which has lately been held with the Enemy & am with due Respect, Your Most Obed. Serv't
